Slobs, frow grades spur crackdown

By Terry Moore

Dormitory regulations have been tightened due to the poor grades of resident freshmen, according to campus officials. Many students have moved off campus this semester, says Assistant Dean of Students Gerry Kelly.

Associate Academic Dean Gerard Cox said 37% or 28 percent of the 653 freshmen had cumulative grade indexes below 1.7 last spring. Only 5% of those students had below a 1.5 index. Cox said it appears to be the lowest transcript performance yet.

The new regulations are designed to halt the situation in the residence halls. The student handbook — exclusive of those living in residence halls — has been tightened due to the poor grades of work. Perez said Cheatham was inexperienced when Marist hired him on a trial basis in July. At that time, it was understood that Cheatham would be closely supervised by Marriot, Perez said. But, he claimed Cheatham, was not closely supervised.

"My feelings are that the operations were sloppily run. I would point problems out to Barry, but they wouldn't be corrected," Perez said.

Peter Giollotte, food production manager, says many of last semester's problems stemmed from lack of records from the 1977-78 school year.

"We had to estimate how much food we needed and sometimes we ran out of food," her explained. "We had to estimate the market." Perez added that he has applied for another job.

Food service in red?

By Dianna Jones

Marriot Food Service is being audited because of a possible deficit and the former director of food production at Marist may be partly responsible, says Dean of Students, Antonio Perez.

Perez also said operation of the food service will be closely watched since its contract with Marriot runs out at the end of the semester. He indicated that another contract with Marist runs out at the end of the semester. He indicated that another contract with Marist runs out at the end of the semester. Cheatham was transferred by Marriot to Wheeling College in Wheeling, W.Va., because Marriot was not satisfied with his performance. Cheatham had been a Marist employee for four years.

He added that he has applied for another job.

Champagnat Hall sees biggest staff walkout

By Rich Sohanchyk

St. Ignatius Hall student housing staff members have resigned from their jobs in the largest such turnover building has ever seen during a winter break, according to a campus official.

The statistics clearly stated that something was wrong and that something had to be done to straighten up the situation in the residence halls," said Kelly.

Cox said there is no explanation why the largest freshman class ever enrolled at Marist, did so poorly last semester.

As a result, Cox said, 150 freshmen with indexes below 1.7 must enroll in the free, no-credit Studies Skills Course this semester given by the Learning Center. The course focuses on such areas as time management, improving study habits, writing, and the optional course was made available last semester to the freshmen who scored low on SAT tests and other exams given by the college. He added those who took the course got better grades last semester than those who did not take it.

Administration, faculty changes coming

By Larry Striegel

Two administrators and five fewer faculty members will be at Marist next September as a result of forced resignations, campus officials say.

The impact of the changes will be felt almost immediately as Dolly Bodick has taken over as coordinator as coordinator of campus activities on Feb. 13.

Larry Snyder, director of campus Career Development and Placement, will be leaving in June.

The two administrators were told last June they would not be retained after June 30, 1979, because of the limit of their professional qualifications, according to Marist President Lucio Foy and Antonio Perez, dean of students.

As a result of budget cuts, five faculty members, who is not a full-time teacher, will not be rehired this June, according to Academic Dean Louis Zuccarello.

He declined to name the five, citing their professional pride. But he said the financial cuts, and not incompetence, dictated the terminations.

In unrelated developments that could change the face of Marist next year, Pat Lennahan will be leaving his job as Leo Lavoie, director of director and Housing and Housing Director. Gerry Kelly said this week he is considering a move back to farming, a career he practiced in his late teens and early twenties.

Kelly is said to have been "very tentative" and that he would decide before mid-March.

Lennahan said he would leave in June because his wife, Rebecca, was "expecting their third child in February. The family's living quarters in Leo Hall would become cramped, he said.

He added that he has applied for another position on campus and could remain at Marist, but has also applied for positions elsewhere.

And, of course, Foy has said he intends to resign his presidency within three years.

Rodick announced his resignation in mid-January. She says she will be taking a management job at the Olympic Mountain Inn, a developing hotel complex near Lake Placid, N.Y., the site of the 1980 Winter Olympics Games.

Snyder said this week he is pursuing several positions but has not yet secured one.

Both Rodick and Snyder said they understood that their terminations in no way reflected poor performance on the job.

