Faculty Colloquium Held Action Year Discussed

By Irene Ross

Marist’s University Year for Action program, which would allow volunteers to work with the urban poor, was discussed last Friday, March 9, in a faculty colloquium.

During the meeting, the question of whether Marist would work with black people was involved. Since the U.V.A. had been working with the black community a great deal, black people would be involved in all aspects. The U.V.A. would be working with various neighborhood organizations, and the program will recruit both black and white students.

Also questioned was the idea of the student taking six credits each semester also working outside work. Some of the faculty could not understand why the student would have to take the courses as independent study and not attend class. The answer to this was that the program has the flexibility of a six credit hour week. The students would be asked to work with the agencies full-time and the programs would be guided by priorities.

Other questions were that the courses might be too much for the student to handle if he was working full-time. However, one person pointed out that many of the people registered in night courses are working 40 hours a week and they are able to handle their courses easily.

There seemed to be some confusion with the evaluation of the student. Some doubted the ability of the student to teach. It was stated that although the student would be able to teach such things as basic teaching techniques, she would not have the full-time ability of teaching. The student would be expected to do the courses and arrange for the student to do all things expected, and the amount of time faculty members would put into the program. One person brought up a legal question: if in that, what would happen if the U.V.A. advised a business and it went bankrupt?

Finally, it was stressed that the program depends upon the enthusiasm which will be brought to it.

Strike Planned Following Decision Backing Schedule

by Brian Morris

Student leaders are planning a student strike to begin Monday, March 26th and to continue indefinitely. This development followed Friday’s decision by President Linus Foy to go to a new class schedule that had received several criticisms from student groups. (See page 3)

Mediation of the difficulties between the administration and student leaders fail early last week. Students then went through a procedure. A sub-committee, set up by Foy and student leaders February 26th heard that appeal, President Foy had promised “to be guided by the ad hoc committee’s report.”

The committee, after hearing these statements, stated that the administration “will not act unilaterally.” They also called the manner in which the community was consulted for the proposed new schedule unreasonable.

Foy then issued his three-page statement. He noted the community’s recommendations. In responding to the committee’s request, the president said the administration had been in some doubt as to whether revision of the Foy referred to the reputation for “fairness” and “openness” that the college had earned. When President Foy announced his five-point plan, he said, “The administration’s statement of the concept of the five-point plan, the Hampden Academic Dean for the last five years.

He added, the academic dean “is not a dictator.”

Student leaders met at 8 P.M. Friday night. The suggestion of a student strike was announced by Brian Morris. The students then sent telegrams to many members of the Board of Trustees, calling the President’s decision “indefensible disregard for student opinion.” A meeting with Foy for the following afternoon was canceled and the students instead sent Foy a letter stating their next steps and listing their demands.

The students are demanding a rescinding of the schedule decision and a greater voice in policy determinations.

Marist Gathers Support For Costigan Tuition Program

By Charles de Perci

The Middle States Association voted to reaffirm the accreditation of Marist College for tuition. The Middle States Association for their work and responsibilities to the college. The evaluating team found that along with its growth and advances Marist College has also noted Marist College for the problems it faces and the opportunities it has. They also noted Marist College for the special programs. The faculty of Marist College was highly impressed by the Middle States Association for their work and responsibilities to the college.

The evaluating team also found that major areas of behavioral science, finance, development of education and libraries were also noted Marist College for the general overall sense of good direction. In their report and conclusion the Middle States Association expressed its appreciation of the college for its accomplishments and to the college for the problems it faces and the opportunities it has.

The Middle States Association was divided accordingly into the following areas of behavioral science, finance, teacher education and libraries. The Middle States Association expressed its appreciation of the college for the general overall sense of good direction. In their report and conclusion the Middle States Association expressed its appreciation of the college for its accomplishments and to the college for the problems it faces and the opportunities it has.
Badillo Addresses Marist

By Brenda Boyle

The New York City Police Department arranged for a public meeting before police work last Tuesday evening to discuss the police problems in the Marist College area. Mr. Bickley, who has been in uniform for 19 years, said he will be in Marist College area. He appealed to the Marist community to keep the peace and not to create problems for the police force.

David Alan, the police chief, said that the police force is now under the direction of Mr. Bickley, who has been working in uniform for 19 years. He appealed to the Marist community to keep the peace and not create problems for the police force.

Leo Hall, under the guidance of the Academic Dean, offered the Marist College students a place to discuss the police problems in the Marist College area. He said that the police force is now under the direction of Mr. Bickley, who has been working in uniform for 19 years. He appealed to the Marist community to keep the peace and not create problems for the police force.

Mr. Bickley said he was highly impressed with the students' interest in the police force. He said they have been working in uniform for 19 years and he hopes to continue working in uniform for another 19 years.

The police force is now under the direction of Mr. Bickley, who has been working in uniform for 19 years. He appealed to the Marist community to keep the peace and not create problems for the police force.

