The computer science majors agree that the problems between students emerge when students care less about passwords. A student who finds the password is your accessible to that account. The most common form of abuse described was about students who play games in the terminal room. Cathy Petersen, a

Continued on page 2

2 area men charged
after knife incident

by Mark Stuart

Two Dutchess County men were arrested Saturday in connection with a break-in at a Marist townhouse in which two campus terminals were broken into with a knife.

Clayton Williams, 30, of Beacon, N.Y., was charged with second-degree criminal trespass, menacing and criminal possession of a weapon, according to Poughkeepsie Town Police.

Also arrested was Larry Williams, 23, of Fishkill, N.Y., who was charged with second-degree criminal trespass and escape according to the police. The two suspects are not related.

The incident occurred at 2:50 a.m. Saturday at townhouse A-4, according to Joe Waters, director of security and safety.

Two men were spotted trying the doors to townhouses A-7, A-6 and A-5 and then entered townhouse A-4. The guard found the unlocked door. Marist security guards were not there witness the incident and reduced the dispatcher on duty.

The two guards, who asked to remain anonymous, approached the suspects in townhouse A-4.

"We dispatched the dispatcher to call police and told South End security personnel to assist the North End guards."

"Upon entering, the North End security guards found the two suspects at the first landing of the stairs. The guards questioned the intruders and the two said they were looking for someone, but weren't sure whom, according to Waters. It was then that one of the men pulled a knife and said, 'You can't hurt doing this.'"

"The two security guards did not pull their guns, according to the police."

Floating to the top

Lashes out at administrators

Galanti wins at hearing

by Steven A. Berger

It took 20 minutes for the college Judicial Board last week to decide if it had the right to remove Council of Student Leaders President Keith Galanti from office.

The verdict: "No grounds for impeachment," said Richard Doehmeyer, chairman of the Judicial Board.

The board decided to consider impeachment after hearing a report from the Rev. Richard A. LaMorte, assistant dean of student affairs last week. The report alleged that Galanti was guilty of "negligence of duty" and the "mishandling of student funds," according to Dougherty.

Both allegations stemmed from an incident prior to this semester in which Galanti and Dirt Pit Men, an unofficial group, have allegedly funded an off-campus party with student funds.

LaMorte said the report the he made to the Judicial Board reflected an attitude problem on Galanti's part. "His behavior has manifested a lack of respect for other student leaders," he added. "It's a question of the attitude of student leaders and some administrators.

"In the face of certain administrative pressure," said Galanti, "the students at Marist are seen as cattle herded together, caged in by students Leaders in so irresponsible a manner as we have witnessed just past week?"

"To make accusations," said Galanti, "and to question credibility (of student officers) with little or no cause seems to me to be a very poor way to handle the privileges of that office. The students at Marist must be made aware of this grid lock.

"Galanti said there were serious differences between current student leaders and some administrators.

"In the eyes of certain administrators," said Galanti, "the students at Marist are seen as cattle headed together, caged in by a bureaucracy, red tape and forms. Occasionally, a group of students will go to the Judicial Board and appeal the status quo. They stand up for student rights and allow the student body to see over the obstacles."

"While cleared of impeachment, Galanti is still subject to disciplinary action as a student on any charge that may arise from the incident."

According to Dougherty, there have been discovered by students. "To get into the system is a combination of imagination and luck," Hawkinson said.

"The computer science majors agree that the problems between students arise when students care less about passwords. A student who finds the password is your accessible to that account. The most common form of abuse described was about students who play games in the terminal room. Cathy Petersen, a

Continued on page 2

2 area men charged
after knife incident

by Mark Stuart

Two Dutchess County men were arrested Saturday in connection with a break-in at a Marist townhouse in which two campus terminals were broken into with a knife.

Clayton Williams, 30, of Beacon, N.Y., was charged with second-degree criminal trespass, menacing and criminal possession of a weapon, according to Poughkeepsie Town Police.

Also arrested was Larry Williams, 23, of Fishkill, N.Y., who was charged with second-degree criminal trespass and escape according to the police. The two suspects are not related.

The incident occurred at 2:50 a.m. Saturday at townhouse A-4, according to Joe Waters, director of security and safety.

