Zuccarello Announces Resignation

Resumes full-time faculty status

By John Arnold

Dr. Louis Zuccarello, academic vice president, has announced his resignation from the administrative post he has held for the past five years. Having accomplished much of what he set out to do in his administrative capacity, he will resume the position of full-time faculty member, effective June 30, 1980.

"I've satisfied myself," said Zuccarello, reflecting upon his past achievements as Dean and academic vice president. "I've always enjoyed teaching and program development work and I think that I would have more opportunity for that as a faculty member. It's really a personal life decision that I think all of us have to make at some point in our lives."

The committee formed to review Zuccarello's efforts, Marist has received state approval for a paralegal studies program, a bachelor's degree in professional studies, a master of arts studies program, a bachelor's degree in computer mathematics. He has also been responsible for the development of a graduate public administration program and a major in social work. Zuccarello, who will probably be on a semi-sabbatical in the fall, will return to the faculty as an Associate Professor of Political Science.

The former chairman of the History-Political Science department and a member of the college community since 1945, Zuccarello says the prospect of leaving the administrative limelight does not concern him. "To me, that's never been very important so I don't feel any discomfort in making this kind of a decision."

Zuccarello expressed enthusiasm about returning to the classroom on a full-time basis. The most satisfying aspects of teaching, he says, are "the closer interaction with students and the contribution to the learning experience."

"That's what I started out to do many years ago," said Zuccarello. "I've been a teacher all my life, and I think a successful one at that."

Convocation day a "success"

by Phil LeGare

The purpose of the college's first official Convocation Day according to President Murray was to bring students together to show them something of the liberal tradition, heritage and philosophy of the school which they attend. He describes the hopeful effects that the meeting had and will continue to have long and short term goals. "First, he said, it is to give the Marist community an immediate understanding of the values and the context in which we live and learn. Second, to broaden this understanding so that as graduates they will be able to present this understanding to the world." The first speaker to take the stand was Dr. Louis Zuccarello, academic dean. Zuccarello commented on the gathering and stressed the importance of the core curriculum can expose the student to the liberal arts education; that is educating "the hand and the mind." He also assured the Marist community that the tradition of education has been well kept.

Professor Thomas Casey of the philosophy department says that, "Education is treated not only as intellectual adventure but a moral drama as well at Marist." Dr. John Kelly, assistant professor of economics described the liberal arts education as nothing less than the total education of man. He stressed his concern for students enrolled in liberal arts to become value conscious as well as broadly and liberally educated.

Kelly felt that the New York State Education Departments interpretation of a liberal arts education as "anything but a how-to-do course of study."

Casey then spoke about the value of the core curriculum at Marist. He says the core curriculum can expose the student to all areas of human experience and, most importantly, providing the student with the chance for a value confrontation.

After the talks by the various members of the panel, students were asked to report to rooms designed by their major field. Several students expressed their dissatisfaction with the meeting due to the lack of student participation. To this, Murray stated, "This meeting was intended to serve as an introduction to Marist College. It will be used as a model to build upon in the future."

Dr. Italo Benin summed up the whole idea of a Convocation Day by saying, "for the first time in the history of this college, we are pulling ourselves together."

Committee formed

A search committee, designed to find a replacement for the position of Dean of Student Affairs has begun reviewing the resumes of the applicants according to a memo released by Dr. Louis Zuccarello, academic vice president.

The committee was appointed by President Murray after consultation with leaders of various segments of the college community.

The committee, which has three students, two teachers, and two other members of the community, is headed by Mr. Laurence Sullivan, assistant professor of Religious Studies and a member of the counseling staff.

The committee will submit a list of three to five candidates for the position of Dean to Murray. Murray will then conduct additional reviews and consultation which will lead to the selection of the Dean.

The committee includes Janice Casey, assistant professor of English, William Perrotte, assistant professor of Biology, Sue Vandenbos, freshman class president; Diane Pereira, director of special services, Rev. Richard Laborte, head of campus Ministry, Steve Hopson, president of Circle K, and Tom Shine, committee head of the College Union Board. Ann Campton, personnel officer, will also be a part of the search committee.

THE CIRCLE
Marist College, Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Volume 24, Number 6 - February 28, 1980

Inside:
Badgley speaks. pg. 8
New deli for cafeteria pg. 6
Marist Brothers' history day pg. 4
Dear Editor,

I am very disappointed to see an article that I believe is highly offensive to Marist that appeared in the March issue. As a student of Marist College, it was heartening to see some positive statements made about our institution, but I believe that the article does not accurately reflect the true spirit of our school.

I would like to focus on a few key points that I believe are incorrect. First, it is not true that Marist College is seen as a "cult," as stated in the article. While the school may have a strongивkeit added:  ливенность to certain students, it is not fair to label it as a "cult." Marist College has a diverse student body and offers a variety of programs and extracurricular activities.

