The man is the Marist priest. Father Champagnat observed and lamented the condition of France. His work is the inception that a mountainside encounter with a dying boy who did not even know of the existence of God, convinced Father Champagnat that the most important task for him was to educate the young, the future leaders of the Church. The community he founded to initiate this task has since become known to the world as the Marist Brothers of the Schools.

The dream of Father Champagnat was the eventual propagation of his community, its message and living witness, to every nation and people. Today, this dream is fulfilled in your sight. This groundbreaking ceremony of Champagnat Hall signifies 10,000 Marist Brothers continuing Father Champagnat's work in 97 countries throughout the world.

After an introduction by the Master of Ceremonies, Dr. John Schroeder, Dean of the Evening Division, there was the Invocation given by Rt. Rev. Msgr. Leo J. Gregg, Dean of Clergy of Dutchess and Putnam counties.

Following this, the Star Spangled Banner was sung by Nick Beni. Brother Edward Cashin, Acting President of Marist College, delivered the welcoming address. Thomas Heffernan, President of the Student Government, gave a short talk, and the groundbreaking ceremony was led by Brother John Lawrence, Chairman of the Board of Trustees. Finally, benediction was given by Rev. James A. Driscoll, O. P., S.T.L., Chaplain of Marist College.

The Guests of Honor, seated in grandstand included: Bro. Patrick Magee, F. M. S., Trustee, Marist College; Bro. Leo Sylvius, F. M. S., Trustee, Marist College; Bro. A. Norbert, F. M. S., Trustee, Marist College; Bro. Leo Vincent, F. M. S., Trustee, Marist College; Bro. A. Norbert, F. M. S., Trustee, Marist College;

The enthusiastic plunge of the Sophomores accounted for the basic success of the week long program. Though, the emphasis directed to the traditional search for the fox tail was lacking and the tug-of-war finale was dispensed with in favor of a field day, the Sophs handled the program adequately. Perhaps, if a flavor of originality had salted the conventional means employed by the Sophs to activate the Freshmen, this Hazing Week could have laid claims to infamy. As in the past, the week concluded with the annual ceremonial plunges into the pool.

The yearly decimation of the Sophomore Class occurred Saturday, September 28th, as the Freshman descended upon the second year men in the field opposite Donnelly Hall and the cafeteria. This hour, one p.m., signaled the conclusion of the Hazing Program, part of an effort designed to incorporate the Freshmen into an autonomous class which would actively participate in the college society.

The enthusiastic plunge of the Sophomores accounted for the basic success of the week long program. Though, the emphasis directed to the traditional search for the fox tail was lacking and the tug-of-war finale was dispensed with in favor of a field day, the Sophs handled the program adequately. Perhaps, if a flavor of originality had salted the conventional means employed by the Sophs to activate the Freshmen, this Hazing Week could have laid claims to infamy. As in the past, the week concluded with the annual ceremonial plunges into the pool.

by Ted Flynn

GROUNDBREAKING CEREMONY

We're Top Cats '68

by Bill Townsend

The groundbreaking we witnessed Thursday was the dedication not so much of a building, though it is this, but of a man, his work, and his dream. The man is the Marist priest, Father Marcellin Champagnat born near Lyons, France, in 1789 and raised during the French Revolution and Napoleonic Era in France. His work is the inception of a community of men committed to the Christian education of youth, a group whose life and work were to have a special relevance to the needs of a persecuted and suppressed Christianity.

For many years, Father Champagnat observed and lamented the condition of Christianity, its plagues by ignorance, superstition, and indifference, but he could not decide in which direction to channel his energies. History tells us that a mountainside encounter with a dying boy who did not even know of the existence of God, convinced Father Champagnat that the most important task for him was to educate the young, the future leaders of the Church. The community he founded to initiate this task has since become known to the world as the Marist Brothers of the Schools.

The dream of Father Champagnat was the eventual propagation of his community, its message and living witness, to every nation and people. Today, this dream is fulfilled in your sight. This groundbreaking ceremony of Champagnat Hall signifies 10,000 Marist Brothers continuing Father Champagnat's work in 97 countries throughout the world.

