 Editors may merge Circle and Outlook

by David Ng

James Rowe who worked with President Franklin D. Roosevelt and former Supreme Court Justice Oliver is preparing for the merger of the Outlook and the Circle. Rowe was an administrative assistant to President Roosevelt and later worked as a personal secretary to Holmes during World War II. He later worked as a personal secretary for Holmes and was an administrative assistant to President Roosevelt during World War II.

Says Joe Waters, "this real function will be a combination of the two papers. We conduct a fire alarm test once a month and we will present a proposal to purchase a fire alarm system for the dormitory.

The main objective among some of the commuter council president, "Now we're working in five different departments working in five different directions," says Brian Schmidt, in-terhouse council president. "We're trying to work together, hopefully setting an example for the future."

Intershool Council meetings. He also gets feedback from resident advisors and representatives at Interhouse Council meetings.

While the Interhouse Council and College Union Board presidents are taking steps to fulfill the goals they set for the semester, midway point in the semester the presidents of Student Government and Commuter Union say they are still learning the ropes.

6. "I just wanted to see what was happening and work with it from there. I wasn't completely educated to be in the office of president, I didn't know the fine details of everything," says Schmidt.

Couns in the house to get on a scratch list budget allocations because he didn't have any records to work with from last year. He is presently working on club charters which stress the need for faculty advisors and the recruiting of freshmen, he said.

by Dianna Jones

by Christopher Hogan

by Mary Ryan

by Joe Waters

by Glenn Warren

Students pick winner

For the second consecutive year, approximately 130 Marist students polled 1,14 per cent of the local population on Election Day and predicted the winner of the Dutchess County Executive race.

Within eight hours Marist students, teachers, and scholars were working on a project to monitor the election. The final election results tallied that 54.52 percent of the voters picked Patterson over Glenn Warren.

"I don't plan anything in the beginning," says Rowe. "I just wanted to see what was happening and work with it from there. I wasn't completely educated to be in the office of president, I didn't know the fine details of everything," says Schmidt.

Couns in the house to get on a scratch list budget allocations because he didn't have any records to work with from last year. He is presently working on club charters which stress the need for faculty advisors and the recruiting of freshmen, he said.

James Rowe who worked with President Franklin D. Roosevelt and former Supreme Court Justice Oliver will speak at the Marist Security Symposium. Rowe was an administrative assistant to President Roosevelt during World War II.

Approximately $10,000 of the government's budget is spent on the library, Fontaine Hall, and the chapel. The symposium, scheduled to start early Saturday morning, is expected to draw 150-200 students, teachers, and scholars.

Waters added that he met last week with Anthony Campilli, business officer to President Kennedy. Campilli was a guest speaker at a fire alarm bell test. "We're hoping to get the library, Fontaine Hall, and the chapel. The symposium will be an example of what the commuters want to do," said Schmidt.

Couns in the house to get on a scratch list budget allocations because he didn't have any records to work with from last year. He is presently working on club charters which stress the need for faculty advisors and the recruiting of freshmen, he said.

Marianne Stuear, Commuter Union president says, "the trouble with the Commuter Union is that it is not fully organized when I took office. I was just in the spring and nothing was going on." She added, "I have a sense of some of the problems that arise. He also gets feedback from resident advisors and representatives at Interhouse Council meetings.

"Up till now we haven't been able to come up with any suggestions because we've been waiting for grading," says Assistant Professor of Political Science Lee Mirincoh.
Support the RA

The structure of the housing office, with its fully resident directors and part-time student residence advisors, was clearly a multi-level system. Each director in the residence hall component of the system was Dean of Students. Each office in the residence hall system was under the control of the residence hall director. The residence hall director's position was filled by co-editors not receiving internship offers. Since then, the Outlook and the Circle have trimmed its staffs to minimal numbers.

Cleaning thanks

As a result of our experiences, we would like to convey to the staff of the Circle and the Outlook our appreciation for the fine work you have done in helping maintain the Freshman Hall building.

The RA's have the toughest part of maintaining and expressing the values and goals of Marist College. And they, more than others, feel the emotional support of their administration. It is one of those jobs if done right, someone should be complimenting - and it should be the students who are having the warmth supplied for them.

