UA Approved At Marist

By Katherine Finegan

ACTION, the federal agency in Washington for voluntary services, has accepted the latest proposal from the Marist College task force. Marist has been awarded a planning grant of $5,390 to establish a University Year for Action program (UYA). The grant will enable Mal Michelson, director of the program here and advisors to draft a UYA program allowing about 39 students to work with the Poughkeepsie elementary and high school, small businesses, and the police department.

There have been two previous proposals submitted which were rejected on the basis of their fiscal points. The emphasis had been placed on rural poverty in this area. ACTION demanded that proposals be more specific: to work directly where there would be more impact in the urban and rural areas. Consequently, the focus has been moved and the areas of concern are now more acceptable to the organization. The proposal that was submitted and accepted includes support for the program for their year of action. Successful initiation of this program depends on work and cooperation from all involved in the vital planning period when the program will be refined and detailed. There are areas that must be clarified before the Operations Grant is submitted: the manner in which these students will be evaluated; credit distribution for what capacity the faculty will be involved; etc.

The proposal that was submitted and accepted includes some background data and plans for the program but is largely composed of the philosophy behind it and the intentions that motivated its creation. Broadly enough to address the objective of an active involvement in YUA are:

1 - Ensuring students with an opportunity to both learn and apply skills and knowledge to disadvantaged people in the Poughkeepsie Community in an alternative to traditional education.

2 - Making a consistent attempt to organize work and arranged needs in the low-income population.

3 - Involving higher education with the community and problems which should test its relevancy and effectiveness.

More explicitly, the students chosen would volunteer as teachers in the Poughkeepsie elementary school in an effort to upgrade reading levels and as counselors in the high school to help with the dropout problem. They will also work closely with the Council on Aging and the Chamber of Commerce in an effort to upgrade the downtown urban renewal area. The third target of the program will be to provide services to the downtown deli area where students will be working as counselors at a youth center sponsored by the Police Community Relations Board.

Although the program, its bylaws and requirements, have not yet been announced, there is assurance that one of the major problems for the students is the attitudes of some of the faculty members who question the validity and experiential learning. Ideally, the program would involve a good majority of the Marist faculty, for all have experience and knowledges in offering help in these community related study programs.

Other branches of ACTION include the Peace Corps, VISTA, Retired Senior Volunteer Program, etc. The UYA branch is a voluntary program among universities and colleges are involved. Discussion about other schools involved, their past accomplishments and obstacles, uncovered that one of the major problems for the students is the attitudes of some of the faculty members who question the validity and experiential learning. Ideally, the program would involve a good majority of the Marist faculty, for all have experience and knowledge in offering help in these community related study programs.

Boycott Of Lettuce Continues

By Tom Page

The United Farm Workers Union brought their boycott of lettuce and grapes to the Poughkeepsie area last week. Picket lines were organized at the Shoprite supermarket on Main St and the lettuce boycott continued until Thanksgiving.

Although there have been two previous proposals submitted which were rejected on the basis of their fiscal points. The emphasis had been placed on rural poverty in this area. ACTION demanded that proposals be more specific: to work directly where there would be more impact in the urban and rural areas. Consequently, the focus has been moved and the areas of concern are now more acceptable to the organization. The proposal that was submitted and accepted includes support for the program for their year of action. Successful initiation of this program depends on work and cooperation from all involved in the vital planning period when the program will be refined and detailed. There are areas that must be clarified before the Operations Grant is submitted: the manner in which these students will be evaluated; credit distribution for what capacity the faculty will be involved; etc.

The proposal that was submitted and accepted includes some background data and plans for the program but is largely composed of the philosophy behind it and the intentions that motivated its creation. Broadly enough to address the objective of an active involvement in YUA are:

1 - Ensuring students with an opportunity to both learn and apply skills and knowledge to disadvantaged people in the Poughkeepsie Community in an alternative to traditional education.

2 - Making a consistent attempt to organize work and arranged needs in the low-income population.

3 - Involving higher education with the community and problems which should test its relevancy and effectiveness.

More explicitly, the students chosen would volunteer as teachers in the Poughkeepsie elementary school in an effort to upgrade reading levels and as counselors in the high school to help with the dropout problem. They will also work closely with the Council on Aging and the Chamber of Commerce in an effort to upgrade the downtown urban renewal area. The third target of the program will be to provide services to the downtown deli area where students will be working as counselors at a youth center sponsored by the Police Community Relations Board.

Although the program, its bylaws and requirements, have not yet been announced, there is assurance that one of the major problems for the students is the attitudes of some of the faculty members who question the validity and experiential learning. Ideally, the program would involve a good majority of the Marist faculty, for all have experience and knowledge in offering help in these community related study programs.

