THE CIRCLE
Marist College Poughkeepsie, N. Y.
Volume 25, Number 4 - October 9, 1980

"Digger" gets roasted by the best

By Barry Lewis

It is called taking care of your own. Appreciating the good and fine things that one individual has done, and expressing gratitude towards him. That was the main reason why over 1300 people jammed the McCann Recreation Center at Marist for a special Roast. Their boy was Notre Dame basketball coach Richard "Digger" Phelps, and on Saturday night, he was the Mid-Hudson Valley's man of the evening. A Beacon, New York native, "Digger" Phelps was also on hand to help another local body of the Mid-Hudson region, Marist College. In its quest for Division I basketball status, together with the Red Fox Club was appointed by Phelps as the appointee for the evening's "Digger" Phelps Roast. "Back in August we said we were going to give it our best shot, and standing at the turnout, we weren't wrong. Dutch Country has always been a part of my life, so it is a particular thrill coming home for this honor. The Hudson-Valley is ripe for a competitive Division I basketball program; so I felt it appropriate that Marist College be the site for this event," exclaimed Coach Phelps after the roast.

Along with Phelps, the dias and center was filled with sports personalities and politicians that would make any talk show host jealous. As Marist President James B. Lambeck expected when he was searching for off-campus housing, but that's what happened when he decided to turn his camping hobby into a way of life. "My friends always asked me why I was living in a tent," he chuckles. "There are animals that walked passed there, and the expert says it was yellow jackets. The reason was probably my greatest problems," he remembers. "I had a lot of problems with my bills because I couldn't find work. I was making south so I thought it was time to move cold and the Canadian geese were flying south so I thought it was time to move somewhere else." Lambeck's little house under the stars has it's ups and downs, and coach Phelps says, "I'm tough enough with the odds 1 in 27,000, getting inside the pro's, the kid coming out of High School had better really have it." Lambeck's little house under the stars is the mid-Hudson Valley's man of the evening. A Beacon, New York native, "Digger" Phelps is tough enough with the odds 1 in 27,000, getting inside the pro's, the kid coming out of High School had better really have it.

Continued on page 8

By Christopher Hogan

Living with cats and snakes and catching horses is not exactly what Brian Lambeck expected when he was looking for off-campus housing, but that's what happened when he discovered he was without an apartment after one of his roommates decided to move elsewhere. "I didn't want to become a burden to anyone else," says the 21 year old adventurer who discovered he was without an apartment after one of his roommates decided to move elsewhere. "I had a lot of problems paying my bills because I couldn't find work," he chuckles. "There were animals that walked passed there, and the expert says it was yellow jackets. The reason was probably my greatest problems," he remembers. "I had a lot of problems with my bills because I couldn't find work. I was making south so I thought it was time to move cold and the Canadian geese were flying south so I thought it was time to move somewhere else." Lambeck's little house under the stars is the mid-Hudson Valley's man of the evening. A Beacon, New York native, "Digger" Phelps is tough enough with the odds 1 in 27,000, getting inside the pro's, the kid coming out of High School had better really have it.

Students encounter new homes

"Camping out a bit"

By Alexander Corcoran

"I have a lot more room to breathe," says Fitz Karch, a sophomore Craig Hall resident. Craig Hall is the off-campus dormitory at The Oakwood School which houses fifty-seven Marist College students. The Oakwood campus is located approximately five miles south of Marist College. The general feeling from talking with some of the students about Craig Hall is very positive. They can see a lot of potential again since most of the people are strangers to each other. "By the end of the semester, I think that people will be tight because we are out here together," says one former Marist campus senior. The students have also found numerous things to get used to living at Craig Hall. If you do not have a car to get to and from campus, then you must rely on the van service provided by Marist. The majority there found the service to be adequate, but have noticed some laziness on the weekend service.

Many students feel that the security provided isn't enough. People have noticed the other entrances open at night when they should have been closed and locked. They feel they should have more security personnel in the building. A big complaint from a number of students is that the resident advisors are almost never there. People have been locked out of their rooms for hours. The students of Craig Hall have found they had to contend with a lack of information about campus activities. They feel very uninformed and think that the administration should make an extra effort to get information out to these students. The fifty-seven residents want all of Marist to realize that they too, are Marist College students, and not Oakwood students. Sara Marsha Hunt, sophomore transfer, "People on campus have to know that we are part of campus. We are Marist!"

