Ex-Mayor Teaches Law At Marist

BY ERNIE ARICO

"If I enjoy sparking the minds of college students," says Jack Economou, former mayor of the City of Poughkeepsie, "Free University is a young community that will enhance comprehension between students, faculty and administration. Lectures will be given by the faculty and administrators in areas of their interest. Dialogues are also scheduled and are like the lectures." Robert Budratti, Free University-coordinator says, "The workshops we offer are practical and not in the Marist curriculum." Auto mechanics, gourmet cooking, women's conditioning and Ukrainian egg painting are the four workshops offered this year. In the future films will be shown and discussions will follow.

Everyone on campus can participate in the Free University. Activities have already started but the gourmet workshop is closed. Persons interested in Free University may contact Robert Budratti or Frank Economou at Gregory House.

Free U. Enters Fourth Year

By KAREN DUVERNEY JACKMAN

A different form of education for the Marist community is the goal of Gregory house students as they go into their fourth year of Free University. But this year the structure of Free University has changed. Frank Synan, Resident Coordinator of Gregory, says, "Free University is a young program and each year a different value is found in it." The curriculum of courses has been changed to workshops, to avoid the consumption of classroom, and the length of each course has dropped from seven weeks to four or five. In the past there were two Free University coordinators; now there are four committees, headed by two students.

Free University enters four programs to the Marist community that will enhance communication between students, faculty and administration. Lectures will be given by the faculty and administrators in areas of their interest. Dialogues are also scheduled and are like the lectures. Robert Budratti, Free University-coordinator says, "The workshops we offer are practical and not in the Marist curriculum." "To quote, if I may from memory, Mrs. Necessarius: 'The dilemma of my life is that I've never been born.' Well, as we all know, not two months ago there was obtained, through the efforts of this committee and a certain hand-some, young doctor, a bona fide birth certificate proving, beyond the shadow of a doubt that Mrs. Necessarius had, in fact, already been born. Now, of course, it's possible that she may want more proof. But that, I think, is a little pushy. One birth should be enough for anyone."

The preceding monologue is an excerpt from Arthur Kopit's "Chamber Music," which together with "Emperor Jones," will be presented by the Marist College Theatre Guild for Parent's Weekend.

Andre Green will play the title role in the modern classic, "Emperor Jones," by Eugene O'Neill. The plot focuses on a sympathetic ruler who is forced to dedicate his life from his political enemies. Pratice and hunger, he loses all sense of reality as he desperately tries to escape his ultimate fate. An unusual aspect of this production is the skating risk. The risk will be opened twenty-four hours a day, year round with full facilities, ski rentals and concessions.

The center will be enclosed in a new Financial Plaza, incorporating a parking area, a new hotel and an office and retail store complex with commercial floor space.

The Plaza, bounded by New Market Street, Mill Street, Washington Street, and Main Street, will complement new office and commercial facilities being developed elsewhere in the area. The center will be the addition of Mr. Economou to the faculty staff.

Dr. Olson, Chairman of the History and Political Science Department, is also pleased with the addition of Mr. Economou to the faculty staff.

"I think it is a great privilege and honor to have Mr. Economou as the course instructor, not only because of his law experience but also because of his political experience."

According to Economou, the course will explore the fundamental history and theory of constitutional law. Great emphasis has been placed on the reading, analyzing and interpretation of court cases.

One of the highlights of the course will be a trip to the library in Poughkeepsie. "The purpose of the trip is to show the class how to do legal research," he said. "If they want to know the answers to legal questions proper...

Obviously, the school is choosing to go ahead with the construction of a new home for the library. The construction will be divided into three basic phases. Phase I involves the tearing down of the old library and the construction of a temporary facility. Phase II involves the construction of the new library, with completion expected in 1977. Phase III involves the relocation of the old library, with completion expected in 1978.

The library will be located in the old gymnasium building. The building will be completely renovated, with all necessary electrical and mechanical systems installed. The building will be equipped with a new fire protection system, and the library will be equipped with new heating and cooling systems. The building will be equipped with a new security system, and the library will be equipped with new fire protection systems.

The library will be open to the public, with a reading room, a research room, and a computer lab. The library will be equipped with a new archival system, and the library will be equipped with new cataloging systems. The library will be equipped with a new study room, and the library will be equipped with new book storage systems.

