Approximately three weeks ago, the members of the King Committee were sitting around a table in Champeau, Room 370, looking for ideas for projects for the 72-73 year. We came up with just about nothing. We needed fresh blood and fresh ideas in the group. But how do we go about getting these things? I mean, lets face it, most of us do not even know that the King Committee exists. Then, the suggestion was brought up to bring the King Committee to the students; to find out what students wanted to do to reach out to the Marist community. We were unanimously in favor of this suggestion.

Our first attempt to "reach out" was held last Thursday night, Sept. 27th in the Cahill House. The members of the King Committee were scattered among the members of Foley House for an informal discussion, and a bit of socializing. Dr. Michelson, chairman of the King Committee, began with an introduction of the members - R. Bickley, K. Donahue, R. Williams, F. Michels, K. Waters, J. Hooks and D. de la Montaigne - a short history of past activities and projects of the King Committee, and the rest of the group. The main topic of the night was communication on Marist campus - between faculty and students; between students and themselves. "Why do we play games with each other? Why can't faculty and students talk to each other on the same level? Can students become involved in school decisions, such as curriculum? These were the types of questions, or problems, being discussed.

The over-all tone of the night was good. Faculty and students were talking to each other as people - role playing. Everyone was expressing their feeling about communication and student-faculty relationships openly and freely.

Now that we have these problems out in the open, we need operation ideas on how to resolve them. Do we need a new thing, or do we need the old thing? Have we had in Fontaine House? One suggestion is to form a powerful student body that could relate to both parties and get results. Any other suggestions? If you are interested in the Marist community at all, please join us. See Dr. Michelson, Chem. dept. or Denise de la Montaigne.

Throughout the United States migrant workers who harvest lettuce earn less than $2400 a year. These men and women are working under terrible conditions. Child labor is common and the lettuce growers are constantly bombarded by harmful pesticides. Some people here at Marist have shown their support for the farm workers by not eating lettuce in the Cafeteria or the student community center. The lettuce boycott, meant to express their feelings about the migrant workers' plight, has been highly effective. Most Americans still eat lettuce, but it is not the typical salad combination. The boycott lettuce is on the rise again.

On September 28-30th the Association of Colleges Unions-International held their annual fall conference at Marist College. This yearly college union sponsored by staff and students participated in the workshops and sessions provided by resource people of Region 11. There were a total of forty colleges and universities from Region 11 which consists of members from Canada and New York State (excluding New York City and Long Island); some attending institutions were Buffalo State, Cornell, Elmira, Hobart-William Smith, Ithaca, Pace, R.P.I., St. Bonaventure, Syracuse, Rochester, SUNY at eleven colleges, as well as Dutchess, Bennett, Mount St. Mary Colleges of A.C.M.H.A., and Loyola of Montreal and the University of Western Ontario. The one-hundred and seventy-five delegates and guests evaluated the weekend of workshops, meals (provided by Sapa) and entertainment (at the Last Chance, the Rathskeller, and the Camelot Inn) as extraordinary activities, for the Conference received an overall rating of "very good" by the participants.

Some of the overwhelming sessions that took place at the Conference are described as follows: "Women's Rights and the University Community," "1964-46: Subgroup Reporting," "Committees and their Functions," "Minority Students View the Union," "The Divergent Subgroup Community." It is the purpose of Region II of the Association of College Unions and Individuals to provide a medium through which its fifty-eight members may cooperate in advancing their common interest, and also to encourage and assist in the development of Unions in member schools of the A.C.U.I.

Perhaps it may be very worthwhile to clearly state "the role of the College Union" which has been adopted by the Association and has, recently been reaffirmed. (1) The union is the community center of the college, for all the members of the college faculty - students, faculty, administration, alumni, and guests. It is not just a building; it is also an organization and a program. Together they represent a well-considered plan for the community life of the college. (2) As the "living room" or the "hearthstone" of the college, the union provides for the services, conveniences, and amusements for the members of the college family need in their daily life on the campus and for getting to know and understand one another.

A new office has been created to order the volunteers. Student volunteer activities on campus in the residence halls, the Student Body, and the Marist College Student Volunteer Service, the program was organized this year and is this year under the direction of seniors Bill Hallock and Rich Police. The service was created to unite all many different student-run volunteer programs in an effort to provide a central structure and identification for their operation. The Office's primary also in to provide opportunities for students with free time and interest to channel their energy to a cause which will be of benefit to both the volunteer and the college community as a whole. By keeping in touch with students and community needs, the Service also hopes to develop new programs to meet those needs.

Some of the programs already in operation are:

COLLEGE S.O.S. - Marist is working in cooperation with St. Peter's College on a "help line" service for college-age students in the Mid-Hudson area willing to help students解答 problems, experiences, or seeking referral information. Open 6 p.m. to 3 a.m. 7 nights a week.

STUDENT ADVISOR PROGRAM - to help orient new students to the Marist College experience. The program recognizes the fact that students are often the best available resource in the student population. New students are assigned student advisor(s) on a one-on-one basis, whose primary responsibility is the course selection, learning about rental central on campus, and adjusting to campus life.

HOSPITAL VOLUNTEER PROGRAM - to bring appropriate to those students interested in the field of hospital work. Students have the opportunity to learn through practical experience while fulfilling their own needs. In cooperation with St. Mary's hospital.

Juvenile Aid Program designed to help juvenile offenders bridge relations between students, the community, and local police. Student volunteers will be trained to act as counselors in cooperation with local police authorities in dealing with the juvenile delinquency within the community.

YOUTH SERVICES - will sponsor dances, sports events, and other activities for children from the Poughkeepsie area.