By Staff Writer

"We're here too"

Student encounter new homes

"We're here too"

By Alexandra Corcoran

"I have a lot more room to breathe," says Fitz Karch, a sophomore Craig Hall resident. Craig Hall is the off-campus dormitory at The Oakwood School which houses fifty-seven Marist College students. The Oakwood campus is located approximately five miles south of Marist College. The general feeling from talking with some of the students about Craig Hall is very positive. They can see a lot of potential again since most of the people are strangers to each other. "By the end of the semester, I think that people will be tight because we are out here together," says one former Marist campus senior. The students have also found numerous things to get used to living at Craig Hall. If you do not have a car to get to and from campus, then you must rely on the van service provided by Marist. The majority there found the service to be adequate, but have noticed some laziness on the weekend service.

Many students feel that the security provided isn't enough. People have noticed the other entrances open at night when they should have been closed and locked. They feel they should have more security personnel in the building. A big complaint from a number of students is that the resident advisors are almost never there. People have been locked out of their rooms for hours. The students of Craig Hall have found they had to contend with a lack of information about campus activities. They feel very uninformed and think that the administration should make an extra effort to get information out to these students. The fifty-seven residents want all of Marist to realize that they too, are Marist College students, and not Oakwood students. Sara Marsha Hunt, sophomore transfer, "People on campus have to know that we are part of campus. We are Marist!"
Welcome Alumni

The success of any institution depends largely on the accomplishments of its graduates. This college would never be the same without the students who are made of its graduates. With over 50 years of tradition and quality education, our graduates carry with them not only a diploma, but also the knowledge and skills needed to succeed in the real world. They are our ambassadors, representing the best of Marist College.

The Alumni Office is excited to present the Welcome Alumni newsletter, which features news and updates from the Marist community. Whether you're a recent graduate or a long-time alumnus, there's something for everyone in this issue. Stay connected and stay informed with the Marist Alumni newsletter.

Readers Write

Senior Profiles

Dear Editor,

Last Monday promised to be a day of intense heat and humidity, and as a result, many students and faculty were looking forward to the cooler weather of Minetta. However, the thermometer did not lie, and by noon, the temperature had risen to 90 degrees. It was a perfect day for a picnic, and many students took advantage of the opportunity. However, not all were enjoying the heat. Some students were seeking refuge from the sun in the shade of the library or the dormitories.

The circle is pleased to present this section, which features profiles of our senior students. We hope you enjoy reading about their experiences at Marist.

Sincerely,

The Circle Staff

Fire Hazards

Sometimes we look back and wonder why we weren't warned. Sometimes we have a warning but disregard it. Often, it's too late. Last Tuesday, the brushfire on campus was a warning but disregard it. Often, it's too late. Soon will it be forgotten, while hazards still exist. Our fire regulations became stricter at numerous colleges shortly thereafter. Time has passed on. The fire alarm systems are still in place, but many of us have forgotten how they work. The fire alarm system is designed to alert us to a fire emergency. If a known fire hazard exists, the alarm will sound. If a known fire hazard is not present, the alarm will not sound.

The fire alarm system is not a guarantee of safety. It is only a warning. The best way to ensure your safety is to know the procedures for your building and to follow them. If a fire occurs, the fire alarm will sound. If you hear the alarm, you should immediately evacuate the building. Do not stop to collect your belongings or to check your texts. The fire alarm system is not a substitute for your own vigilance.

Wheelchair Invitational

Although new fire alarm systems are being installed throughout the school, they are not yet operational. The fire alarm system is still an important part of our safety plan. We must all be aware of the procedures for our building. If a fire occurs, you should immediately evacuate the building. Do not stop to collect your belongings or to check your texts. The fire alarm system is not a substitute for your own vigilance.

The fire alarm system is not a guarantee of safety. It is only a warning. The best way to ensure your safety is to know the procedures for your building and to follow them. If a fire occurs, the fire alarm will sound. If you hear the alarm, you should immediately evacuate the building. Do not stop to collect your belongings or to check your texts. The fire alarm system is not a substitute for your own vigilance.

What Spirit!

The fans, you the students of Marist College. This week The Circle congratulates you, the students of Marist College, for your efforts in supporting the players on the field. We, at The Circle, feel that nothing more could be done by you, the fans, and students, but we were wrong. Last Friday evening, in the pouring rain at Iona College in New Rochelle, a fine amount of students turned out to witness the Red Foxes.

The fans, you the students of Marist College. This week The Circle congratulates you, the students of Marist College, for your efforts in supporting the players on the field. We, at The Circle, feel that nothing more could be done by you, the fans, and students, but we were wrong. Last Friday evening, in the pouring rain at Iona College in New Rochelle, a fine amount of students turned out to witness the Red Foxes.

Since When?

