Townhouse water supply problems resolved

by Paul Crowell

Water supply problems, which delayed the start of the $2.5 million townhouse project for a year, have been resolved, according to Jack Hill of the Dutchess County Department of Health.

The problems were a result of a 1978 decision of the Health Department to lift the moratorium on the addition of new connections to the city of Poughkeepsie's water supply.

A written statement regarding the decision was circulated to the mayor and the Town Board. The statement noted that the moratorium would be lifted as of April 20.

Hill would not say exactly what factors were involved in the decision to lift the moratorium.

"We felt that it was important that the new student government meet with their leaders since they have been waiting for the decision for a year," said Hill.

Marist, which is located in the Town of Poughkeepsie, had been granted water use from the city in August for fire protection only but school officials have been waiting for a Health Department decision on drinking water use for the townhouses since that time.

Had the Department of Health not lifted the moratorium by the end of April Marist would have been forced to drill its own well at a cost of up to $100,000, according to Edward Waters, vice president of administration and finance.

Marist officials were worried the decision might come after they had invested in wells. "If later we get the permission to use the (city’s) water, we will have wasted a lot of money," said Waters.

The moratorium is being lifted because, the Town of Poughkeepsie has developed an on-line supplementary water system, according to Dr. John Dr. Zute, superintendent of the Poughkeepsie Public Water Works. The Town’s system will be hooked into the City’s existing system and is expected to produce 1.7 million gallons a day.

Hill would not say exactly what factors were considered in the Health Department decision to lift the moratorium. He did say that the "timing" of the decision was affected by an application that the Town had filed with the New York State Division of Audits and Control.

The Town’s supplementary water system was approved by the Environmental Conservation Agency and is expected to be financed by a bond issue, according to Poughkeepsie Town Supervisor Anna Buchholz.

The Town of Poughkeepsie buys its water from the surplus created by the City’s water supply, according to Hill. The Town had been consuming the entire surplus since 1978 when the Department of Health stepped in and imposed the moratorium.

THE CIRCLE

Volume 26, Number 18
Marist College, Poughkeepsie, N.Y. April 22, 1982

CSL, inmates firm up ties at Greenhaven

by Geoff Aldrich

Student government leaders of Marist College met with Greenhaven prison student leaders on the Greenhaven campus earlier this month as they have done for the past five months.

The meeting gave next year’s student government president an opportunity to meet with the student leaders at Greenhaven, who represent a student body of more than 100 individuals in the correctional facility.

"We go there because they are Marist students," said CSL, Jim Muzikowski. "We consider them part of the student body.

Muzikowski, along with CSL vice president Ted Perrette, makes frequent contact with the students and their leaders at the Greenhaven campus. Perrette says they are concerned with the student government there and the need for open communication.

"Just the fact that we are trying to establish communication with them is a big step," Muzikowski said. "We have been trying that for a year and a half..."'

The meeting at Greenhaven involved discussion of ways to improve the relationship between the students and the faculty at this campus. These issues included guest speakers, increased housing, this year's graduation, class rings and a possible yearbook.

Muzikowski said that the student leaders at Greenhaven worked together with students from this campus to see how the needs of students are represented. One program idea that was suggested involved an exchange program in which students from this campus could take several sessions of a course at the Greenhaven campus.

"I think that it would be an enlightening experience for students to get some course work in at Greenhaven. It could be especially beneficial for criminal justice majors," said Perrette.

Other views that were brought up included a greater understanding and interaction between the students here and those at Greenhaven.

"We need to establish an ongoing dialogue between the two campuses," said Greenhaven student leader Sullivan Nelson. According to student leaders, 15 seniors will graduate this May from the Greenhaven campus.

"Those graduating seniors represent much of our past and accomplishments among our students," said Nelson.

In one of her first acts as student government president-elect, Joan Garza, also attended the meeting with the student leaders of Greenhaven.

"We felt that it was important that the new student government meet with their leaders since we will be working with them next year," said Garza.

Marist Abroad adds 2 schools to program

by Barbara McMahon

Dr. Jeptha Lanning, director of the Marist Abroad Program, said the recent addition of more universities to the program enhances the outlook for next year’s participating students.

Among the schools that will be accepting Marist students for the first time next year are the National Institute of Higher Education in Dublin, Ireland, and the National School of Art and Design, also in Dublin.

Lanning said he recently returned from a trip to Europe and Great Britain. The purpose of this trip, according to Lanning, was to place next year’s students and to evaluate the progress of students currently studying abroad.

Lanning said all the students seem to be doing fine. "All are having a most beneficial year," he said. Lanning quotes one of the students as saying, "It is one of the most unique experiences of my life."

