Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges is to provide a democratic, national basis for the recognition of outstanding campus leaders. First published in 1984, this directory has appeared annually — a unique institution which now includes thousands of listings from over 1000 schools in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and several foreign nations in North and South America.

Only college seniors, juniors, and graduate students matriculated in four-year undergraduate institutions or graduate schools are eligible for nomination to Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Nominations are submitted annually after selection by campus nominating committees in most cases these committees are composed of representatives of the administration, the faculty and the student body.

Methods for judging the relative merits of various candidates vary widely although there has been a growing tendency to use an objective point-scale system to insure fairness in selection. The campus committees are instructed by the national organization to consider students whose academic standing, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities, and future potential are decidedly above average.

The basic concept of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges is to provide a democratic, national basis for the recognition of outstanding campus leaders. First published in 1984, this directory has appeared annually — a unique institution which now includes thousands of listings from over 1000 colleges and universities in the United States. In selecting candidates, campus nomination committees are instructed to choose those students whose academic standing, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities, and future potential are decidedly above average.

The basic concept of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges is to provide a democratic, national basis for the recognition of outstanding campus leaders. First published in 1984, this directory has appeared annually — a unique institution which now includes thousands of listings from over 1000 colleges and universities in the United States. In selecting candidates, campus nomination committees are instructed to choose those students whose academic standing, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities, and future potential are decidedly above average.

The basic concept of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges is to provide a democratic, national basis for the recognition of outstanding campus leaders. First published in 1984, this directory has appeared annually — a unique institution which now includes thousands of listings from over 1000 colleges and universities in the United States. In selecting candidates, campus nomination committees are instructed to choose those students whose academic standing, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities, and future potential are decidedly above average.

The basic concept of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges is to provide a democratic, national basis for the recognition of outstanding campus leaders. First published in 1984, this directory has appeared annually — a unique institution which now includes thousands of listings from over 1000 colleges and universities in the United States. In selecting candidates, campus nomination committees are instructed to choose those students whose academic standing, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities, and future potential are decidedly above average.
Special Awareness Week In House III

This week, House No. 3 of CUB presented the theme "Special Education Awareness Week." We did this as part of our dormitory leaders' assignment. This event was meant to bring educational awareness to the students and faculty of the college, to foster a deeper understanding of the issues surrounding special education, and to promote inclusivity and acceptance. The event was held in the College Union Board (CUB) lounge, with a focus on showcasing various aspects of special education to the community.

Continued from Page 1

Thirty Colleges To Join "Year for Action"

A bold move was made by the members of the Year for Action (YFA) coalition. The coalition has decided to extend its efforts beyond the traditional "Year with Action," which was set to conclude in December. The extension was announced by the coalition's leadership at a press conference in New York City, and it is expected to bring further momentum to the cause.

Time Sheets Due For Dec. Payroll

All students are reminded that their time sheets for the fall semester must be submitted by December 1, 1972. Any student who fails to submit their time sheets on time will be in violation of the college's payroll procedures. The deadline for submission is firm, and failure to comply may result in loss of financial aid or other consequences.

A.P.C. Notes

1. The committee was informed that Dr. R. B. had agreed to participate in the Academic Planning Council (A.P.C.) for the new semester. This is a significant development, as Dr. R. B. is a respected figure in the academic community and his involvement will undoubtedly bring valuable perspectives and insights.

2. The chairperson offered some suggestions concerning the types of programs that could be offered to incoming high school seniors if an early admission type program were to be established. The chairperson emphasized the need for flexibility in program design and the importance of involving students and faculty in the decision-making process.

3. A follow-up meeting was scheduled for January to discuss further the ideas presented at the current meeting. The chairperson also encouraged all members to prepare for the upcoming meeting and to contribute their ideas and concerns in a constructive manner.

Shaping The Shapeless Into Community

A brief note on the topic of community development. The students at Southern University have been working on a project titled "Shaping The Shapeless Into Community." This project aims to transform underprivileged areas into vibrant communities through a combination of educational programs, community service, and social events. The students have been working closely with local leaders and community organizations to ensure the project's success.