After an introduction by the Master of Ceremonies, Dr. John Schroeder, Dean of the Evening Division, there was the Invocation given by Rt. Rev. Msgr. Leo J. Gregg, Dean of Clergy of Dutchess and Putnam counties.

Following this, the Star Spangled Banner was sung by Nick Beni. Brother Edward Cashin, Acting President of Marist College, delivered the welcoming address. Thomas Heffernan, President of the Student Government, gave a short talk, and the groundbreaking ceremony was led by Brother John Lawrence, Chairman of the Board of Trustees. Finally, benediction was given by Rev. James A. Driscoll, O. P., S.T.L., Chaplain of Marist College.

The Guests of Honor, seated in grandstand included: Bro. Patrick Magee, F. M. S., Trustee, Marist College; Bro. Leo Sylvius, F. M. S., Trustee, Marist College; Bro. A. Norbert, F. M. S., Trustee, Marist College; Bro. Leo Vincent, F. M. S., Trustee, Marist College; Bro. A. Norbert, F. M. S., Trustee, Marist College; Bro. John Lawrence, F. M. S., Chairman of Board of Trustees, Marist College; Bro. Paul Stokes, Dean-Day Division, Marist College; Bro. Edward Cashin, Acting President, Marist College; Rev. James A. Driscoll, O. P., Chaplain, Marist College; Msgr. Leo J. Gregg, Pastor-Holy Trinity Church, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Dean of Clergy, Dutchess and Putnam Counties; Dr. John Schroeder, Dean-Evening Division, Marist College; John J. Dougherty, Director of Development, Marist College; Mrs. John Kenny, President, Marist Associates; Thomas Heffernan, President, Marist College Student Government; John J. Garland, Jr., Chairman of Board of Advisors, Marist College; Senator E. L. Hatfield; Thomas Mahar, Chairman of Board of Supervisors of Dutchess County; Harold D. Spencer, Vice Chairman of Board of Directors, Western Printing.

by Bill Townsend

The yearly decimation of the Sophomore Class occurred Saturday, September 28th, as the Freshman descended upon the second year men in the field opposite Donnelly Hall and the cafeteria. This hour, one p.m., signaled the conclusion of the Hazing Program, part of an effort designed to incorporate the Freshmen into an autonomous class which would actively participate in the college society.

The enthusiastic plunge of the Sophomores accounted for the basic success of the week long program. Though, the emphasis directed to the traditional search for the fox tail was lacking and the tug-of-war finale was dispensed with in favor of a field day, the Sophs handled the program adequately. Perhaps, if a flavor of originality had salted the conventional means employed by the Sophs to activate the Freshmen, this Hazing Week could have laid claims to infamy. As in the past, the week concluded with the annual ceremonial plunges into the pool.

by Bill Townsend

The yearly decimation of the Sophomore Class occurred Saturday, September 28th, as the Freshman descended upon the second year men in the field opposite Donnelly Hall and the cafeteria. This hour, one p.m., signaled the conclusion of the Hazing Program, part of an effort designed to incorporate the Freshmen into an autonomous class which would actively participate in the college society.

The enthusiastic plunge of the Sophomores accounted for the basic success of the week long program. Though, the emphasis directed to the traditional search for the fox tail was lacking and the tug-of-war finale was dispensed with in favor of a field day, the Sophs handled the program adequately. Perhaps, if a flavor of originality had salted the conventional means employed by the Sophs to activate the Freshmen, this Hazing Week could have laid claims to infamy. As in the past, the week concluded with the annual ceremonial plunges into the pool.
Beware of College Students

Critics of our society have been saying, for several years, that America, and every country they influence, are grossly conformist oriented. One man has shown beyond a shadow of a doubt that man feels an innate desire to signify individuality in some way or another, a political party, a manner of dress, a well-lit tobacco store, and above all to conform to the mores of an economic level slightly above his. These same critics also attack the college student for wearing khakis; sneakers (socks optional); having short hair, usually parted slightly above him. These same critics also attack the college student for peering from behind the smoke screen sent up by the extra limb protruding from the Yale exhibit. Notice the tie rakishly cast over his shoulder, the large black Barresi, brown loafers, Brier, looted, Briar, Booze, Broads, and Big Business should re-

