Moynihan to speak to graduates

By Jim Townsend

U.S. Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan will be this year's graduation speaker, according to Tom Wade, director of development.

Moynihan, elected New York State senator in 1977, has been active in politics since 1963 when he worked for the governor of New York as a secretary. In 1969 he was appointed to the cabinet of former President Nixon and was the chief assistant for urban affairs to the president.

He is presently working on a new welfare law which would direct cash outlays to low-income families instead of using the present system in which the families receive a check.

Wade said a fee for Moynihan has not been decided on. Last year's speaker, Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr., did not receive a fee.

Tuition hike hits area

By Chris Ragan

Increase in tuition costs are a possibility at Marist and other mid-Hudson area colleges, the Circle has learned.

It was reported in last week's Circle that Marist administrators are considering a hike in tuition, which is $96 per credit and room and board, which is $1,800 per semester.

This would be the fourth tuition increase for such increases.

Vassar College is considering a tuition fee hike of $60 per credit per year, according to Elizabeth Chapman of the Vassar Admissions office.

Their tuition is $4,005 and $3,800 for room and board. Last year their tuition was raised from $3,900 to $4,050 and $3,800 for room and board.

The State University at New Paltz has heard nothing yet about increases and will not know until March after the state budget is decided in Albany, a public relations spokesman said.

Bard College (tuition, $6,900), the Culinary Institute of America ($4,725), and Mercy College ($1,500) will not know about tuition increases until at least the end of March, according to the schools' admissions offices.

Campus causes are passing the hat

By Jack McCutcheon

Seven students broke bottles, turned over furniture, threw plywood, and damaged a light fixture in Benoit House Friday morning in "a disturbance that got out of hand," says a campus official.

Three students have been moved out of Benoit-two students to Champagne and one to Locust Hall. Three others received an "appropriate penalty," according to Assistant Dean of Students Gerry Kelly. Another student involved was not a resident.

Kelly attributed the incident to a "shortcoming of the housing system."

TV students searching for studio

Although Marist has its own television studio, the Communications Department will send its students to the NBC studios for the next three weeks in order to get their own television program aired. The television course was conducted by Wesley H. Kendall, chairman of the Communications Department, and television instructor David Green. "This study is for academic production. The faculty

Campus to be beautified

Campus officials are spending $1,000,000 this year to make the Marist campus cleaner. The $1,000,000 will be spent to beautify the campus. Another change is the addition of a new building. According to Martin Marcelli, a full-time student in the Communications Department, "The building will be in the middle of the campus. It will be a four-story building. It will be used by the Communications Department and by the Journalism Department."

Solar Eclipse due Monday

If the sky around Marist appears dark on Monday, do not panic. It is a high plane moving in a horizon. Beginning around 11 a.m. on Monday, the dark plane will pass the horizon and the sky will become lighter. The eclipse, which occurs when the moon passes between the sun and the earth, will begin at 11 a.m. Monday and end at 7 p.m. The darkness will last for 10 minutes. "This eclipse is the first solar eclipse in the country in 20 years," said Dr. John Scilleppi, associate professor of Psychology.

Outlook Needs Whiting

Outlook, a new campus publication, first published but Thursday, March 18, is ready to be read by the students. The publication was launched by the Student Government Association and is designed to bring the students closer to the campus.

Marist College will sponsor a trip to the Western United States.

John Mahon, Freshman - "It's dangerous because from the Vietnam War, the people in Vietnam don't have a life to go on. They're just going day by day."

Bill Fulham, Freshman - "I'm a Midwest kid from the Midwest. I'm used to living and studying at Marist."

All say they've "grown as individuals since coming here."

Campus officials are spending $52,000 to beautify the campus. "This is the first solar eclipse in the country in 20 years," said Dr. John Scilleppi, associate professor of Psychology.

Another change he is aiming at, Campinii, associate professor of Biology, will be that the number of students taking the course is limited to 20.

"One senior he's contacted, the student's parents, doesn't want the student to take the course," said Campinii.

Chairman of the Communications Department, Danny D. Green, who is heading the television program, "The television program will be used by the Communications Department and by the Journalism Department."

"The building will be in the middle of the campus. It will be a four-story building. It will be used by the Communications Department and by the Journalism Department."

Outlook will be printed every two weeks. "It will have a few pages of news. Dr. John Scilleppi, associate professor of Psychology, said in a letter to the editors that "the Circle has 'headlined' news."