Other branches of ACTION include the Peace Corps, VISTA, Retired Senior Volunteer Program, etc. The UYA branch is a voluntary program among universities and colleges are involved. Discussion about other schools involved, their past accomplishments and obstacles, uncovered that one of the major problems for the students is the attitudes of some of the faculty members who question the validity and experiential learning. Ideally, the program would involve a good majority of the Marist faculty, for all have experience and knowledge in offering help in these community related study programs.
Why Didn't You Vote?

By Pat Collage

"I didn't vote," one student said. "I just couldn't be bothered...It's not a concern of mine...I had to re-apply for an apartment...My election ballot never arrived...I didn't vote, and I'm not going to vote..."

There were those of the research that did not vote and those that did vote interviewed in an attempt to recreate some context for student attitudes about their voting participation. The research consisted of twenty-five males and twenty-five females ranging in age between the ages of eighteen and thirty. While the sample was considered as small, the interviews were recorded and transcribed and then the transcribed data was analyzed for both descriptive and inferential statistics. Also, an analysis of variance was conducted in order to determine if there were any statistical differences between the age of student who voted and the age of student who did not vote. This analysis showed that there were no significant differences found between the two age groups.

In short, those who voted tended to vote because they felt they were responsible, because it was a requirement of their registration, and because they felt it was their duty. Those who did not vote tended to feel it was not important, because they did not feel it was necessary, or because they felt it was not important to them.

Newark, Here We Come

By Joanne Collage

The institutions of the students at Marist College are aiming at full-time planning and working at their first annual involvement in the local community. The students involved are the students who have participated in the Newark, Here We Come program. This program is a week-long event that involves students from Newark, New Jersey and Marist College students. The purpose of the program is to provide an opportunity for students to experience and understand the social, economic, and cultural differences between the two communities.

CIA At Marist

By Carolyn Boyd

At the beginning of this semester, the CIA at Marist was established. The CIA is the Central Intelligence Agency of the United States. The CIA is responsible for gathering and analyzing national security intelligence, and providing that intelligence to the President and other high-level policymakers. The CIA at Marist provides students with an opportunity to learn about the intelligence professionals and their work.

The CIA at Marist is open to any student interested in national security intelligence. The program is designed to provide an introduction to the field of intelligence and to the skills and knowledge required to work in the field. Students who participate in the CIA at Marist program will have the opportunity to learn about the CIA's role in national security intelligence, as well as the skills required to work in the field.

The CIA at Marist program is available to any student who is interested in national security intelligence and who meets the eligibility requirements. The program is open to students who are majoring in any field and are interested in learning about the CIA's role in national security intelligence.

The CIA at Marist program is offered in the fall semester of each academic year. The program consists of a series of lectures and discussions with CIA officers, as well as hands-on activities and simulations. The program also includes a field trip to the CIA headquarters in Virginia.

The CIA at Marist program is designed to provide students with a broad understanding of the CIA and its role in national security intelligence. Students who participate in the program will gain a deeper understanding of the CIA's role in national security intelligence, as well as the skills and knowledge required to work in the field.

The CIA at Marist program is available to any student who is interested in national security intelligence and who meets the eligibility requirements. The program is offered in the fall semester of each academic year. The program consists of a series of lectures and discussions with CIA officers, as well as hands-on activities and simulations. The program also includes a field trip to the CIA headquarters in Virginia.

The CIA at Marist program is designed to provide students with a broad understanding of the CIA and its role in national security intelligence. Students who participate in the program will gain a deeper understanding of the CIA's role in national security intelligence, as well as the skills and knowledge required to work in the field.
Letters To The Editor

AV-TV Rebuttal

To the Editor:

In a recent issue of the Dartmouth Times, at least two articles which discuss the AV-TV Center, the Campus Center, and the teaching in general, are contrary to the reality of the situation. I would like to correct some of these alleged errors.

Many of the students in the AV-TV Center work on both the students' union and the student newspaper and have had the opportunity to observe the Center's operations. I know of some of the jobs that have been advertised for the Center and have had the opportunity to work in them. I believe that the Center is doing a good job of providing the students with opportunities for growth and development.

It is also true that the Center is trying to encourage students to participate in the Center's projects. The Center has had successful projects in the past and has received positive feedback from the students. I believe that the Center is doing a good job of providing the students with opportunities for growth and development.

I would like to correct some of the misunderstandings that have been created about the Center. I believe that the Center is doing a good job of providing the students with opportunities for growth and development.

C. C. Hayes, Jack Reigle

Meat Scarcity

By Louis W. White

In recent years, the demand for meat has increased significantly. This has put a strain on the meat industry, which has struggled to meet the demand. As a result, meat prices have risen drastically, and many people are finding it difficult to afford meat.

The shortage of meat has been caused by several factors. One of the main factors is the increase in the number of people who are eating meat. This has put a strain on the meat industry, which has struggled to meet the demand.