"It was as though the college was saying to me, "We've reached our logical conclusion," said Rodick, who added that she did not consider a professional change anyway, although the message last June was abrupt and unexpected.

She said she would make sure that campus activities for the remainder of the spring were arranged. She termed her staff "the best" she has had in her four years as supervisor of campus events and expressed confidence that it could carry on her duties even if a successor is not found immediately.

Pers, who will choose the new activities coordinator, said no successor had been found as of this week.

Both Rodick and Snyder said they carried no animosity toward their superiors.

"I have contributed for my own growth and development as much as I could and it was time to give another person a chance," Snyder said. "I have enjoyed the past four years employment-wise but anytime during my work history...I loved every minute of it."

Staff walkout

"We have resigned because of inflation," said one of the women. "We are not trying to get a raise, neither to direct a campus theater program, and we are not trying to get a raise." The women said the resignation was legitimate and that they were trying to do anything they could for the project.

Mayor, a former RA, agreed with the women.

This walk, another former RA, also cited the financial reasons and the need for students to be well informed in their living and dining lives.

Gainer also gave the example of another case where a former resident student reported a case of vandalism.

Muralist students become Jaycees

Twelve Marist students have become members of the local chapter of the Jaycees, a national organization of men in the community. The twelve students were selected by the Jaycees as the Jaycees of the Year.

At a ceremony on Friday, David Bruce, the director of the Jaycees, presented the awards. The awards were given to the students who were selected by the Jaycees as the Jaycees of the Year.

The students are: Bernadette McCann, a former RA, Fred Gainer, residence coordinator, Charles Cameron, a former RA, Josephine Smith, former RA, and Michael Sheahan, a former RA.

The students were also given a� award as a token of appreciation for their work in the community.

Poughkeepsie, Saturday, Roy Atkinson, 3rd Floor Champagnat.

"The state of the residence halls will be looked at midnight Monday through Thursday, and 11-12 a.m. on weekends to 1 a.m. on Monday mornings. If there are any problems, please report them immediately."

Gainer said the main goal is to make sure that the residents have a safe and pleasant environment.

Gainer also gave the example of another case where a former resident student reported a case of vandalism.

Dorms to be locked early

"We may have to lock the halls at midnight every night."

"The only problem is that it will be hard to get students to move back into the dorms."

Gainer said the school must be in order to keep the dorms open.

Religion and personality
By Richard Labrie
How does being religious affect the rest of one's personality? Psychology in essence is a crossroads for religious and psychological thought, especially regarding the nature of the self and the relationship of the person to a god. Unfortunately, too few researchers have taken up the study of religion and psychology, and the role of religion is often underplayed in discussions of personality. Although psychology has not quite come to a consensus on the nature of the self, the church is often seen as a support system to the individual, a place of sanctuary where people can find solace.

New administrators plan changes
By Jaye Neighbors
Three new Marist College administrators took office at the beginning of this academic year. The new dean of student services is Jameson White, the new director of the Higher Education Opportunity Program is Marie Seabrook, and the new director of the Student Health Center is Nancy Gidley.

To the editor:
This building is one of the largest in the country and therefore it is not surprising that it is also one of the most crowded. The high density of students in such a small area makes it difficult for everyone to get around easily. I would like to suggest that something be done about this.

Dear Editor,

I am writing to express my concern about the current situation at Marist College. The building is overcrowded and it is difficult to find a place to sit and study. I would like to suggest that something be done about this.

Kirkland assails correction system

By Kathy Rutter

State prison welfare discrimination and the system's need to be audited were among the chief concerns discussed at a meeting yesterday by inmate representatives and state officials at the Franklin Prison, sponsored by the National Education Association (Equity Project).

Kirkland said 80 percent of the state's 20,000 inmates are black or Puerto Rican. He added these groups make up the lower economic classes and are most likely to be discriminated against and have filled the prisons. He cited the wave of immigrants to America for the New York State prisons.

The upcoming indoor soccer season is the last time Naitza plans on playing on a Marist team. Naitza, a Spanish major, has no definite career plans, and wants to have a good finale. He said he has put together, "We need to put everything together; we needed to play a tougher schedule, and also made an effort to recruit some good players."

Naitza named to all state team

By John Meyer

Jonathan Naitza has been named to the first team honorable mention All-State Soccer team for the 1979 season.