Lanning said he is especially excited about placing students in the National Institute of Higher Education in Dublin. The schools emphasis on engineering technology will provide communication students with opportunities to get extensive experience in studio work with television and radio equipment. "This first hand experience will give these students an edge when it comes to job hunting."

Lanning said that the National Institute of Art and Design cases to art majors because of its in depth departments in print-making and sculpture, providing them with opportunities that are not available to them at Marist. Lanning said that he believes a year abroad is an enriching experience, "To see others' perspectives and attitudes changes one's view of their world. They go boys and girls and come back men and women."

Lanning said the only problem he foresees is getting the students to return to the states. "Once we get them there they don't want to come home."

Faculty set to vote on Core proposal — page 3

Inside The Circle

A look at the Mt. Carmel neighborhood — page 4

Basketball teams upgrade schedules — page 11

Welcome parents
Readers Write

To The Editor:

As we near the spring elections, some students may feel anxious or confused about what role they should take. I would like to propose a suggestion that could help alleviate this stress.

Many students feel pressure to participate in the election process, but they may not understand how their vote will affect their future or that of others. By having a student representative from each department or organization discuss the outcomes of previous elections, we can provide a clearer understanding of the importance of voting and encourage more participation.

Sincerely,
[Name]

Electoral questions

The panelists included representatives from the Student Assembly, the Marist College College Council, and the Marist College Student Senate. Each panelist discussed their role in the electoral process and shared their perspectives on the importance of student participation.

The panelists also addressed concerns such as the impact of online voting and the potential for increased voter turnout. They encouraged students to become more involved in the electoral process and to vote in the upcoming elections.

Sara Johnson

Alumni write

The 2012 APL conference will be held from April 26 to 28 in New York City. The conference will feature keynote speakers, panel discussions, and workshops on a variety of topics related to college governance.

For more information, visit the APL website or contact the conference organizers at apl@marist.edu.
Mount Carmel: Old World influence lives on

by Paul Deegan

Mount Carmel Square has been known as Mount Carmel for the past 50 years and has always been regarded as a nice little Italian neighborhood. And for a good reason. The neighborhood has been a part of the Mount Carmel area since 1887, and the square itself has been a hub for Italian culture and history since that time.

Located in the heart of Little Italy, Mount Carmel Square is a vibrant and lively community that has been shaped by its Italian heritage. The square is known for its narrow streets, colorful architecture, and diverse businesses that cater to the neighborhood's Italian culture.

One of the most notable features of Mount Carmel Square is the Mount Carmel Catholic Church, which was founded in 1896. The church has been a central part of the neighborhood for over a century, and it continues to play an important role in the community today.

Mount Carmel Square is also home to a variety of Italian restaurants and shops, including Pizzeria Quattro Stagioni, which is famous for its wood-fired pizza. The square is also known for its annual festival, which celebrates Italian culture and brings the community together.

Despite its small size, Mount Carmel Square is a testament to the strength of Italian heritage in New York City. The neighborhood continues to thrive and attract visitors from around the world who want to experience the rich history and culture of Little Italy.

The global village

by Mary Rose Lawlor

This week marks the beginning of the United Nations Conference on Disarmament (UNCOD), a meeting that brings together representatives from around the world to discuss the issue of nuclear disarmament.

The conference is taking place in Geneva, Switzerland, and is scheduled to run until April 15. It is the first time in 30 years that the UN has held a conference on disarmament, and the timing is significant given the current global security situation.

The UNCOD is considered a major opportunity for negotiators to make progress on nuclear disarmament, as well as to address other disarmament issues, such as the need for a comprehensive test ban treaty and the prohibition of nuclear weapons.

The conference is being attended by representatives from over 150 countries, including many of the world's nuclear powers. The negotiations will take place under the leadership of President of the Conference of States Parties to the NPT, which is responsible for overseeing the implementation of the non-proliferation treaty.

President of the Conference of States Parties to the NPT

The conference is expected to be a major step forward in the global effort to achieve nuclear disarmament. The ultimate goal is to achieve a world free of nuclear weapons, and the UNCOD is seen as a critical milestone on the road to achieving this vision.

The UNCOD is also an opportunity to highlight the importance of international cooperation in addressing security challenges, and to reaffirm the commitment of the international community to the goals of non-proliferation and disarmament.

The conference is expected to be a major step forward in the global effort to achieve nuclear disarmament. The ultimate goal is to achieve a world free of nuclear weapons, and the UNCOD is seen as a critical milestone on the road to achieving this vision.