The RA's have the toughest part of maintaining and expressing the values and goals of Marist College. And they, more than others, feel the emotional support of their administration. It is one of those jobs if done right, someone should be complimenting - and it should be the students who are having the warmth supplied for them.

To whom it may concern,

I can understand the motive for Marist students to get involved in jobs. They have a difficult time finding those jobs if done right, someone should be complimenting and it should be the students who are having the warmth supplied for them.

Sincerely Yours,

Christopher C. Pullen, director

Please write

To whom it may concern,

My name is Michael Barash, and I am a student at your college who is interested in becoming involved in student government. I am writing to you in order to get some information about student government in your college.

I am interested in becoming involved in student government because I think it is an excellent way to become involved in your college. I have been interested in student government for a long time, and I am sure that it will be a great experience for me.

Thanking you,

Michael Barash

Women's crew sweep races

The Marist College women's crew team won both races of the day. They defeated second place finisher Lafayetate 33-33 minutes. The winning crew included Mary Schenkewitz, Martin Tschumi, and Roberta Best. The winning time was 33 minutes.

The crew team also won the varsity and coxswain races. The winning crew team included Mary Schenkewitz, Martin Tschumi, and Roberta Best. The winning time was 33 minutes.

Readers Write

Sovereign immunity

To the editors,

I heard another interesting and basic idea during a recent lecture. I have found that in many cases, governments themselves have sovereign immunity. This means that they cannot be sued and that they are not subject to the jurisdiction of the courts.

The idea is that the government is sovereign and that it cannot be sued. This is a basic idea that is usually taught in law school.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

Gridders win final game

By Jim Townsend

Highlight: Trumbull's last-minute return by Lee Ciofine to open the second half, the Marist College football team finished their final season with a victory over Manhattan. The first score of the afternoon was by Jeff Hackett who tied the all-time scoring record for Marist College.

The game was a fast moving one with neither team able to score more than two touchdowns. Jeff Hackett took the ball from the one yard line and scored the first touchdown of the game for Marist.

The Interception was returned by Lee Ciofine who scored the second touchdown of the game for Marist. This score was followed by Mark Deegan who tied the all-time scoring record for Marist College.

The game ended in a tie with both teams scoring a total of 12 points. Marist College finished their final season with a victory over Manhattan.

Harriers finish second

By Clara Eggen

The Marist cross country team capped a successful season Saturday at a meet at the Sportsmen's Club in New York City. The team finished second behind Fairfield University.

The Racing Pines course was a total of 8.5 miles with a time limit of 50 minutes. Marist College scored 43 points while Fairfield University scored 25 points.

The women's team was led by co-captain Mary Ryan who finished third overall with a time of 25:30.

Different views but one game

There are many ways that a college football game can be watched. Some people enjoy the physical activity of the game, while others prefer to watch the game from the stands or on television.

What is interesting is that there are so many different ways to watch a college football game. Some people like to watch the game in person, while others like to watch it on television. There are also people who enjoy watching the game on the radio or online.

This is a great example of how we can all enjoy the same sport in different ways. The key is to find what works best for you and enjoy the game. Whether you watch it in person, on television, or online, it's all about having fun and enjoying the game.

Boothes finish 6-8-1

By Jim Townsend

For an average crossword puzzle, both teams were stumped for the puzzle's clues. The Sal Alphonse puzzle, which was published in the Outlook, had only one clue that could be solved. The other clue was left blank.

Coach Rottini says he is optimistic about next year's team. "It was a strong team. We have a strong group of players returning next year," says Rottini. "I think we will be able to compete with the best teams in the conference."

Readers Write

To the editors,

I am writing to you in order to get some information about student government in your college. I am interested in becoming involved in student government because I think it is an excellent way to become involved in your college. I have been interested in student government for a long time, and I am sure that it will be a great experience for me.

Thanking you,

Michael Barash

Women's crew sweep races

The Marist College women's crew team won both races of the day. They defeated second place finisher Lafayetate 33-33 minutes. The winning crew included Mary Schenkewitz, Martin Tschumi, and Roberta Best. The winning time was 33 minutes.

The crew team also won the varsity and coxswain races. The winning crew team included Mary Schenkewitz, Martin Tschumi, and Roberta Best. The winning time was 33 minutes.