Two men were spotted trying the doors to townhouses A-7, A-6 and A-5 and then entered townhouse A-4. The guard found the unlocked door. Marist security guards were not there witness the incident and reduced the dispatcher on duty.

The two guards, who asked to remain anonymous, approached the suspects in townhouse A-4.

"We dispatched the dispatcher to call police and told South End security personnel to assist the North End guards."

"Upon entering, the North End security guards found the two suspects at the first landing of the stairs. The guards questioned the intruders and the two said they were looking for someone, but weren't sure whom, according to Waters. It was then that one of the men pulled a knife and said, 'You can't hurt doing this.'"

"The two security guards did not pull their guns, according to the police."

Floating to the top

Lashes out at administrators

Galanti wins at hearing

by Steven A. Berger

It took 20 minutes for the college Judicial Board last week to decide if it had the right to remove Council of Student Leaders President Keith Galanti from office.

The verdict: "No grounds for impeachment," said Richard Doehmeyer, chairman of the Judicial Board.

The board decided to consider impeachment after hearing a report from the Rev. Richard A. LaMorte, assistant dean of student affairs last week. The report alleged that Galanti was guilty of "negligence of duty" and the "mishandling of student funds," according to Dougherty.

Both allegations stemmed from an incident prior to this semester in which Galanti and Dirt Pit Men, an unofficial group, have allegedly funded an off-campus party with student funds.

LaMorte said the report the he made to the Judicial Board reflected an attitude problem on Galanti's part. "His behavior has manifested a lack of respect for other student leaders," he added. "It's a question of the attitude of student leaders and some administrators.

"In the eyes of certain administrators," said Galanti, "the students at Marist are seen as cattle herded together, caged in by students Leaders in so irresponsible a manner as we have witnessed just past week?"

"To make accusations," said Galanti, "and to question credibility (of student officers) with little or no cause seems to me to be a very poor way to handle the privileges of that office. The students at Marist must be made aware of this grid lock.

"Galanti said there were serious differences between current student leaders and some administrators.

"In the eyes of certain administrators," said Galanti, "the students at Marist are seen as cattle headed together, caged in by a bureaucracy, red tape and forms. Occasionally, a group of students will go to the Judicial Board and appeal the status quo. They stand up for student rights and allow the student body to see over the obstacles."

"While cleared of impeachment, Galanti is still subject to disciplinary action as a student on any charge that may arise from the incident."

According to Dougherty, there
Computer

Continued from page 1

Some computer media readers commented one time when the computer was not working to the assistant in the terminal room, "It was working fine when I was using it." However, according to some students, it was not working when they tried to use it. The assistant who worked at the terminal room had no idea what was wrong with the computer, and she didn't have enough knowledge to fix it. The computer was not working properly for some time.

This year, there are plans to purchase new computer terminals. The university has decided to invest in new equipment to improve the computer system. The new terminals will be more powerful and reliable than the current ones. The installation of the new terminals is expected to be completed by the end of the year. The university hopes that the new terminals will improve the overall computer system and provide better services to the students.

For more information, please visit the computer science department website at http://www.marist.edu/computer.

Elections for Freshmen Class Officers will be held on Monday, October 10 and Tuesday, October 11.

Table: Fall Specials

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Monday Nights</th>
<th>Tuesday Nights</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Monday - Friday</td>
<td>Monday - Friday</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Breakfast - Lunch - Dinner</td>
<td>Breakfast - Lunch - Dinner</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>$10.00 Haircut</td>
<td>$10.00 Haircut</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Renaissance Pub</td>
<td>Renaissance Pub</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>VARAZZANO BLVD</td>
<td>VARAZZANO BLVD</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>486-9278</td>
<td>486-9278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Open 24 Hours</td>
<td>Open 24 Hours</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Zemba show October 13

The Zemba show will feature a segment of Linda Marie Zemba, a junior music major who is pursuing a degree in music management. Linda Marie Zemba was invited to perform at the show. Miss Gross, a junior music major, will be a guest at the Zemba show. The show will take place on October 13th at the gym. The show will feature various music performances. The show is open to the public, and admission is free.

Marin

Marin said that the extended hours were beneficial to the students, but they also caused some confusion. If a student wanted to use a program that was only available during extended hours, they had to ensure that they were available at those times. If they missed the extended hours, they would have to wait until the next day to use the program. Some students found this system to be frustrating.