"We will be using a lot of stories that are not the Circle."

In its first issue, Outlook printed a letter from a student who was granted a scholarship. "I was granted a scholarship because I just love it!" said the student.

Welcome Outlook

The staff of the Circle would like to acknowledge additions to the Marist family. The Campus column is a new publication. The first issue of this column contains an interesting article about the future of student life on campus. It discusses the importance of student involvement in the decision-making process and the need for more opportunities for students to have a voice in the running of the college.

Editorials

The staff of the Circle would like to thank all the students who participated in the Marist campus column. This column is a new publication and we appreciate the support from the students who have contributed articles. The staff would like to encourage more student participation in the future.

BU$ to sponsor Malcolm X Series

The Black Student Union (2UI) will commemorate Black History Month next week with a series of maroon-themed events in support of Malcolm X, a pan-African figure in the struggle for human rights. Malcolm X, whose birth anniversary is observed on February 11, was a prominent civil rights activist in the United States. The series will consist of presentations by guest speakers, films, and discussions. The events aim to educate students and the community about the historical contributions of Malcolm X and the ongoing struggle for equality and justice.

Tuesday's snowfall marked the conclusion of a warming trend that has been affecting the region. While temperatures are expected to remain above the freezing point for some time, the snowfall could signal a transition to cooler weather. The event was the result of a cold front moving in from the north, bringing with it a significant drop in temperatures. The day's snowfall was accompanied by winds, which helped to clear out the accumulated snow and reduce the risk of further accumulation.

Pace and Post defeated to end 8 game losing streak

By Christopher Hogan

Scoring and rebounding performances by John Boylan and Mike Martin helped Marist win two consecutive games last week and up their season record to 7-13.

The Red Foxes edged C.W. Post 77-76 last Saturday at the McCann Center behind solid scoring performances by both John Boylan and Mike Martin, with 18 points each. Martin also collected five rebounds and six blocked shots.

Marist built an early ten point lead at 10:31 in the first half with defensive full court presses and two Mike Martin blocked shots to give the host a 2-1 lead. Post came back with 7:00 remaining in the half on numerous Marist turnovers and a steal by B. Hull then put in one of two remaining points, but only 16 seconds remained on the clock. Hull then put in one of two chances from the foul line with nine seconds remaining. After a Post timeout, Marist lost control of the ball and the visiting team scored again to bring the lead to one point. John Boylan scored with 13 seconds on the clock to up the lead to three points. Post was able to salvage only two additional points before the game ended.

Last Wednesday, Marist provided muscle inside the boards and defeated Pace University 76-71 at the McCann Center. John Boylan and John Luis combined for 46 points and Mike Martin added eight rebounds as Marist held a 36-36 lead halfway through.

"We never gave up," said Rogers. "We got out rebounded and went into some early foul trouble with our man-to-man defense, which forced us to play a zone against a team with excellent outside shooters.

Brenda Hull, who was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player, led Mercy with 27 points, while York added 21.

"We played with great intensity," said Rogers. "We hold onto a five point lead and end an eight game losing streak.

The Marist indoor soccer team placed fourth and seventh in the Marist College Indoor Soccer Tournament last Sunday at the McCann Center. Albany State defeated Oneonta State for the tournament title. The Red Foxes went 1-3 overall and with two paid into the semi-finals.

In the consolation game, the Red Foxes soundly defeated Dominican College 77-48 to advance to the final round.

Marist dropped an 85-80 decision to Mercy College last Saturday night at the McCann Center. Albany State defeated Oneonta 1-0 and Binghampton 3-0 in sudden-death overtime in the semi-finals and also lost to SUNY Binghampton 2-1 in the consolation game. The White team lost to both teams by a score of 1-0 in sudden-death overtime in the semi-finals and also lost to SUNY Binghampton 2-1 in the consolation game. The White team lost to both teams by a score of 1-0 in sudden-death overtime in the semi-finals and also lost to SUNY Binghampton 2-1 in the consolation game.

"...we lost to Mercy in man-to-man, but once we got into the zone we settled down," said Martin.

Martin also collected five rebounds and six blocked shots.

Mercy tried to play man-to-man defense in the first and second halves, but it was to no avail. The Red Foxes outscored Mercy with 27 points, while York added 21.

"We played with great intensity," said Rogers. "We held the Marist offense with an effective half court press that caused a Dave Shaw technical foul. A steal and a turnover to cut the lead within four points with 2:20 remaining at 73-70.