Second, it is not true that Marist College is "isolated." The school is located in Poughkeepsie, New York, and is surrounded by many other colleges and universities. It is not a remote or isolated location.

Finally, it is not true that Marist College is "closed-minded." The school has a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion, and encourages students to engage with different perspectives and ideas.

I believe that these inaccuracies do a disservice to Marist College and its students. It is important to accurately represent the school and its values.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]
Wake up, it's time for dinner

by Loreta Kennedy

M. afternoon. Napping, it has been revealed in a heard. The dormitories seem deserted.

A recent study of fifty residents, is. a major rooms. Where is everybody? They are gets is seven hours. However, the average interviewed admitted to napping once a Marist. Fifty-four percent of the students gets. Mike Gullotta says "I do a lot of Approximately 35 former Marist with a pillow over my head." "But I there's music playing somewhere. I sleep

Tilford proceeds to phone every parent of (played by Marianne Harrison). Mrs. According to Cherello it wasn't self

The play is not about detail. "What is important," she says, "is that's led to the death of another human being.

Dr. Truesdell, director of learning a place where people can for the rest of their lives. She was doing nothing day, says Dickens. "The first part of the program will begin at 3:30

Several percent of the students sleep more soundly (played by Arlene Hutriah) that she finds of the display by the Marist brothers provincial. She must have treated an un-

It's the first time that she feels anything real and at the same time with an ounce of beauty. I can see old ignorance.

She can't sleep anymore." "She added.

M. morning, however, the average amount of sleep per night that a student gets. She also added that "I don't have to work.

Students say that they sleep two or more times a day. They get up for what to do and what to sleep. They sing

Dennis Goff feels he is "more psyched to them. It's a way to: act as a "transcending ex-

Now comes Miller time.

Marist Brothers to celebrate Anniversaries

by Jim Townsend

Approximately 15 former Marist brothers who were born with Marist history day says Linda

There will be a two part program to celebrate the 50th anniversary of Marist brothers history day says Dickens. From the Middletown Times.

The event is open to the public and will begin at 3:30 p.m. in the chapel and will include a talk by President Murray on the "Heritage of the Marist Brothers in Art and Literature." The evening program will be held in the library at 8 p.m.

The second part of the program, according to Dickens, will begin at 8 p.m. and will include the dedication of a display in the cinema.

This display will contain pictures of the Marist brothers history day will begin at 8 p.m., according to

The display will also be the study of the who. The girl, (played by Theresa

Martha Dobie's background and up-

Cherello finds role difficult

Scene from "The Children's Hour"

“...but my best friend Christy and I, the hardest thing I've ever had to un­

According to Cherello it wasn't self

According to Cherello, "It's the hardest thing I've ever had to un­

...and meets Karen (played by Jay DeCesare) have broken up

According to Cherello, "And Martha can't handle this," says Cherello.

...she feels it's a sad commentary when someone like

The girl, who was expressing what she felt in the scene from "The Children's Hour."
The intramural basketball tournament is entering its fourth and final week of round robin competition, with the latest scores from the local leagues appearing below. Marist's X and Y are the final two teams in the standings, and will conclude after a round robin competition and a single elimination playoff.

This WEEK In Sports

Hockey
- March 2
- March 3
- March 4
- March 5
- March 6
- March 7
- March 8
- March 9

Soccer
- March 2
- March 3
- March 4
- March 5
- March 6

Track
- March 1
- March 2
- March 3
- March 4
- March 5

Women's Results (11-12)

Men's Results (9-17)

Bowling League

There are presently ten teams in the Marist College Bowling League at the time of this report, with the league president and treasurer not available for an interview at this time. The league, which was started by Robert D. Reiss of Students, Gary Kelly of Sigma Phi Epsilon, and Mike Donnelly of Sigma Phi Epsilon, was designed to provide a forum for the college's many bowling enthusiasts. The league features teams of five bowlers each, with five rounds held per season. The team with the highest overall score will be named the league champion. The league is open to all students, and meets on Tuesday nights. For information or to join, contact Jeff Roberts, league president.

Sports Quiz

This week's question is: Name both the pitcher who threw the first baseball game for his hometown Little League, and the player who caught the first baseball game for his hometown Little League. The team that answers correctly will receive a prize of $100. Answers must be submitted by the end of the week.

Park Discount Beverages
- Rt. 9 Hyde Park
- 229-9000
- U.C. Cans $0.99
- 6 pack
- Colt 45 Silver $1.25
- 6 pack
- Utica Club Lite $2.99
- case plus deposit

MCAT

Applications are now being accepted for the Internship in Higher Education Administration Sponsored by the Admissions Office. Fall 1980

Contact: James E. Daly
Dean of Admissions
Greystone

NATL MED BDS

New deli/pizzeria planned

by Michael McCarthy

A full scale deli/pizzeria will be installed in the pool room of the barn located in the grove area of the Cuyahoga Dam, according to Gregg Fish, Food Service Director of the College. The building, which will be completed by the end of March, will house a beer garden, a deli, and a restaurant area with a large bar area. The facility will be utilized by both the students and faculty.

