Students Will Help Model Cities Project

Marist and City officials arrived on campus a week ago today representing the Model Cities Project. They were attempting to recruit and instruct students to help in a survey to determine how to better the Poughkeepsie Community.

The survey is geared mainly toward the problem of unemployment. It is part of an attempt to help the unemployed with their problem. Information gathered will be computerized at a Central Computer Bank to help the city in its future community improvement. This survey is only one of many attempts to gather information to help establish new housing and better neighborhoods in the city.

It appeared that a large number of students showed interest in the survey. Although, the 200 volunteers that were desired were not obtained.

Folk Concert To Close Language Week Friday

Tomorrow night will bring to a close a week-long program of activity sponsored by the Department of Modern Languages. "Modern Language Week" will end with a folk concert performed in five foreign languages. Those singing folk songs in German will be assisted by the Poughkeepsie High School German Band.

This evening at 7:00 p.m. Mr. N. Davis, a local dealer in a "Parapapian" painting and a "Papagial" to art here at Marist.

The week's activity initiated with a German film on Sunday, entitled "The Blue Angel." The dialogue was in German but English subtitles were provided. The following evening, students from the college received poetry in French, German, Russian, Italian, and Spanish. A text containing a translation was provided for those interested.

Three Day Peace Fast Demonstrates Student's Discontent For Viet War

A three-day fast staged by 18 students and two brothers ended a "Week Long Saturday." The fast was in demonstration of partial success, we, a small group of students at Marist College,arest our discontent.

We have entered a three-day fast believing that our affirmation should be more than a quiet intellectual one.

Fred Hass does his own pressure check prior to donating to the Marist Blood Bank. This year's drive, under the direction of former Student Council Vice President, Dan Kuffner, netted more than 180 pints. Another drive will be issued in late spring.

Mutual Tolerance

Dear Sir:

Having the rights ofifting individuaiity fully recognized, we beg the opporunity to express respect for the manner in which Mr. Sullivan endorsed the candidates. Possessing the avid wing of dissent, protest has always been an integral part and also admitting that many races could change hands in an indecisive manner, the "sacred status quo" of the "Lame Duck" senior Reps, who for whatever reason, have chosen to dwell apart from the mainstream of political thought, is not a given fact.

We would like to continue the tradition of an open and democratic society. It is our belief that Mr. Sullivan's endorsement of candidates is, without question, valid. We doubt that his opposition to the "straight" ticket is, and would like to inquire as to the reason for such a position.

Grateful Word

Dear Sir:

On behalf of the Basketball team I would like to express our appreciation to the Marist Industries, who are our 1968-69 sponsors. Their generosity is a great asset to the team and deserves our thanks.

Sincerely,

I Read The News Today, OH BOY!!

Our great entrance into the world of politics came about after a pressure from the editor-in-chief. The stories that we supported for the President had been covered. To go in on a "vote of no confidence" is no easy job. But the results were very gratifying. There were 1000 votes for the "no confidence" motion, while only 400 were cast in favor of the President.

I am not sure if this is the end of politics, but I think it is a step in the right direction.

Sincerely,

ON THE OTHER HAND:

The Death Of Hip

By Patrick W. Casey

The "Hippie" movement is dead. And while it is rather pathetic to believe the phenomenon is over, we are sufficiently removed from the event to consider what it means to us.

In the late 1960s, the "Hippie" movement was at its peak. It was a time when teenagers had the freedom to express themselves through music, fashion, and art. The movement was a reflection of the counterculture that was prevalent during that time.

From a political standpoint, the Hippies were a potent force. They were opposed to the Vietnam War, and their protests helped to bring about the end of the war. They were also influential in the development of the Civil Rights Movement, and their support for the movement helped to bring about significant changes.

In conclusion, the "Hippie" movement was a significant force in the history of the United States. Its impact can still be felt today, and its legacy is a testament to the power of the counterculture movement.

Sincerely,

Peace Corps Programs

Paul Cooney, a senior writer of the Peace Corps, is responsible for this report. He mentions that Peace Corps volunteers are learning the duties and responsibilities of their positions, such as teaching English and assisting in the schools.

The program is currently being expanded, educating the fewer, developing, and less- technologically advanced people. The Peace Corps is now known as Peace Corps 100,000 members and is located in 100 countries.