The UNCOD is also an opportunity to highlight the importance of international cooperation in addressing security challenges, and to reaffirm the commitment of the international community to the goals of non-proliferation and disarmament.

The conference is expected to be a major step forward in the global effort to achieve nuclear disarmament. The ultimate goal is to achieve a world free of nuclear weapons, and the UNCOD is seen as a critical milestone on the road to achieving this vision.

The UNCOD is also an opportunity to highlight the importance of international cooperation in addressing security challenges, and to reaffirm the commitment of the international community to the goals of non-proliferation and disarmament.
Marist student jumps for joy

by Paul Drejza

Looking for something new to do during the spring holiday break? Then take a trip to the Skydive New York training facility in the town of Skippack. There, you can try skydiving 10,000 feet above the ground.

"You can't compare it to anything else," said Dawn Healy, a junior at Marist College. "The adrenaline rush is incredible."

Marist opens door to elderly

by Allison Danenberg

The Marist College Experimental Repertory Theater program will be a big hit during the spring holiday break, according to Marist student and program director Evelyn Payton.

"It's a great opportunity for students to gain hands-on experience with community service," said Payton. "The program is designed to provide a valuable experience for students who are interested in community service and want to make a difference in the lives of others."

Fellowship is goal of mini-Mass

by Suzanne Fagenson

In an attempt to gain a closer fellowship at Sunday Mass, members of the mini-Mass community will be offering a fellowship event this weekend.

"The purpose of the fellowship event is to create a more intimate and welcoming atmosphere for the mini-Mass community," said one member.

One-to-one carnival on tap for tomorrow

by Katharine Kelly

A pop-up show, a dance contest and a chance to win big prizes are all on tap for "One-to-One Day," a special event being planned for "One-to-One Day" from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. tomorrow at Marist College.

"One-to-One Day" will feature a variety of activities, including a dance contest and a chance to win big prizes. The event is open to all students, staff and faculty members.

Prospects are not bright for theatre degree

by Karen Lindsay

The development of a theatre major at Marist College is in jeopardy, according to Dr. Richard Price, the chair of the Theatre Arts program.

"It's a very competitive field, and we need to make sure that we are offering the best possible program," said Price. "Our students are highly trained, and we want to make sure that they are prepared for success in the field."
According to Sciarretta, "people just don't wheelie because it allows him to move around the Marist campus—when he's notdicapped and manually rolls himself. However, he said that people perceive him differently, "As a wheelchair user, everyone thinks that I am a wheelchair user. Sciarretta explained his thoughts on this matter by saying, "I am a wheelchair user." Sciarretta did not want to be seen as someone who relies on a wheelchair, as he believes that he can function independently. Sciarretta's goal is to make another person understand, "I think a lot of girls here won't give me a chance because they don't understand," Sciarretta said. "I try to be active and get involved in the school community, especially in the National Wheelchair Association competitions. Sciarretta occupied his time as any other friend would help another person who just enjoys the music or even the equipment that is sold in the store. Whether you are a fan of the Beatles, a person who just enjoys the music or even the equipment that is sold in the store, everyone has the opportunity to hear the music, whether it is from the radio or from a record player. The album "Stop and Sniff the Roses" by Ringo Starr is one of the albums that the Beatles released, and it was a hit in the 1970s. The album contains 11 tracks and features guest appearances by John Lennon and Paul McCartney. The album was released on May 19, 1978, and it reached number 31 on the US Billboard 200 chart. The album also includes the single "My Love," which reached number 12 on the UK Singles Chart. The album is considered one of the most significant releases of the Beatles' career, and it continues to be a popular choice for fans worldwide.
Barbara LaDuke.

Significant learning occurs outside of the classroom. "Water is good for the complexion!"

Eight people are concerned with the growth of student life. "Two or three people would share a spacious apartment..."

Good luck.

27 shopping days left until the real world!

Dear Leo, ..."We're just a couple of people who are scared to death of the world..."

George R.

C-T

The one your with!!

Rut Warren

"...for discussion and study, as well as reflection and prayer."

Teichman also said, "The Holocaust must not be seen as just a catalogue of names even in the paper."

I'll lend you my crotchless red "uies"..."

Dr. Scileppi. "...I also wanted to be concerned about what happens in the resident halls."

Dr. Teichman said. "...When most of us think of the Holocaust, we think only of the destruction of Jews..."

"Imagine that Jane is a typical college student..."

The inability to control stress can lead to some problems in the Archives of General Psychiatry. "The main link among faculty, administration, students and the community is when activities are stressful..."

The fact is, a very important piece of the curriculum is to go..."

