Elections Sweep Campus

by Thomas Hassett

Wednesday March 25 and Thursday March 26th mark the time for Marist College elections. The candidates have brought about a variety of ideas for the various student leader positions and class offices. You must be a full time student, and you file as a group of at least 10 percent of the student body endorsing you as a candidate. The C.S.L. positions include: Student Government President, Inter House Council President, College Union Board President, and also C.S.L. Academic Committee President, and C.S.L. Student President.

Jim Raimo, present Student Government President, said, "The qualifications give almost anyone a chance to run for the position." There are no requirements for candidates for class offices except a petition of 10% of the candidate’s class endorsement. Candidates must provide their own publicity and cannot exceed $100 on their campaign as a rule.

"I feel that the quality of the people running for the job this year is improved. I am happy to see the people who are running for class offices and the position of C.S.L. Academic Committee President. There are a few additions and changes within the college, and the C.S.L. Academic Committee President will be in charge of the Academic Committee and the Academic Review Committee. The C.S.L. sponsored a public hearing on Tuesday March 24th from 9:15 to 12 midnight. At this hearing the candidates for all offices voiced their views and qualifications for the position and were open to questions. Raimo also reported that the requirement for voting is a start and will have made the voting procedures more organized and efficient than last year. In the past Raimo said, "The clarification that seniors are able to vote for C.S.L. candidates and the position of the senior student can be made." A pamphlet is being printed up on the candidate, and students, "Student Government President, added Raimo. As well, the addition of the President of the Non-Tradition Student Council to the C.S.L. is being put into effect this year as well. The candidates themselves are very optimistic and enthusiastic about the elections and the job they feel they can do. Lisa Arcuri, a candidate for Student Government President, said, "I think that having been part of the student government this year and exposed to the concerns and problems that have arisen that I want to continue working toward their solutions." Arcuri states that her organization skill and leadership quality as well as past experience can help her deal most effectively with the responsibilities of Student Government President. "There are certain weak spots in student government that need to be worked out and the president to more responsive because the real job of the president is representing the students," said Arcuri.

Mike Wiese, candidate for C.U.B. president and current C.U.B. social chairman, feels that there is an apathetic attitude among the students that he would like to do his best to increase participation and involvement of students. "I think that the atmosphere at Marist is important in getting the full experience and to be important to congregate with people socially," said Wiese. He reports that one of his aims for next year is to sponsor a major concert inside the McCan Center. "I feel that the candidates for C.U.B. should have to be on C.U.B. in order to run, because you should experience it before you run," said Wiese of the candidacy procedures. Wiese is well as running unopposed and abstaining from the apathetic attitude on campus. "People want everything open for them," said Wiese.

The problem of candidates running unopposed has been a sore thumb in the past and concerns some present candidates. "I would much rather win because of my qualifications rather than the lack of an alternative candidate," said William Lagrade, candidate for Junior Class Treasurer and also an assistant director. All the candidates expect a good voter turnout. "I hope it is as high as last year," said Lagrade. Raimo said of the candidates and elections victories, "Everyone has some merit and will do a good job in some capacity. The council has come a long way, and from an acquisitional point of view I hope that these new people will continue this."

What would compel over thirty Marist students to attend eight weeks of training and complete a sixteen semester internship? The answer: A position as Resident Advisor during the 1988-89 academic year.

Whether waiting for the elevator or standing in line for the post office, you suddenly find yourself blinded by the glare of pages covering every possible space of the bulletin boards on campus. Many are humorous, artistic, witty or controversial, but all are re­ questing just one hike, the circle.

New Resident Advisor Program for the club involves recognition. "I've met a lot of people who have heard of Circle K, but they don't really know what it is," Stimpson said. "I'm hoping to get better recognition through Circle K. I think when people see the events" connects the new president, "the president is instant, I can be here to help people. I'm going to bring to Circle K from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday meetings."