Determined to determine our sex life and sex linked factors, such as drinking habits and ideas of beauty. If every college student was to associate himself here to increase our financial success after graduation. However, they can­

Our criticism is often part-figured, it still produces the idea of being a consensus of a great many of our pseudo-sociologists. They feel that: (1) College students have become radical, (2) those who don't are radicals, (3) Barry, Brown loafers, Briar, Owl, Regola, and Big Business should re-

The sense of what is to have lived is that it be lived "fully" - and beyond this obvious redundancy lies the answer to Christ's mercy.

Non-existent or at best "crude" to the hard-working student is that it be lived "fully" - and beyond this obvious redundancy lies the answer to Christ's mercy.

James Aikenroth, during this eighth day of July, 1964, knew that he was not going to be able to use his right hand early in life, his path, unlike mine, is now cleared. Obstacles still

Swallow Your President

for the first time in a number of decades the people of the United States are to be given a definite choice in the selection of the President. The disinte-

The rapid expansion of their totalitarian and atheistic dogma has brought sharp criticism from the Senator. "Their boastful acts cannot be tolerated. If they continue I will be forced to revoke the Open Door Policy," Barry has stated. In an interesting meeting with the Red Chinese leaders they would be answerable in his own. In this circumstance circumstances will meet with that

Barry Goldwater, the recently nominated Republican candidate, has, of late, shown somewhat innovative and basic philosophy. He is not a raging, demagogic marvel but he is that rare politician which is basically opposed to the tradi-

IN MEMORIAM

Beware of College Students

Critics of our society have been saying, for several years, that America, and every country they influence, are grossly conformist oriented. One man has shown beyond a shadow of a doubt that man feels an innate desire to signify individuality in some way or another, a political party, a manner of dress, a well-lit tobacco store, and above all to conform to the mores of an economic level slightly above his. These same critics also attack the college student for wearing khakis; sneakers (socks optional); having short hair, usually parted slightly above him. These same critics also attack the college student for peering from behind the smoke screen sent up by the extra limb protruding from the Yale exhibit. Notice the tie rakishly cast over his shoulder, the large black Barresi, brown loafers, Brier, looted, Briar, Booze, Broads, and Big Business should re-

Our criticism is often part-figured, it still produces the idea of being a consensus of a great many of our pseudo-sociologists. They feel that: (1) College students have become radical, (2) those who don't are radicals, (3) Barry, Brown loafers, Briar, Owl, Regola, and Big Business should re-

The sense of what is to have lived is that it be lived "fully" - and beyond this obvious redundancy lies the answer to Christ's mercy.

Non-existent or at best "crude" to the hard-working student is that it be lived "fully" - and beyond this obvious redundancy lies the answer to Christ's mercy.

James Aikenroth, during this eighth day of July, 1964, knew that he was not going to be able to use his right hand early in life, his path, unlike mine, is now cleared. Obstacles still

Swallow Your President

for the first time in a number of decades the people of the United States are to be given a definite choice in the selection of the President. The disinte-

The rapid expansion of their totalitarian and atheistic dogma has brought sharp criticism from the Senator. "Their boastful acts cannot be tolerated. If they continue I will be forced to revoke the Open Door Policy," Barry has stated. In an interesting meeting with the Red Chinese leaders they would be answerable in his own. In this circumstance circumstances will meet with that

Barry Goldwater, the recently nominated Republican candidate, has, of late, shown somewhat innovative and basic philosophy. He is not a raging, demagogic marvel but he is that rare politician which is basically opposed to the tradi-