According to Marin, if a student needed to use a program during extended hours, they had to ensure that they were available at those times. If they were not available, they had to wait until the next day to use the program. Some students found this system to be frustrating.

According to Marin, if a student needed to use a program during extended hours, they had to ensure that they were available at those times. If they were not available, they had to wait until the next day to use the program. Some students found this system to be frustrating.

According to Marin, if a student needed to use a program during extended hours, they had to ensure that they were available at those times. If they were not available, they had to wait until the next day to use the program. Some students found this system to be frustrating.

According to Marin, if a student needed to use a program during extended hours, they had to ensure that they were available at those times. If they were not available, they had to wait until the next day to use the program. Some students found this system to be frustrating.
Contrary to some people's popular belief, The Circle is composed of reporters, not press agents. They do not report the facts in an honest and professional manner. They are not here for the truth and justice. They are not here for the public good. They are not here for the public. And they have asked the students to report what we are here for. And they have asked them to do? They're just sitting around, waiting for story ideas to come to them, waiting for their next assignment.

---

Page 5 - THE CIRCLE - October 6, 1983

Readers Write

Contrary to some people's popular belief, The Circle is composed of reporters, not press agents. They do not report the facts in an honest and professional manner. They are not here for the truth and justice. They are not here for the public good. They are not here for the public. And they have asked the students to report what we are here for. And they have asked them to do? They're just sitting around, waiting for story ideas to come to them, waiting for their next assignment.

---

Page 6 - THE CIRCLE - October 6, 1983

Televiwy

A Team isn't for everyone

by Richard Cep

A black wax with a red label and a white record store sticker sits on my shelf after the long-awaited opening of the fall television season. I was one of those who eagerly embraced the idea of "A-Team" this season, back when the show was at the free slot. But as the weeks went by, my enthusiasm was replaced by a steady stream of incomprehensible dialogue and nonsensical action. The show lost me completely after the first episode, and I gave up after the second.

---

Page 16 - THE CIRCLE - October 6, 1983

Television

A Team isn't for everyone

by Richard Cep

A black wax with a red label and a white record store sticker sits on my shelf after the long-awaited opening of the fall television season. I was one of those who eagerly embraced the idea of "A-Team" this season, back when the show was at the free slot. But as the weeks went by, my enthusiasm was replaced by a steady stream of incomprehensible dialogue and nonsensical action. The show lost me completely after the first episode, and I gave up after the second.

---

Page 17 - THE CIRCLE - October 6, 1983

Television

A Team isn't for everyone

by Richard Cep

A black wax with a red label and a white record store sticker sits on my shelf after the long-awaited opening of the fall television season. I was one of those who eagerly embraced the idea of "A-Team" this season, back when the show was at the free slot. But as the weeks went by, my enthusiasm was replaced by a steady stream of incomprehensible dialogue and nonsensical action. The show lost me completely after the first episode, and I gave up after the second.

---

Page 18 - THE CIRCLE - October 6, 1983

Television

A Team isn't for everyone

by Richard Cep

A black wax with a red label and a white record store sticker sits on my shelf after the long-awaited opening of the fall television season. I was one of those who eagerly embraced the idea of "A-Team" this season, back when the show was at the free slot. But as the weeks went by, my enthusiasm was replaced by a steady stream of incomprehensible dialogue and nonsensical action. The show lost me completely after the first episode, and I gave up after the second.

---

Page 19 - THE CIRCLE - October 6, 1983

Television

A Team isn't for everyone

by Richard Cep

A black wax with a red label and a white record store sticker sits on my shelf after the long-awaited opening of the fall television season. I was one of those who eagerly embraced the idea of "A-Team" this season, back when the show was at the free slot. But as the weeks went by, my enthusiasm was replaced by a steady stream of incomprehensible dialogue and nonsensical action. The show lost me completely after the first episode, and I gave up after the second.

---

Page 20 - THE CIRCLE - October 6, 1983

Television

A Team isn't for everyone

by Richard Cep

A black wax with a red label and a white record store sticker sits on my shelf after the long-awaited opening of the fall television season. I was one of those who eagerly embraced the idea of "A-Team" this season, back when the show was at the free slot. But as the weeks went by, my enthusiasm was replaced by a steady stream of incomprehensible dialogue and nonsensical action. The show lost me completely after the first episode, and I gave up after the second.