Chess Tourney

During the weeks of November 30 to December 4, the Student Senate of the University of Hawaii hosted a chess tournament. The tournament was open to all students and was well-received. The event was organized by the Student Senate's Satellite City Board, and it was held in the Satellite City Board's meeting room. The tournament featured several rounds of play, and the winners were announced at the end of the event.

Marist Students To Send Telegram To Southern University

As a show of solidarity and support, a telegram was sent to Southern University expressing encouragement and prayers. The message was crafted by a group of students from Marist College, and it highlighted the importance of unity and unity in the face of adversity. The telegram was sent to demonstrate the strength of the Marist community and its commitment to the cause.

The following is a draft of a telegram to Marist College, expressing the Marist student body's support for Southern University in their efforts to shape their community.

---

The Marist Student Body of Marist College hereby pledges its support to Southern University in their efforts to shape their community. We extend our encouragement and prayers to you all as you work towards this goal. We believe in the power of unity and the importance of working together for a common cause. We are proud of your efforts and wish you all the best in your endeavors. Please keep us updated on your progress.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

[Date]
MOD WORKSHOP

Student Services

From PAGE 1

Personal Weather Update

S.A.G.A.

From the Students of the Marist College

Michael Peyton

Marist's Future

From Peter Pless

From Kathie Pugh

Suggestion Box
Psyc Grad Program Moving Well

Stuart N. Goss

SIMPLY ALIENATION

SITUATIONS OF THE MIND

Wrenn was young, not so old today. I guess it must have been yesterday. I dreamt a dream Of a Port of Man. A little bit of a tan. Hard work begets a man's name.

It was real then; that's 'So it goes'.

I've seen a door, another door; and other ways.

If you leave the house a second, you won't be able to find it.

My philosophy is that we are all divided into little sections.

I'll see you tomorrow, young man. Or for that matter, right.

The whole thing is a little bit of a game.

The most important, however, are the students themselves as a team and try to make a name for themselves. The Pom Pom Squad was chosen for the awards at the last game. The awards will be given on the last day of school, and the Pom Pom Squad will be receiving the awards of the year.

In one sweeping move earlier this year, the head women's basketball player, a senior, made a layup to put the Red Foxes ahead. The Red Foxes then went on to win the game, 75-65. In that game Marist was able to maintain a large lead, and the team didn't lose their focus throughout the game.

Mr. Bieniak concluded, "There is always a real need for an effort to reach some consensus about the direction of the university."
Bob Sullivan

Monday Morning Quarterbacks

H... if... if... Call it speculation, Monday morning quarterbacks are in high season. It is a sport that most spectators love to play, and one which allows every participant to be a star.

Of course the perennial victim of these little exercises in self-indulgence and athletic theory is the head coach of whatever team you happen to like that lost the game you thought they should win.

All coaches, however, have a way of defending the most critical of Monday morning quarterbacks. Winning stifles all criticism. The football coaching staff at Marist College should be congratulated for the national championship of all Monday Morning Quarterback beaters. Over the past three years, the Marist staff has guided the Vikings to a 22-3-1 overall record including two undefeated, untied regular seasons, and a 1-2 mark in post-season competition.

What moves a coaching staff that has the effectiveness of the Marist record is indicative of? According to Marist's head football coach Ron Levine, it is hard work, a willingness to try new concepts, and a constant effort to make every player produce to the best of his ability. At least that is what I took from a recent conversation with the Marist coach wherein he elaborated on some of the events and decisions that made the Marist Football Club a winning one for the fourth consecutive year.

This year was a year of change for the Vikings. Levine stated that the big push for a coach comes in the first three weeks of the season. The opening games on the Marist schedule this fall made that opening period more crucial than ever with opponents being Manhattan, Westchester Community College and Providence College. Because of the tough opening schedule, the coaching staff, according to Levine was primarily concerned with developing maximum efficiency from the new players who were mapping the positions of responsibility. Levine characterized the coaching game as being more of a talent game and went on to state that the new personnel consisted not only of people new to the Viking uniform such as Ed Bonnett, Tony Johnson and Bill Vincent; but that Mike Lewis, Ken Vitale and Paul Vail fell into the category of new personnel because they had played for Levine. (Vail was moved from tight end to offensive line with fellow co-captain Ken Vitale who joined him in this offensive guard to center where he did an excellent job of replacing Emmett Cooke, who had started every game since the fall of 1968.

