Hearings Held Tuesday On Financial Aid

by James Keegan

On Tuesday, February 28 at the State Legislature building in Albany, the Select Committee of Higher Education for the State of New York, headed by Assem­blyman Peter J. Costigan, held its second of three public hearings on the proposed increase in Student Financial Assistance to students. The increase is necessary to public react to the Committee's proposed amendment to the education law which, if passed, would provide tuition aid limited to un­dergraduate students.

Representing Marist College at the hearings by testifying before the Committee were students: Tony Wyger, Jim Keener, and Financial Aid Assistant Gerry Kelly. These representatives attempted to present the plight of many college students in financing his or her own education on the small private college level. If enacted, the proposed amendment would increase financial aid to full-time un­dergraduate students from $100 to $600.

The current situation in higher education shows that low and middle income families are finding it increasingly difficult to send their children to college, much less to see that a range of choices is possible for them in their selection of where they will study or what programs they will pursue. The private sector in particular is wrestling with a severe financial strain which, if not eased, could be disastrous. The viability of the private sector is in the best public interest served since, if it is the most realistic alternatives for all students and not only the richer SUNY and CUNY from being overburdened. This is constitutionally sound, it is consonant with the traditional practices of the State and is a logical extension of the Scholar Incentive Award Program. Since it is limited to funding no more than 1/4% of the students expenses it takes into account the federal Basic Op­portunity Grant program and encourages the federal govern­ment to fully fund that program.

Library Moves: New Home In Fontaine

by Ray Burger

At a time of ever-rising costs, Spellman Library will be moving from its "pie-slice" portion of Donnelly Hall to a bi-level home in Fontaine. President Linus Foy would like Fontaine's new residents to be settled by September 1, 1974.

The new library is being planned in three phases. Phase I would be the utilization of the present space in Fontaine (as well as in Donnelly) as new residents are settled. Phase II would be the utilization of the present space in Donnelly as new residents are settled. Phase III, as planned, will call for a 2-story addition to the existing building with a planned expansion.

The present library floor space is nearly 12,000 square feet. It, which will provide 18,000 square feet of usable space, will reach 25,000 - 30,000 square feet. Phase II, including 4,000 square feet, would be a very negligible cost if it were implemented with Phase I. As would be the second possibility, it added 2-4 years later, allowing a total of 17 years to meet the $100,000 - $200,000 at today's building costs. Its construction is planned for 1974-75.

The new location will solve the problem of space that Adrian Perreault, head librarian, has been wrestling with since 1969 - the year he originally proposed to move. When he was asked what this year was chosen for the change he said, "we have reached a saturation point here." Perreault pointed out that new materials are being needed and that the present location no longer has room to provide for these. Seminar rooms planned in the new library will be used for small classes, student meetings, and other purposes. A room for using copying machines and another for viewing microfilm or movies is also proposed. Several other small study rooms also are being planned. A large room will be constructed and equipped with facilities for audio-visual use.

In addition to these new room proposals, there will be a room available for the constantly growing volume of books. At present, the rate is 250 books per month and by 1980 Perreault estimates the total to be about 100,000 volumes, a 100 percent increase over the 80,000 books it has now.

Bamper and elevators for the cramped are also being planned. The elevator, which would also be used for the movement of books, might cost as much as $30,000.

There are many reasons for the wide variances in proposed costs. Types of materials used, quality, labor costs, building size, and the more tangible and foreseeable ones.

What will be the face of the cavity that remains behind in Donnelly? The section near the charging desk will be molded into a T.V. studio and demonstration classroom for Communications Arts majors. The Computer Center will also be filled. Vacancy and move from its present Adrian residence. Art classes and Photography classes will be found here too, rather than in their existing Fontaine sites. Possibly, too, some space might be utilized by the Main­tenance Department for storage.

When asked where this money would come from Perreault replied "that is a question that I don't know." President Foy is planning a fund drive soon and money may be used for the library from that.

Gerry Kelly Testifies At Committee Hearings

B. State: The New York State Scholarship Grant program has just not kept pace with the rising cost of education. A Federal: Two of the traditional Federal higher education assistance programs, the National Direct Student Loan and the Supplementary Educational Opportunity Grant, have been considerably reduced at Marist College. For 1972-73 Marist College received Federal capital contribution of $300,000 for the loan program, and for 1973-74, $134,000. The grant program size for 1972-73 was $100,000 and $60,000 for 1973-74.

The new Federal: The Basic Educational Opportunity Grant, was publicized as the panacea for financial assistance to college students. As financial aid officers became aware of the program, we knew that the program was a viable answer to anyone's prayers. Little did we realize that it would be so disappointing as it turned out to be in its initial year. Last spring I hoped that our 1973-74 freshman class would receive at least $35,000, a 50% reduction in the traditional grant program, the Supplementary Educational Opportunity Grant. To date, Basic Educational Opportunity Grant awards to our freshman class have not yet amounted to $10,000.

