RA fired, freshman suspended after brawl

by Leo Ann Seelig

A fist fight involving five freshmen and three Marist Assistants last Tuesday morning outside Skinner's has resulted in the suspension of two freshmen. The incident is one very special to the Marist College community—part of our responsibility is to protect the rights of those students.

The fight was between five freshmen and three aides at Caputo's Italian Pizzeria. "Like a molotov cocktail." Caputo also said that the fire at Joe's Italian Pizza was caused by the same method.

According to Frey, everyone involved in the fight agreed to pay a portion of the bill to repair the place. However, Frey said that they receive no support from the Fairview Fire Department. Marist College, Poughkeepsie, N.Y. Marist College, Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

A family's fight for little girl's life

"They like to keep monitoring how she's doing," Quinn said. "Like just any 3-year-old, there are times when she's less than willing to cooperate, but for the most part she's pretty good about it all," he said. "She knows that she has cystic fibrosis; we've told her that. The way we've explained it is that everybody has a problem — her daddy has hay fever — and she knows how to deal with it."

"We haven't told her that she probably won't live past her 30s, but she's told Mrs. Quinn, "she might not fully comprehend that herself, who is she going to say what will happen?"

"Quinn found out that Jennah's illness is hard to live with sometimes. "The toughest part of it psychologically is the ups and downs," he said. "One day she'll be doing well and the next day she'll be coughing heavily, everything she does is just turned around on you. It's worse now than it was before."

CF victims now have more hope

By John Bakke

Cystic fibrosis is the number one cause of death in children in the United States, according to the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. The disease causes the body to produce excessive amounts of thick mucus, which can obstruct the lungs and digestive system. According to the foundation, only about 5,000 children born with CF are expected to live beyond three years of age. That's because the disease, which is caused by a defective gene, causes the body to produce too much mucus that can block the flow of air and also lubricate the digestive system. People with CF have to learn to control the mucus, which can be eliminated in a variety of ways. The disease can actually suffocate in the air as it is produced an abnormally large amount of mucus, which ac-

Fire alarm system at Marist passes its exam

by Christian Despero

Marist College in Poughkeepsie, N.Y., which is home to the New York State Chapter of the American Lung Association, was recently the site of a major fire alarm system test. The test was conducted by the Fire Alarm Services Department of Diversified Services, Inc., a company that specializes in fire protection systems.

The test consisted of simultaneously activating all the fire alarms in the school's computer center and the student services building. The alarm system was then tested by the New York State Fire Marshal's Office, which is responsible for ensuring that all fire alarm systems meet safety standards.

The test was successful, and the alarm system was certified as operational. The fire alarm system is used to alert the campus community in case of a fire emergency, and it is an important part of Marist's overall fire prevention and evacuation plan.

The fire alarm system at Marist is maintained by the Fire Alarm Services Department of Diversified Services, Inc., and it is regularly tested to ensure that it is functioning properly. The department also provides training and education to the campus community on how to use the fire alarm system in case of an emergency.

The test was part of a larger effort to improve the safety and security of the campus. Marist College is committed to providing a safe and secure environment for all members of the campus community, and the fire alarm system is an important component of that effort.

Be sure to join us for more updates on the fire alarm system and other safety and security initiatives at Marist College. Stay tuned for more news from the campus!

To the Editor:

For many people who do not have a chance to travel, they have more people who do not have a chance to travel, and that is true in this case.

The situation is similar to what happened in the Bahamas, although small and limited to a single area, the tourism industry is still suffering from a loss of appeal.

For those who are concerned with the situation, there aren't many activities! It's time to participate in activities! Those who complain of being bored. Who are they looking for things to do? It's time to participate in activities!

A place to grow

by John Bakke

There’s a planned, a bull field, a big gray singles night in the park. There’s a moon phase and it’s time. Our heroes and heroines have arrived and the story is complete.

Residence of the Poughkeepsie Children’s Home have quite a bit to offer you. They might even offer you a job in the future.

The house has become much more diverse. Listed here are some of the problems that residents have had to face because they need to be dealt with.

Almost 60 percent of the children removed are from single-parent homes. Here on our own lives, or at least are put in care when they become physically disabled.

The state has always been willing to help with any therapy that they can. These children’s lives have been made much easier when they receive therapy.

Internship grading change causes controversy

by Thomas Feldman

The change in the grading system is causing controversy among students. The old system, which included letter grades and a pass/fail option, has been replaced with a pass/fail grading system. This change has caused many students to react negatively.

Many students feel that the letter grade system worked better because it allows students to know their exact performance. In contrast, the pass/fail system only indicates whether they passed or failed the course.

Several students have expressed their displeasure with the new system. One student said, "I feel like I am getting a letter grade but I am not. The pass/fail system doesn't give me the same feedback as a letter grade." Another student added, "It's just not fair. I worked hard for my letter grade, and now it's been taken away from me."

Some students also feel that the pass/fail system is unfair. "It's not fair that I have to pass a course to get credit. I should be able to choose whether I want to do the work or not," said one student.

Others feel that the new system is a step in the right direction. "I think the pass/fail system is a good idea. It's more flexible and allows for creativity," said a student.

In conclusion, the change in the grading system has caused controversy among students. While some feel that the pass/fail system is unfair, others believe it is a step in the right direction. The debate continues as students and faculty try to determine the best way to grade students.
Ice-cold showers caused by student overload

by Kris Lawas

You've just woken from a terrible dream. You grab your towel and head for the showers. You're soaked, cold and hungry, but the showers are non-functional. The only way to get hot water is to use the hot water system, and that means waiting in line for a long time. It seems like there's no end to the problem. According to your dreams, you've been waiting for your showers for what feels like a week, but in reality it's only been a few minutes. You're starting to feel very frustrated and disappointed. You haven't been able to take a shower for what seems like forever, and you're starting to wonder if you'll ever get clean again. But then you remember that you're Michael Caruso, explained that help as well as financial backing is for convention New York State descended on pagnat Hall. Loyola managed to trim the lead down to 10 but not before Keith

Smith slammed dunked twice in the final six minutes of play in the half. As the half Marist led 34-26.

In the first half Marist had the Red Foxes, in the words of Marist Head Coach Ron Petro, "came out smoking." After a slightly lax second half start, the Foxes picked up their pace and exchanging the lead with the Terriers. Marist managed to break away from St. Francis and stretch the lead to five points. In the last two minutes of play, Denis made three dunks two of them within the last minute of play. His last dunk, a picture-perfect reverse, earned him a technical foul for banging the rim on the way down. Terriers Edgar DeLaRosa could not convert the technical foul shot and the game ended Marist 66, St. Francis 61.

Last Saturday the Marist Red Foxes basketball team defeated the Loyola Greyhounds in a brawl-filled game in Maryland. Steve Smith led all scorers with 22 points while Ted Taylor and Paul Donovan scored 14 points each. The Greyhounds managed to get only 24 points.
