Booters Defeated

Last Friday, Marist's soccer team took the field against Southern Connecticut in the N.C.A.A. preliminary round. The result was a dominating 4-1 victory by Southern Connecticut, and the end of a very successful season for Marist.

Before the game even started, Marist knew they had to take control of the midfield and attempt to put constant pressure on Southern Connecticut's offensive backs. This plan worked in their regular season game between the two teams, as Marist won 2-0, but this time the plan did not work. Coming into this N.C.A.A. playoff game, the two teams seemed evenly matched. Marist had scored 55 goals in 17 games, while Southern Connecticut's goalie had 5 shutouts. Marist had given up 17 goals and Southern Connecticut, had given up 12 goals.

"Catch that Pepsi, spirit, drink it in, drink it in..." Sound familiar? These popular commercials are all written, by the same man, David Lucas.

"Southern Connecticut's second goal was scored with 12:22 left in the game," notes Lucas, adding that, "people need to be afraid of making the wrong choice. If you worry too much, you wind up in a rut that goes nowhere." He and his partner, Tom McFall, occupy two floors of a building on West 46th Street in New York City, known as the Lucas-McFall Jingle House. They have their own recording studio, where twelve of--

"When I first started out," says Lucas, "I didn't know what I was, and this bothered me." He befriended Buddy Rich, who had heard him sing, and together they traveled around the world. Upon returning, he found only "similar jobs" in New York, but a cousin of his helped him to become jingle man for an advertising firm.

"Whatever I become just kind of happened," notes Lucas, adding that, "people need to be afraid of making the wrong choice. If you worry too much, you wind up in a rut that goes nowhere." Circle Donation

The Circle Staff has donated its collection of photographs and negatives to the Archives Division of the Library, and hereby names Mr. Adrian Perreault.

Some of the negatives are dated between 1970-74, while others look as if they could be much older but are unfortunately unmarked. There are some photographs that depict the actual construction of many of the buildings on campus. (See picture of Donnelly)

Hopefully, the donation of these sources of history will further enhance Mr. Perreault's collection of historical data at present.

For further information on the Archives, please see page 3.
Tick-Tock

Once again it is coming to just about everyone’s favorite holiday. Christmas is just about a week away and everyone is doing their bit for the occasion. The stores are decorated with all sorts of trimmings and the streets are all aglow with the spirit of the season. It’s a time of joy and excitement. Unfortunately for college students, this time also means stress, anxiety, frustration, and lack of sleep. Almost everyone gets caught up in the hustle and bustle of the season and pays everything off until the last possible minute. This, by the way, is the time when the students do their best to relieve themselves of their Christmas vacation, they have to sleep close to the tree or put up the tree straight into just to get up with the teachers.

Truly, this doesn’t mean that every college student has to be a workaholic. But it’s true that the students do have a lot of work to do during Christmas. The last thing they need is a big, fat Christmas tree.

Dear Editor,

At this time we would just like to thank the many helping hands who made this year’s “Tick-Tock” possible. Without your contribution, this issue would not have been possible. To all the teachers, students, and other contributors, we appreciate your efforts. Thanks again.

For the Marist Soccer Team, LaMorte sent letters to his staff to encourage attendance at last Friday’s soccer match. The reason? A win over the team that was number one in the country.

In one problem in constructing the archives, there are a batch of files that are not organized properly. LaMorte has been working hard to make sure that all the files are properly organized. The team that was number one in the country.

DiMaggio: "You cannot win if you're not prepared. You have to be ready and you have to stay prepared. That's why I'm glad we had so many close games. That's why I'm glad we had so many exciting games."

What impact do you feel the soccer team's making the NCAA playoffs will have on Marist College?

The soccer team's NCAA playoff appearance is a significant milestone for Marist College. It is the first time in school history that the soccer team has qualified for the NCAA playoffs, which is a testament to the hard work, dedication, and talent of the players, coaches, and support staff. This achievement brings a sense of pride and excitement to the entire college community.

This success can have several positive impacts on Marist College:

1. Increased Visibility and Recognition: The team's performance in the NCAA playoffs will likely increase the school's visibility and recognition. This can lead to increased exposure and recruitment opportunities for the college, attracting more high school students to consider Marist for their education.

