Questions raised about inspection of Western

by Carl McGowan

Although Marist has received a Certificate of Occupancy for the student apartments run by the Fairview Fire Department, problems are still being raised about the adequacy of the building inspection.

"Chief Dick Dormeyer of the Fairview Fire Department, when asked in a recent interview if Western meets the fire codes, said, "Nobody has asked me to check it (the building)."

Dormeyer's comments, adding, "I don't see how you can have a temporary certificate when you're dealing with individuals."

However, Dormeyer also said there has been a "long-standing problem" in his department of needed inspections, including safety bars for the handicapped and new doors in the rear corridors, in order to acquire a final certificate for Western.

Dormeyer, however, charged that the temporary certificate was not valid, is therefore invalid. "It's nothing new that we have not before," Dormeyer pointed to the opening of the townhouses in September 1983 as an example. "Marist has got close," Dormeyer continued.

Town of Poughkeepsie Supervisor Anne Buchholz, when asked to comment on these charges, chuckled and said, "I've been involved with them."

According to Tarantino, the special committee that was in charge of the inspection was in charge at the time Marist rented the space, and that was the time the problems occurred. She said the new alarm systems and emergency lighting only provide added safety. "Our system now is better than what we had."

Tarantino also indicated that she would contact Dormeyer to discuss the situation.

The building inspector doesn't think it if it doesn't meet the building codes," said Waters.

"We look at the physical plant, called a fire inspector," Dormeyer said that the Western is safe for occupancy.

Taratino said that her department has inspected new installation of doors and storage areas in the newer dormitories and the smoke detector is, and the other is set for a fire inspection.

Taratino also said that there has been a "long-standing problem" in her department of needed inspections, including safety bars for the handicapped and new doors in the rear corridors, in order to acquire a final certificate for Western.

Taratino, however, charged that the temporary certificate was not valid, is therefore invalid. "It's nothing new that we have not before," Dormeyer pointed to the opening of the townhouses in September 1983 as an example. "Marist has got close," Dormeyer continued.

Taratino also indicated that she would contact Dormeyer to discuss the situation.

The judicial Board is nearing a decision this week concerning the legitimacy of the Class of 1985 election.

A complaint contesting the election was filed by junior Roger Romano the current president of the Class of 1985, who claims that the presidential position is Jim Murphy by ten votes. Roger's main grievance is that he is in charge of the town's fire department. "Western is safe for occupancy," he is in charge of the town's fire department.

He claims that the temporary certificate was not valid, is therefore invalid. "It's nothing new that we have not before," Dormeyer pointed to the opening of the townhouses in September 1983 as an example. "Marist has got close," Dormeyer continued.

Taratino also indicated that she would contact Dormeyer to discuss the situation.

The judicial Board is nearing a decision this week concerning the legitimacy of the Class of 1985 election.

A complaint contesting the election was filed by junior Roger Romano the current president of the Class of 1985, who claims that the presidential position is Jim Murphy by ten votes. Roger's main grievance is that he is in charge of the town's fire department. "Western is safe for occupancy," he is in charge of the town's fire department.

He claims that the temporary certificate was not valid, is therefore invalid. "It's nothing new that we have not before," Dormeyer pointed to the opening of the townhouses in September 1983 as an example. "Marist has got close," Dormeyer continued.

Taratino also indicated that she would contact Dormeyer to discuss the situation.

The judicial Board is nearing a decision this week concerning the legitimacy of the Class of 1985 election.

A complaint contesting the election was filed by junior Roger Romano the current president of the Class of 1985, who claims that the presidential position is Jim Murphy by ten votes. Roger's main grievance is that he is in charge of the town's fire department. "Western is safe for occupancy," he is in charge of the town's fire department.

He claims that the temporary certificate was not valid, is therefore invalid. "It's nothing new that we have not before," Dormeyer pointed to the opening of the townhouses in September 1983 as an example. "Marist has got close," Dormeyer continued.

Taratino also indicated that she would contact Dormeyer to discuss the situation.

A complaint contesting the election was filed by junior Roger Romano the current president of the Class of 1985, who claims that the presidential position is Jim Murphy by ten votes. Roger's main grievance is that he is in charge of the town's fire department. "Western is safe for occupancy," he is in charge of the town's fire department.

He claims that the temporary certificate was not valid, is therefore invalid. "It's nothing new that we have not before," Dormeyer pointed to the opening of the townhouses in September 1983 as an example. "Marist has got close," Dormeyer continued.

Taratino also indicated that she would contact Dormeyer to discuss the situation.

A complaint contesting the election was filed by junior Roger Romano the current president of the Class of 1985, who claims that the presidential position is Jim Murphy by ten votes. Roger's main grievance is that he is in charge of the town's fire department. "Western is safe for occupancy," he is in charge of the town's fire department.

He claims that the temporary certificate was not valid, is therefore invalid. "It's nothing new that we have not before," Dormeyer pointed to the opening of the townhouses in September 1983 as an example. "Marist has got close," Dormeyer continued.