Leo Hall, under the guidance of the Academic Dean, offered the Marist College students a place to discuss the police problems in the Marist College area. He said that the police force is now under the direction of Mr. Bickley, who has been working in uniform for 19 years. He appealed to the Marist community to keep the peace and not create problems for the police force.

Mr. Bickley said he was highly impressed with the students' interest in the police force. He said they have been working in uniform for 19 years and he hopes to continue working in uniform for another 19 years.

The police force is now under the direction of Mr. Bickley, who has been working in uniform for 19 years. He appealed to the Marist community to keep the peace and not create problems for the police force.

Leo Hall, under the guidance of the Academic Dean, offered the Marist College students a place to discuss the police problems in the Marist College area. He said that the police force is now under the direction of Mr. Bickley, who has been working in uniform for 19 years. He appealed to the Marist community to keep the peace and not create problems for the police force.

Mr. Bickley said he was highly impressed with the students' interest in the police force. He said they have been working in uniform for 19 years and he hopes to continue working in uniform for another 19 years.

The police force is now under the direction of Mr. Bickley, who has been working in uniform for 19 years. He appealed to the Marist community to keep the peace and not create problems for the police force.
Supports Strike Communion Union

To the Editors:

This letter is to express my concern that a strike may present some problems in the area of communications between the Marist College community and students. With the strike scheduled for March 25, there may be some confusion about the availability of communication services. I believe that it is important to ensure that all parties involved in the strike have a clear understanding of the implications of the strike on communication services.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

Students Strike New Schedule

To the Editors:

The students who organized the strike for the Communion Union have announced a new schedule for their protest. The strike will now begin on Monday, March 26, and continue for three days. It is hoped that this change in the schedule will not cause any inconvenience to the students and faculty.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

Fire "Drills"

Nearby every student has at one time or another undergone the "fire drill" experience. This may not be exciting for some, but it is definitely a beneficial experience for all. The fire drills at Marist are designed to prepare students for an emergency. It is important for students to understand the procedures and to participate actively in these drills.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

Correction

Several errors were made in the previous edition of the Marist College CIRCLE. The errors included incorrect dates, names, and facts. We apologize for these mistakes and we assure you that we are taking steps to ensure that such errors do not occur in future editions.

Sincerely,

[Signature]
Shout It Softly

By Fr. Leo Calliat

My last two articles, dealing with gossiping and listening, seemed to feed on this issue of listening. Consequently, I have decided to continue on this subject as it seems to be of great importance to many.

There are a number of reasons why listening is a necessary part of our lives. First, it allows us to communicate effectively with others. When we listen, we are able to understand the other person's perspective and gain insight into their thoughts and feelings. This helps us to form meaningful relationships with others.

Listening also helps us to resolve conflicts. When we listen to others, we are able to understand their perspectives and be open to their ideas. This can help us to find common ground and come to a resolution.

In addition, listening is a sign of respect. When we take the time to listen to others, we show them that we value their opinions and ideas. This can help to build trust and strengthen relationships.

I hope that this article has helped you to understand the importance of listening. Remember, listening is not just a matter of paying attention. It is a way of being present and open to the experiences of others.

Third Year View

By Bob Nisus

The recent Washington Conference of the Christian, the conference held in Washington D.C. last year, was a turning point for the American newspapers and magazines. It was a time when the editors of the various publications gathered to discuss the future of their respective media. The conference was held in March of 1974, and it was attended by editors from all over the country.

The conference was divided into several sections, each focusing on a different aspect of the media. The first section was devoted to the future of the American newspapers. The editors discussed the challenges that they faced and the strategies that they would use to meet those challenges.

The second section was devoted to the future of the American magazines. The editors discussed the role that magazines could play in the future of the media.

The third section was devoted to the future of the American television. The editors discussed the role that television could play in the future of the media.

The fourth section was devoted to the future of the American radio. The editors discussed the role that radio could play in the future of the media.

The fifth section was devoted to the future of the American film. The editors discussed the role that film could play in the future of the media.

The sixth section was devoted to the future of the American music. The editors discussed the role that music could play in the future of the media.

The seventh section was devoted to the future of the American theater. The editors discussed the role that theater could play in the future of the media.

The eighth section was devoted to the future of the American literature. The editors discussed the role that literature could play in the future of the media.

The ninth section was devoted to the future of the American art. The editors discussed the role that art could play in the future of the media.

The tenth section was devoted to the future of the American science. The editors discussed the role that science could play in the future of the media.

The eleventh section was devoted to the future of the American technology. The editors discussed the role that technology could play in the future of the media.

The twelfth section was devoted to the future of the American politics. The editors discussed the role that politics could play in the future of the media.

The thirteenth section was devoted to the future of the American economics. The editors discussed the role that economics could play in the future of the media.

The fourteenth section was devoted to the future of the American history. The editors discussed the role that history could play in the future of the media.

The fifteenth section was devoted to the future of the American philosophy. The editors discussed the role that philosophy could play in the future of the media.

