Vietnam Comes To A Quiet Close

by Thomas Rabbitt

On January 20, over 100,000 people converged on Washington in "March Against Death." The march was sponsored by The National Peace Action Coalition, the Student Action Center, the Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice, and The Student Government, in order that the next government in power may avoid the Vietnam War. The Student Government had gone into debt in the amount of $1432, due to the large allocations made to the Literary Magazine and the Third World Organization. The club presidents in attendance were requested to return 10 percent of their allocation to Student Government, in order that the next government might not start out with a debt, as this year's government was forced to do. The club presidents proved to be quite generous, with promises of donations given by the Italian Club, The Volunteer Services Organization, the Appalachian Club, the Communist Union, The Everybody, and the Varsity Club. The officers of Student Government would like to thank these clubs for coming through when they were needed, and for keeping up the alliance that all student organizations must share together.

In Debt

A meeting of the Financial Board of the Student Government was held last Wednesday, the 12th, in the Campus Center. Chairman Ralph Ranellone explained that Student Government membership had been increased in the amount of $1432, due to the large allocations made to the Literary Magazine and the Third World Organization. Attention: Senior's, G.R.E.'s

If you're a senior and you haven't signed up for your G.R.E.'s and you have to take them, it is starting to get late. The next test dates are February 24 and April 28. These tests which cost five dollars extra are offered in 10 cities in the nation and New York City. See the G.R.E. Handbook (section 16).

If you are required by your department to take the advanced test, the next test date is April 28, during the Easter vacation. Again the problem is that it takes one month for the scores to be reported to the school and since you are scheduled to graduate on May 19, the reported scores may hold back your diploma.

If they do not accept your advanced test signed by the attorney at the test center then you can write to the G.R.E. Center in Princeton for a special request of a date for taking the test. These tests which cost five dollars extra are offered in 10 cities in the nation and New York City. See the G.R.E. Handbook (section 16).

The best thing to do is to go to your department head and ask him if the admission slip will serve as temporary proof. We ask each department head if they could let us know, how they feel about this in the next issue.

It may mean the difference of receiving a diploma on May 19 or June 1, which is reality is no difference at all. But try to explain this to your parents who have paid, or helped pay $10,000.00 for this day.

Make this to the new G.R.E.'s.

Three Year B.A.

The end of last semester, members of the Alpha Academy, an honors students group in the College Union Board, conducted a survey of 100 students to determine their attitudes toward academic programs. The survey found that 75% of the students believed that the three year B.A. program would be beneficial to their education.

The President of the College Union Board, Mr. John Donnelly, stated, "We are pleased to see that such a high percentage of students support the three year B.A. program. We believe that this program will provide students with a more focused and intensive education, preparing them for careers in their chosen fields."
Lower Freshman Applications Seen As National Problem

Marist is following the national trend toward an increased number of applications. Applications are down, but the number of students who applied this year is still above the average of the previous years. Approximately half of those who applied were accepted last year, and the number of applications per student has increased.

The quantity of applications received by the Admissions Office is still quite high. The number of students who applied this year is still above the average of the previous years. LBJ: A Man Of Destiny

WASHINGTON - LBJ's son said today in London it is too early to say whether his father's recent physical and emotional problems will affect his domestic achievements at home. Mr. Johnson said he would not comment on whether his son's illness is affecting his work.

“Even as we mourn his death, we must remember how much he accomplished,” Mr. Johnson said today in London. “He was a great leader, and his legacy will live on through the achievements of his administration.”

Mr. Johnson, 83, died last week of a heart attack at the age of 85. He had served as President of the United States from 1963 to 1969 and was a member of the Democratic Party.

Mr. Johnson’s son, Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, accompanied Mr. Johnson’s casket today as it made its final journey to the capital.

“I feel proud to be here today,” said Mr. Johnson’s son, who is also a member of the Democratic Party. “I believe that my father would want us to carry on with his legacy and to continue working for the good of the United States.”

Mr. Johnson’s son also paid tribute to his father’s accomplishments, saying that “he was a great leader who left a lasting mark on the world.”