Levine fingered two key reasons for the excellent record posted by the Vikings this year. First of all, Levine pointed out, the players did an excellent job of picking up the slack when a player was injured. Specific examples of this were seen when Ron Vuy and Don Capilino came on at various times to fill in for the injured receivers, especially Mike Cassedy and Fred Frey.

Perhaps the most important facet of the success enjoyed this year was the rapid maturation of the players, as individuals and as a team. Looking back, Levine commented that periods of rough play were short and that the bad days were always followed by several profitable practices which erased the effects of the poorer days.

In a final note, Levine felt that the "game of the year" for the Vikings tally came on a 10 yard pass from Bennett to receiver Fred Krampfe.

Don Faison, Marist's senior defensive safety, was named the most valuable defensive player of the game by the corps of Monday Morning Quarterbacks present. Early in the game, Faison broke through the line and buzzed a punt returner to the 10 yard line with a spectacular 10 pass play between Murray Milligan and quarterback Ed Bonnett drove the team to a score passing three yards to Tim Murphy on a fourth and goal.

One week earlier, Faison was named the most valuable player from Marist as the Vikings won the Eastern College Athletic Football Conference championship by dubbing the University of Hartford, ECCFC, Colonial Division champs, 33-6. The Vikings came into the game representing the Metropolitan Division of the ECPF.

Faison won the ECCFC award by intercepting three passes in the game, one of which he returned 40 yards for a score, only to have the score nullified by a clipping penalty foul.

Marist broke the game open early, taking a 20-0 lead into the locker room at halftime, on runs by Murray Milligan and quarterback Bonniste. Bennett and a spectacular 10 pass play between Bonniste and receiver Fred Krampfe as the half ran out.

In the second half, Mike Erit's grab-and-run R.P.I. pass and return it all the way for a 26-6 Marist lead. The final Viking tally came on a 10 yard pass from Bennett to receiver Don Capilino. The lone Hartford TD came on a 37 yard option pass from Jack Jenkins to all-league Ed McCutcheon.

It's All Over

By Jim Keegan

On Saturday November 4, the Marist College Soccer team played a very unusual game, which perhaps typifies a most unpredictable season. I don't know how I can begin to describe the 1972 soccer season, but I feel that what took place against Newark State on a cold autumn afternoon exemplifies the frustration of a group of men who could not reach their true potential. There were times during the season when the Red Foxes appeared to be so close to achieving the success that no other soccer team at Marist had ever attained. Against Newark State, the Red Foxes had what appeared to be an apparent victory, but somehow they let it slip from within their grasp.

The Red Foxes outshot Newark 29-21, and were winning at the half, 3-0. For the first half, they outplayed and outhustled a highly-talented Newark team that was clearly superior in every aspect of the game.

The second half began and events took place that reminded one of a long and extremely painful nightmare. Most soccer fans could not put it together and seemed to watch

Frostbite Regatta

The Hudson River was the scene on Nov. 18 and 19 of the annual Frostbite Regatta, the 9th in such a series. After two days of light winds and tricky currents, the race was on.

R.P.I. drifted across the finish line most often to score a mild upset over the favored home forces. To add to Marist’s problems with wind and tide was a local skipper, Eric Krom, a Poughkeepsie resident now South Orange, New Jersey -

Don Faison, Marist’s senior defensive safety, was named the most valuable defensive player of the game by the corps of Monday Morning Quarterbacks present. Early in the game, Faison broke through the line and buzzed a punt returner to the 10 yard line with a spectacular 10 pass play between Murray Milligan and quarterback Ed Bonnett drove the team to a score passing three yards to Tim Murphy on a fourth and goal.

One week earlier, Faison was named the most valuable player from Marist as the Vikings won the Eastern College Athletic Football Conference championship by dubbing the University of Hartford, ECCFC, Colonial Division champs, 33-6. The Vikings came into the game representing the Metropolitan Division of the ECPF.

