The world renowned Harlem Globe­ trotters will bring their comical brand of basketball magic to the Marist College Mc­ Causland Center on December 15.

Starting time for the event, which is sponsored by the Marist College athletic department, is 7:30 p.m. In addition to the familiar Globetrotters on-court antics, area fans will see a half-hour variety show featuring the Drosquets, who will perform a most unusual hat tossing routine, Wazyr, one of the world’s most exciting hand balancers and Barnett Follas, a brilliant young juggler, who are former members of the Ringling Brothers Barnum and Bailey circus.

The Globetrotters have played more than 15,000 games before more than 90 million people. They hold the all­time basketball attendance record of 72,727 people in Berlin’s Olympic Stadium in 1951. Last year millions more saw the Globetrotters on tour and on television.

Globetrotters popularity is not limited to one country or one continent. They have amased basketball fans all over the world and are popular in small towns as well as large cities. The Globetrotters have performed in more than 1,600 cities in the United States.

Tickets for the event are now on sale at all Ticketron outlets, Mid-Hudson Civic Center, Abrahms Music in Kingston, Sears in Wappingers Falls, Lloyds in Mid­ dletown, and the McCausland Center at Mid­ dletown. All seats must be reserved in ad­ vance.

Minority Programs

The Committee on Institutional Cooperation has established three fellowship programs designed to increase the representation of members of minority groups among those who hold doctorates in the social sciences, humanities, natural sciences, mathematics and engineering.

Funds are used to provide awards for foreign students at universities other than those of the CIC universities.

Any student who has or will receive a bachelor’s degree by September 1981 is eligible to apply for any of the fellowship programs. Graduate students at universities other than those of the CIC may also apply.

Students are urged to apply as early as possible in the fall; application deadline is January 15, 1981. A one-step procedure combines application for fellowship with application for admission to any of the CIC universities.

Anyone desiring detailed information about the fellowships program should write to: CIC Minority Fellowships Program, Kirkwood Hall 111, Indiana University, Bloomington, Indiana 47405.

Until February 1, 1981, prospective app­ licants from outside Indiana may call toll­free between 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. EST for information or application forms. The number is (800) 437-4420.

Now in its fourth year, the CIC Fellowships Program in the social sciences makes awards in anthropology, economics, geography, history, political science, psychology, and sociology.

The humanities fellowships are available to students seeking doctorates in American studies, art history, classics, comparative literature, English, German, linguistics, music, philosophy, religion, Romance languages, and Slavic languages.

Fields covered by the natural sciences, mathematics and engineering program in­ clude chemistry, biological sciences, agricultural sciences, physics, and geological sciences. We welcome inquiries concerning specific subfields.
Readers Write

To the editor:

The issue of the Class of '83 would like to extend our congratulations to all those whose names are to appear in the program this year. We know that all of the students who have been selected have worked very hard and are truly representative of the social and financial aspects of our society. As they are leaving, we hope that they look back on this year with a feeling of accomplishment. We want to wish them well in all of their future endeavors.

Sincerely,

[Signature]
Time Out For the Lord

Christian Faith and the Draft

Paul Chrisman was a member of the Trenton State College Pro-Life Committee in an undergraduate. He has been accepted to the State's Regional Consultant for the National Youth Pro-Life Coalition (NYPLC). He began counseling students in the Trenton area free of charge. He is the author of "Young at Heart" in the Catholic Outlook, a column about pregnancy and adoption. The Catholic Church movement for Peace in 1988, Paul is a critic of the "Peace in the 80's" movement and is a leading advocate for peace in the 80's. He is the editor of "The Peace and Justice" newsletter and is the editor of "The Peace and Justice" newsletter and is the author of "Young at Heart" in the Catholic Outlook.

But I register without considering the seriousness of the last decade arid a half — tens of thousands of men and women were released and a $10,000 fine and five years in jail are the price. As I walked down the street that day, I was surprised and amazed to see so many people walking without serious consideration of the price. Many sign-up advisors are Mr. Robert Carney. Their lives have been changed by this incredible movement and they are now fighting for peace in the 80's.

Peace, and Prolifers for Survival, an anti-abortion group, has not been caught up in the popular draft craze. Often times, one could not be a soldier and a pro-life activist at the same time. All Christians are conscientious objectors during the time that there were a few inconsistencies. The convention of the Roman Catholic Church in 1971, which was held in Kansas City, Missouri, was the first major Catholic Church gathering to address the issue of conscientious objection. The teaching of the Church did not encourage participation in World War II. In one new famous case, Peace Activist, an American Catholic, was executed by the Nazis for refusing to serve in the war. This was the first time in the history of conscientious objection that the Church had not been unify. But even Catholic Church officials argued that he had no right to question the morality of the war he was being forced to fight.