2. Boost in Morale: A successful soccer season can significantly boost the morale and pride of the student body, faculty, and staff. It can create a sense of unity and community, fostering a positive school spirit.

3. Improved Athletics Program: The success of the soccer team can also positively impact the college's overall athletics program. It can attract more funding and resources, which can be used to improve facilities, support other athletic teams, and enhance the overall athletic experience for students.

4. Enhanced School Image: The NCAA playoff appearance will likely enhance Marist College's reputation as a college with a strong athletic program. This can attract potential students and faculty who value a strong and successful athletics program.

5. Improved Fundraising: The success of the soccer team can lead to increased support from alumni, donors, and other stakeholders. This can result in additional funding for the college, which can be used to improve facilities, support programs, and enhance the overall student experience.

In summary, the NCAA playoff appearance by the soccer team will likely have a positive impact on Marist College, improving the school's visibility, morale, athletics program, image, and fundraising potential.
Hoopsters drop opener

The Marist College basketball season began with an exhibition loss to the University of Puerto Rico 93-81. The game was played in front of a sell-out crowd of 1,900 at the Kimmel Center. Puerto Rico's guards were able to penetrate Marist's defense from the outset.

The game opened with a three-point shot by Puerto Rico's guard, and the lead never got closer than 14 points. Marist's center, standing 6'10" tall, had an easy time scoring inside, but the taller Puerto Rico guards were able to get the ball to the rim with ease.

Marist's starting lineup included guards Dan Johnson (10 points) and Mike Baretta (18 points), along with forwards Steve Eggink (17 points) and Timmy Jones (15 points). Puerto Rico's starting lineup featured guards Jose Gonzalez (23 points) and Jesus Garcia (18 points), along with forwards Ismael Tovar (11 points) and Feliz Moreno (10 points).

Despite the loss, Marist coach Bob Petro was pleased with his team's performance. "We played well in the first half, but we were outscored in the second half by 43 points," he said. "We need to work on our defense and our scoring consistency in the second half."

Gridders Season Ends

By Tony Cardona

The Marist College football team finished the season with a 4-8 record, including a 1-4 mark in conference play. The Red Foxes' most impressive victory came against the University of Rhode Island, where they won 27-10.

The team's season was marred by injuries, with several key players missing time due to injuries. Despite the losses, the team showed improvement throughout the season, and coach Fred Meekins was pleased with the progress.

"I'm pleased with the way the team played," he said. "We had some good games and a few bad ones, but overall, I think we improved as a team."

Womens Hoop

By Chris Fagan

Facing a balanced scoring attack, Marist women's basketball team was in overdrive for the entire game against Holy Family.

The team was led by forward Lizzy Brown, who scored 17 points and grabbed 12 rebounds. Guard Sarah Strawbridge also had a strong game, scoring 16 points and making four assists.

Despite the loss, coach Tom Driscoll was pleased with his team's effort. "We played a great game against a tough team," he said. "We have a lot of work to do, but we're getting better every day."
Dream Ends

by Michael McCarthy

The Marist College soccer season, the finest in Marist College soccer history, ended Friday with a 4-1 loss to Conn. in the first round of the NCAA Division II playoffs. The loss was in direct contrast to what the team had been doing this year, though, going 16-1 through the regular season. Goldman was philosophical. "We'd just like to thank everyone, the fans, the paper, everyone, and we, the Circle, would like to thank "Doc" and his fine group of soccer players for the excitement they gave us and the whole Marist community."

When asked about the rumor that the McCann Center has come to an end, Tom Homola, Tuesday at 8:00. The television picture of the fight in the Poughkeepsie area. Tickets are $25, at the door and $20 in advance, but, and get this, Marist students with I.D. are charged only $5! According to Dick Quinn, assistant athletic director, Marist students must buy their tickets between 5:00 and 7:00 that evening to prevent the possibility of scalping, and they may purchase only one ticket per I.D. But this is still a great opportunity for Marist students to witness a national sporting extravaganza right here on campus, so get down to McCann on Tuesday and reserve your ticket!
