Student Council To Poll Radio Popularity

MCR, the college radio station, will be revamped pending results of a school-wide poll to be taken by the Student Government. This poll according to Frank Figilia, the Attorney General, will be conducted, "Mr. Figlia has admitted that a reason for the apparent controversy is lack of cooperation among the existing club personnel and an inadequate number of members interested in assisting on the technical level as being D.J.'s or enforcers. Ron Haukasch, secretary of the club, stated, "Active participation by club members...mote enthusiastic response from the student body is needed."

Certain recommendations the club has considered are playing tapes of football games, a campus news on the air, a library of records for use by members of the club, and a Radio Week on campus. The station, besides playing records, has a number of discussion and lecture programs: "The Student Council Hour," "The Father Guistutti Show," on Monday 9-10 p.m., Mr. White's "Classical Hour" on Tuesday 8-9 p.m., and Floyd Alwon's "Outrageous Hour" on Tuesday 8-9:00 p.m., and Floyd Alwon's "Outrageous

T.A.C. Seeks A Free University

Submitting a petition to the student body to support the "Conspiring Nineteen," TAC (Thought, Action, Communication) begins its second year of activity. The petition called for the moral support of anti-war activists who burned the I.A.I., 2-A, and V-3 draft records at Local Board 25 in Cantyville, Md. Those arrested were found guilty, and face several months in prison and $27,000 in fines.

The petition garnered 169 signatures, far short of the success by the TAC members...

Committee To Conduct Faculty Evaluation

A major effort at evaluating the quality of instruction is currently underway at Marist College. A joint administration-faculty committee, The Committee on Faculty Development, constituted last spring by the administration, has been presently at work gathering information. The committee is presently in the process of evaluating instructors who will be used in the evaluation process. Information gathering techniques will include classroom visits by faculty members and administration, as well as solicitation of student opinion through the use of questionnaires.

The Committee on Faculty Development consists of the two top college administrators chairman of the committee, with academic affairs, Dr. Edward Cashin, Academic Vice-President, and Dr. John Palter, Academic Dean, and three faculty members elected last spring by the faculty, Dr. George Hoover, chair of the committee, Bro. Daniel Kirk, and Bro. Richard LaPietra. The major concern of the committee is the professional and intellectual development of the faculty, which necessarily encompasses a deep interest in the general quality of instruction at Marist.

The efforts of the committee to involve students in the evaluation process is not a new one at Marist. Last year, similar committees, operating on an experimental basis, sought the opinion of some two hundred students about the quality of their classroom instruction and their instructors. Although only 10% of the students were invited to participate, the results indicated that a large majority of students were sufficiently interested in the work of employment of this procedure on an even larger scale this year.

At the present time over seven hundred and fifty students presently at Marist have been involved by the committee to evaluate a total of forty-five courses and eighteen instructors. The invitations, originally intended for posting on October 8, were not posted until October 16 because of printing delays caused by competent failure. Consequently, the deadline for reply, October 25, has been postponed until October 31. The questionnaire being used consists in some form used last year, and requires a rating on twenty items, ranging from 1 (high) to 5 (low). The questionnaire also included twenty comments, and the importance of these comments in evaluating the sense of the response is stressed. The questionnaire was mailed to a simple group of thirty students and was received significantly in response to their criticisms. The procedures also showed that the questionnaire could be completed adequately in thirty to forty-five minutes.

The committee is hoping for a high response rate on the part of Marist students.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

We, the editors from all the college newspapers in the Mid-Hudson Area, have been discussing the issue of "provinciality in reporting" and the need to avoid it. We have decided to adopt a new policy of civil disobedience that we will demonstrate in the coming weeks. This is a form of protest that we believe will be effective.

Sincerely,

The College Editors of the Mid-Hudson Area

Consious Campusb

Dear Editor:

I wanted to express my concern about the recent TAC article. The article seemed to be more about personal attacks than a discussion of issues. I believe that as journalists, we have a responsibility to present a balanced view of events and to respect the views of others.

Sincerely,

Thought at 5:00 A.M.

Dear Editor:

I have been thinking a lot about the recent events on campus. It seems like everyone is so focused on their own issues that they are forgetting about the bigger picture. I think we need to find a way to bring everyone together and work towards a common goal.

Sincerely,

The Marist Movement by Patrick V. Reilly

Dear Editor:

In recent years, the Marist movement has grown significantly. Many Marists have stepped forward to speak out against the injustices they see in the world. The Marists are a group of people who have dedicated their lives to serving others.

Dear Editor:

I am writing to express my concern about the recent actions of the Marist movement. I believe that their methods are too extreme and that they are putting themselves in danger.

What is the goal of education? Is it a true representation of the spirit of the educational institution? Is it true to say that the goal of education is to prepare students for the world that awaits them? Is it true that the goal of education is to provide them with the tools they need to succeed in life?

I believe that the goal of education is to provide students with the skills and knowledge they need to succeed in life. This includes not only academic skills, but also social skills, such as communication and teamwork. It is important for students to be able to work well with others and to be able to communicate effectively.

Education should also be about developing critical thinking skills. Students should be taught to think independently and to question authority. They should be encouraged to express their ideas and to challenge the ideas of others.

Midwest College:
Semester Ends Before Christmas

New Concord, Ohio 43762

The Semester ends before Christmas this year. It is a bit of a shock to see the calendars that are being used here. I have been thinking about the goals for the academic process and have come to the conclusion that the goals for the academic process are not being met. The goals for the academic process are not being met because the students are not being taught what they need to know.

Open A New Window
by Vincent Bagley

I have seen the value of education first hand. It is not only important for students to learn the material, but it is also important for students to learn how to think critically about the material. Education should be about developing critical thinking skills and encouraging students to express their ideas and to challenge the ideas of others.