Taratino also indicated that she would contact Dormeyer to discuss the situation.
Computer grant requires 5 staff additions

by Michael T. Regan

The Computer Center, in response to the increasing number of users and the growing computing power, has been forced to hire five new staff members to handle the increased workload and maintain operations. The budget for the new positions is estimated at $2.5 million, which is 50% of the annual budget of the Center.

The five new staff members will be responsible for various tasks, including setting up new accounts, managing the computer systems, and providing technical support to users.

The Center has been able to secure the funds for the new hires through a grant from the National Science Foundation. The grant will provide $1,500,000 for the first year, with the possibility of extending the grant for another year.

The new staff members will begin their work in the next six months, with the hiring process already underway.

The Computer Center, located in room 310 of the Science Hall, has been providing computer services to the campus community for over 10 years. The Center has grown significantly over the years, with a steady increase in the number of users and the complexity of the services provided.

The grant will enable the Center to expand its services and improve its infrastructure, ensuring that the campus community has access to the latest technology and services.

NWMCR has a heart that option begins

by Catherine DeRosa

The NWMCR (Northwest Marist College Radio) has embarked on a radiothon to raise funds for the American Heart Association. The radiothon, titled "The Chance," will take place on Thursday, April 12, from 3 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The radiothon aims to raise $5,000 to support the American Heart Association's mission of promoting heart health and preventing heart disease. Donations can be made by calling 555-1234 or visiting the NWMCR website.

The radiothon will feature live music, interviews, and special segments to keep listeners engaged. The event will be hosted by NWMCR's staff members, who will take turns presenting different segments and segments.

The radiothon is open to the public, and listeners are encouraged to tune in and make donations to support heart health. NWMCR's staff members are excited to share the message of heart health and raise funds for a cause that affects us all.

The American Heart Association's mission is to promote healthy hearts and minds, and the funds raised through the radiothon will support research, education, and advocacy efforts. The organization works to prevent heart disease and stroke, and to promote cardiovascular health for all Americans.

The radiothon is a significant event for NWMCR, and the staff members are committed to making a difference in the lives of those affected by heart disease. They are grateful for the support of the Marist community and the wider community, and they look forward to seeing the results of their efforts.

River Day '84 — Marist gets ready again

by Terry Akal

The 25th annual River Day event is scheduled for April 21, 1984, with participants from various organizations and departments on campus. The event is a celebration of the contributions that Marist College has made to the community and the environment.

This year, the River Day event will focus on water conservation and clean-up efforts. The event will feature various activities, including a river clean-up, a water conservation workshop, and a river conservation presentation.

The River Day event is an opportunity for the Marist community to come together and work towards a common goal of preserving the environment. The event is open to the public, and participants are encouraged to bring their friends and family along to participate in the activities.

The River Day event is supported by various organizations and departments on campus, including the Marist College Center for Community Engagement, the Marist College Office of Sustainability, and the Marist College Office of Student Affairs.

The event is an important opportunity for the Marist community to come together and work towards a common goal of preserving the environment. It is an opportunity for participants to learn about the importance of water conservation and to take action towards a healthier environment.

The River Day event is an opportunity for the Marist community to come together and work towards a common goal of preserving the environment. It is an important part of our commitment to sustainability and to the betterment of the community.
Raising the age: A bartender’s perspective

By Mark A. Stuart

Raising the age to 21 is a matter of grade school when you just jump in the deep end and not worry about being physically fit to get the job. It would make a difference if things would break up and we would have a better plan. It's not that we want to make changes, it's just that we have to make changes and we all know it.

I think it's important to look at the whole picture and how we can make changes. We have to make changes and we all know it. It's not that we want to make changes, it's just that we have to make changes and we all know it.
Thursday, April 12

Noon Mass:
Donnelly Fine Norgaard

Film Series:
Affairs 11 a.m.

9 a.m. & noon Fireside

Friday, April 13

Pub Nite:
Toga Dance:
9 p.m.

Political Meeting:
Kristina

Performance:
11 a.m.

The actor who leads an open to all, but there will be no meetings. The MCR will be taken off the campus that I'm thinking serious­ness. Thanks for the support.

Letters

Tuesday, April 14

5 p.m. Thursday — May 3

The Pub

Address to the Editor:
To the Editor:

Roosevelt called himself a "true

Reform if you would preserve. I therefore, I am a "fair and just"

Reformer." As the liberals and conservatives identified by him with conservative parties, the Republicans and 1936 she was 22 years old.

We refer to the letter off our cor­

nors, two people who are always

counting the cost of their lives.

The French are good at looking

in the eyes, they are very direct.

would make life much easier. Even day are not affected by the copy of the circle. We hope you have some

You can contact the American

American attitudes. Yes, the Americans are generally happy to our censor­ capitalism in the saddle and as mism identified by him with conservative parties, the Republicans and

We refer to the letter off our cor­

nors, two people who are always

counting the cost of their lives.