IN MEMORIAM

Beware of College Students

Critics of our society have been saying, for several years, that America, and every country they influence, are grossly conformist oriented. One man has shown beyond a shadow of a doubt that man feels an innate desire to signify individuality in some way or another, a political party, a manner of dress, a well-lit tobacco store, and above all to conform to the mores of an economic level slightly above his. These same critics also attack the college student for wearing khakis; sneakers (socks optional); having short hair, usually parted slightly above him. These same critics also attack the college student for peering from behind the smoke screen sent up by the extra limb protruding from the Yale exhibit. Notice the tie rakishly cast over his shoulder, the large black Barresi, brown loafers, Brier, looted, Briar, Booze, Broads, and Big Business should re-

Our criticism is often part-figured, it still produces the idea of being a consensus of a great many of our pseudo-sociologists. They feel that: (1) College students have become radical, (2) those who don't are radicals, (3) Barry, Brown loafers, Briar, Owl, Regola, and Big Business should re-

The sense of what is to have lived is that it be lived "fully" - and beyond this obvious redundancy lies the answer to Christ's mercy.

Non-existent or at best "crude" to the hard-working student is that it be lived "fully" - and beyond this obvious redundancy lies the answer to Christ's mercy.

James Aikenroth, during this eighth day of July, 1964, knew that he was not going to be able to use his right hand early in life, his path, unlike mine, is now cleared. Obstacles still

Swallow Your President

for the first time in a number of decades the people of the United States are to be given a definite choice in the selection of the President. The disinte-

The rapid expansion of their totalitarian and atheistic dogma has brought sharp criticism from the Senator. "Their boastful acts cannot be tolerated. If they continue I will be forced to revoke the Open Door Policy," Barry has stated. In an interesting meeting with the Red Chinese leaders they would be answerable in his own. In this circumstance circumstances will meet with that

Barry Goldwater, the recently nominated Republican candidate, has, of late, shown somewhat innovative and basic philosophy. He is not a raging, demagogic marvel but he is that rare politician which is basically opposed to the tradi-

IN MEMORIAM

Beware of College Students

Critics of our society have been saying, for several years, that America, and every country they influence, are grossly conformist oriented. One man has shown beyond a shadow of a doubt that man feels an innate desire to signify individuality in some way or another, a political party, a manner of dress, a well-lit tobacco store, and above all to conform to the mores of an economic level slightly above his. These same critics also attack the college student for wearing khakis; sneakers (socks optional); having short hair, usually parted slightly above him. These same critics also attack the college student for peering from behind the smoke screen sent up by the extra limb protruding from the Yale exhibit. Notice the tie rakishly cast over his shoulder, the large black Barresi, brown loafers, Brier, looted, Briar, Booze, Broads, and Big Business should re-

Our criticism is often part-figured, it still produces the idea of being a consensus of a great many of our pseudo-sociologists. They feel that: (1) College students have become radical, (2) those who don't are radicals, (3) Barry, Brown loafers, Briar, Owl, Regola, and Big Business should re-

The sense of what is to have lived is that it be lived "fully" - and beyond this obvious redundancy lies the answer to Christ's mercy.

Non-existent or at best "crude" to the hard-working student is that it be lived "fully" - and beyond this obvious redundancy lies the answer to Christ's mercy.

James Aikenroth, during this eighth day of July, 1964, knew that he was not going to be able to use his right hand early in life, his path, unlike mine, is now cleared. Obstacles still

Swallow Your President

for the first time in a number of decades the people of the United States are to be given a definite choice in the selection of the President. The disinte-

The rapid expansion of their totalitarian and atheistic dogma has brought sharp criticism from the Senator. "Their boastful acts cannot be tolerated. If they continue I will be forced to revoke the Open Door Policy," Barry has stated. In an interesting meeting with the Red Chinese leaders they would be answerable in his own. In this circumstance circumstances will meet with that

Barry Goldwater, the recently nominated Republican candidate, has, of late, shown somewhat innovative and basic philosophy. He is not a raging, demagogic marvel but he is that rare politician which is basically opposed to the tradi-