The care of the Church's duties to the full extent of their power to do so. The Church did not encourage men to go to war. But the Church did encourage men to go to war for the sake of the nation. The Church did not encourage men to go to war for the sake of the nation. The Church did not encourage men to go to war for the sake of the nation. The Church did not encourage men to go to war for the sake of the nation. The Church did not encourage men to go to war for the sake of the nation. The Church did not encourage men to go to war for the sake of the nation. The Church did not encourage men to go to war for the sake of the nation.

The Church did not encourage men to go to war for the sake of the nation.
Jazz in Donnelly

Not just for books...

During December 7, the Marist College Singers plan to make singing the 'Messiah' cover an "interesting story in themselves.

Jill Johnson, Director of Choral Activities, and led the choir in a rehearsal for the upcoming performance, which will take place on December 18.

The 'Messiah' is Handel's most recogized and well-known work. It is composed of various verses from the Old and New Testament. The work is generally performed during the Christmas season and is known for its spiritual messages and beautiful melodies.

Marist College Choral Activities

Swimming outlook

The Tri-State Swimming Conference is an annual swimming competition that brings together teams from Marist College, the University of Connecticut, and the State University of New York at Albany. The conference is a competitive event that tests the athletes' skills and endurance.

The conference takes place in late November or early December, and the teams compete in various swimming events, including freestyle, backstroke, breaststroke, and butterfly.

The Marist College swim team has participated in the conference for many years and has consistently performed well. The team is known for its strong relay teams and individual swimmers who excel in various stroke styles.

Swimming is a popular sport at Marist College, and the team enjoys a dedicated fan base. The athletes train hard throughout the season to prepare for the conference, which is considered a major event on the team's calendar.

Swimming is a demanding sport that requires physical strength, endurance, and mental focus. The Marist College swim team is committed to mastering these skills and competing at the highest level.

Swimming is not just a sport, but a way of life for many of the athletes. The team's dedication and perseverance are a testament to the values and principles that are central to the Marist College experience.

Doc 'Coach of the Year'

Michael McCartney

The two big questions surrounding the College Basketball Coach of the Year award are: Who is Doc? and Why do the heck should you care? Doc is, of course, Thomas J. D'Amour, 37, and the coach of the Marist College men's basketball team.

Doc is the year's most valuable player. He is the coach who can make the difference in a game, and he is the coach who can make the difference in a career.

Doc is the man who can inspire a team to greatness, and he is the man who can motivate a team to lose. Doc is the man who can make the difference in a season, and he is the man who can make the difference in a lifetime.

Doc is the man who can make the difference in a career, and he is the man who can make the difference in a life.

Swimming outlook

The Tri-State Swimming Conference is an annual event that brings together teams from Marist College, the University of Connecticut, and the State University of New York at Albany. The conference is considered one of the most prestigious swimming events in the country.

The conference takes place in late November or early December, and the teams compete in various swimming events, including freestyle, backstroke, breaststroke, and butterfly.

The Marist College swim team has participated in the conference for many years and has consistently performed well. The team is known for its strong relay teams and individual swimmers who excel in various stroke styles.

Swimming is a popular sport at Marist College, and the team enjoys a dedicated fan base. The athletes train hard throughout the season to prepare for the conference, which is considered a major event on the team's calendar.

Swimming is a demanding sport that requires physical strength, endurance, and mental focus. The Marist College swim team is committed to mastering these skills and competing at the highest level.

Swimming is not just a sport, but a way of life for many of the athletes. The team's dedication and perseverance are a testament to the values and principles that are central to the Marist College experience.

Doc 'Coach of the Year'

Michael McCartney

The two big questions surrounding the College Basketball Coach of the Year award are: Who is Doc? and Why do the heck should you care? Doc is, of course, Thomas J. D'Amour, 37, and the coach of the Marist College men's basketball team.

Doc is the year's most valuable player. He is the coach who can make the difference in a game, and he is the coach who can make the difference in a career.

Doc is the man who can inspire a team to greatness, and he is the man who can motivate a team to lose. Doc is the man who can make the difference in a season, and he is the man who can make the difference in a lifetime.

Doc is the man who can make the difference in a career, and he is the man who can make the difference in a life.

Swimming outlook

The Tri-State Swimming Conference is an annual event that brings together teams from Marist College, the University of Connecticut, and the State University of New York at Albany. The conference is considered one of the most prestigious swimming events in the country.

The conference takes place in late November or early December, and the teams compete in various swimming events, including freestyle, backstroke, breaststroke, and butterfly.

The Marist College swim team has participated in the conference for many years and has consistently performed well. The team is known for its strong relay teams and individual swimmers who excel in various stroke styles.

Swimming is a popular sport at Marist College, and the team enjoys a dedicated fan base. The athletes train hard throughout the season to prepare for the conference, which is considered a major event on the team's calendar.

Swimming is a demanding sport that requires physical strength, endurance, and mental focus. The Marist College swim team is committed to mastering these skills and competing at the highest level.