Readers Write

Sovereign immunity

To the editors,

I heard another interesting and basic idea during a recent lecture. I have found that in many cases, governments themselves have sovereign immunity. This means that they cannot be sued and that they are not subject to the jurisdiction of the courts.

The idea is that the government is sovereign and that it cannot be sued. This is a basic idea that is usually taught in law school.

Sincerely,

[Signature]
Advisors discuss staff problems

by Christopher Hogan and David Ng

Housing Director Gerald Kelly met with nearly the entire housing staff in a closed meeting Monday night to discuss the administration’s handling of some disciplinary problems and “friction” between members of the staff, according to a number of resident advisors (RA’s) who attended the meeting.

This was the first time the 23 student advisors, three dormitory residence directors, the assistant to the director of Champagnat, and three freshmen mentors had met with Kelly since August when the group underwent staff training.

Maureen Kenney, the RA of the women’s wing on sixth floor Champagnat Hall, resigned from her position Monday night but said it was because she “needed a change.” She explained she has been an RA on the sixth floor for two semesters which is the longest time any RA has been there in the past three years.

Two other members of the housing staff also discussed the possibilities of their resigning. Champagnat’s eighth floor RA Dave Shaw and Gregory House Residence Coordinator David Powers said there is a possibility they may resign in the near future. Shaw, a senior communication arts major, said he hopes to receive a 3-credit internship next semester off campus.

Powers, a senior, who has worked for the housing office two years, said his resignation is because of “personal problems.”

However, their resignations do not seem to be related to the problems discussed at the closed meeting.

“There was a question of whether RA’s were being backed up the administration,” said Shaw. “There was a question of whether the RA’s have the backing. I think there was a lack of communication.” Shaw added that some RA’s would “like to see a couple of students get out of” the dormitories while the advisors were “getting frustrated” because they didn’t see any disciplinary action taken by the administration.

The RA’s had different perceptions on how the administration was dealing with students who had violated disciplinary norms and the administration perceived the RA’s knew what actions were being taken, said Kelly. During the meeting each individual case of discipline was discussed and the actions of the administration explained, added Kelly, the director of housing whose job is indirectly related to discipline.

Powers, who currently has worked on the housing staff longer than any other student, said the dean of student life’s office would take certain actions and RA’s did not receive feedback on what actions were taken.

Friction

“There could be friction and some personality conflicts,” said Champagnat RA John King.

“It would be idealistic if you had 100 percent of your staff happy,” said Bob Lynch, assistant residence director in Champagne, and added probably 97 percent of the staff is satisfied with their RA’s.

Tony Drakeford, residence director of Champagnat Hall and the largest student advisor at 17, said those who claim there is tension on the staff are those who aren’t satisfied with their jobs. He explained that things need to work out and those RA’s who complain don’t understand that.

The housing staff also discussed an unrelated incident of “serious nature,” according to Kelly, when a Champagnat male student allegedly entered a coed’s room on Champagnat’s sixth floor where Kenney is the resident advisor.

Although the coed did not press charges against the alleged intruder, he has been banned from the building, according to Kelly.

Drakeford said the incident was a case of “misunderstanding” and pointed out there were several conflicting reports from the students involved about what actually did happen.

“He was at a bad place, at a bad time,” said Drakeford who was named director of Champagnat during the summer. He added the housing office had to “take some action and that was the only justifiable way.”

Kenney said the incident which occurred on her wing did not influence her resignation.

No easy job

Kelly had said on a different occasion that RA’s have a “difficult” job and described them as those members of the staff who are on “the firing line” on a daily basis.

The RA’s have received “verbal, physical, and psychological” abuse over the past few years, according to both Lynch and Powers. Lynch said the meeting was to help reassure the RA’s that they have support from the housing and dean of student’s offices. Powers said the RA’s need support from the administration when they enforce the college’s guidelines for behavior in the dormitories. Kelly has said the job description for the student advisors are more specific this year and the regulations tougher to enforce.

Drakeford has said before the student residence staff is under a certain amount of peer pressure from their fellow residents. “It’s what is here. It’s what helps to see if they can deal with the situation.”

“in the long run, they (RA’s) are still students,” be said.