Mr. Johnson’s son is expected to play a major role in the administration of President George W. Bush, who was elected in November 2000.

Mr. Johnson’s son said that he would work closely with the new administration to ensure that his father’s legacy is preserved.

“I believe that my father would have wanted us to continue working for the good of the United States,” Mr. Johnson’s son said. “I will do my best to honor his memory and to carry on with his legacy.”

Is This Wrestling's Last Year?

By Ed O'Connell

Dedication and self-sacrifice are two qualities that wrestlers can attribute more than anything else to their success as athletes. After this season, it appears that wrestlers won't attribute anything to their success as athletes at Marist. For it may be the time when wrestling may finally be pinned as an Intercolligate sport here.

Surprisingly, the reason is not financial. The budget has not been cut and new equipment is constantly being added.

Currently there are only six members on the team. Three of them are seniors. So what does that leave for next year? Simple, no team. The six numbers are dedicated wrestlers. Also, they are dedicated to keeping the sport alive. It could be done.

Right now, according to John Redmond and Lance Lipscomb, "there is enough pure wrestling talent in this school to fill the roster. There are at least twenty people who have competed before." This year, fifteen men have started wrestling since the beginning of the year and Pat Lavelle was knocked off by a knee injury. Why they leave is hard to determine. Why others don't join is even more puzzling.

The workouts of a wrestler can be described as "hell." Two hours of working out in an 110 degree room is enough to turn anyone away. Starving for three days before a match to make weight doesn't exactly produce long waiting lines either.

Co-Captain Redmond described a workout. "We start by doing physical exercises and calisthentics, (pushups and situps, the whole routine, except in fairly abnormal numbers). We then run in place for twelve to fifteen minutes then finally we wrestle. The end of the session involves more exercising." One of the members of the team has lost over forty pounds in the last six weeks.

Redmond and Lipscomb see more reasons why the team has dwindled over the past few years. For one, the coaching job has turned over three times in the past three years.

"With the constant changing of our coaches, the whole wrestling program has been slowed down," but recruiting is not the actual problem. So, if any one member does not win his match and pin his man, we cannot win," explained Lipscomb whose record is currently 4-1. The foxes have five home matches during this semester. "If any one member does not win his match and pin his man, we cannot win, it's that simple," explained Lipscomb who added, "that is why we have totally dedicated ourselves to being a team on and off the mat."

There are three ways in which you can be a winner in wrestling. One, is if you win and the team loses and thirdly is you lose and the team wins. There is only one way you can lose. That is if you lose and the team loses. For the 1973 Foxes, there is only one way to win.

This year's equipment, fan attendance, facilities and the coach may be the best ever according to the wrestlers, but if you don't have a full room it just isn't right. It isn't.

For the past two years, the three seniors have begged and pleaded for more people to come out for the team. They are continuing to do it but frustration is setting in. "The next step would almost have to be violent," laughed Redmond as he gulped down a glass of protein juice.

Right now, the six are hoping as a shot of going to the Catholic School National Championships in Ohio on February 2nd and third, but a previous commitment may stand in their way.

If this commitment (a match against C.C.N.Y.) can be altered, the team may just go.

It may be the last time a Marist wrestling team goes anywhere.

Cagers Fall To Kings

An important Central Atlantic Conference College Conference road contest that started a busy week for the Marist College basketball team. The Red Foxes, 5-4, after dropping a pair of New England road contests to Bentley, (79-72) and Stonehill (69-71), traveled to Briarcliff Manor, N.Y. for a game against King's College last Tuesday night.

The C.A.C.C. games are vital to Marist's hopes for a conference title and N.A.A.T. tourney berth. In their two league games to date, the Foxes had little trouble disposing of King's, 118-77 and Bloomfield, 69-28. There currently are three teams without a conference loss: Marist (4-0), powerful Southampton, which Marist will visit tomorrow night, 11-3; while Detwiler is 5-0.

Marist lost by Mike Hart with 24 seconds left in the game. Jim Martell chipped in 20 points in a pair of losses. Hart concentrated on the Foxes with a 20.5 scoring average.
