Is Freedom Your Aim?

“Isn’t it a bad country?” we say... as though guns gave a population immunity from self-examination. If we don’t have the courage to explain why that’s the only meaning freedom has for us, it could amount to nothing.

We are the free world. And perhaps, in a political sense, we are no better off than the rest of the world. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have the kind of society we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we value. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we are.

And perhaps, in a political sense, we are no better off than the rest of the world. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have the kind of society we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we value. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we are.

We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have the kind of society we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we value. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we are.

And perhaps, in a political sense, we are no better off than the rest of the world. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have the kind of society we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we value. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we are.

We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have the kind of society we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we value. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we are.

And perhaps, in a political sense, we are no better off than the rest of the world. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have the kind of society we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we value. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we are.

We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have the kind of society we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we value. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we are.

And perhaps, in a political sense, we are no better off than the rest of the world. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have the kind of society we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we value. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we are.

We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have the kind of society we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we value. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we are.

And perhaps, in a political sense, we are no better off than the rest of the world. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have the kind of society we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we value. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we are.

We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have the kind of society we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we value. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we are.

And perhaps, in a political sense, we are no better off than the rest of the world. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have the kind of society we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we value. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we are.

We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have the kind of society we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we value. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we are.

And perhaps, in a political sense, we are no better off than the rest of the world. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have the kind of society we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we value. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we are.

We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have the kind of society we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we value. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we are.

And perhaps, in a political sense, we are no better off than the rest of the world. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have the kind of society we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we value. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we are.

We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have the kind of society we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we value. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we are.

And perhaps, in a political sense, we are no better off than the rest of the world. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have the kind of society we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we value. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we are.

We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have the kind of society we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we want. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we value. We are free only in the sense that we are not free to have what we are.
AN INTRODUCTION TO MARIST LIFE

A CHANGE, NEW CONCEPTS, THOUGHT
AND DISCUSSION, A START, INVOLVEMENT, ACCOMPLISHMENT....

CLASS OF '71

Entering upon a new facet of their lives, the freshmen consider the ideas presented by Bro. John O'Shea and Mr. Wade.

Relating campus life to academic endeavors, the Dean of Students, Mr. Thomas Wade, proposes the spiritual and social goals of the undergraduate.

Bro. John O'Shea, the Academic Dean, addressed the freshmen during orientation week, stressing the need for an active and intellectual pursuit.

Dom Basillio helps bewildered freshmen through the tedious job of class registration.

Pick up books for five isn't an easy job but...

With the last load of litter on its way out, the physical appearance of the campus reflects the beginning of another year.

After the initial assembly, members of the Class of '71 meet outside Champagnat theatre to discuss the purpose of college education.

Neither is picking up the campus for the entire Student Body, as hazing (initiation) took on a new aspect this year.

Picking up books by five isn't an easy job but...

Another is picking up the campus for the entire Student Body, as hazing (initiation) took on a new aspect this year.
GENE DOERFLINGER

Parents Still Hopeful

Gene and Josephine Lang were in the midst of the New York City Marathon on Wednesday afternoon. The couple, who have been married for 30 years, were running together in the race, which was their 15th time participating.

The couple, who have two children, said they were both in good shape and feeling strong as they approached the halfway mark of the race. Gene, who has been running marathons for over 20 years, said he was feeling great and was excited to be running with his wife.

"This is one of our favorite races," Gene said. "We always try to run together and it's a great way to spend time with my wife.

"We've been running marathons for a long time now and it's always a great feeling to be out there with other runners," Josephine added.

The couple said they were both looking forward to the rest of the race and to the feeling of accomplishment they would get at the finish line.

Court Upholds Student Rights

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Supreme Court has upheld the rights of students who were expelled from a school for their political beliefs.

The case, brought by the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU), argued that the students' right to freedom of speech had been violated when they were expelled for distributing political leaflets on campus.

The court ruled that the school had acted improperly by not providing the students with a fair hearing before expelling them. The ruling stated that the school's actions were in violation of the First Amendment to the Constitution.

The court's decision was unanimous and was seen as a major victory for the ACLU and for student rights activists across the country.

Student Responsibility Stressed by Bro. Lang

Bro. Joseph Robert Celebrates 80th

For the second time in his career, Marist College has a new chaplain. Father Donald H. Dickey, who received his doctorate in English from the University of Pennsylvania, has been appointed to the post.

The appointment comes after Father Dickey spent several years working at several schools in the Marist system. He has also served as an editor for several publications and has written numerous articles on religious freedom.