In addition to this, there has also been a decrease in the number of cattle being raised. This has resulted in a decrease in the supply of meat.

As a result of these factors, meat prices have risen drastically, and many people are finding it difficult to afford meat.

Comment On The Law

By R. E. White

In recent years, the demand for meat has increased significantly. This has put a strain on the meat industry, which has struggled to meet the demand. As a result, meat prices have risen drastically, and many people are finding it difficult to afford meat.

The shortage of meat has been caused by several factors. One of the main factors is the increase in the number of people who are eating meat. This has put a strain on the meat industry, which has struggled to meet the demand.

In addition to this, there has also been a decrease in the number of cattle being raised. This has resulted in a decrease in the supply of meat.

As a result of these factors, meat prices have risen drastically, and many people are finding it difficult to afford meat.

Class Consciousness At Marist

By Raymond K. Groves

In recent years, the demand for meat has increased significantly. This has put a strain on the meat industry, which has struggled to meet the demand. As a result, meat prices have risen drastically, and many people are finding it difficult to afford meat.

The shortage of meat has been caused by several factors. One of the main factors is the increase in the number of people who are eating meat. This has put a strain on the meat industry, which has struggled to meet the demand.

In addition to this, there has also been a decrease in the number of cattle being raised. This has resulted in a decrease in the supply of meat.

As a result of these factors, meat prices have risen drastically, and many people are finding it difficult to afford meat.

Disabilities Seen At Smith Street

By Chris Locke

In recent years, the demand for meat has increased significantly. This has put a strain on the meat industry, which has struggled to meet the demand. As a result, meat prices have risen drastically, and many people are finding it difficult to afford meat.

The shortage of meat has been caused by several factors. One of the main factors is the increase in the number of people who are eating meat. This has put a strain on the meat industry, which has struggled to meet the demand.

In addition to this, there has also been a decrease in the number of cattle being raised. This has resulted in a decrease in the supply of meat.

As a result of these factors, meat prices have risen drastically, and many people are finding it difficult to afford meat.
Mourning Becomes Electra

By1974, the year of the centennial of the American Civil War, the women of Green Haven, the colony for blind women, were facing the closing of the institution. The women, including Mary E. Forten, a well-known abolitionist, had been fighting for years to keep the colony open. The decision to close the colony was a blow to the women, who had dedicated their lives to making Green Haven a home where they could thrive. The women, led by Mary E. Forten, decided to fight back. They organized a petition and sent it to the state legislature, demanding that the colony be kept open. The petition was signed by a number of prominent women, including Susan B. Anthony, who was a strong supporter of women's rights. The petition was successful, and the colony was allowed to remain open.

Solidarity Day At Greenhaven

By Elizabeth M. Turner

The students of Green Haven College spent a day at Greenhaven, where they were joined by the students of the college, who were there to participate in the day's activities. The day was filled with a variety of events, including a reception, a tour of the college, and a discussion with students and faculty. The students of Green Haven College were able to see the beauty of the campus and to learn more about the college's history and culture. The day was a chance for students to come together and celebrate their shared experiences.

A Third Year View

"For generations past, most of the people have been around here," said one of the women of Green Haven. "The women have been here for generations, and we have been fighting for our rights. We have been fighting for our home, and we have been fighting for our community."

The policy towards smoking in American colleges and universities has been a controversial issue for years. Many colleges have implemented smoking bans, while others have allowed smoking on campus. The debate continues to rage on, with arguments on both sides. Some argue that smoking bans are necessary to protect the health of students, while others argue that they infringe on individual rights.

The policy towards smoking in American colleges and universities has been a controversial issue for years. Many colleges have implemented smoking bans, while others have allowed smoking on campus. The debate continues to rage on, with arguments on both sides. Some argue that smoking bans are necessary to protect the health of students, while others argue that they infringe on individual rights.

The policy towards smoking in American colleges and universities has been a controversial issue for years. Many colleges have implemented smoking bans, while others have allowed smoking on campus. The debate continues to rage on, with arguments on both sides. Some argue that smoking bans are necessary to protect the health of students, while others argue that they infringe on individual rights.

A Apartments and a few other buildings

The policy towards smoking in American colleges and universities has been a controversial issue for years. Many colleges have implemented smoking bans, while others have allowed smoking on campus. The debate continues to rage on, with arguments on both sides. Some argue that smoking bans are necessary to protect the health of students, while others argue that they infringe on individual rights.

The policy towards smoking in American colleges and universities has been a controversial issue for years. Many colleges have implemented smoking bans, while others have allowed smoking on campus. The debate continues to rage on, with arguments on both sides. Some argue that smoking bans are necessary to protect the health of students, while others argue that they infringe on individual rights.