IN MEMORIAM

Beware of College Students

Critics of our society have been saying, for several years, that America, and every country they influence, are grossly conformist oriented. One man has shown beyond a shadow of a doubt that man feels an innate desire to signify individuality in some way or another, a political party, a manner of dress, a well-lit tobacco store, and above all to conform to the mores of an economic level slightly above his. These same critics also attack the college student for wearing khakis; sneakers (socks optional); having short hair, usually parted slightly above him. These same critics also attack the college student for peering from behind the smoke screen sent up by the extra limb protruding from the Yale exhibit. Notice the tie rakishly cast over his shoulder, the large black Barresi, brown loafers, Brier, looted, Briar, Booze, Broads, and Big Business should re-

Our criticism is often part-figured, it still produces the idea of being a consensus of a great many of our pseudo-sociologists. They feel that: (1) College students have become radical, (2) those who don't are radicals, (3) Barry, Brown loafers, Briar, Owl, Regola, and Big Business should re-

The sense of what is to have lived is that it be lived "fully" - and beyond this obvious redundancy lies the answer to Christ's mercy.

Non-existent or at best "crude" to the hard-working student is that it be lived "fully" - and beyond this obvious redundancy lies the answer to Christ's mercy.

James Aikenroth, during this eighth day of July, 1964, knew that he was not going to be able to use his right hand early in life, his path, unlike mine, is now cleared. Obstacles still

Swallow Your President

for the first time in a number of decades the people of the United States are to be given a definite choice in the selection of the President. The disinte-

The rapid expansion of their totalitarian and atheistic dogma has brought sharp criticism from the Senator. "Their boastful acts cannot be tolerated. If they continue I will be forced to revoke the Open Door Policy," Barry has stated. In an interesting meeting with the Red Chinese leaders they would be answerable in his own. In this circumstance circumstances will meet with that

Barry Goldwater, the recently nominated Republican candidate, has, of late, shown somewhat innovative and basic philosophy. He is not a raging, demagogic marvel but he is that rare politician which is basically opposed to the tradi-
CROWDED CAMPUS CONDITIONS

by Bob Hacker

Insufficient space is currently a problem of major proportions for the state colleges and universities across the country. However, the roots of our present difficulties do not spring from the post-war baby boom which caused other colleges to admit the largest freshman class ever. Our problem was due to the tremendous growth in student enrollments but to an overall increase in the student body. This year’s freshman class is actually some thirty students smaller than the class of 1957. A considerable reduction of the freshmen class would have led to an imbalance in the student body. To this end the balance was necessary to temperature increase in the student body. This problem will be alleviated when a new dormitory is completed next year.

Paul Nigre, a resident of Leo Hall, complained about the lack of quiet placed to study, since the conversion of the study rooms in both dorms into sleeping quarters has almost eliminated study areas, outside of his room where a student can study, since the conversion of the study rooms in dorms into sleeping rooms is not always able to study in one’s room, and now there is simply no place to study. There is the library, but that is usually quite cold, and also not suitable for use after 10 P.M. So the student has only the option of staying up at all or perhaps studying under adverse conditions.

Another observation was made by Michael Perry, who stated that it seemed impossible to study, since the rounded corner had to pay the same amount for accommodations. This thought seems especially acute when one studies the problems of students living in the infamy of Leo Hall. In one of those rooms, there are eight students crammed into a small room, large, it is still overcrowded. One student is a social worker, another is a student assistant, because their room contains the single suite. The room is supposed to serve 16 people. Moreover, the recreation area is located. The students went to this room to take studio notes from the pool table and players in the dormitories near campus. Overall, the recreation area is located. The students went to this room to take studio notes from the pool table and players in the dormitories near campus.

By the recreation of the dormitory resident area, some of the faculty are sequestered of their private offices. A classroom was supposed to open up into cubicles as a substitute, but when the schedule was finished, it was evident that there were no more classrooms. Instead, the lounge in the study room was designated for use.

Upon interviewing the faculty member in this office, it was found that while lounge is spacious, airy and pleasant, there is a place to work, it does have disadvantages. First, it lacks privacy, being too open for solitude, which is necessary for concentration. Secondly, it is an inconvenience to the student who would seek from the faculty member advice which is connected. The faculty is not likely to go to this open area to review his problems with his instructor, who lost their lounge in the process, seem to be taking it quite well. Generally, it is well received, while it is an inconvenience, they still have some places to lounge, in which they can enjoy their various activities.