Dear Editor,

I wish to bring to your attention the imposition of new financial aid regulations, which are proving to be unfair and discriminatory. As a student of Marist College, I am aware of the new regulations and I am concerned.

I am concerned that the new regulations are unfairly impacting the financial aid of students of color. These regulations are discriminatory and must be reconsidered. As an organization, we are committed to ensuring that all students have equal access to financial aid. Therefore, I urge you to reconsider these regulations.

Sincerely,

[Name]

The assembly line. "When someone," in a setback, "hurt you or a loved one, you are in the process of recovery, "we won." A setback, "hurt you or a loved one, you are in the process of recovery, "we won." A setback, "hurt you or a loved one, you are in the process of recovery, "we won."
A miracle worker

By Mark B. Wegg

Unity Between Jews and Christians

On September 25, Thursday afternoon, the Jewish fancs of Barnes was closed to a small group of students in the library of the Community Experimental Theater. Instead of the usual Thursday meeting for discussion, the group spent the afternoon watching a 90-minute play called "Theater of the Community Experimental Theater." The play was a presentation of the group's concerns about the lack of Jewish presence on campus.

The play was performed by a small ensemble of students and faculty, who were friends of the group's members. The play was a mixture of drama and song, and featured a variety of characters, including a Jewish student, a Christian student, and a non-religious student. The characters were portrayed by a variety of actors, both on the stage and through video projections.

The play's theme was the importance of unity between Jews and Christians on a college campus. The characters on stage were asked to comment on their experiences, and their feelings about the lack of Jewish presence on campus. The audience was encouraged to participate in the discussion, and to share their own thoughts and experiences.

The play was received warmly by the audience, who were moved by the emotions and the message of the play. Many of the audience members expressed their desire to see more Jewish representation on campus, and to work together to create a more inclusive environment.

In general, the group was pleased with the play, and felt that it had raised important issues about the need for unity between Jews and Christians on a college campus. The group's members were determined to continue their efforts to make the campus more inclusive, and to work towards a more unified community.

Higgins: Janitor Extraordinaire

By Victorino Shaw

"After 20 years of marriage and two children, I now have a teaching assistant," proclaims John Higgins, custodian for the Housekeeping and Maintenance Department. He began working at Marist nine years ago, after retiring from the University of Connecticut and New York State. "I have always been interested in the athletics at Marist, and I try to attend as many sporting events as possible. The football games are my favorite, and I always enjoy watching the teams play. I also enjoy the atmosphere around the stadium, which is always filled with people."

John is vitally interested in the relationships between students and teachers. "I feel that I could do without something. Among his many "quotable quotes," John said, "I am more of a people person than a paper person. I enjoy meeting new people, and I always try to make sure that my interactions with others are positive."

John's philosophy is that there are too many religious people in this world. He believes that everyone should be able to be happy and that they should not be subject to the same harsh policy. Higgins' words are a testimony to the fact that there is no place for hatred in the world.

Since when cont. from 2

Rabbi Rabbins to Lecture

"Crying with Anti-Semitism - Lessons from Goshen Jewry" will be the title of a lecture to be given at Yesher Temple, 46-39007, 8 p.m. The speaker will be Rabbi Sanford, who will be a guest speaker at the Temple. The lecture will be open to the public and will be followed by a reception.

The lecture will focus on the impact of anti-Semitism on the Jewish community. The speaker will discuss the history of anti-Semitism, as well as its effect on the Jewish community today. The speaker will also discuss the importance of the Jewish community in the world, and the need for unity and understanding.

The lecture is sponsored by the Adult Education and Community Engagement Committee. For more information, please call 718-694-8000.
Soccer team raises record to 7-0

by Dennis Morda

With impressive victories over Siena and Kings Point this week, Marist's soccer team has raised their record to 7-0. Marist defeated Siena on Wednesday, by the score of 3-0; then proceeded to defeat Kings Point on Saturday. All this has raised their record to 7-0. Marist continues to get good performances from different people each week. Besides great games by Bob Semotchak and Bob Cooper, Coach Goldman said that "this year the team is a year younger, faster, and better, than last year." Marist's last 4 games have resulted in victories in the Mansfield Invitational. With continued great performances by a variety of people, Marist can look forward to improving on their 3rd place ranking of Div. II teams.

First Annual Racquetball Tournament Classic

by Eddie Gilmore

The Racquetball Classic was played at the Manhattan College Campus this week in preparation for Friday's meet against Manhattan, Princeton, and Fordham at Van Cortlandt Park.

The women's team faced off against Manhattan, Princeton, and Fordham. The women's team came out on top, winning by a score of 7-1.