Inquiring Photographer

Question: Do you think the Mexico Convention is adequately accessible to students?

Joe Krysz

Mr. Larry Frazel, Soph., I think the Mexico Convention is adequately accessible to students. I think the Mexico Convention is a great place to go for anyone who wants to enjoy a great time. I've been to the Mexico Convention a few times and I always have a great time. I think it's a great place for students to go and have a good time.

Sigma Phi Convention

Nina Sigma Phi Epsilon members attended a convention at the University of Connecticut, and we had a great time. We met other students from other schools and had a lot of fun. We also learned a lot about the different cultures and traditions of the other schools. It was a great experience for all of us.

New deI i/pizzeria planned

by Michael McCarthy

A full scale deli/pizzeria will be installed in the pool room of the barn located in the grove area of the Cuyahoga Dam, according to Gregg Fish, Food Service Director of the College. The building, which will be completed by the end of March, will house a beer garden, a deli, and a restaurant area with a large bar area. The facility will be utilized by both the students and faculty.

Sigma Phi Convention

Nina Sigma Phi Epsilon members attended a convention at the University of Connecticut, and we had a great time. We met other students from other schools and had a lot of fun. We also learned a lot about the different cultures and traditions of the other schools. It was a great experience for all of us.
Hoopsters conclude losing seasons

Men fall to Monmouth

By Chris Egan

The men's basketball team completed its season with a 9-17 record, finishing with a 9-17 conference record, for sixth place, Mike Martin and Sheldon that they had to end the season with a loss" says Petro. The 9 wins also represented the team's highest total since the 1976-77 season.

According to Deer, Morrow failed to delegate more power to the players, especially the upperclassmen who have been playing for two or three years. Deer says "the season went well considering the competitiveness of the schedule and the players having to adjust to a new coach again." Eaton-Fogg, the lone senior on the squad, played her last collegiate game for Marist. She finished the year with a 52 points per game average, and appeared in every game for Marist.

Women split last two contests

By Chris Egan

Behind a high scoring performance by Pat Powers, the women's basketball team concluded its season Friday by defeating the University of New Haven 59-46, after being routed by Monmouth College 119-73 last Wednesday. The team finished with an 11-12 record.

Powers poured in 25 points leading Monmouth past New Haven while Leilah Silva added 20. Lynn Eaton-Fogg and Barbara Torres each netted 15 points. The 25 points scored by the Red Foxes was the worst defeat for the Red Foxes in a single game all year breaking the previous team high of 9 against Patterson in December.

Marist took the lead at the start and held on to it until the 3:30 mark of the first half when the Chargers went ahead 29-27. The Marist played very well in the first half of the game, especially the freshmen who couldn't stop them," Petro also cited the play of freshman Cooper as a key to keeping the game close.

For Marist, which finished with a 47 conference record for sixth place, Mike Martin and Mike Sherlock concluded their collegiate careers. "It's unfortunate for both Martin and Sherlock that they had to end the season with a loss," says Petro. The 9 wins also represented the team's highest total since the 1976-77 season.

Morrow realizes there were differences in philosophies between she and Deer over the extent of control a coach should have. "As coach to take away Morrow's athletic scholarship. "It's not the money that really bothers me, it's the principle of the scholarship. "It's not the money that really bothers me, it's the principle of the scholarship."

Morrow in an effort to rally some support. Although there hasn't really been a check of the fans' opinions, many showed their support for Morrow during the final game of the year against New Haven Friday night at the McCann Recreation Center. Banners were hung and voices were heard protesting the decision to drop Morrow from the team.

Deer sums up her feelings on the matter: "I wanted to give her a chance...and she just hasn't made the adjustment."

Deer says "she resents the authoritative approach and would like to play the way I want to coach. I'm trying to make this team competitive on the Division I level." Morrow "is good when she wants to be good, and I needed her to be good all the time" adds Deer.

Morrow seemed confused not only as to why she was released at all. She says she didn't let up in any games, despite whatever Deer might have told her to the contrary. "I had a good year. I had my bad games, but that's only natural."

Morrow realizes there were differences in philosophies between she and Deer over the extent of control a coach should have on the team. According to Morrow, Deer tried to grab total control which she thinks is improper. She feels Deer probably should have sought more input and delegated more power to the players, especially the upperclassmen who have been playing for two or three years.

Morrow concluded her statement with a smile. "I had a good year. I had my bad games, but that's only natural."