New officers mark the beginning of new leadership for the Circle K organization. "It's about raising money and continuing to be successful with the program that the president and vice president, Josie Holden, believes in the organization. "The new club officers are Keith Griffin—sophomore, Joanne Holdorft—vice- President, Nancy Lamb—president, and Grace Gallagher—secretary. All the new officers are very involved in the Marist community, and will continue to be successful in the years to come," Griffin believes Griffin believes Griffin believes Griffin believes.

THANK YOU! Circle K
This Week’s Place To Be

by Greg Snyder

This is the year of the girls, seven weeks until the last of them will light their Mardi Gras torches and leave us. Six days left and then you can bow and burn them in our midst. We are so much better for it. Not only that, but we are able to look back at the past thirty years and see how we have progressed. Twelve Hundred．Thirty-Five years on the clock．Of course we should have something to show for that．The year of the girl has certainly done our part to make the world a better place．We are so much better for it．

What makes the wait so much worse is the fact that we have to sit through the rest of the weekend．We can’t bear to look at another game of baseball or football and here we sit, with our normal lives．Fortunately, you’re not alone. There re- students have been on sunny southern roads for just a few days. Those who like to go south are off to some beach (which, incidently, should have been opened in time for the spring break) or a class as a show of good-faith to the administration for their efforts to get the class out of your life．But there are still plenty of shorts and sandals left for you to have with each other．Let’s face it, the driving circuit is the only one we can use this weekend to say hello to each other and to state to the world that we’re not going to care about our classmates and that we’re not going to care about the administration．

Let’s face it, the driving circuit is the only one we can use this weekend to say hello to each other and to state to the world that we’re not going to care about our classmates and that we’re not going to care about the administration by the way．

The Festival will be held on March 26th so be prepared for some serious fun．

I’m a college student

by Donald Gately

"You say you’re a college student; do you play tennis, have a dish or a date?" These are the three questions I usually ask a fellow student when I am on campus and tired of the politics which surround our school．But the last question is rarely answered because I think of it as too far out to be asked．I have found a solution to this problem by putting the "real life" world on hold by taking a job as a student worker at the Campus Information Center in the morning and as a student worker at the Student Union in the afternoon．Since time is an important factor in my life, I have found a way to compensate for it by working at a job which allows me to be in the midst of the "real world" every day．

If you are a student worker, you are not alone；there are other students who have found jobs which allow them to be in the midst of the "real world" every day．

Drama Festival

This weekend, the Continuing Education Department of Marist College will sponsor The First Annual Spring Drama Festival in honor of the continuing education department．The plays that will be presented are written by students and faculty members of Marist College．The event will be held on Thursday, March 26th and Friday, March 27th at 7:30 p.m．and on Saturday, March 28th at 2:30 p.m．

Profiling Mike Morris

by Kevin Sullivan

An athlete, according to Webster’s New World Dictionary, is a person trained to contend in feats of strength or skill, one of the "group of trained individuals who perform outstanding athletic feats or engage in athletic contests"．The word "athlete" is derived from the Greek word "athlete" which means "striver, combatant, or fighter"．In our society, athletes are regarded as heroes；they are admired and respected by most people．The word "athlete" has become synonymous with a successful career in sports．

Mike Morris, a graduate of Our Lady of Lourdes High School, has been ac- complished in the sport of cross-country running．In addition to being a member of the Marist College Ski Team, Mike Morris is also a member of the Marist College Track and Field Team．

Mike Morris's accomplishments include being selected as a member of the 1981 All-American Cross-Country Team and being named to the 1981 USA Cross-Country National Team．He has also been named to the 1981 USA National Track and Field Team．

Lacrossemen dominate 19-0

by Connie Roher

In a game where Marist goalie Tim Anderson had his best game of the season, the Marist College lacrosse team defeated the SUNY Potsdam Red Dragons by a score of 19-0 in the worst-scoring game in SUNYAC history.

In the first game of the spring season, the Red Dragons were looking to bounce back from their first loss of the season after falling to the Hobart Hawks in their previous game. However, Marist dominated from the start, scoring 19 goals in the game.

