The Marist College Campus was rocked by the discovery of " graft and corruption right up to our janitor to get it." We are hoping to start a possible tradition for all members of the Security Force were present and accounted for, except vice-president and the esteemed Cocopardo. The President: What? Apathy tests have been given later.

The meeting of Student Government was called to order by President Bernard Mulligan, "Hard" to all the beautiful people in Gregory House at 8:00 a.m. on the evening of January 25, exactly three weeks later. All members of the Elite Council were present and accounted for except vice-president and financial wizard-Joe Cocopardo. When he told newsmen, "I don't care what happens. Who am I to say anything. Leave me alone." he told newsmen, "I don't care what happens. Who am I to say anything. Leave me alone."
A Marist Fable: Business Office Means Business

Once upon a clear January afternoon, a Marist student came into the inner sanctum of the Business Office. The large open area of the office was awash with the spirit of a student who had gone before him.

"Mr. Martin," he said, "I need a change of stationery." The office manager, Mr. Martin, looked up from his desk, "What kind of change of stationery do you need?"

The student replied, "I need to change the color of the ink. I want it to be green paper. With the third copy on toilet paper. To be made out on yellow paper. The second copy is to be made out on pink paper."

Mr. Martin was taken aback. "Why do you need such a thing?"

The student explained, "Because you live off campus. But at least you didn't let the protests ruin your shopping. I straighten out and leave the room first."

Mr. Martin shook his head, "I don't have time to deal with this."

The student persisted, "I just need the stationery."

Mr. Martin, realizing the futility of the situation, said, "Fine, but this is the last time."

The student thanked him and left the office, satisfied that his need had been met.

The moral of this story: "Don't be a pest. If you need something, ask nicely."

A Day In The Life Of The Commuter Union

On the first day of the semester, a new student arrived at the commuter union. He was very excited to be a part of the commuter student community.

The student was given a tour of the union by the commuter union president. They walked through the various departments, including the food court, the bookstore, and the information desk.

The president explained that the union was a place where commuters could gather and socialize. He also showed the student the various events that were planned for the semester.

The student was impressed by the size and scope of the union and was excited to be a part of it.

Paradise

A student was walking in the library when he noticed a book with the title "Paradise." He picked up the book and started reading it. The story was about a group of people who were stranded on a deserted island.

The student was fascinated by the story and spent the entire afternoon reading it. He was so engrossed in the book that he didn't notice the time.

As he finished the book, he realized that he had forgotten to do his homework.

The student exclaimed, "I can't believe I forgot about my homework!"

The Phase Three Cook Book

We, Americans, are a changing people. We are no longer the same people who we were ten years ago. We have changed in many ways, but one thing has not changed: our love for good food.

This cookbook contains recipes for all types of dishes, from breakfast to dinner. We have included recipes for both meat and vegetarian dishes, as well as desserts.

The recipes are easy to follow and require little preparation. We hope that you enjoy them as much as we have enjoyed creating them.

Student dies of Apathy

Student dies of Apathy

The student was a second year student at the university. He had been struggling with his studies and had become increasingly disinterested in his classes.

His professors were concerned about his lack of motivation and had recommended that he take a break from school.

The student refused to listen to their advice and continued to neglect his studies. As a result, he failed all of his classes and was eventually expelled from the university.

The student's death was a tragic reminder of the dangers of apathy. We hope that this story serves as a warning to others who may be struggling with similar issues.

BULLETIN

Pathology: NY. Another 447 College senior died early this morning at St. Francis Hospital. This marks the third student to die on campus this month. The other two deaths were reported last week.

The cause of death is still under investigation, but preliminary reports indicate that the student may have died from an allergic reaction to an over-the-counter medication.

Interview

The Prospective Student Athlete

By Jim Keegan

A typical tour given by the Admissions Director of a well-known school in the Mid-Hudson Valley, in the year 1992. He is giving the tour to a famous high school athlete from New Jersey along with his parents.

Adm. Dir: Good afternoon, my name is Finn and I am the director of admissions here at MOTH.

Prospective Student: Hi, my name is Joey Jock and this is my mudda and my fadda.

Adm. Dir: Glad to meet you people, by the way how is everything down in Jersey. You know, we always get a lot of students from down your way. A fine area of this country, which has really contributed greatly to the growth of MOTH College.

Jn Interview

Mr. Jock: Yeah, not a bad place to live as long as we can keep those colorado's from moving into the neighborhood.

Mrs. Jock: I don't understand it either, Goliath. I do think that if every kid played football or basketball, like Joey here, we would have no problems in America. By the way, was that basketball coach, Fuselman, the head of athletics here?

Adm. Dir: No Mr. Jock, the director of Athletics is a man named Doctor Silverman. He is also the soccer coach here at MOTH and a really fine gentleman.

Mr. Jock: I can't understand why anyone can play soccer, if you ask me it is too European and there isn't enough scoring.

Adm. Dir: Well, that might be true Mr. Jock, but you should let your son answer that question.

Mrs. Jock: Mr. Jock, what educational value is there at MOTH?

Adm. Dir: I am glad you mentioned that Mrs. Jock. Why just a walk over to Lincoln Hall and look at our fine facilities. By the way, I have you known that our A.P.C. is bringing about some fine programs for your Joey. For the soccer, we have a top national player working hard these days.

Mrs. Jock: You know John, I am not too pleased with MOTH. In fact these were the very same programs that we fought for at Marist College in Poughkeepsie.

Mr. Jock: What difference does it make?

Student Gov't. In-Action

There is something about a man who looks toward tomorrow. There is a quick wit about a man who can look at yesterday and except it and only try to improve upon it. Chipster Rushin is neither of these things. Chipster is as rigid as the Jack in the box in Newburgh, New York. He is as old as the man of the year by the freethinkers of the Rhinebeck Ancient Mariner. For years they have studied him and finally have come to the conclusion that he is a leader. Jim Short, "Chipster has a negative bad attitude...like and grotesque than anyone we have ever honored." Short declared a descendant of the ANCIENT MARINER but said "no comment" to any connection between the winner and the Florin Rushin. There is a quick wit about a man who looks toward tomorrow. Terry, heard his new girlfriend, was going out of some type of figure. Jack, hasn't been seen since the last night in the rat, he was seen running away saying "willard hill, willard hill, oh man," and he also had a bottle of wine in his hand. Jack, in "refer badness" coming? Jack L., the Wine houses are flying fine. Jim, in "refer badness" coming? The views of the previews of the pile of a mountain. Is it true what they say at the mountains? But the betting went against the "smoke" of Fairhurst. Hoping that Larry had found his beer. When all of a sudden there arose a great clatter, they showed, no morals, teeth nor hair. Off the bench jumpped a junior in fear, hoping that Larry hadn't found his beer. The cheerleaders were shocked and dazed did they own, which Option started to crawl out of their lot. The fans saw them next and became more, they were big and ugly and slobbish and gross.
