Greg Kilgariff, new Sheahan Housemaster.

Kilgariff Named As Housemaster

by Peter Allen

Gregory Kilgariff, of the business and economics department, will replace Jerry Kelly as the Sheahan housemaster next fall.

Kilgariff, who has been teaching at Marist since the fall of 1971 was born and raised in New Jersey. He has received a Bachelor's degree in economics from St. Joseph's College in Philadelphia. After that he attended graduate school and received his Master's degree from the University of Notre Dame and presently he is working on his doctoral dissertation. When he heard of Kelly's resignation he considered, then decided to apply for the position. At the moment, he, along with a number of other students, is in the process of interviewing candidates who are vying for positions as Resident Advisors in the dormitory.

Although he feels that he would like to wait until he can fully experience, for himself the problems that Sheahan might have, he would like to see more attention paid to incoming freshmen, focusing primarily on improving their study habits and emphasizing their participation in student government activities.

The controversy between the Circle editorial staff and Kelly has led to a retraction of the charges made against him in the March 27th issue of The Circle.

The controversy arose out of a complicated series of events which took place over the last few weeks. The Inter-House Council, of which Ryan is a member, began deliberations to decide what student groups should operate out of Gregory and Bennett houses next fall. The Council took a vote to maintain the confidentiality of their discussions. However, two students, both of which are original members of the Inter-House Council, leaked information to the editors of The Circle, and the three students involved with the group, "when we went to time into it."

The report leaves open the possibility of the students perceiving a threat, or felt threatened, but it is categorically stating that Ryan did not actually threaten them or put them in danger.

The "threat" that possibly Ryan was in stating his opinions to the students in urging them to withdraw their appeal, but the Student Government finds nothing wrong or improper in a more strongly stating his point of view.

The report also goes beyond the consideration of the truth value of the editorial. Several lines are devoted to criticisms of the Inter-House Council's procedures for printing editorials. The Student Government informed that the editorial was based on a three to five minute discussion on the facts. As a group, the editors of The Circle, and the three students on their return from a meeting with Ryan.

Furthermore, it is known that the editors of the Circle did not contact Ryan for any reason other than to get the facts about the charges made against him. There were no retraction for the editors of the paper refused. It is not known what future action the student government was recommended by the Inter-House Council's decision. The editors relied upon was weak. It seems that, the editors worked based on a three to five minute discussion on the facts. As a group, the editors of The Circle, and the three students on their return from a meeting with Ryan.

Advisors Minimize Disadvantages

By John H. Hall

In the past the Student Advisor Program has been tied to the Student Activity Office in the Forestry building. This year the Student Advisor Program is being moved to the Brandt Center. The new location will allow the Student Advisor Program to be more accessible to students. The Student Advisor Program is designed to help students navigate the sometimes confusing and overwhelming world of college life. The program is open to all students and is available to assist with any problem or issue that a student may be facing.

Re: Manipulation

An editorial in the CIRCLE dealing with the decision of the Interdepartmental Committee to censure members of the "Sheahan Group" has created somewhat of a storm on campus.

Dear Editors:

There have been threats of lawsuits against the CIRCLE and its editors in relation to the so-called "Sheahan Group". I am writing to you in the hope that you will allow me to express my opinion concerning the- editorial column of the March 27, 1975 issue. The editorial, entitled "Manipulation," has created some controversy among the Marist Community. Dr. Samuel Sheahan has submitted a statement that was not the result of any independent investigation of the facts, as required by the CIRCLE's editorial policy. The statement was submitted in an effort to "prove" his case. However, the statements of Dr. Sheahan are not the result of an independent investigation of the facts. The truth of the matter is that the "Sheahan Group" proposal was an attempt to improve the educational environment at Marist College.

For making such accusations, I ask for the reinstatement of the three editors involved in the editorial column of the March 27, 1975 issue. The group of people of the administration who are responsible for the decision to censor the editorial column should resign from the staff of the CIRCLE. I believe that the-truth about the "Sheahan Group" proposal is that it was an attempt to improve the educational environment at Marist College.

Thank you.

Dear Editors:

Today's CIRCLE contains more reports on this important issue. We

Code 99

By Fr. Ley Gallant

I was recently sitting in class and suddenly the syllabus began to unfold itself before me. I was completely baffled and couldn't make any sense of it. Then I heard someone say, "What's going on? Why are we doing this?" I turned around and saw that everyone was staring at me. I explained that my inner thoughts were being projected onto the screen. The professor said, "This is called telepathy. It's the process by which thoughts are transmitted from one person to another."

I was amazed and said, "Isn't this amazing?!!"

The professor replied, "Yes, it is. But it's also very dangerous."

I asked, "Why?"

She said, "Because it can be used for evil purposes."
Tennis Season Begins

by Thomas McTernan

The sport of tennis reached new dimensions here at Marist with the opening of the new tennis courts behind the Intramural Softball field last fall.

As a newly minted captain for the tennis team, I soon discovered the competitive nature of the sport."

This week in Marist Sports

by Thomas McTernan

Don Augustine, a junior from Yorktown Heights, has been named Male Collegiate Athlete of the Week for the week ending April 15.

Augustine, an attacker for the Marist men's lacrosse team, scored 10 goals on Wednesday against Monmouth College. He also recorded two assists in the 13-2 victory over the Colonials.

Intramural Coach Jeff Behnke was in Geneva this week to help with Intramural registration. He said that the number of participants has been increasing each year, and he is looking forward to a successful season.
