The results of the first national survey of African American students have been released. The survey was conducted by the Center for the Study of Higher Education and the Department of African American Studies.

The survey, which included over 1,000 African American students from across the United States, revealed a number of important findings. The majority of respondents reported feeling that they had access to adequate resources and support while attending college. However, many also expressed concern about the high cost of tuition and the limited opportunities for internships and job placement.

In terms of academic performance, the survey found that African American students were performing at a level comparable to their white counterparts. However, there were also significant disparities in terms of graduation rates, with African American students being less likely to graduate on time.

The survey also highlighted the importance of campus diversity. Many respondents reported feeling alienated or excluded by the lack of representation of African American faculty and staff on campus.

Overall, the survey suggests that while African American students are making progress in higher education, there are still significant barriers to success. Further research is needed to better understand these challenges and develop strategies to address them.
Faculty Focus

Whither Are We Going

by L.V. Tothall

One of the first things that I saw in Egypt was a piece of land that seemed to be growing in the middle of the desert. It was a green oasis, and I thought it was quite remarkable. I then returned to the United States and studied at the University of Wisconsin. There I learned many things about the land and its resources. I also became fascinated with the science and technology that was being developed in those days. I have always been interested in the scientific and technological aspects of life, and I have been working on these areas for many years. Today, I am still researching the land and its resources, and I am constantly trying to find new ways to improve the quality of life for all people.

The idea of the green oasis is not new to me. It is based on the concept of a sustainable environment, where we can live in harmony with nature. I believe that this is the only way we can truly understand the land and its resources. I am working on this concept in my research, and I believe that it can be a reality in the future.

I believe that the land and its resources are a precious gift from nature, and we must use them wisely. I am working on this concept in my research, and I believe that it can be a reality in the future. I am constantly researching the land and its resources, and I am always trying to find new ways to improve the quality of life for all people.

Barking Up A Tree

by Tony Barone

ITEM 1 - FLOOD POLLUTION

As I write this column on Sunday afternoon, I am driving to a flooded area in the center of town. The sight is a depressing one, as I pass through streets that are completely submerged in water. I think about the people who live in these areas and how they must be feeling right now. I wonder if they are worried about their homes, their belongings, and their families. I feel for them and I hope that they are able to recover quickly.

ITEM 3 - GOOD NEWS TO FIRE

This will be my last column for the spring semester, as I have decided to take a break from writing for a few weeks. I am looking forward to the summer and all the new adventures that it will bring. I hope that everyone is enjoying their time off and that they are able to relax and have some fun. I will be back soon, and I look forward to writing about the exciting things that are happening in our community.

I am writing this column as I drive through the flooded areas of town. I see people walking through the water, trying to get to their homes. I think about the people who live in these areas and how they must be feeling right now. I wonder if they are worried about their homes, their belongings, and their families. I feel for them and I hope that they are able to recover quickly.

As I write this column on Sunday afternoon, I am driving to a flooded area in the center of town. The sight is a depressing one, as I pass through streets that are completely submerged in water. I think about the people who live in these areas and how they must be feeling right now. I wonder if they are worried about their homes, their belongings, and their families. I feel for them and I hope that they are able to recover quickly.

I am writing this column as I drive through the flooded areas of town. I see people walking through the water, trying to get to their homes. I think about the people who live in these areas and how they must be feeling right now. I wonder if they are worried about their homes, their belongings, and their families. I feel for them and I hope that they are able to recover quickly.

From Nurnberg to My Lair

The Munich Beer Hall Massacre occurred on November 8, 1923. It was a failed attempt by the National Socialist German Workers' Party, led by Adolf Hitler, to seize power in Germany. The attempt failed, and Hitler and his followers were arrested. The event is considered a significant turning point in the history of Nazi Germany, as it marked the beginning of the Nazi Party's mass appeal and its rise to power. The event is also a symbol of the rise of totalitarian regimes and the importance of maintaining constitutional and democratic institutions.

The event occurred when a group of National Socialists, led by Hitler, attempted to seize control of Bavaria and Bavaria's capital, Munich. The attempt was preceded by a series of political and social tensions in Germany, including the Treaty of Versailles, the Great Depression, and the rise of extremism in the country. The event is also a symbol of the rise of totalitarian regimes and the importance of maintaining constitutional and democratic institutions.

The event occurred when a group of National Socialists, led by Hitler, attempted to seize control of Bavaria and Bavaria's capital, Munich. The attempt was preceded by a series of political and social tensions in Germany, including the Treaty of Versailles, the Great Depression, and the rise of extremism in the country. The event is also a symbol of the rise of totalitarian regimes and the importance of maintaining constitutional and democratic institutions.
THEATRE FROM THE STANDPLACES

In Perspective

Don Donchi

By Joe McMahon

Tuesday night's victory over Bloomingdale had just about everybody talking the next day. The Marist Red Foxes were on their way to a third straight victory and a sweep of the season's first five games. The team had defied the odds and had shown great promise in their early season play.

Peas And Carrots

By Joe McMahon

The Peas And Carrots team had a great outing last week. They were able to win two out of their three games, which were against some tough opponents. The team is preparing for the upcoming season with high hopes.