Tim Anderson, who was named to the All-State team last year, had a career-high 14 saves in the game. Anderson was named to the All-State team last year and was considered one of the best goalies in the SUNYAC.

The Red Dragons were only able to score one goal in the game, which was scored by Marist's Matt Haggerty. Haggerty was named to the All-State team last year and was one of the top scorers in the SUNYAC.

The Marist College lacrosse team finished the season with a record of 9-2 in the SUNYAC and 13-4 overall. The team will look to build on its success next season and continue to dominate in the SUNYAC.
Crew team comes home with victory

by Paul Palmer

After a very successful spring training in Charleston, West Virginia, which saw them handily defeat the University of Charleston, the Marist College crew team enters into what coach Andy Meyn calls "one of the toughest schedules ever." The schedule sees them for the first time competing against the Ivy League teams, Princeton and Navy, in the same season.

Marist will be trying to defend their President's Cup, a trophy they won last season here at Marist by defeating schools such as Holy Cross and the University of Rhode Island. The crew also hopes to fare well at the Dad Vails which are the crew championship for small schools to be held in Philadelphia this May 6-9. The teams competing in this race stand a very good chance of being nationally ranked.

According to Meyn, the toughest challenges will come from Trinity, Williams, Temple, Navy and Princeton. He's also quick to point out that no contest will be easy and that all will require a total effort. This effort was exemplified by their fine fall season which culminated with a win by the Varsity Lightweights at the Froebstille Regatta.

While no set lineups have been made yet, Marist feels confident in the returning crews. "Regardless of the outcome of the season, it'll be well worth the effort. Most of these guys have been rowing together at the Varsity level for three years and this will be a last fling for them."

It won't be until March 28th, though, that all Marist teams will be in action in New York City versus Manhattan, Fordham, Iona and St. John's.

Marist will have a total of seven boats in the water this season: a mens heavyweight 1, lightweight 8, J.V. heavyweight 8, Freshmen heavyweight 8. The Dorm's team will have four boats; Varsity heavyweight 8, J.V. heavyweight 8, and Novice heavyweight 8.

Speaking of the women, they will be out to defend an honor themselves.

They finished to Trinity in the Dad Vails this fall by only ten seconds. With a dual meet record of 22-10 last season behind them, the Marist College Crew Team will try to make their 8:00 A.M. practices in sub-zero temperatures pay off.

Crew team and novice women's coach

There will be a new face behind the Women's Novice Crew Team this season. His name is Paul Schultz, and he comes to Marist after a very successful collegiate career of his own.

Schultz rowed for four years at Ithaca College in the lightweight division. He's also quick to point out that no contest will be easy and that all will require a total effort. This effort was exemplified by their fine fall season which culminated with a win by the Varsity Lightweights at the Froebstille Regatta.

Talking sports with "Mr. Bill"

"Mr. Bill," as he is better known to N.Y. Knick and basketball enthusiasts, has brought respectability to the N.B.A. as these men were college standouts. Larry Bird and Eairn "Magic" Johnson.

While "Magic" was named M.V.P. of the league playoff games, leading the Lakers to a championship, and Bird was diving all over the Boston Garden and winning the Rookie-of-the-Year honors, Cartwright was forced to play above par in the media mecca of New York City. "I don't think these guys are under pressure to my situation, as I always knew there would be outstanding players in the league. When I came out of college, nobody really knew who I was like Larry or Magic. They were all hot shots and I just went out and did my job and didn't let the press get to me."

"Mr. Bill" has done everything he is supposed to and then some in a position where excellence has always been expected of him. Before Bill, the Knicks were in the unaccustomed situation of playing in a big market and had to fill the shoes of former team star Willis Reed.

"When I was in college, Willis was still coaching the Knicks, and I truly enjoyed watching him play. But, I realize the trouble the team had before then. It's not like we were in the middle of it all will be a guy named "Mr. Bill" for years to come.