HILLBROOK VOLUNTEERS - will provide autistic children with individuals, who will provide music, arts, and recreation a few hours each week. The program will provide musical entertainment for the Hillbrook children.

BOCES PROGRAM - Cub scout leaders are needed to work with handicapped children and children with learning disabilities at the BOCES school in Poughkeepsie. The program is in cooperation with the BOCES PTA.

The three programs involve Big Brother and Big Sister projects for children with Learning Disabilities, a high school equivalency program for Hudson

Children's Theatre

By Chris Neely

This past week the Children's Theatre has started in full swing for the upcoming season. The theatre organization began turning over the fifth produc­tion season, which is at present in prelim­i­naries.

The Children's Theatre began its career with the play "Die­­­nestuul" which showed very well, and the individuals gained very much from this ex­perience. The third play of the season is "Peter Pan" and this play is coming up through various groups of children. "Peter Pan" will be performed by approximately 400 people in its four performances. The theatre company toured in Wamego State Hospital and other institutions in the con­­junction of the children's activities.

If you have tired out your own eyes, and on the whole I think there is a certain "whiteness diet".

Parking Tickets

A couple of weeks ago I had a chance to see Parking Tickets performed at the Performing Arts Center. I was interested in the chance to see this play with students and staff, to hear reactions to the play. The Board would hear all comments and take it into consideration. The students would be able to attend the play and the theatre would be open to the students.

Another activity of the fall semester is the "Theatre Guild". This involves a group of students and faculty members who are interested in a variety of different aspects of the theatre arts. There are many opportunities to participate in this group. This semester, however, there will be no productions in the WSC theatre. The theatre will be used for activities such as rehearsals and presentations. There will be no performances in the theatre this semester. The group meets every other week and it is open to all interested students.

Theatre Guild Rehearsals

By Mike Avrett

The Theatre Guild has an annual production of the play "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie" each fall. The play is currently in rehearsal at the WSC theatre. The play is going to be presented in the College Theatre on October 28th. Rehearsals are being held on Monday and Wednesday from 8:00 p.m. to 11:00 p.m. The play is directed by Dr. Stephen Lanning.

Vikings, Booters, Harriers Have Successful Weekend

Vikings Flawless in 14-6 Upset Over W.C.C.

By Jim Keegan

The Vikings are number one! That’s the Vikings of Marist College.

If for some reason you are coming back from a four day trip or you just haven’t been around Poughkeepsie for the past two weeks, whatever the case may be, the Marist College Football Club defeated the Vikings of Westchester Community College 14-6 in one of the most exciting football games ever played on Leonidoff Field.

Easily one of the greatest team efforts turned in by any group of athletes in the history of the College, the game was witnessed by over a thousand spectators. On a field that presented many threats to be beaten due to heavy rains, the Marist defense held its ground frustratingly well and sometimes, intimidating a very big and fast Westchester offense.

Like many games played at Marist, it was a battle, with the outcome decided until late in the fourth quarter. For Marist their first score was significant since it showed that unlike last year’s game against Westchester the Vikings were able - on a substantial ground game. Most of the scoring took place early in the first quarter with Marist gaining an early but slotted 6-6 lead. It was a broadside in a trick punting situation that started things rolling for Marist. Joe Stakes with the help of John Sullivan recovered a fumble by Westchester on their own eleven yard line. The Viking offense then took over and on a fourth-down play Murray Milligan went over from the four. The extra point was blocked but the Vikings had all the scoring for Marist in the first half.

Next it was Westchester’s turn to reach paydirt. As soon as quarterback Fred McAlley put his hands on the ball the Westchester Vikings started moving. Mixing up his plays with much finesse, the talented quarterback threw sensationally and it looked like Marist was in for a long day. With the ball on the Marist fourteen-yard line running back Joe Bocchia broke two tackles and was in for the score. The extra point was off and it looked as if last year’s game would be played all over again. The rest of the first half did not show any more real scoring opportunities. Fine defensive plays by both teams were obvious, with special notice to interceptions by Tim Opden and John Sullivan. Even with breaks like these, the Vikings were unable to establish a successful offensive attack.

The second half was different for Marist. In his second game, quarterback Ed Bottini (Colony) has already shown more offensive development than ever seen. Unlike the first half, the Vikings were on the move, but just couldn’t make the big third down play. The turning point of the game occurred late in the third quarter when Westchester quarterback Ed Bottini hit end Pete Mangello with a quick "look in" pass that resulted in a 51 yard gain down to the Marist nine-yard line. On the next play, Westchester fumbled and it seemed that everything, including the ball, was washed out, as the Vikings recovered, on Saturday. The third quarter ended, and both teams still could not control the ball.

The football continued to change hands throughout the last quarter, with Karl Charter coming up with a key interception with only five minutes remaining. Quarterback Bottini took charge and began to move his team by hitting his receivers on short "out" patterns. As the clock continued, the Vikings marched downfield. Bottini threw a quick pass to flanker Fred Kramer who broke a tackle and danced along the sideline to the twelve-yard line. After an unsuccessful running play, and on an incomplete pass, Bottini passed the ball to Tom Corrigan who broke one tackle and sprinted into the end zone for the score. The extra point was good on Bottini’s third yard run.

The defense took over and, as usual, rose to the occasion, holding its own against Westchester to give up the ball and eventually ending the game.

This Friday night, the Vikings will take on a tough Providence team at Providence College. The Friars have only lost seven games in the last 14 years, and this time, unlike last year’s New England Championship team, is playing Providence in the same caliber as Westchester is, Marist must be prepared to put any respect in the Club Football world.