Lottery From The Standplaces

The lottery was held on Thursday night, and the winning ticket was number 123. Congratulations to the lucky winner. The next lottery will be held on November 15th.

TAC From The Standplaces

The TAC is proud to announce the 2023 Winter Olympics. The team is working hard to prepare for the event, and they are looking forward to seeing everyone there.

Volunteers From The Standplaces

Volunteers are needed for the annual Christmas tree sale. If you are interested in volunteering, please contact the standplaces office.

Presentation

Presently, students from the Fine Arts Department are performing in the annual Christmas tree sale. The students are putting on a fantastic performance, and it is a sight to behold.

In Perspective

Don Donchi

By Joe McMahon

Tuesday night's victory over Bloomingdale had just about everybody talking the next day. The Marist Red Foxes were on their way to a third straight victory and a sweep of the season's first five games. The team had defied the odds and had shown great promise in their early season play.

Peas And Carrots

By Joe McMahon

The Peas And Carrots team had a great outing last week. They were able to win two out of their three games, which were against some tough opponents. The team is preparing for the upcoming season with high hopes.

Lottery From The Standplaces

The lottery was held on Thursday night, and the winning ticket was number 123. Congratulations to the lucky winner. The next lottery will be held on November 15th.

TAC From The Standplaces

The TAC is proud to announce the 2023 Winter Olympics. The team is working hard to prepare for the event, and they are looking forward to seeing everyone there.

Volunteers From The Standplaces

Volunteers are needed for the annual Christmas tree sale. If you are interested in volunteering, please contact the standplaces office.

Presentation

Presently, students from the Fine Arts Department are performing in the annual Christmas tree sale. The students are putting on a fantastic performance, and it is a sight to behold.
Varsity Romps Bloomfield, Bows To Gaels
Wrestlers Win Big, Frosh Top Iona
Cagers Stand At 2-1
Play Albany State Tonight

by Joe Rohlin

The Frosh of Iona, by virtue of an overwhelming first half, went on to defeat the Red Foxes last Wednesday night by the score of 72-58.

In the first half, the Foxes had two or three chances to prove to be their downfall. Their main problem was the lack of a shooting eye as they shot less than 25% from the floor. The Gaets compiled and by the fact that Iona was dominating the backboards. Marist was getting only one shot every time they had a chance. However, the majority of their possessions they turned into scores.

Conversely, at the other end of the court, John Landy had a field day and scored 21 pts. mostly on long outside bombs. Coach Foster knew that Marist had the more traditionally strong Iona frosh game. Rick Cornrike came in and coasted until the end of the first half as the game was still quite close.

Coach Petro's men went to the locker room down, 38-19. However, Marist came back swinging in the second half led by playmaker Ray Charbon, whose quick passes and 25 foot jumpers were suddenly on target. Twice the Foxes out the lead to 10 pts. but the Gaets refused to give up any more ground. As it turned out, the home squad beat Iona by 5 points in the latter 20 minutes, but the 19 pt. halftime deficit proved too much of a gap to bridge.

Charlon led Marist with 15 pts., followed by Joe Scott who had 11 pts. and 11 reb. John Carey started the Gaets with 10 markers. Other positions in double digits were Joe Tazzelle (16 pts.), Art Wiggins (13 pts.), and Hi Mcconaghy (11 pts.).

On the following Tuesday, Marist opened its league competition against Bloomfield State. The men in red and white led throughout, though not really breaking the game apart until midway through the second half. The Foxes showed their tremendous bench strength when their entire front line (Ray Mann, Bill Spenla, and Rich Cbstello) fouled out with more than 13 minutes remaining in the game.

Bob Ullrich, Senior Pete Masterson looked to get the Red Foxes in tow, he nearly pinned his man in 1:49. His win put the Red foxes 127-67. The Marist 127, Bloomfield 67. The Red Foxes were held to 36 points for the entire game, a very strong as they picked up their second win of the year.

At press time, the junior foxes stood at 2 wins and 1 loss, while the Red Foxes are 0-3. At the latter 20 minutes, but the 19 pt. half-time deficit proved too much of a gap to bridge.

Grappilners Stop Southampton

by John Tkach

In their next game, played last Tuesday night, the frosh faced league rivals, Bloomfield. The Foxes started slowly but it became apparent to everyone that Marist had the more talented team, and that it was only a matter of time before they would begin to pull away from their weaker feet. At the first half buzzer the Foxes led 59-22, but they were just starting to come.

The second half was quickly blown to wide open as Coach Foster put in his second team without 11 minutes remaining. But the subs sparked by the play of Jack Whalen, could not help but run it up and the final buzzer sounded mercifully on Bloomfield's score 127, Bloomfield 07. The team effort involved was obvious in that there were eight players in double figures. Sechel (21 pts.) led the barrage. He was followed by Landy (19 pts.), Pazzetti (16 pts.), Bauer (14 pts.). Whalen (12 pts.), Bob Mangardi (11 pts.), Carmike (10 pts.), and Joe Scott (10 pts.).

At press time, the junior foxes were 1-0 in CCC competition and 2-1 overall. Tonight they play Albany St. away.