Despite Steve Cronin's two individual goals, the Marist College Men's Soccer team was defeated by the University of St. Francis 2-1, Tuesday night by a score of 85-27. Cronin, a 5'11" senior, was named the most valuable player of the game.

The upcoming indoor soccer season is the last time Naitza plans on playing on a Marist team. Naitza, a Spanish major, has no definite career plans, and wants to have a good finale. He said he has put together a roster of 14 players, and has nine left. "That," he said, "is due to grades." He added that he expects that about ten will come to prospective students that have applied to Marist and who have swum in high school. He added that the team will have a lot of freshmen on the starting line.

The Marist indoor soccer team will open its 1979 season on Feb. 4 in the Poughkeepsie Blue and White Tournament at Dutchess Community College.

The Red Foxes will host the Marist Indoor Soccer Tournament and the Marist College Open. Away matches are scheduled at the Poughkeepsie Blue and White Tournament and the Rensselaer Polytechnical Institute Tournament.

This has been my only disappointment with the team all season," said Marist head coach Linda Rogers. "We had a team that could have beat them." Jan. 19 marked the women's first game after the winter break. Marist took part in a Christmas tournament at Scranton University and placed third. The Red Foxes lost their first game to the surviving Squires until 6:07 remaining in the game. Bill DeWinne controlled the boards for Marist with 10 rebounds.

The Marist indoor soccer team will open its 1979 season on Feb. 4 in the Poughkeepsie Blue and White Tournament at Dutchess Community College. Last year the Red Foxes finished second in the same tournament and placed third in three other matches. Players with previous indoor experience are Firmino and Zenone Naitza, Paul Meseck, Julio Torres, Walter and Dena Caradimitriou.

On Saturday night, the women defeated host St. Francis College of Brooklyn by 94-75. In a foul plagued game, four Red Fox players hit double figures, led by Kris McDonald with 14, Powers with 13, and Torres with 12. Last Wednesday Marist suffered a 71-45 defeat to a home West Point team. Pat Walter and Dena Caradimitriou led the cadets with 17 and 12 points respectively. Powers led the Red Foxes in the losing effort scoring 10 points and grabbing 10 rebounds.

Jim Downs, Rich Hefferman, and John Rostran, Matt Lovecchio, Joe Curthoys, and Zenone Naitza, Paul Meseck, Julio Torres, Walter and Dena Caradimitriou.

The Red Foxes have had 10 rebounds, five steals, and five assists.

Two big games coming up with Dominican and Mercy. If we win we should get the number one seed in the conference's post season tourney.

Kris McDonald and Patty Powers combined for 47 points to lead the Marist Women's Basketball team to a 78-52 rout over hosting, Western Connecticut State last Wednesday night. The Red Foxes are currently 8-6.

The Red Foxes dropped 3; record falls to 5-7

By Christopher Hogan

Despite fine performances by center Bill DeWinne and guard Todd Hassler the Red Foxes dropped three games in the past week to fall to 5-7 this season. Two overtime losses in the week were on overtime play cost the Red Foxes a 92-86 losing decision to Kenai College at the McCann Center last Wednesday night.

Throughout the first 13 minutes of regulation play the Red Foxes struggled to keep pace with the Squires. The Foxes finally hauled in the first half when freshman Todd Hassler scored to put Marist ahead 36-28. Both teams exchanged baskets, fastbreaks, and foul court presses at the score ended at a 37 point tie at halftime.

At 16:06 in the second half Marist built an eight point lead on scoring by John Boylan and Bill DeWinne and technical fouls charged to Kean player Kenneth Johnson and head coach Joe Palmieri. The lead bounced back and forth until 15:10 when forward Steve Depts scored to put Kean ahead by one point. Marist fought back with a steal by Depts and a quick score by Greg Carter gave Kean a two point lead with 1:30 remaining in the game. Bill DeWinne followed with two free throws and a basket by guard John Boylan tied the game at 76-76.

Regular time ran out without another score.

Marist broke ahead to an 86-81 lead by capitalizing on three fouls by Kean players. With 1:10 remaining Marist was unable to score and Kean rallied back to tie the game at 86-86. Both teams missed shots and 30 seconds remaining in the overtime period when forward Guy Carter stole a pass and after a 57 point tie at halftime.

Seconds later, an inbound Marist pass was intercepted and Kean went ahead by four points. Marist could only manage two points in the remaining seconds and Kean ran out the clock with eleven seconds remaining in the game.
