Schedule Discussed

![Image]

By Suzanne Breen

"We're not trying to force anything on anyone," said Mr. John Dwyer, campus Registrar. "This is one of the many misconceptions people have about the new school system proposed for next September."

The Saturday slot was originated to create a time that may be used for a class when both the student and the professor feel that the three hour blocking system is too rigid. If a class would rather meet on a Saturday instead of three times a week, the Saturday slot will not be used for required classes. In that case, the number of days a class may be offered will also be less.

"There has been an academic opposition to the schedule change," said Dwyer. "The major complaint is that the registrar's office has received these petitions from students. Students seem to feel that we want them to make them go to school five days a week. We are just trying to do that and we have no reason to do that. What we are trying to do is make the schedule more flexible for the student."

The new schedule will be able to offer more class selection for the student. Students are no longer offered in the morning as well as more time slots to pick from. And one class may be offered in more than one slot.

"There will still be the 75 minute classes, but now they will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Monday, Wednesday and Fridays will be the only days that this occurs. The classes are a 50 minute class and a 25 minute class, an example of why the 50 minute classes are being used here and there are the Language classes."

The Language department feels it is very hard to teach 50 minute classes at a time. There are some skills classes that do lend itself to that, but some don't. These are the type of academic problems we are trying to solve."

"If you would like to learn more about the schedule, there will be a general meeting Friday, October 16, 1976. It is in room 230 and the meeting is the hall. The meeting is to further explain the schedule and receive any comments."

Rathskellar May Take On New Image

By Larry Stringer

The Marist College Food Service is proposing to build a restaurant in the area of the bookstore and Rathskellar. The restaurant would be separate from the Rathskellar and serve as a catering service for parties in the area of the bookstore.

Joseph Laurenz, food service director, said that the project would cost $30,000. He said that if the proposal were to be moved to Donnelly Hall, then "there are a lot of big things right now about the project." There will be meetings with the president and the board of trustees as the project is approved. "They're waiting to see if we do financially," he said.

Frosh Overhall Planned

By Cynthia Fairbanks

Part of the academic overhall being proposed by the Academic Affairs Advisory Committee, O'Keefe, chairman, is a writing skills course for incoming students. Ad Hoc Committee on Writing Skills chaired by Mr. Milton Foy are working on the proposal.

The committee recommends that all incoming students take a three or six credit courses in writing courses, according to their ability. Evaluation would be based on Scholastic Achievement Test scores. The maximum requirement would be six credits through students with good SAT scores. Students with low scores would be exempted from the requirement. However, they would be advised to take lower level English or literature courses.

Students needing three credits would be exempt from writing courses. Course work will be required to take writing courses. The independent study course offers a writing course that students can take, in addition to the regular required course.

With Marist College Rathskellar being a possible distribution center for liquor, The Marist College Student Council President, Tim Perez, who has already signed up for the vote, said that the vote on liquor distribution would be a topic of discussion at their meeting.

"We are trying to solve," Perez said. "All legislation is ultimately subject to the vote of the Dean of Students."

"There has been a lot of opposition to the proposal," Perez said. "There have been many oppositions."

Perez said that the council would be holding a meeting concerning the issue next Friday and that the meeting will be open to all students. "We will be discussing the issue at a later meeting," Perez said. "I don't foresee any change in any of the legislation." However, Perez said he will consult with the council before making any other major decisions. He said, "I had to move in certain areas. It took action in any way contrary to my normal way of operation." At the end of the controversial decisions, there was not an Inter-House Council set up. Dean Perez thought something had to be done, therefore he did it.

Also at the meeting, Fred Lambert, Assistant Dean of Students, asked to become an ad hoc member of the council. This would relinquish his right to veto power. He would change their voting rights from his present position.

By Pat Larkin

"All legislation is ultimately subject to the vote of the Dean of Students," said Perez. "This amendment was added to the constitution of the Inter-House Council on Friday, October 16, 1976. This amendment gives Perez, Dean of Students, the right to veto legislation giving Perez, Dean of Students, the right to veto legislation."

The council voted Friday for the amendment, one against, and two abstains. This rule was always in practice; this year the council decided to put it in writing.

At the meeting priorities were given for the three controversies that have arisen at Marist this year. The Leo Del and key conflicts were designated as top priority and there will be a decision reached at the next meeting concerning these issues. The meeting will be held on October 21, 1976.

The new pub would include new furniture, cabinets, paneling, etc., to make it look more like a neutral ground where faculty and students could gather. There would be a liquor license.

C.U.B. asks...

Why Won't Students Attend Events?

By Rosa Perez

John Dowling, president of Marist College Student Union (CUB), expressed concern over the lack of participation of students in CUB activities. Dowling mentioned a recent survey conducted by the CUB Student Government, which showed that only 10% of students were attending CUB events.

Policy Board Chosen

Mostly the best way to view Marist is from the sky, but Monday's activities included most wonderfully, when the field hockey team defeated Amherst College. Our third win in a row, the team was welcomed at the homecoming celebration. Dowling, president of the CUB, said, "It's a tough world out there, but we've got the team and that's our need for hoop dreams."

Catch Our Drift

Marist College sailing team is one of the four activities that remain virtually untamed in this year. Having cut the loot of the Class of '81, the team is now anchored in the new building, called the "Sail Hall." The team has been training for the past two years, and will compete in the Intercollegiate Sailing Association (ICSA) national championship this spring.

Marist College; The Scenes Are Changing

The goal is...
Residents Betrayed

On Friday, October 8th the Inter-House Council added an amendment to their constitution which reads, "All legislation is subject to the approval of the Dean of Students." I

According to the editors of the CIRCLE, this amendment may be a violation of the constitution of the Inter-House Council. The editors are concerned that this amendment could be a misuse of power and could lead to a loss of trust among the residents and the administration.

Thank You

Dear Marist Community,

We are all excited about the upcoming homecoming events, including the football game and the homecoming dance. We want to express our gratitude to everyone who has contributed to the success of these events.

We appreciate the efforts of the Inter-House Council, the Student Senate, and all the organizations and individuals involved in planning and executing these events. We also want to thank the faculty and staff who have supported these efforts.

The success of these events is a testament to the vibrant and inclusive community we live in. We are proud to be part of this community and look forward to celebrating with you all.

Sincerely,

Coach's Corner

A Team Turns To Gold

By Don Noguchi

They were the same old Marist student-athletes all right, but there was a new look to the team. This is the first year for what is being called Marist's "scholarship-in-itself" program, and it has definitely boosted the team's performance.

In 1975, when Coach Howard Goldman resigned as head coach, he was one of the most respected figures in the Eastern Soccer Association. His record of success as a coach was hard to match, and many people were surprised when he accepted the position at Marist College.

"I was attracted to Marist because of its academic program and its location in the heart of New York," Goldman said. "I knew that the school had a good reputation in soccer, and I wanted to be a part of that tradition.

"I've been here for three years, and I'm really pleased with the progress we've made," he added. "The team is much better now than it was when I first arrived."

Goldman's influence has been evident in the team's performance, as they have won several prestigious tournaments and earned recognition at the national level.

"We've been able to attract some really talented players, and that's been a big factor," Goldman said. "But the real key to our success has been the teamwork and dedication of the players.

"They're all great young men, and they've been very motivated to do well," he added. "I'm really proud of them, and I'm looking forward to seeing what we can accomplish this season."

IBM Awards $150,000 Grant