The sixteenth section was devoted to the future of the American religion. The editors discussed the role that religion could play in the future of the media.

The conference ended with a special session devoted to the future of the American society. The editors discussed the role that society could play in the future of the media.
Will Marist catch sight of unfurled sails this spring?

Lacrosse Becomes Varsity

by Bill Capozella

With the ever-changing athletic program at Marist, the Lacrosse team will be one of the varsity level for this first time this year. The team has existed as a club sport for the past two years. The reason for the change to varsity status this year was, according to Athletic Director Dr. Howard Goldstein, "the strong support by level for the first time this year."

The program at Marist, toe Lacrosse Head Coach Jeff Behnke and he served in an unpaid capacity. This year the team will play a he served in an unpaid capacity. Marist has

BICKLEY, Continued from page 3

Mike Secco, Pete Vanacore, and Mike Gozzi, will add depth to the squad. Lacrosse offers something for every spectator. It has high scoring, constant high action and lots of body contact. The 1974 Red Foxes are looking for a strong turnout to support Lacrosse's new varsity sport.

Trackmen Tie For 11th Place

by John Tkach

Lacking a strong and healthy one-two jump punch due to some key injuries, the Marist indoor track team could manage only a tie for eleventh place in the 25-team field of the 1st Annual Collegiate Track Conference Indoor Championship. Tony Wilger scored all three of Marist's points by placing third in the mile and setting a new school record in his time of 4:38.9. Pete VanAken and Phil Dymond did great in the shot put. VanAken set a new freshman standard for Marist with a throw of 41'11" while Dymond, another freshman, recorded an effort of 39'6. The 16 pound weight at 121". Coach Len Olson was very pleased with the tremendous progress of both this baby and the Marist men's indoor track team. Wilger had a school record in the mile high hurdles in 5.8 seconds also for the Marist men's indoor team. The indoor season is completed and although the Marist men were behind in some of their goals due to injuries, they nevertheless did accomplish several of their goals. They had the first winning dual-meet season ever in throwing lumps and Kings Point for the first time ever. They also set many records including: 600 yard run (Dave Duffy 1:56.9), two mile run (Tony Wilger 4:18.3), mile run (Tony Wilger 4:38.9), 100 yard relay (Fred Kolhzz 10:36.5), 60 yard relay (Dave Duffy 6.7), four mile relay (Fred Kolhzz 10:36.5), mile walk (Tony Wilger 8:20.7), 100 yard relay (George Byrnes 10:36.5), and 60 yard relay (Dave Duffy 6.7), four mile relay (Fred Kolhzz 10:36.5), mile walk (Tony Wilger 8:20.7), 100 yard relay (George Byrnes 1:56.9). These men are now ready for a challenging spring track campaign which begins April 16, against Siena College in Albany's Bleecker Stadium.

High On Sports

by John Tkach

ODDS AND ENDS

By the time you are reading this, the first intercollegiate competition for women will have been completed. I am naturally referring to the basketball games with St. Mary's last Tuesday night. Regardless of the score, Marist is still coming out of the game a winner. To the Marist women's basketball team, thanks for all of women's intercollegiate athletics. To Lorraine Conklin, the coach and expert of the basketball team, thanks for all the start of the just a start of the full schedule of women's intercollegiate athletics.

Juss Campos, Marist's resident golf pro, reminded me that anyone interested in completing in the varsity team must attend an organizational meeting today, Thursday, March 14th, during the Free Dill Dur 4-4-4. More on this later. Well after a long winter nap, the docks are in the water and that means one only thing. The start of the old school year hasn't already begun. I'm talking about Marist's oldest sport, crew. This season will start off with an extra added attraction for their loyal rowing fans, and that is the appearance of Colgate and Syracuse on the Hudson for the first time since '47. The varsity and freshman crews will be rowing against these two major college schools while the lightsails will face a pair of tough customers in Rhod Island's Rhode Island's Kings Point. Coaches Austin, Leesman, and McHugh, have reserved comment until after the double wartime sessions next week.

INTRAMURAL ANNOUNCEMENT

Anyone interested in competing in the Intramural Badminton Tournament should sign up in the Intramural Office (D-216) during two working sessions next week.

Intramural Office (D-216) during the double wartime sessions next week. Monday: (March 26) Men's singles; Wednesday: (March 28) Men's doubles; Thursday: (March 29) Women's singles; Saturday: (March 31) Women's doubles. Congratulations are in order for Ed Kosinski and Norman Rehs for capturing individual titles last week. Kosinski won the free throw contest while Rehs captured the one-mile title.

WILGERS NAMED MARIST ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

Tony Wilger, a sophomore from Asbury Park, N.J., has been named Marist Athlete of the Week for the week ending March 9th. Wilger, a member of the indoor track team, had a school record in the mile high hurdles in the College Track Conference Championships at Gettysburg College. Wilger was upset in the race and was the only team scorer as Marist finished sixth. This is the second time this year that Wilger has received this award.