"The school that gives you the money..."

"The school that gives us the money," said Dr. Teichman.

"...besides breaking the .500 mark, Marist..."

"The NCAA will meet in June to review the proposal of the proposed conference, which Marist formally entered in, to see if the school meets the requirements..."

"The program, Petro is too."
Men's tennis team wins first of season

by Karen Flood

After losing its opening three outings, the Marist College Men's Tennis team captured its first victory of the season, as the Mules defeated the Engineers of Bard College, 7-0.

Ron Petro, Marist's director of tennis, said that the team has been inconsistent at the start of the season, but that they are playing better now.

"It's a matter of confidence," Petro said. "The team has been working hard in practice and they are starting to see the results.

Frank Fox, the team's top seed, defeated the Bard's three seed, 6-3, 6-3. Fox said that he was pleased with his performance and that he is looking forward to the rest of the season.

"I'm happy with my game," Fox said. "I think I played well and I'm looking forward to the next match.

Reggie Bullock, Marist's second seed, defeated the Bard's two seed, 6-4, 6-0. Bullock said that he was happy with his performance and that he is looking forward to the rest of the season.

"I'm happy with my game," Bullock said. "I think I played well and I'm looking forward to the next match.

Jeremy Schokman, Marist's third seed, defeated the Bard's one seed, 6-3, 6-3. Schokman said that he was happy with his performance and that he is looking forward to the rest of the season.

"I'm happy with my game," Schokman said. "I think I played well and I'm looking forward to the next match.

The Mules will next play at Vassar College on April 5th. The team is looking forward to the match and is ready to continue their winning streak.

Baseball blues

Crew captures trophy; first place in 6 to 8

by Paul Palmer

Marist College head baseball coach Ron Petro has announced that a 7-foot-10-inch John Donovan has signed a National Letter of Intent to matriculate at Marist in the fall.

Donovan will be a junior transfer from Binghamton Community College in New Jersey. While at Bergen, Donovan averaged eight points, ten rebounds and five assists per game.

According to Petro, with hard work over the summer with weights, the 190 pounder, "has an excellent chance of making the varsity baseball team next year.

Donovan, who didn't play high school baseball, is a 1979 graduate of Ridgewood High School and plans to major in communications while at Marist.

The Marist Crew team is using its valuable water time to build its strength for the President's Cup Regatta on Saturday, and the Dad Vail races on May 7 and 8.

In the first race, Marist's men's varsity eight boat won in a time of 6:24. The men's novice four boat placed second to the University of Rochester with a time of 7:08.

In the two races where Marist did not win, the women's novice eight finished second to the University of Rochester with a time of 6:38.

"It's the closest and most exciting race of the day," said Coach Davis, "Marist's women's eight boat unfortunately finished second with a time of 7:06 to Skidmore's 6:58 win.

The women's novice eight continued Marist's strong showing by winning with a time of 7:00, followed by the men's lightweight four boat winning in a time of 6:32.

The women's lightweight four boat maintained the lead to take first place in 8:45.

To complete the day, the men's heavy four and novice eight both beat their opponents with times of 6:35 and 6:38, respectively.

In the two races where Marist did not enter a boat, Rochester won the women's novice four and Skidmore won the women's four open.

The President's Cup Regatta this Saturday will be a "tremendous event," said Coach Davis. "It's a great way to start the season and we are looking forward to it.

The team will travel to Siena College and Manhattan College on April 11th and 12th, respectively. The team is looking forward to the matches and is ready to continue their winning streak.

Between the Lines

Basketball team gets seven-footer

by Bill Travers

Three strikes and you're out. The possibility of Marist ever fielding a baseball team on campus looks bleak. The idea of a Marist baseball team has been discussed before, and the curves have sent it back to the dugout.

According to the wails of Athletic Director Ron Petro and Doc Goldman, head of the athletic department, the idea of baseball at Marist would be a big hit, but three strikes and you're out.

First they tried to face the west field. The right field line would only be 270 feet. With a good left fielder, there would be a good chance of hitting the ball and getting it down, but that would be the end of the line.

Next they tried to face the field west. The right field line would only be 270 feet. With a good left fielder, there would be a good chance of hitting the ball and getting it down, but that would be the end of the line.

Now, after numerous trials, the best place was found in front of McCann near the monument. All that would be needed to do is to level out the hill in the outfield, and take out the north campus road. "There is a fire law that says that road has to be there," said Petro.

The only other alternative would be to move it to the east, but that would be almost impossible and would cost the school a lot of money.