Still in a basic requirement of the Peace Corps program is the education of the volunteers. The Peace Corps is currently working on this program, focusing on the education of the volunteers.

Quo Vadis?

The training offered by the Peace Corps is a valuable tool for those who are interested in pursuing a career in international development. The program is designed to provide volunteers with the skills and knowledge necessary to succeed in their chosen fields.

By J. O. O'Connell

The recent collapse of a paper mill in the rural area of the United States has been attributed to the lack of properly trained workers. The mill was closed down due to the poor quality of the paper produced, which was unsuitable for use in the production of newspapers.

The mill was owned by a group of investors who had purchased the facility from the previous owner. They had promised to improve the quality of the paper produced, but failed to deliver.

Rockwell and the case of Dr. Benjamin Spock aiding young men in evading the draft. When questioned as to what can be great discontent only according to Dr. Mead, a point of discussion is the relationship between our legal and political systems. The obvious answer to this is that our legal system is designed to be flexible and to accommodate a wide range of situations. The political system, on the other hand, is more rigid and inflexible. The conflict between the two systems is often a source of discontent. However, Dr. Mead also comments that the relationship between our legal and political systems can be improved by increasing the communication and cooperation between the two systems. The New York Times operation under the premise that 'the appearance of liberalism in America, that perhaps people are beginning to feel that the future is in the hands of the people,' also has a responsibility to demonstrate the reliability of its leadership.

Dear Sir:

At the very least, I believe that such an event should be strictly monitored and controlled by the authorities. The fact that the event was limited to seventy people indicates that the authorities were aware of the potential for unrest and were taking steps to prevent it. The fact that the censors were present also suggests that the authorities were concerned about the potential for political opposition and were taking steps to control it. The fact that the event was limited to seventy people is likely due to the authorities' concern with maintaining public order and preventing the event from becoming too large and uncontrollable. The fact that the censors were present is likely due to the authorities' concern with preventing the event from becoming too political and contentious.

Cagers Finish With Championship

After a dissapointing start of 6 losses, the Marist College Basketball Team played several fine basketball. After the Christmas vacation, when the boys found themselves and realized what they could do, the record was 11-7. For the first time ever, Marist took the Central Atlantic of Commerce Basketball title with an overtime win over Bloomfield in a playoff game at the end of the season.

Leading the club in scoring and rebounding were Bill Gowen and Tom Waldig. Who, with one of them not in the game, we did not win. Both average over 20 points per game, the first time Marist has had two men over 20 for the season.

Gowan has come a long way in two years. Many people do not realize that he never really played organized competitive basketball until last year, 1967. Bill seemed to really find himself and realized his potential in rebounding, scoring, and defense. Bill should be a big help next year, as he now has the experience to go with his tremendous ability.

Bill McKinstry did a tremendous job. Only a sophomore Bill proudly Marist with scoring rebounding and a burning desire to win. He was awarded for being named at the E.C.A.T. Sophomore of the Week for the week ending February 6, 1968. This is quite an honor, again, the first for anyone at Marist.

When McKinstry and Gowan were "out", Marist was a good team to beat. When either one had an off day, Marist was in trouble. The entire team depended upon these two men. Their spirit and never giving up attitude was a key factor in our wins, by the end of the season, John could not write the 87 points, the best guard in the Midwest. His shooting percentage was high considering that he took almost everyone from over 15 feet from the basket. Through determination and desire, John became an excellent basketball player.

John Flood, also a senior, did an excellent job for the team. Playing against men who had more experience and skill, John made the difference in quite a few games. Another key player, was John Stritzl, who was always ready to play, however, his lack of size and strength was a real handicap in the team to beat. When either one had an off day, Marist was in trouble. The entire team depended upon these two men. Rick Schneider Jr., who had just broken into the starting lineup before breaking his arm at Sacred Heart. Pete also contributed, heavily even though they did not play as much as everyone would have liked and earned them too. Their spirit and never giving up attitude enabled the 1967-68 Marist squad to be a team.

Let's not forget Pete Gallagher who had just broken into the starting lineup before breaking his arm. It was just getting adjusted to varsity basketball before the unfortunate accident happened.

I would like to thank the spectators who supported us throughout the year, especially those who attended the last game. Without doubt, without them, we would not have achieved the heights. The enthusiasm and spirit means so much to the team and makes up for a lot of mistakes and helps the players win.
