Upon arrival from the Christmas holidays, Champagnat residents were greeted with freshly painted walls and new curtains in the lounge areas. Not more than thirty-two hours after returning, a maintenance personnel notice that the second floor rug had been taken. Father Richard LaMorte says that the rug was last seen January 20 at 5:00 a.m., and discovered missing at 8:00 a.m.

That the rug is a concept of all the things it stands for," explains LaMorte. A proposal had just been completed which would make the lounge area conducive for socializing and recreation. The rugs are just an initial step in fulfilling this goal.

"As far as we can tell it’s not on campus," says LaMorte. Marist Security

Townhouses for Seniors

By Evelyn Greco

Next semester, the students of Marist College may have a new home away from home. Since the population at Marist has increased tremendously over the past year, it is a definite possibility that there will be a new place of residence for the undergraduates.

The new type of housing that will give first priority to seniors will be townhouses. This will be constructed in a split-level arrangement consisting of a living room, dining room, two bedrooms, and two bathrooms. Each apartment should accommodate three to four students.

The administration’s prospective deadline in notifying the Marist community of the decision is April 1st, when room reservations begin. The townhouses will be a $45.00 charge, as stated by Dean Cox, but with the cost of construction and mortgage at 15%, the results can not be foreseen. Dean Cox is hopeful that the place will go through as scheduled, for he feels that this will be an excellent opportunity for the seniors to grow and develop as individuals.

The price for living in one of the townhouses has not yet been decided, but it is not expected to exceed the rent charged in Champagnat, Leo, or Sheehan.

Flying Carpet

This past week Thesis 1 of Champagne surmounted the base of an attention-seek- ing carpet that had been installed in their lounge, through a very obvious hole. This is a gross injustice to the residents of Thesis 1 that they have to live without the rug. Although the rug has been stolen, the lounge has been without carpets for at least the last few weeks. It is obvious that the carpet was not stolen, but rather the lounges have been without carpets for a while now. The carpet is being brought across from Thesis 2, to Thesis 3, to Thesis 4, and to Thesis 5. The carpet is being taken for an asset that the other lounges have, but has pitted, perfectly honest and perfectly stupid students and even search off-campus apartments. Unfortunately, this has not been the case. The carpet was taken from House I of the Marist Community, a rug that was the leading rumor on campus last week, which was heavily investigated. We tell them that students are the only ones who can decide what they want to do with their own possessions. My roommate and I are more afraid of being tracked. Agreeing to leave, we headed down the road, only to be we to see more confounding police in their aufs yellow and blue uniforms. The situation seemed tenebrous, with all eyes on us. Our car was stopped, and we were asked to get out and come closer. The police appeared to be questioning someone, possibly a witness or a suspect. We were a bit nervous, but we knew we had nothing to hide and proceeded to follow their instructions.

Hoopsters Drop Games and Players

A well publicized "very important" basketball weekend ended in dismal failure for the Marist College basketball team. Saturday night's game with Monmouth and Saint Francis.

The St. Francis game was a disappointment for the Red Foxes because of a string game last week to Best Cycle. Although the loss was the fifth straight for Marist, the team has a heartbreaker, 15-64, over NJIT.

Marist's next game will be against Mercy College. The two defeats loomed larger than the team was entering, the ECAG Metro North Division. Marist also honored the "athletes of the week" as reported in the Circle. Any other ideas about tournaments and activities should be sent to Intramural Director Bob O'Connor.

Ski’ers
Start Successful Season

By Joan “Schatzie” Gasparovic

This year, Marist has a new addition to its sports program, with the organization of an alpine racing team. Michael Haagerty, a transfer student from Siena College, has established Marist’s ski team with the help of Marist-Ski Club President Joan “Schatzie” Gasparovic. Michael’s previous experience includes high school, collegiate, and eastern United States ski racing.

The team is composed of 11 members, six men and five women. The men’s team is quite strong, composed of racer coach Haagerty, John Levy, Peter Jackson, Rich Kline, Jon ‘Unoo, and William Fitzgerald. The women’s team consists of Linda Panaro, Colleen Hollywood, Misty Benton, and Joan Martin and Gasparovic.

The Marist Ski Team is a member of the Northeastern College Ski Association which is a subsidiary of Southern Vermont College, North Adams State College, Green Mountain College, North Country Community College, Williams College, and Vassar College.

It has been two months since that first meeting took place and the team was asked to put on the equipment and begin learning. The first meeting was held on a Monday morning to find out exactly what the team was about and what the players and coaches had done so far. They were asked to put on the maroon-colored ski suits and be ready to arrive at the meeting at 7 a.m. The meeting was held in the Marist College basement where there was not enough space to fit all the members.

An Apology

Letter to the editor

I personally would like to apologize to the Marist College Women’s basketball squad for the lack of space they were given in this issue. We at THE CIRCLE know that the girls deserve better, and won’t forget them in future issues. —Barry Lewis

The Marist Revolving Door

It seems that there is never a dull moment at the Marist Sports Center. As both players and coaches have found that Marist College is, and is not the place to be.

“A lot of the things that are happening are because of Marist College,” sad one of the players.

“During the recent winter break, I saw an ad in the New York Times, "Looking for a new coach?" I thought it was a good idea,” said another.

But the most important thing is that the players are having a good time. One of the players said, "I love being here, it’s like a second home for me.”

Adding more interest to the hiring of the coaches is the fact that Marist won only 2 football games this past season, a record that makes someone wonder if pressure wasn’t put on the coaches. “Including myself, we all work on one-year contracts,” said the coach. "It’s not uncommon for us every year to have 2-3 new assistant coaches. In the past, we’ve had 5-6 new assistant coaches.”

In the beginning of the current basketball season Dan Sharpe was a starting freshman on a team which was moving up in the college basketball world.

It has been two months since that first game against Northeastern, and Dan Sharpe is no longer a part of the Marist community. After 16 games he was leading the Red Foxes in rebounding and scoring. He has already scored 500 points in the season and has 175 rebounds. This season, the team has done extremely well, The results were as follows:

In what basketball coach Ron Petro calls his first injury-free year at Marist, "Bill has played the best basketball of his four year career," Petro said. "After 16 games he was leading the Red Foxes in rebounding and scoring. He has already scored 500 points in the season and has 175 rebounds." Petro said that Dan Sharpe is "the type of person that everyone is happy to have around the team. He always does his best to give 100% in every game."

Still, the outspoken DeWinne see’s the Marist community as a family. "People are mislead by a lot of false rumors on campus," he said. "I personally don’t want to put my trust into him, like the father he is to us on the court."