"We have made a lot of progress in the closet and most exciting race of the day," said Petro. "Marist's men's varsity eight boat unfortunately finished second with a time of 7:06 to Skidmore's 6:58 win.

The women's novice eight continued Marist's strong showing by winning with a time of 7:00, followed by the men's lightweight four boat winning in a time of 6:32.

The women's lightweight four boat maintained the lead to take first place in 8:45.

To complete the day, the men's heavy four and novice eight both beat their opponents with times of 6:35 and 6:38, respectively.

In the two races where Marist did not enter a boat, Rochester won the women's novice four and Skidmore won the women's four open.

The President's Cup Regatta this Saturday will be a "tremendous event," said Coach Davis. "It's a great way to start the season and we are looking forward to it.

The team will travel to Siena College and Manhattan College on April 11th and 12th, respectively. The team is looking forward to the matches and is ready to continue their winning streak.

Between the Lines

Basketball team gets seven-footer

by Bill Travers

Three strikes and you're out. The possibility of Marist ever fielding a baseball team on campus looks bleak. The idea of a Marist baseball team has been discussed before, and the curves have sent it back to the dugout.

According to the wails of Athletic Director Ron Petro and Doc Goldman, head of the athletic department, the idea of baseball at Marist would be a big hit, but three strikes and you're out.

First they tried to face the west field. The right field line would only be 270 feet. With a good left fielder, there would be a good chance of hitting the ball and getting it down, but that would be the end of the line.

Next they tried to face the field west. The right field line would only be 270 feet. With a good left fielder, there would be a good chance of hitting the ball and getting it down, but that would be the end of the line.

Now, after numerous trials, the best place was found in front of McCann near the monument. All that would be needed to do is to level out the hill in the outfield, and take out the north campus road. "There is a fire law that says that road has to be there," said Petro.

The only other alternative would be to move it to the east, but that would be almost impossible and would cost the school a lot of money.

"We have made a lot of progress in the closet and most exciting race of the day," said Petro. "Marist's men's varsity eight boat unfortunately finished second with a time of 7:06 to Skidmore's 6:58 win.

The women's novice eight continued Marist's strong showing by winning with a time of 7:00, followed by the men's lightweight four boat winning in a time of 6:32.

The women's lightweight four boat maintained the lead to take first place in 8:45.

To complete the day, the men's heavy four and novice eight both beat their opponents with times of 6:35 and 6:38, respectively.

In the two races where Marist did not enter a boat, Rochester won the women's novice four and Skidmore won the women's four open.

The President's Cup Regatta this Saturday will be a "tremendous event," said Coach Davis. "It's a great way to start the season and we are looking forward to it.

The team will travel to Siena College and Manhattan College on April 11th and 12th, respectively. The team is looking forward to the matches and is ready to continue their winning streak.

Between the Lines

Basketball team gets seven-footer

by Bill Travers

Three strikes and you're out. The possibility of Marist ever fielding a baseball team on campus looks bleak. The idea of a Marist baseball team has been discussed before, and the curves have sent it back to the dugout.

According to the wails of Athletic Director Ron Petro and Doc Goldman, head of the athletic department, the idea of baseball at Marist would be a big hit, but three strikes and you're out.

First they tried to face the west field. The right field line would only be 270 feet. With a good left fielder, there would be a good chance of hitting the ball and getting it down, but that would be the end of the line.

Next they tried to face the field west. The right field line would only be 270 feet. With a good left fielder, there would be a good chance of hitting the ball and getting it down, but that would be the end of the line.

Now, after numerous trials, the best place was found in front of McCann near the monument. All that would be needed to do is to level out the hill in the outfield, and take out the north campus road. "There is a fire law that says that road has to be there," said Petro.

The only other alternative would be to move it to the east, but that would be almost impossible and would cost the school a lot of money.

"We have made a lot of progress in the closet and most exciting race of the day," said Petro. "Marist's men's varsity eight boat unfortunately finished second with a time of 7:06 to Skidmore's 6:58 win.

The women's novice eight continued Marist's strong showing by winning with a time of 7:00, followed by the men's lightweight four boat winning in a time of 6:32.

The women's lightweight four boat maintained the lead to take first place in 8:45.

To complete the day, the men's heavy four and novice eight both beat their opponents with times of 6:35 and 6:38, respectively.

In the two races where Marist did not enter a boat, Rochester won the women's novice four and Skidmore won the women's four open.

The President's Cup Regatta this Saturday will be a "tremendous event," said Coach Davis. "It's a great way to start the season and we are looking forward to it.

The team will travel to Siena College and Manhattan College on April 11th and 12th, respectively. The team is looking forward to the matches and is ready to continue their winning streak.