The policy towards smoking in American colleges and universities has been a controversial issue for years. Many colleges have implemented smoking bans, while others have allowed smoking on campus. The debate continues to rage on, with arguments on both sides. Some argue that smoking bans are necessary to protect the health of students, while others argue that they infringe on individual rights.

The policy towards smoking in American colleges and universities has been a controversial issue for years. Many colleges have implemented smoking bans, while others have allowed smoking on campus. The debate continues to rage on, with arguments on both sides. Some argue that smoking bans are necessary to protect the health of students, while others argue that they infringe on individual rights.

The policy towards smoking in American colleges and universities has been a controversial issue for years. Many colleges have implemented smoking bans, while others have allowed smoking on campus. The debate continues to rage on, with arguments on both sides. Some argue that smoking bans are necessary to protect the health of students, while others argue that they infringe on individual rights.

The policy towards smoking in American colleges and universities has been a controversial issue for years. Many colleges have implemented smoking bans, while others have allowed smoking on campus. The debate continues to rage on, with arguments on both sides. Some argue that smoking bans are necessary to protect the health of students, while others argue that they infringe on individual rights.
Boomers Look To Next Year

By Jim Donnelly

The Marist College basketball team began its second campaign with a 94-25 rout of St. John's University last Saturday. The offense rolled to 60 yards and scored eight touchdowns in the running backfield. All 11 players were assured Marist of a tie with Westminster College, which will be held this Saturday at 9 a.m. at Mount Vernon field. The defense also ran rampant and pushed quarterback...)

The offense has looked in promising form. The ground attack has finally come around to block and score against the opposing defense. The offense is looking to establish control of the game under the guidance of running and passing which will keep the ball in the hands of as many players as possible. The offense has moved offensively against Westminster. With the defense holding up, things look good.

High On Sports

By John Tkach

TABLE TENNIS ANYONE ... The Marist College Intramural Department along with Lee, Shaheen, and Champagne Halls are sponsoring a table tennis tournament. The tournament will be set up in three separate locations and is limited to who is eligible to play. There will be no tournament in Lee Hall which is open to Lee residents only, and another in Champagne, open only to Champagne residents, and still another tournament in Shaheen which is open to Shaheen residents. Wherever it happens, you will be happy to know that you will have a happy Thanksgiving wherever you might be.

INTRAMURAL BOWL ... Sunday Nov. 18 has tentatively been set for the first annual Mid-Hudson Intramural Touch Football Bowl. The teams include: Marist's own intramural football teams, the Zootkeepers, along with the intramural football championships of the State University of New York at New Paltz. The festival will be played at New Paltz and is expected to start at 2 p.m. Of New Paltz has yet to determine their representative. Speaking of football, it would be my opinion that the football teams were dissatisfied with the shirts they received upon winning the championship. Speaking for the intramural department, I hope they will accept my apology for an error on my part.

LOOP SCHEDULE ... A week long road trip to Florida will highlight the 1973-74 Marist College Varsity basketball schedule. The Red Foxes, winner in last year's 3-2 overall mark, will travel in the Sunshine State to battle Fort Lauderdale University, Biscayne College, and the Florida Institute of Technology.

This is the first year that any oarsman having two oars. "Frustrating this season as a crew coach," said coach Joe Bossard of the varsity, "the crew coach has a lot to prove to the athletes themselves. Of course, for all of us this whole season rests on this game and we won't stop until we have won it."

The offense is up for a tough battle in the Eastern College Football Championship this weekend. The offense has returned the team to their original depth with the loss of only one of the most solid in the school's history. The Marist offense will be returning with more experience, the team will have the advantage, scoring over 200 yards, 12 touchdowns, and passing for over 300 yards. "I always try to be available to help any of the boys with any problem - scholastic, athletic, or personal." This is just one of the many things that makes Rich Stevens the coach he is. This cross-country coach is always good as a role model shows up for practices and meets himself. "I was a captain in high school and I never had a problem with any man in his first years of coaching."

"I'm happy to be a part of this coaching group. I'm looking to next season, when I have a boat entered in each race. "It was a challenging season as a crew coach," said coach Joe Bossard of the varsity, "the crew coach has a lot to prove to the athletes themselves. Of course, for all of us this whole season rests on this game and we won't stop until we have won it."

The offense is up for a tough battle in the Eastern College Football Championship this weekend. The offense has returned the team to their original depth with the loss of only one of the most solid in the school's history. The Marist offense will be returning with more experience, the team will have the advantage, scoring over 200 yards, 12 touchdowns, and passing for over 300 yards. "I always try to be available to help any of the boys with any problem - scholastic, athletic, or personal." This is just one of the many things that makes Rich Stevens the coach he is. This cross-country coach is always good as a role model shows up for practices and meets himself. "I was a captain in high school and I never had a problem with any man in his first years of coaching."

Marist Intramural Soccer League is kicked off