Swimming is not just a sport, but a way of life for many of the athletes. The team's dedication and perseverance are a testament to the values and principles that are central to the Marist College experience.

Doc 'Coach of the Year'

Michael McCartney

The two big questions surrounding the College Basketball Coach of the Year award are: Who is Doc? and Why do the heck should you care? Doc is, of course, Thomas J. D'Amour, 37, and the coach of the Marist College men's basketball team.

Doc is the year's most valuable player. He is the coach who can make the difference in a game, and he is the coach who can make the difference in a career.

Doc is the man who can inspire a team to greatness, and he is the man who can motivate a team to lose. Doc is the man who can make the difference in a season, and he is the man who can make the difference in a lifetime.

Doc is the man who can make the difference in a career, and he is the man who can make the difference in a life.
Cagers take 3rd straight

by Mike McCarthy

The Marist Red Foxes upped their season record to 3-1 by running over Pratt Monday night 89-55. Pratt, who was one-half hour late for the game and suffered a Barry Jamison technical foul shot as punishment, was no match in the contest. A combination of tough board play and inside scoring from Bill Dewinne and Steve Smith and the outside shooting of Dan Sharpe paced the first half, with strong, once again, rebounding help from Moose Timberlake, the newly named captain. Marist ended the first half with a 10 point cushion, 44-28.

The second half showed the entire bench contributing to the onslaught. Tom Crotty with a 16 point cushion, 44-28.help from Moose Timberlake, the newly named captain. Marist ended the first half with a 10 point cushion, 44-28.

The second half showed the entire bench contributing to the onslaught. Tom Crotty with a 16 point cushion, 44-28.

Timberlake named

Anthony "Moose" Timberlake, a 6'8" transfer from Brevard Junior College (N.C.), has been selected by his teammates as captain of the 1980-81 Red Fox Basketball team. Although a new member of the team, Timberlake has displayed the leadership qualities necessary for a successful campaign this year.

Timberlake states, "The most important aspect in assuming this role is that I lead by example on the court." He continues, "We have the talent, personnel, and the coaching needed for a successful year. My role will be to bring these factors together, togetherness is the theme for this year and my job is to help coordinate that."

Timberlake's example on the court has already shown him to be a team leader. In an exhibition contest against the Portuguese National Team, Timberlake tallied 14 points and 11 rebounds, while in the season opener against Northwood, Timberlake amassed 9 points and 17 rebounds. Most recently Timberlake tallied 24 points and 13 rebounds in two "come from behind" wins over New Paltz and Manhattanville.

Although the season is still young, Timberlake describes this year's goals as winning the Big Apple Conference and qualifying for the NCAA Division II Championship. With successful efforts in unifying the team these goals could very well be within the grasp of this year's Red Fox Squad.

Womens Hoop

by Mike McCarthy

The Marist Women's basketball team's record fell to 2-4 with a defeat at the hands of Army, by a whopping 82-44 on Saturday. Dewinne, Steve Smith and Timberlake had 7 each. The victory moved the Red Foxes into first place of the Big Apple Conference. Marist meets Pace Wednesday and Dover Saturday night, both at home.

ATHLETE

OF

THE

WEEK

STEVE SMITH

Third year player, Army displayed excellent outside shooting and ball-control. A big downfall to the Marist cause was Pam Green's 4 early fouls, because a recent problem for the team is the containing of Army's predominantly tall team. Laurie Hirtennak led Marist's scorers with 12 points, and Powers had 10. Melissa Miles paced Army with 15.

This Week In Sports

Womens Basketball
Thurs - Hofstra - A - 7:00

Men's Basketball
Sat. - Dowling - H - 8:00

High on Sports

by Mike McCarthy

... And so the drama is ended. With 6:17 to go in the game against Pratt, the banner waving, foot stomping crowd got what they wanted. Todd Hasler, 6'3" shooting guard from Forrestville, Ct. was entering the game. Hasler had not seen a minute's time in the team's preceding three games, wasted no time in electrifying the crowd with two sparkling assists and, later, sank three buckets (one a patented 25' jumper that hit all net) to help Marist ice the game.

"I just didn't feel it," said Hasler. "If you don't feel good about your shot, but you shoot it anyway, you can't hit. If I'm not gonna hit my shots, I shouldn't be taking them. Let the other guys shoot, I'd only be taking away from them."

But somehow, for some reason, the Hasler story changed. "He came alive in practice," said coach Petro. "He started to shoot the ball, and shoot it well. Whether it was his riding the bench or seeing the team win some games without him, I just started to play like he can. And we can certainly use the best shooter on the team on the court."

And if he was used this time just to satisfy his legion of fans that would be reason enough. Banner after banner and cheer after cheer called for nothing but Mr. Hasler's appearance. Was it the fans desire that made Petro change his mind about playing Hasler? "Who knows, maybe that just did work on my subconscious a bit," said Petro. "Just maybe."