The men's team faced off against Manhattan, Princeton, and Fordham. The men's team also came out on top, winning by a score of 7-1.

The women's team was led by Annie O'Brien, who won all of her matches. The men's team was led by Mike McManus, who won all of his matches.

The tournament was a great success, with over 100 players participating. The next tournament will be held on October 18th.
Bob Pestrak took most of the calls, and season, Marist found themselves playing the ball quickly up the field. Iona senior Bob Pestrak took most of the calls, and with runs of 12 and 17 yards, the Gaels had ed back and Was sacked at the Marist 27 by McAuly hit a 32 yarder with'2:38 left in the half .The half ended that way, with Iona on the ground. As the Red Foxes controlled coverage with intensity. That season, is none out to and couldn't move the ball in the air or score. A Jim McAuly field goal then put 1

The Razorbacks opened up against the Krumville Tubers. The Razorbacks after trailing 6-2 scored on offense. Iona scored on the Red Foxes, but only in field goal form, as McCaul hit a 32 yarder with 2:38 left in the half. The half ended that way, with Iona on top 23-0.

only 1600 get in. The Ivy League has a financial-aid rule, where there are no athletic scholarships, so you have to explain financial-aid. What we have to find
are guys and families geared to academic excellence. If we find a boy who wants to be doctor, lawyer, or in business, and is carefully academically, then we were going to have a great shot," With all these restric tions, can Harvard or any Ivy League school prosper in competitive basketball? The coach gave scholarships, we were going to be in the Top Ten. If you can find a Bill Bradley, who is also dedicated to learning, then you have hit it. It only takes two or three guys.

Neither will the fancy stuff."

The week ended with the Gators shutting door on the Penguin Club 6-0. Tom Eli drove for the winners.

By Barry Lewis
When it rains, it pours. It's an old cliché, but one that best exemplifies the drowning Marist football team this Friday night
in New Rochelle, as Iona handled the Red
Foxes their first loss in three outings, 36-0.

Playing away for the first time this season, Marist found themselves playing
catch-up ball throughout the entire game.
Kicking off to Iona, the Gaels simply ran
all over the Red Foxes defense and moved the ball quickly up the field. Iona senior Bob Pestrak took most of the calls, and
with runs of 12 and 17 yards, the Gaels had the ball on the Marist 7 with third down. It was then that quarterback Ken Carey threw out to back Sal Caporale for the score. A Jim McAuly field goal then put Iona in front 7-0.

That was all the Gaels really needed, as Marist was unable to block when they had to and couldn't move the ball in the air or score. A Jim McAuly field goal then put Iona in front 7-0.

By Toriy Cardone

"Digger" continued from 1

only 1600 get in. The Ivy League has a financial-aid rule, where there are no
athletic scholarships, so you have to explain financial-aid. What we have to find
are guys and families geared to academic excellence. If we find a boy who wants to be doctor, lawyer, or in business, and is carefully academically, then we were going to
have a great shot," With all these restric
tions, can Harvard or any Ivy League school
prosper in competitive basketball? The coach
gave scholarships, we were going to be in the Top Ten. If you can find a Bill
Bradley, who is also dedicated to learning,
then you have hit it. It only takes two or three guys.

The most popular for the men on campus, and seems to be played with the most vitality. Although many a heart and/or limb is lost on the mound and each to 150 students line up on the gridiron every afternoon for 4 weeks to determine who makes up for the loss this Sunday, at home against Buffalo State.

As Marist head coach Mike Maliet ex panded after the game, "We lost our first seven," so no need to call it quick. As for the Red Foxes, they get to did sound, and no excuses are given.

The only good thing is that we came out of that best exemplifies the drowning

Marist football team this Friday night
in New Rochelle, as Iona handled the Red
Foxes their first loss in three outings, 36-0.

Playing away for the first time this season, Marist found themselves playing
catch-up ball throughout the entire game.
Kicking off to Iona, the Gaels simply ran
all over the Red Foxes defense and moved
the ball quickly up the field. Iona senior Bob Pestrak took most of the calls, and
with runs of 12 and 17 yards, the Gaels had
the ball on the Marist 7 with third down. It was then that quarterback Ken Carey threw
out to back Sal Caporale for the score. A Jim McAuly field goal then put Iona in front 7-0.

That was all the Gaels really needed, as Marist was unable to block when they had
to and couldn't move the ball in the air or score. A Jim McAuly field goal then put Iona in front 7-0.

Paul Welsh, who finished 2nd in Mansfield Invitational with a time of 24:28, those that started ^on the ground floor."*