Faison won the ECCFC award by intercepting three passes in the game, one of which he returned 40 yards for a score, only to have the score nullified by a clipping penalty foul.

Marist broke the game open early, taking a 20-0 lead into the locker room at halftime, on runs by Murray Milligan and quarterback Bonniste. Bennett and a spectacular 10 pass play between Bonniste and receiver Fred Krampfe as the half ran out.

In the second half, Mike Erit's grab-and-run R.P.I. pass and return it all the way for a 26-6 Marist lead. The final Viking tally came on a 10 yard pass from Bennett to receiver Don Capilino. The lone Hartford TD came on a 37 yard option pass from Jack Jenkins to all-league Ed McCutcheon.

It's All Over

By Jim Keegan

On Saturday November 4, the Marist College Soccer team played a very unusual game, which perhaps typifies a most unpredictable season. I don't know how I can begin to describe the 1972 soccer season, but I feel that what took place against Newark State on a cold autumn afternoon exemplifies the frustration of a group of men who could not reach their true potential. There were times during the season when the Red Foxes appeared to be so close to achieving the success that no other soccer team at Marist had ever attained. Against Newark State, the Red Foxes had what appeared to be an apparent victory, but somehow they let it slip from within their grasp.

The Red Foxes outshot Newark 29-21, and were winning at the half, 3-0. For the first half, they outplayed and outhustled a highly-talented Newark team that was clearly superior in every aspect of the game.

The second half began and events took place that reminded one of a long and extremely painful nightmare. Most soccer fans could not put it together and seemed to watch

Frostbite Regatta

The Hudson River was the scene on Nov. 18 and 19 of the annual Frostbite Regatta, the 9th in such a series. After two days of light winds and tricky currents, the river was...

R.P.I. drifted across the finish line most often to score a mild upset over the favored home forces. To add to Marist’s problems with wind and tide was a local skipper, Eric Krom, a Poughkeepsie resident now South Orange, New Jersey -

Don Faison, Marist’s senior defensive safety, was named the most valuable defensive player of the game by the corps of Monday Morning Quarterbacks present. Early in the game, Faison broke through the line and buzzed a punt returner to the 10 yard line with a spectacular 10 pass play between Murray Milligan and quarterback Ed Bonnett drove the team to a score passing three yards to Tim Murphy on a fourth and goal.

One week earlier, Faison was named the most valuable player from Marist as the Vikings won the Eastern College Athletic Football Conference championship by dubbing the University of Hartford, ECCFC, Colonial Division champs, 33-6. The Vikings came into the game representing the Metropolitan Division of the ECPF.

Faison won the ECCFC award by intercepting three passes in the game, one of which he returned 40 yards for a score, only to have the score nullified by a clipping penalty foul.

Marist broke the game open early, taking a 20-0 lead into the locker room at halftime, on runs by Murray Milligan and quarterback Bonniste. Bennett and a spectacular 10 pass play between Bonniste and receiver Fred Krampfe as the half ran out.

In the second half, Mike Erit's grab-and-run R.P.I. pass and return it all the way for a 26-6 Marist lead. The final Viking tally came on a 10 yard pass from Bennett to receiver Don Capilino. The lone Hartford TD came on a 37 yard option pass from Jack Jenkins to all-league Ed McCutcheon.

It's All Over

By Jim Keegan

On Saturday November 4, the Marist College Soccer team played a very unusual game, which perhaps typifies a most unpredictable season. I don't know how I can begin to describe the 1972 soccer season, but I feel that what took place against Newark State on a cold autumn afternoon exemplifies the frustration of a group of men who could not reach their true potential. There were times during the season when the Red Foxes appeared to be so close to achieving the success that no other soccer team at Marist had ever attained. Against Newark State, the Red Foxes had what appeared to be an apparent victory, but somehow they let it slip from within their grasp.

The Red Foxes outshot Newark 29-21, and were winning at the half, 3-0. For the first half, they outplayed and outhustled a highly-talented Newark team that was clearly superior in every aspect of the game.

The second half began and events took place that reminded one of a long and extremely painful nightmare. Most soccer fans could not put it together and seemed to watch

CONTINUED PAGE 7