After a semester of trial, the freshman advisory program has met with mixed reactions.

The figures show that Marist's 28 female seniors who live on campus earned an average cum index of 2.16 and that the 35 male freshmen on campus averaged a cum index of 1.96.

The statistics, for full-time students working for their bachelor's degree, also showed the senior class fared better than other years, and women did

As of last semester, women resident students in their senior year maintained the highest cumulative index at Marist College, while male resident freshmen earned the lowest, according to statistics released by the dean's office.

The figures show that Marist's 35 female seniors who live on campus earned an average cum index of 2.16 and that the 35 male freshmen on campus averaged a cum index of 1.96.

The statistics, for full-time students working for their bachelor's degree, also showed the senior class fared better than other years, and women did slightly better than men. Overall, women earned a cum index of 2.16 and men 2.35. Associate Dean Gerard Cox said: "The pattern has been that women who have remained in college are more likely to be highly motivated and thus earn a higher index."

He also said the freshmen male residents' average cum could have been caused by the large amount of free time in their schedule. The freshman class always has a problem dealing with the free time they suddenly acquire since high school, said Cox.

He said the amount of free time in the schedule allows resident students to procrastinate and socialize excessively which

Student Government funds for the spring semester in Marist College and other student organizations have been allocated, according to Student Government Treasurer Frank Bonafede. At the March 10 meeting of Student Government, the allocations were made for the current spring semester. These allocations represent the most money they have ever received in one semester. The allocations were made in the following amounts:

- Student Government: $12,000
- Marist College Radio Station (MWCR): $7,500
- Marist College Television Station (MWCTV): $5,000
- School of Business: $4,000
- School of Liberal Arts: $3,500
- School of Education: $3,000
- School of Health Sciences: $2,500
- School of Arts and Sciences: $2,000
- School of Communications: $1,500
- School of Nursing: $1,000

These allocations are distributed to student organizations based on their prior year's performance and their current year's budget requests. The Student Government hopes that these funds will help support the various student organizations throughout the semester and encourage their continued growth and development.

The proposal for the Sociology major (see page 4) has provoked a lengthier discussion than we anticipated. Scott and I feel that the students and faculty have given us some very interesting ideas to consider. The only problem is that it may take some time to work these ideas into an acceptable form. We are considering the possibility of converting the present Sociology major into a minor, but this will depend on the outcome of our discussions. We would appreciate hearing from anyone who has an interest in this proposal.

Rat gets new alcohol policy

By Beth Weimer

The new alcohol policy in the Rat is the result of efforts by Dining Services and Vice President Robert Minnegaard. The new policy, according to Dining Services Director John Longo, is designed to control the number of new students he said it will be difficult to enforce it. The map in the Rat can sell six cans of beer at $.50 a can. But cannot sell "six-packs to go," said David Soucy as its chairman.

The new alcohol policy in the school's policy to restrict the number of new students he suggested artwork by students or faculty. It would "tap the opinions of the dorm since, he said, "their furniture."

Though the final score in both games was 0-0, the Red Foxes were in the finals.
Women led by Morrow

Helen Peros scored a game-high 16 points last Friday as the Marist College of Debra Ferry to a 74-69 victory over Wagner in women's basketball.

Marist was led by Morrow with 16 points, Marano added 13 points, while Carey and Powers combined for 17.

For the Record - The women were scheduled to be hosting Manhattanville Wednesday. They were to play at 8 p.m. against a strong West Point team.

The Gauchos were 11-1 in the conference and only the third time to date that three Marist players finished with 15 or more points a piece.

The residents of Poughkeepsie, N.Y. has an average of eight points a piece over the hosting Marist.

On Monday the Gauchos beat the Gauchos 76-75. DeWinnie said he's satisfied with the team's overall performance.