---

Page 21 - THE CIRCLE - October 6, 1983

Television

A Team isn't for everyone

by Richard Cep

A black wax with a red label and a white record store sticker sits on my shelf after the long-awaited opening of the fall television season. I was one of those who eagerly embraced the idea of "A-Team" this season, back when the show was at the free slot. But as the weeks went by, my enthusiasm was replaced by a steady stream of incomprehensible dialogue and nonsensical action. The show lost me completely after the first episode, and I gave up after the second.
Thursday Morning Quarterback

John Bakke

The newest coach

One of the new faces in the team is Coach John Bakke, the women’s basketball coach. Bakke went to Marist last year to lead the women’s basketball team to success. He brought his team to several games and scored many points. This year, Bakke is leading the women’s basketball team to greater heights.

Friday Night Football

Men’s Varsity Swimming and Diving Team

Position: Team Manager

Date: Oct. 10 - Feb. 25

Please contact Larry VanVagner

Ext. 321 or 415
Iona ruins Marist homecoming, 27-0

There were 2,316 at Leonidoff Field Saturday, most of them looking for a homecoming football victory. Instead, the record crowd saw Iona's Gaels stamp on the Red Foxes, winning by the score of 27-0.

Iona quarterback Jim Lombardi had a part of all those touchdowns, running for the first and passing for the others. The score started and finished with field goals by kicker Rob McKeon.

The loss sank Marist 1-2, a record that'll be taken to Brooklyn College this Friday at 8 p.m. The Foxes dominated Brooklyn last year 42-0.

"The entire Marist football team played below expectations," said coach Mike Malot after the game. "We played poorly all around, on both offense and defense."

They sure did. The Red Foxes gained only six first downs to Iona's 17, and their 73 net yards were more than quadrupled by the Gaels 377. It was the second straight game in which Marist's offense gained less than one-fourth the total yards of its opponents.

A scoreless first quarter contained the Iona bright spot for the Foxes. Warren Weller caught a 13-yard pass from Lombardi, giving him the Iona-McKeon 32 field goal — Lombardi 8 run (uncovered)

They opened the scoring for Marist just five minutes into the game on a Lombardi (McKeon kick)

INDIVIDUAL LEADERS

Passing — Iona, Lombardi 11-25-1-217; Marist, Cleary 6-22-2-88

Rushing — Iona, Caples 2 pass from Lombardi; Marist, Caples 42 yards, (LaBorne pass from Lombardi)

Passing yards — Iona 187, Marist 141

Return yards — Iona 15, Marist 73

Penalties — Iona 7-67, Marist 8-70

First downs — Iona 17, Marist 6

Rushes-yards — Iona 1-5, Marist 7-36

Points — Iona 21, Marist 0

Field goals — Iona 3, Marist 0

Punts — Iona 6-30, Marist 10-30

Punting average — Iona 23.8, Marist 19.0

Passing average — Iona 11-25-1-217, Marist 6-22-2-88

Rushing average — Iona 1.0, Marist 5.2

Soccer team earns second

by Frank Raggo

The Marist College soccer team recorded its second victory of the year last Friday by beating Siena College 3-0. In doing so, the team equalized their total scoring output of the season.

Earlier last week, the team traveled to Hartwick University, who is undefeated and ranked 12th in the country. The outcome wasn't a surprise. Hartwick defeated the Foxes 6-0, handing Marist its fifth loss this year and the fourth time they have been held scoreless.

"We wouldn't have beaten them with last year's team," said junior Joe Valette-Costa. "They were the best team I have ever played against."

Dr. Howard Goldman, head coach of Marist, gave the team a day off from practice before Friday's game against Siena. "I'm just trying to stay on top of things," said Goldman. "We lost to a good team, one of the best we'll play."

What was the team's attitude following a loss to a top team? "We're not dying; the spirits are good," said Goldman. It proved to be true because the following day Marist shutout Siena, the second blanking of the year for Marist just five minutes into the game on a stunning pass from midfielder Mike Terril."