College Hindered In Plans For Anniversary

by Bro. Joe Kubat

Next year, 1967, marks the 150th anniversary of the founding of the Marist Brothers. It is a year of special celebration for the Church's seventh largest Congregation of male religious, which was founded in France on January 2, 1817.

To date, Marist College has not planned to sponsor any events to commemorate the Marist Sesquicentennial Year. Mr. John Dewey, Director of Development, stated that more definite information will be available for the next issue of the Circle. By that time, a committee will have been formed to organize some kind of commemorative event. This event will be sponsored by the College.

Bro. Linus Foy pointed out one of the major problems facing Marist College's anniversary this year. Most of the Marist organizations have announced plans to carry on the Lane tradition of the organization; however, the Marist alumns association is in an early formative period, and, in its association, is any thing on a large scale besides any heavy burden on the alumni.

Bro. Foy stated that an effort would be made to keep the alumni informed of the various events taking place at the New York Metropolitan area.

Even the simple use of the weekly column will be important for the Marist organizations celebrating the anniversary at the College. The paper is headed "Marist-150 Years of Service in Education" and is headed with the College's 150 years old.

At any rate, an effort will be made to tie the sesquicentennial theme into other major events sponsored by Marist during the year. Outstanding among these will be the Great Contemporary Americans Award Dinner to be held at the American Hotel in New York.

Kosik Returns With Educational Theories

Former Professor Proposes Christian Culture Course

Dr. Frank Kosik returned to Marist College to raise again the standard of "Catholicity on Campus." On Tuesday, November 29, speaking to an overflow audience in the theatre, Dr. Kosik eloquently and persuasively presented his case for an hour and a half, and answered questions from the audience for an hour.

Dr. Kosik then spoke at various clubs on campus, including lectures such as "The Paradox of Democracy," "The Conflict of the Democratic Christian," and "The Christian in the City of God." Dr. Kosik also spoke at various student clubs on campus, including the Marist Student Association, the Marist College Alumni Association, and the Marist College Alumni Club.

Library Adds New Facilities

Marist College's Spellman Library has acquired nearly five thousand new books since July 1, 1965, according to Bro. Adrian V., President of the Library. The library has also received a new 1-lb. draw card catalog and a microfilm reader-printer, with which machines you can read and copy a copy of anything the library has on microfilm.

The average monthly accession to the Spellman Library is 325 titles, or a total of 4,000 titles. The library has received a total of 7,000 new books since July 1, 1965, and has added 4,000 new books since July 1, 1966.

A Federal book purchasing grant was available for the period from June 2 to July 1, 1966, and the library was able to purchase the Spellman Record Library, which has a total of 30,000 books.

Marty has reached a crisis in its growth, and strangely enough, it has been brought about by the most controversial issue of the year. This issue is the yearbook. The yearbook has become a symbol of the broader matter of student governance. It seems that the yearbook has become a symbol of the broader matter of student governance. Conformist Attitude

Dear Editor,

There exists a prevalent attitude of conformity in Marist, especially among the students. This attitude is often manifested in our compliance with the policies and regulations established by the administration. Some students may feel that this conformity is necessary in order to maintain a sense of order and discipline on campus.

A Bill Concerning the Recognition of the Student Government (SG) proposed by the student Government. The question is whether any given painting has any aesthetic value. Is it the burden of the individual who knows nothing about painting to write in favor of the aesthetically unimportant, or is it the burden of those who know something about painting to write in favor of the aesthetically important?

Dear Editor,

We have been hinting at the possibility of Marist's taking another look at its yearbook. We have finally reached a point where it is apparent that the yearbook can no longer continue in its present form.

Democracy And The Arts

By Richard Day

The people of the United States of America are governed by the Constitution of the United States. We are all aware of the role of democracy in our society. But what is democracy and how does it relate to the arts?

The Great Imposter

By Mike Espocho

The Great Imposter is a biographical novel about the life of a decorated war hero who turns out to be a fraud. The book is based on the true story of a decorated war hero who turned out to be a fraud.

In the opening game of the 1956-1957 basketball season the Marist High Freshman took on the Danbury State High School. The game was played at Danbury H.S. on Tuesday evening. The game was a battle of two very well-coached teams. The Marist Freshman squad was led by Coach John Murphy and the Danbury State High School was led by Coach Dan Murphy. The game was a hard-fought one, with both teams playing very well. The Marist Freshman team was led by Tony Powers and Rich DiPatri, while the Danbury State High School was led by Bill Gowen and Schneider. The game started with the Marist Freshman team taking the lead, but Danbury State High School came back to take the lead back. The game went back and forth, with both teams playing very well. The Marist Freshman team was able to hold on to the lead and win the game, 68-67. This was the first game for the Marist Freshman team and they played very well. The game was a great start to the season for both teams.