"I am honored to be able to serve as the new chaplain at Marist College," Father Dickey said. "I look forward to working with the students, faculty, and staff to promote a sense of community and service."
Vikings Lose Opener To Iona;

Sport Stories covering a game in which the outcome was not favorable, tend to sound like an excuse. Concerning Saturday night's encounter between the Vikings and the Gaels, there is no need to make excuses. The Vikings lost and there is nothing the team can do about it.

The loss does not reflect a bad team, nor a poor performance, since each player has put his heart and soul into the game. Experience has shown, that the Marist team is a well-balanced and good team, good enough to beat any team in the country, if they are in top form.

After the first Gaels touchdown punt return was put on the Vikings. With the speed of Iona's offensive line and their blocking, the Vikings were not able to hold them down. The Gaels were able to roll off a good amount of yardage on their blocking attempts. The second half, put somewhat of a stop into this, but not enough to hold them from gaining yardage.

Experience was the big factor. The Gaels did not give them the win; it was only they put it up to their advantage. The Vikings, if they want to win or improve their record, have to improve their defense and stop the Gaels from gaining yardage.

Soccer Stands At 1-3

Red Eleven

Look For Upsets

The soccer team made its debut last Tuesday at Riverview Field, East Orange. The team is made up of a unique tournament featuring American University, Fordham, and Yeshiva, all Catholic universities. It was a tough opening night for the Red Elephants - they lost all three games by scores of 1-0, but it may look like a continuation of their performance in the first round. They were not upset by the performance of the club, however, since each player has put his heart and soul into the game. Experience has shown, that the Marist team is a well-balanced and good team, good enough to beat any team in the country, if they are in top form.

On the field, the experienced Gaels will be heading the game. The Marist team is a well-balanced and good team, good enough to beat any team in the country, if they are in top form. Experience has shown, that the Marist team is a well-balanced and good team, good enough to beat any team in the country, if they are in top form.

Last year's 0-0 scoreless record is all but forgotten. Coach McGinn is making his own records, but it is safe to say that the potential was always there. It was the matter of developing the techniques that the team lacked. McGinn believes that the tactics in hand will have to be studied and analyzed. Each member of the Marist team is a well-balanced and good team, good enough to beat any team in the country, if they are in top form.

The 1967 soccer team, along with coach Dr. Howard Goldman, optimistically hopes to better last year's record.

Crew Opens With Alumni Regatta

“Whatever I can't command, I demand,” and crew coach Paul Amodeo is quoted as saying, “and the best possible man for the job.”

Amodeo is spearheading a movement on the Ottoman, a unique tournament featuring American University, Fordham, and Yeshiva, all Catholic universities. It was a tough opening night for the Red Elephants - they lost all three games by scores of 1-0, but it may look like a continuation of their performance in the first round.

The Marist team will be heading the game. The Marist team is a well-balanced and good team, good enough to beat any team in the country, if they are in top form. Experience has shown, that the Marist team is a well-balanced and good team, good enough to beat any team in the country, if they are in top form.

The Marist team will be heading the game. The Marist team is a well-balanced and good team, good enough to beat any team in the country, if they are in top form. Experience has shown, that the Marist team is a well-balanced and good team, good enough to beat any team in the country, if they are in top form.

Serving as a head coach, Amodeo is making his own records, but it is safe to say that the potential was always there. It was the matter of developing the techniques that the team lacked. Amodeo believes that the tactics in hand will have to be studied and analyzed. Each member of the Marist team is a well-balanced and good team, good enough to beat any team in the country, if they are in top form.

Cross Country

Southern Conn. 41, Marist 16

In a meet held at Southern Connecticut State College, New Haven, the Cross-Country team lost its '67 Season opener on that team's course, in a fairly close race. Southern Conn. placed one, four, five, six and seven as we placed two, three, eight, nine and twelve for a score of sixteen to thirty-six.

The Frosh, in their debut as a separate team, lost, as a strong team from Southern Conn., placed one, two, three, four and six for five, seven, eight, nine and twelve for a score of sixty-one to forty-one.

The Varsity race started out close across the field, but there were gaps as the runners re- appeared to continue the course along the white stripes of the course. The Frosh team placed one, two and three in finishing, respectively. But hard to believe how much a wild cheer united the Frosh. The Frosh team placed one, two and three in finishing, respectively. But hard to believe how much a wild cheer united the Frosh.

The Marist team, one covering three miles, was a different race. The two teams started out close, but the Southern Conn. runners and placed a big gap which our runners were unable to close. The Frosh team placed one, two and three in finishing, respectively. But hard to believe how much a wild cheer united the Frosh.

The Frosh team placed one, two and three in finishing, respectively. But hard to believe how much a wild cheer united the Frosh.