Especially, it is useless to complain about the overcrowded conditions, because there is nothing that can be changed. Indeed, we should, instead, use our initiative to lessen the inconvenience and learn to endure with quiet patience.

NATURAL TETE

FRIBURT, N.J., SEPTEMBER 18th.

College Intercollegiate Athletics Committee.

New dates set for the testing of prospective candidates are being announced by the College Intercollegiate Athletics Committee.

The tests will be given at one of the college locations on the following dates, as announced by the College Testing Service announced by the College Testing Service:

- New dates set for the testing of prospective candidates are being announced by the College Intercollegiate Athletics Committee.
- The tests will be given at one of the college locations on the following dates, as announced by the College Testing Service announced by the College Testing Service.

- New dates set for the testing of prospective candidates are being announced by the College Intercollegiate Athletics Committee.
- The tests will be given at one of the college locations on the following dates, as announced by the College Testing Service announced by the College Testing Service.

- New dates set for the testing of prospective candidates are being announced by the College Intercollegiate Athletics Committee.
- The tests will be given at one of the college locations on the following dates, as announced by the College Testing Service announced by the College Testing Service.

- New dates set for the testing of prospective candidates are being announced by the College Intercollegiate Athletics Committee.
- The tests will be given at one of the college locations on the following dates, as announced by the College Testing Service announced by the College Testing Service.

- New dates set for the testing of prospective candidates are being announced by the College Intercollegiate Athletics Committee.
- The tests will be given at one of the college locations on the following dates, as announced by the College Testing Service announced by the College Testing Service.

- New dates set for the testing of prospective candidates are being announced by the College Intercollegiate Athletics Committee.
- The tests will be given at one of the college locations on the following dates, as announced by the College Testing Service announced by the College Testing Service.

- New dates set for the testing of prospective candidates are being announced by the College Intercollegiate Athletics Committee.
- The tests will be given at one of the college locations on the following dates, as announced by the College Testing Service announced by the College Testing Service.

- New dates set for the testing of prospective candidates are being announced by the College Intercollegiate Athletics Committee.
- The tests will be given at one of the college locations on the following dates, as announced by the College Testing Service announced by the College Testing Service.

- New dates set for the testing of prospective candidates are being announced by the College Intercollegiate Athletics Committee.
- The tests will be given at one of the college locations on the following dates, as announced by the College Testing Service announced by the College Testing Service.

- New dates set for the testing of prospective candidates are being announced by the College Intercollegiate Athletics Committee.
- The tests will be given at one of the college locations on the following dates, as announced by the College Testing Service announced by the College Testing Service.

- New dates set for the testing of prospective candidates are being announced by the College Intercollegiate Athletics Committee.
- The tests will be given at one of the college locations on the following dates, as announced by the College Testing Service announced by the College Testing Service.

- New dates set for the testing of prospective candidates are being announced by the College Intercollegiate Athletics Committee.
- The tests will be given at one of the college locations on the following dates, as announced by the College Testing Service announced by the College Testing Service.

- New dates set for the testing of prospective candidates are being announced by the College Intercollegiate Athletics Committee.
- The tests will be given at one of the college locations on the following dates, as announced by the College Testing Service announced by the College Testing Service.

- New dates set for the testing of prospective candidates are being announced by the College Intercollegiate Athletics Committee.
- The tests will be given at one of the college locations on the following dates, as announced by the College Testing Service announced by the College Testing Service.

- New dates set for the testing of prospective candidates are being announced by the College Intercollegiate Athletics Committee.
- The tests will be given at one of the college locations on the following dates, as announced by the College Testing Service announced by the College Testing Service.

- New dates set for the testing of prospective candidates are being announced by the College Intercollegiate Athletics Committee.
- The tests will be given at one of the college locations on the following dates, as announced by the College Testing Service announced by the College Testing Service.