C.B.U. Elections Held

by James M. Burke

Last Friday the College Union Board held the fourth highest office in the organization. The newly elected officers are as follows: Kathy Manning, president; Paul Measner, vice-president; Sheila McKay, secretary; and Joan Stiefker, treasurer.

Kathy Manning, won the presidential office by a close, one vote margin of 28 votes. Kathy was running against Mahoney's 155. Kathy is a sophomore, and would like to see more programs available for the students involved.

"I am optimistic that we will be able to have many events as possible," says Kathy, "and I am looking forward to seeing how much money we have to spend on events."

Letters To The Editors

Open Letter To Jim Elliot

Editor:

I just believed that mainstream of the columnists was mistaken. I do not see any need to get the columns to be an effective one with the reader's. I am reminded of a recent issue of the Times. I do not see how the columns in the Times can be made to be the effective one with the reader's.

As the only elected student representative in the student body, I believe that the columns in the Times can be made to be the effective one with the reader's.

Students Union

President, Comm. Union

Franklin

This is a letter to the editor to the Marist College Daily News.

Dear Editor:

I am writing to express my concerns regarding the lack of student involvement in the editorial process of the Marist College Daily News. The newspaper has a reputation for being student-focused, but I believe that the lack of student involvement is hindering the quality of the paper.

Firstly, I am concerned about the lack of student input in the decision-making process. The newspaper is run by a small group of administrators and faculty members, who make decisions without considering student perspectives. This lack of diversity in opinion is evident in the content of the newspaper, which often reflects the viewpoints of the administration and faculty rather than the students.

Secondly, I am concerned about the lack of student participation in the editorial process. Students are not given the opportunity to contribute their ideas and perspectives, which means that the newspaper is not truly student-focused.

Lastly, I am concerned about the lack of representation in the editorial board. The board is composed of faculty members and administrators, who may not have the same interests as the students.

I urge the administration to consider the importance of student involvement in the editorial process. By incorporating student input and participation, the newspaper can become a more effective and representative publication.

Sincerely,

Thank You

At the time when the words thank you are spoken, the new student gains a sense of belonging. This sense of belonging is strengthened by the words thank you, which acknowledge the efforts of the faculty and staff in making the new student feel welcome. It is important that the faculty and staff are thanked for their efforts, not only in the classroom, but also in the guidance and support they provide for students.

This sense of belonging is also felt by the returning students, who are grateful for the support they received from the faculty and staff. It is important to recognize the contributions of all members of the college community, and to encourage a culture of gratitude.

By expressing gratitude, we not only show appreciation for the efforts of others, but we also strengthen the sense of community within the college. This sense of community is essential for the success of the college, and for the well-being of its students.

Thank you.

Alumni Director Offers Comments On SAC Athletic Department Report

GENERAL COMMENT: The purpose of alumni representation in the SAC is to foster a more active role for alumni in the life of Marist College. The SAC is not an alumni association, but rather a body that represents the needs and interests of students. However, alumni can play an active role in the SAC by providing input and feedback through the Alumni Association.

Marist College has a strong track record in terms of alumni giving. The Alumni Association is one of the key reasons for this success. The SAC can further enhance alumni giving by providing input and feedback that can help the Alumni Association to make better decisions.

In conclusion, the SAC can play an active role in the life of Marist College, but it is important to recognize that this role is not synonymous with being an alumni association. The SAC can provide input and feedback through the Alumni Association, which can help to enhance alumni giving.

Marist Not Limited To Dormitories

By John Taylor Clancy

To many, an existence at Marist College is not limited to dormitories alone. In fact, many students have chosen to live off-campus, either in the dormitories or as commuters. This has resulted in a diverse student body, with students from different backgrounds and experiences.

The decision to live off-campus is often influenced by personal preferences, financial considerations, and academic goals. Many students choose to live off-campus to have more freedom and independence, while others prefer the convenience and comfort of the dormitories.

In conclusion, Marist College is not limited to dormitories. Many students have chosen to live off-campus, resulting in a diverse and vibrant student body. This diversity enriches the college community and adds to the richness of the Marist experience.

Maggie is just a dog, but she is my dog, my Lenny, and I love her. I have never owned another dog, Maggie, who celebrated her fourth birthday last Saturday, has completely won my heart. This all-brown dog has been mine for less than a year, but Maggie has already taught me what it means to have a heart.

We go everywhere together, from the grocery store to the park. Maggie is my constant companion, my loyal friend. She brings joy to my life and I feel so grateful to have her in my life.