Marist Students Learn On The Job

BY CLAUDIA BUTLER

Practical on-the-job training is available through work opportunities in the local community. Because of the College's location in the Poughkeepsie area, students have easy access to a large number of employers. The College's Office of Career Development offers a variety of services to help students find work experience that can help them gain valuable experience and skills necessary for success in their chosen fields.

The program, open to all students, complements the educational experience and prepares students for their future careers. It is open to both juniors and seniors, and is supervised by the Office of Career Development. The program is designed to provide students with the opportunity to gain practical work experience through a variety of employer settings.

The program includes a variety of services to assist students in finding work experience, including:

- Assistance in identifying work opportunities
- Guidance in preparing resumes and cover letters
- Interview preparation and practice
- Assistance in negotiating salaries and benefits
- Referral to local employers
- Guidance in maintaining professional contacts

For more information, students are encouraged to visit the Office of Career Development located in the Hickey Center. Students can also call 471-2350 for more information.

Women Perverse With Crew

They get up at dawn. They practice eight a week. Their dedication is illustrated by their efforts, their pride, and their loving. They are the women's crew experience to row a boat," says Anni who gets up at 6:30 in the morning to prepare for practice. "Every time they improve, I'm very proud of them."

"There is more to the women's crew experience than that," she adds.

This is the second year for the team coached by Robert Cullinane. "We're very pleased with the progress of the team," he says. "The past two years have been very difficult, but we have high hopes for the future."

The women's crew team enters the Vassar regatta this year, after a year of hard work and training. "We are not yet perfect," Cullinane says, "but we are improving, and we are a team. Crew is a sport, and it requires coordination, teamwork, and discipline."

"It is not just about being good at good. It is about being a team," he adds.

The team currently consists of ten members, with six returning from last year. "We have a very strong core of returning members," Cullinane says. "They are dedicated and motivated, and they are a great source of inspiration for the new members."

The team practices Monday through Friday, from 7:00 a.m. to 9:00 a.m., and from 2:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. "We are very dedicated to our training," says Anni. "We understand that the success of the team depends on our dedication and commitment."

Group Seeks Help From Students

Volunteer Services, an organization that assists students in volunteer opportunities, is seeking help from students. The program is open to all students, and offers a variety of opportunities to gain valuable experience and skills.

Students interested in volunteering are encouraged to contact Volunteer Services to learn more about the opportunities available.

Arico-Flynn Take Men's Final

by PHIL PALLADINO

For the first time this season, the student body took over the spotlight at the Marist College Tennis Center on Tuesday afternoon, as the campus was swarmed with students and friends of the team to cheer on the Marist men's tennis team in their first ever victory over the Prince Edward College Bears. The match was played in front of a packed house, with students and friends of the team and the Prince Edward College Bears filling the stands and standing outside the court to watch the action.

The Marist team took the first set 7-5, but the Prince Edward College Bears battled back to win the second set 7-6. In the third set, the Marist team pulled away to win 6-2, securing their first victory of the season.

The victory was a testament to the hard work and dedication of the Marist men's tennis team, who have been working hard all season to improve their skills and compete at a high level. The team's success is a source of pride for the campus, and it is clear that the student body is thrilled to support their team and see them succeed.

Runners Extend Streak To Thirteen

by THOMAS MCTERNAN

The Marist Running Team extended their 13th victory streak to 14 on Saturday, Oct. 11, as they defeated the American University Blue Devils by a score of 26-76 at the annual Marist Invitational Cross-Country Meet. The meet was held on the Marist campus, where the Marist men's team finished first, followed by the women's team in second place.

The Marist men's team was led by sophomore Nick Mancuso, who finished first in the race with a time of 26:47. The Marist women's team was led by junior Mary Healy, who finished first in the race with a time of 27:02.

The Marist Invitational Cross-Country Meet was held on the Marist campus, where the Marist men's team finished first, followed by the women's team in second place.

The meet was a chance for the Marist running team to continue their streak of victories and to prepare for the upcoming Big East Conference Meet. The Marist running team is currently ranked No. 1 in the Big East Conference and is looking to continue their success into the conference meet.

Dr. Foy Speaks On Marist

A Candid Conversation with the President

by RICH SELLERS

“When I became President of Marist College in 1958, the average tenure of a college president was four years,” reflected Dr. Linus Foy. “Now I understand that I am presently the third oldest college president in New York in terms of length of service.” Under his stewardship, Marist has become the school it is today and is taking shape for tomorrow.