- New dates set for the testing of prospective candidates are being announced by the College Intercollegiate Athletics Committee.
- The tests will be given at one of the college locations on the following dates, as announced by the College Testing Service announced by the College Testing Service.

- New dates set for the testing of prospective candidates are being announced by the College Intercollegiate Athletics Committee.
- The tests will be given at one of the college locations on the following dates, as announced by the College Testing Service announced by the College Testing Service.

- New dates set for the testing of prospective candidates are being announced by the College Intercollegiate Athletics Committee.
- The tests will be given at one of the college locations on the following dates, as announced by the College Testing Service announced by the College Testing Service.

- New dates set for the testing of prospective candidates are being announced by the College Intercollegiate Athletics Committee.
- The tests will be given at one of the college locations on the following dates, as announced by the College Testing Service announced by the College Testing Service.

- New dates set for the testing of prospective candidates are being announced by the College Intercollegiate Athletics Committee.
- The tests will be given at one of the college locations on the following dates, as announced by the College Testing Service announced by the College Testing Service.

- New dates set for the testing of prospective candidates are being announced by the College Intercollegiate Athletics Committee.
- The tests will be given at one of the college locations on the following dates, as announced by the College Testing Service announced by the College Testing Service.
MARINES TALK TO FROSH

Left to Right: Captain James H. Tutterrow, U.S.M.C., Brother Paul Stokes, Dean of the Day Division, Marist College, Poughkeepsie, N.Y. and Captain Richard H. Easu, U.S.M.C. Captain Tutterrow and Captain Easu spoke on September 18, 1964 to the Freshman Class of Marist College during the Freshman Orientation Week. Their lecture was "Your Military Obligation Under the Universal Military Act" and "Programs of the United States Marine Corps." Captain Tutterrow, U.S.M.C., is from the Officer Selection Office, U.S.M.C., New York City and Captain Easu is from the Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Virginia.

Sports Outlook '64-'65

Sports, as most people will agree, are an important part of college life. Marist is no exception to the general rule. Each year our caliber of intercollegiate competitive sports increases. This year, for example, we go against representatives from schools like Fairfield, Kings Point, Cooper Union, St. John's, Iona, and Siena, to name a few.

Our Soccer team is rushing headlong into its second season. During the past week, they battled the Scholastics in an excellent match out on the athletic field. For the season, the team faces a rugged 11-game schedule running through the month of October and on into early November. The opponents are in for a big surprise if they think the Foxes aren't fighters. Dr. Goldman's squad is out to win!

The Harriers of the Cross Country team are avidly training for their schedule under the guidance of Mr. Lewis. This sport of endurance encompasses the month of October and the team members can be seen practicing all over campus. Though the icy, snow laden, winter winds take command of the weather, the Marist program of athletics shifts indoors. Varsity Basketball opens on December 1st. The team should be adorned with numerous veterans from last year's squad. This experience will show on the hardwood during the 33-game schedule. Our new coach, Mr. Paul Arold, takes over the team from Mr. T. Wade, now the Director of Admissions.

December 1st also signals the beginning of another Wrestling campaign under the direction of Mr. Lewis Schultz. Unlike the staged television matches this wrestling is an art of holds and counter holds, mixed in with speed and alertness. Here, too, many veterans should be returning but there is always room for new blood. Last but far from least is the Freshman hoopsters. The Freshman quintet was originated last year by Dr. Goldman, its present coach. The chosen Fresh from this class should give a good account of themselves if the pre-trial meeting is any indication of what is to come.

Members of all the teams undergo weeks of gruesome conditioning and then months of constant practice as they are molded into a unit that thinks and acts like a single person. All told the sports outlook for the year to come is rosy. The Marist men are out to make headlines in every facet of the sports world; they're out to let people know that Marist exists!

Senior Class Raffle
Two Tickets for HELLO DOLLY
Dinner and Cocktails for Two at Exclusive N.Y. Restaurant
'Top of the Six's
Plus $10 Transportation Expenses
Oct. 15 to Nov. '