In conclusion, the goal of education is to provide students with the skills and knowledge they need to succeed in life. The Trend Is Liberal

New Trends Started Sheahan

It is definitely evident that a trend in the liberal direction is developing at Marist College. This trend is observable in several areas of the college. The student body as a whole has become more liberal. This is observed in the fact that a larger number of students are involved in liberal clubs and organizations. In addition, there has been an increase in the number of students who are registered as Democrats. Furthermore, there has been a decrease in the number of students who are registered as Republicans. This trend is significant because it indicates a shift in the political climate on campus. Marist College is no longer dominated by a conservative outlook. Instead, it is becoming a more inclusive and diverse community. This is an encouraging trend, as it suggests that Marist is moving in the right direction. It is important for universities to foster a diverse and inclusive environment that encourages different perspectives and ideas. Marist College is well on its way to achieving this goal.
Soccer Wins
One of Four

The Marist Booters chalked up their second victory of the season on Wed, Oct. 9, by defeating Paterson State 2-0. The game was held at the Red Pines which is only an outstanding effort by goalie Bob Krenn who kept them from running up a score. Two of the three spots for Marist goalie were filled by the Janes, Dennis Vernico and Richil Measal, and with these came the margin of victory.

On Oct. 12 Marist and Maritime battled it out on the opponents turf. The Booters showed good play and hustle in the first quarter. The offense was constantly in Kings territory on the attack, and it took several good saves by the Kings goalie to prevent scores. Gordy Walton and Bill Rivas did outstanding keeping of the pressure on the Kings defense.

In the second quarter, however, things were turned around. Kings became the aggressors. They attacked the Marist goal several times without success. Isadore Sabeta and Danny McCloey, who had played good defense to that point, were taken out of the first quarter. The offense continued its style.

Kings continued to dominate the action in the third and fourth quarters. Most of the play took place around the Marist goal. Fantastic saves by Krenn and outstanding defense by Sabeta, McCloey and the other Marist defenders prevented the score from going any higher until the fourth quarter.

The final score was 2-0, although Kings had many scoring opportunities wasted by wide or high kicks. A lot of credit, however, must go to Marist's fine goalie, Bob Krenn. For the last three quarters, Kings kept the pressure on him. He made several saves, coming out of the net to stop an opponent shot. His outstanding play kept Marist in the game.

Isadore Sabeta also played a strong defensive game. He made many good stops and stole the ball a number of times to thwart Kings chances of scoring.

The Kings coach was prompted to say, "It's the best defensive player I've seen all year!"

Bob Kellers also did a good defensive job. He made a fine diving block of a shot near the end of the first half to save a possible score.

Marist's record now stands at two wins, four losses, one tie. The season is just about half over. However, with a strong surge the team could finish with a winning record. Their record doesn't show how well these men have been playing.

After three consecutive losses, many Marist fans were unreasonably saying, "Wait until next year." However, against those losses, the Vikings have proceeded to drop their first two home opponents - 2-1 to Kings, and 3-1 to Siena.

But why have we lost three games? Some Marist fans are ecstatically saying, "It's the best team in Viking history." This statement is overblown, but to us this was to be the greatest team in Viking history.

The Vikings have failed. We have lost: injuries, bad refereeing, mental errors, injuries, crucial refereeing decisions, and more injuries have played a major role in the Vikings downfall this season. We have not been overpowered at all this year. No team has run us out.

But when the chips were down, it seems that it was always the same other guy who came up with the big play.

The Vikings are operating under terrible circumstances this year. If we compare the Vikings with the three first games were against no doubt, our three strongest opponents, this was to be the greatest team in Viking history.

For the past three weeks, we have had to cope with the greatest team in Viking history. For the past three weeks, we have had to cope with the greatest team in Viking history.

The Vikings longest drive of the season was 63 yards on the last two plays of the game. Conroy took them 63 yards with a 29 yard pass to Tyne over the middle. Jerry caught the ball at the 30 in the midst of four would-be tacklers. Two fumbles later, the unbelievable Tyne was racing down the sideline, only to be finally corralled by the Kings.

One big bright spot this year has been the Viking defense. In every game they have performed tremendously. The line, led by Krenn, has been a constant problem for the opposing teams. The secondary has been a very strong unit the whole season.

The Vikings "suicide squad" sets itself for "combat."

VIKINGS THWARTED TWICE

Two weeks ago, against Kings, Marist maintained only one drive in the entire game. This was the Vikings longest drive of the season. The Vikings offense was not as successful in 6 plays. The series started with a 27 yard pass to Tyne over the middle. Jerry caught the ball at the 30 in the midst of four would-be tacklers. Two fumbles later, the unbelievable Tyne was rushing down the sideline, only to be finally corralled by the Kings.

Last week, against Siena, the offense scored twice, both short drives put up by the defensive line of John Ritz. Ritz blocked a punt, setting up an eventual Conroy score, and later recovered a fumble which led to the Conroy 7 yard TD. scrimmage.

But except for these few exceptions, the offense has been a disappointment. No one has been able to move. Many times they have been pitted with their backs against the wall, and the disastrous punting of Bill O'Reilly has only added more to the dis­aster. In the past two games, valves, yards a kick and his punts have not returned for little or no yardage.

We have the personnel, so where is our imagination?

"Vikings" applies to a far greater number than just the odd players who aren't odd. It's a shame that Kings haven't turned out well for us.

Yes, we are the Vikings, we are all, and I feel perfectly justified in saying that this year was a disaster. The offense has been a disaster. This year, more than any other year, the whole school is caught up with the spirit of the Vikings.

It's a shame that Kings haven't turned out well for us.
