The Draft: Registration or Prosecution

Refrain from draft registration. Him, and those like him who opted to register for the draft: A sentence of up to 30 days after the day you turn 18 for the faces possible prosecution for failure to do. This corresponds to national statistics. The problem lies with the remaining 10 per cent, or 20 thousand nonregistrars. The Selective Service initiated the pro-cution proceedings by sending a list of 134 names to the Justice Department after it had been called to their attention voluntarily by people who had witnessed public the men's refusal to register, or after they failed to respond to warning letters.

The White House approved the action taken by Selective Service and investigations will be conducted in various parts of the country to determine whether prosecuons are in order. The Justice Department has set up guidelines that will be followed in determining whether avoidance is permissible. Although prosecution proceedings are still months away, the guidelines and being distributed to prossecutors nationwide for them to use in a tool during the proceedings.

The feelings among the Marist students are typical to the national response. "I'll register but I won't go if they call me." The most popular response were "If you're lucky you'll be in jail when the war's on," and "I registered to avoid hassle, I have no intentions of going."

Registered letters will be sent to all men who are in violation of the Selective Service Act, informing them that prosecution procedings can be executed. If no response is given, prosecution is very likely to occur. Under the guidelines individuals must knowingly refuse to register. People who contend they were ignorant to the requirements may register now without penalty.

With prosecution in the wings, it is hoped that young men will come to realize the severity failure to register has on their futures and in turn respect the Selective Service law.

No way to live

Noelle Crain

As a freshman, new to the Marist College community, I have taken note of many things as a way of fitting in to campus life. One of the things I notice is the lack of a dining service department. I have noticed that the food served in the dining hall is not very good, and it often leaves a lot to be desired. I have also noticed that the service is often slow and unattentive. It seems that the dining service department is not very well organized or efficient.

I am writing to express my concern about the quality of the food served in the dining hall. I believe that the food provided is not up to the standard of what one would expect from a college like Marist. The service also leaves much to be desired, and it is often difficult to get food quickly and efficiently.

I urge the administration to take action to improve the quality of food and service in the dining hall. It is important that students have access to a good meal, and it is equally important that they receive prompt and courteous service.

I appreciate your attention to this matter, and I look forward to hearing your response.

The race for the number one ranked mark on campus has begun to heat up. Dick "Whistling" Davis is making a strong push on campus to be number one. Davis, who is known for his signature saxophone sound and his ability to "whistle" the melody, has been performing in various clubs and events around campus. Dick's unique style has caught the attention of many students and faculty members. Dick's biggest competition so far comes from Johnette, the local folk singer who is known for her soothing vocals and her ability to "whistle" the melody. Dick's mentor, Ken Berger, has been a driving force behind the Music Studios, and has been instrumental in helping Dick develop his musical talent. Dick's friend, Colin Walcott, has been supporting him throughout his journey. Colin has been playing the sitar for many years and has been known for his innovative and electric style.

ONXY

On Friday night, September 18, the stage was set for the performance of ONXY. The crowd was enthusiastic and the stage was packed with eager fans. The band, consisting of members from around the country, was ready to rock the crowd. The show was a huge success, with fans cheering and dancing to each song.

As the show drew to a close, the crowd erupted in applause. The band members thanked the audience for their support and looked forward to returning to the area soon.

The show was taped for a possible release, and Dick "Whistling" Davis expressed his excitement about the possibility of a recording. "This is what we've been working towards," said Davis. "We're finally getting our chance to show the world what we're made of."

In conclusion, the Music Festival was a huge success, with many talented performers taking the stage. The crowd was enthusiastic, and the energy was palpable. Dick "Whistling" Davis emerged as a strong contender for the number one rank, and the future looks bright for this talented young musician.

This weekend, instead of complaining about how boring campus life is, why don't you guys and girls out there get up, get some exercise and part in various events throughout the year, as the C.U.B. realized the students who think that students are more than just bookworms should go to see A Chorus Line on Broadway sometime this fall.

Women's Tennis Meets Siena

By Karen Flood

The newly retired Marist College Women's Tennis team will make their way into action at 4 p.m., on Monday, September 26 against Siena College, in the annual leadership of the new coach, Joe Ward.

Some would say it's just the name.

After five consecutive days of competitions, the Women's Tennis Team was in need of a break.

Returning for their fourth season of play are seniors named Lisa Andre, Kathy Chereck and Barbara Wathen. There are also three freshmen that are new to the program. The three freshmen include sophomores Karin Flood and Barbara Wathen. The team is also confident to expect support from new members, Pat Williams and freshmen Elizabeth Anderson, Charlene Carey, Lisa Andre, Kathy Chereck and Jane Flood.

Last season the Red Foxes finished with a lifetime record of 6-4. With the skill and the experience of the returning players, combined with the ability and depth of the new members, it looks like a winning team.

The season consists of sixty-one games, all of which match originals scheduled for the next season. The season will start with a trip to New York University on September 26. The Red Foxes are very happy to participate in the New York University Tournament, as well as the Virginia Women's College Tournament.

Marist rips St. Peter's, 34-0

What a difference a week makes. Last week the Marist Red Foxes were clohnoted by the St. Peter's Cardinals 18-7. Friday night it was Marist that did the clohnoting, soundly defeating the Cardinals. By Bill Travers.

The Foxes ended the season, they scored their biggest victory in the Conn. 18-45, and shutting out a weak Fair- field team 15-50. From the beginning it was obvious whose race this was to be. For the team performance. Everyone ran great. We remain patient. There's still a lot of

In their first and only home meet this season, the Running Red Foxes soundly defeated archrival Southern Connecticut State 70-0.

With Marist taking eight of the top ten places, they scored their biggest victory in the history of the meet beating Southern Conn. 18-45, and shutting out a weak Fairfield team 15-50. From the beginning it was obvious whose race was to be. For the first time this season the squad had a total team performance with only 75 seconds separating the top 10 runners. Leading the way across the finish line over the 5.5 mile course, was freshman John Lovejoy in a time of 27:25.5.

Nearing the end of the first quarter, Dave Travers intercepted a pass for the Foxes which led to Cleary's only completion of the night, a 30-yard strike to Paul Malet. The resulting field goal gave the score 14-0. Cleary threw only three incompletions during the afternoon and ground game that stymied their opponent. Cleary rushed for 76 yards on 14 carries with two touchdown runs for 70 yards on six attempts with no TD's, and Mike Strange and Ron Dimmie each carried eight times picking up 33 yards and 35 yards, respectively. "I couldn't believe the holes that the offensive line was opening," said Dimmie. "Every time I had the ball there was no one there." The Foxes did not have their total yardage rushing was 275 yards on 41 carries.

But it was the defense that sent the off-

Mayerhofer. Mayerhofer also added that the defense to work. Marist elected to kick opening the second half, and their defense held steady. St. Pete was foiled on a fourth and one on their own 40. Wasting no time, Cleary pitched to Mike Spawn who scrambled 64 yards to up the score to 27-0. The two-victory point conversion failed. Then midway into the fourth quarter, Doug Cullen intercepted a pass on the St. Pete 26 and changed 54 yards to the two. Two plays later, Spawn went in for six. Extra point was good. This closed out the scoring with Marist on top 34-0.

Defensive standouts were Dennis Diesel, who recovered a fumble, which led to a score, and scored a TD on an interception and ran the ball in from the 20, which made the score 21-0. Tom Lawson had a total of 12 tackles with Brian Brady tackling eight. Mayerhofer said, "I was especially proud of