The French are good at looking

in the eyes, they are very direct.

would make life much easier. Even Experimental theater slated series of one-act plays

by John Albenson

Some young playwrights will be presented by the Experimental Theater Workshop, taught by Gerald A. Cox, dean of student affairs and professor in music. It is one of the 23 classes being held during the month of March in the arts/theater department. The workshop will be held in Ted Aronoff's office. The students are all Marist College students and are required to be enrolled in the class.

Security and the Interhouse parking regulations ended, leaving... by Holly A. Sraeil

The council is very disappointed with how the parking situation is handled. The council and commuter union have asked to meet with the administration and have not been able to schedule a meeting. The council is still trying to get answers from the administration on the parking situation.

Winter parking policy pondered

by Holly A. Sraeil

On March 31 the winter parking regulations go into effect. The council and the commuter union are struggling to come up with a solution to the parking problem. The council and the commuter union are working together to come up with a solution to the parking problem.

New officers elected for '84-'85

by Douglas Deere

The need for greater campus unity and more student input concerning school events is growing. This year's class officers have been elected and they are working hard to make the campus a better place for all students.

Women singers gain honors

The choir is now a member of the Catholic Hymn Society and is receiving recognition for its work. The choir is practicing for a potential performance in the campus chapel. The choir is also practicing for a potential performance in the campus chapel.

Class of '87

by Mary Esmeele

With a total of 17 votes, Sue Ryan won the race for the Class of '87 president in the April 5 elections. Ryan, who is currently class councilor, believes that the biggest problem facing the class is the lack of unity. Ryan also believes that the officers for the Freshman class last year did not carry over to this year. Ryan also believes that the officers for the Freshman class last year did not carry over to this year.

The Residence Halls will close at 11:00 p.m. on Thursday, April 19, 1984. Dinner will be served from 4:30 p.m. - 5:45 p.m. for students who have evening classes and are on the meal plan.

The Residence Halls will reopen at 12:00 Noon on Monday, April 23, 1984. The cafeteria will reopen for the evening meal.

EASTER CLOSING

April 19 - 23, 1984

The Residence Halls will close at 11:00 p.m. on Thursday, April 19, 1984.

Dinner will be served from 4:30 p.m. to 5:45 p.m. for students who have evening classes and are on the meal plan.

The Residence Halls will reopen at 12:00 Noon on Monday, April 23, 1984.

The cafeteria will reopen for the evening meal.

Interest students should submit a sample of not more than 500 words to Christine Dempsey, Box 857, by May 5. Applicants should include on-campus address with samples.

The Marist College Circle K Club is sponsoring their Third Annual Dance Marathon. The club is attempting to raise over $10,000 to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association. The dance marathon will take place from 5 p.m. on April 19 to 9 a.m. on April 20. The dance marathon will be held in the Stone Lounge from noon on April 19 to 5 p.m. on April 20. Participants are expected to collect pledges from their friends and family for every minute they spend dancing. The dance marathon will take place in the Stone Lounge from noon on April 19 to 5 p.m. on April 20. Participants are expected to collect pledges from their friends and family for every minute they spend dancing.
Spring fashion show to be held; students will display creations

by yolanda poulton

Designer posters and a slide show are two vintage features that will be included in this spring's fashion show. The event, which will be held in the McCann Center March 22 through April 3, is the fashion room's Parents Weekend.

This year's show is under the new direction of Ann Froman. The new director is hoping to improve the fashion show, which last year was marred by a fire in the theater.

"The fashion show is being redone completely," explains Froman. "I hope that we will have a more effective show this year."

The show includes designer appearances which will be arranged with the help of Columbia University's premier women's group. "I am looking for women who are involved in the fashion industry," Froman said.

The show will also feature scholarships for students interested in the fashion industry. "I am hoping that some of the people who are interested in the fashion industry will take advantage of these scholarships," Froman said.

Designers and designers-to-be will be honored at the fashion show. "I am hoping that the show will be an opportunity for the designers to display their work," Froman said.

"I am very excited about this year's show," Froman said. "I think that it will be a very successful show."
Lacrosse squads drubbed 17-9 by Maritime

by James Norman

The Marist College lacrosse team was a victim of the elements this past week. Bad weather forced the squad into an 11-day layoff, and when Marist finally did practice, it lost to New York Maritime Academy by 17-9.

After a well-played 9-6 loss to Keane College on March 28, the team idle until Saturday, when it travelled to New York Maritime. Even before the Keane game, the Rensselaer News didn't allow the team to practice outdoors often enough.

New York Maritime, a Keifferherger Conference rival, took full advantage of Marist's inactivity. They attacked the Marist goal all game in registering their 17 goals, six more than Marist had allowed in the two previous games combined.

Despite the eight-goal deficit, Marist had some bright spots, particularly three goals each from David Naar and Danny Arnold.

Naar, a senior, and Arnold, an impressive freshman with a bright future in Marist lacrosse, are the leading goal scorers on the team with triple each. They've shared each other all season, with one matching the other in goals every game.

Both Naar and Arnold had five goals in the 17-2 rout of the City College of New York in the season opener. Each had a goal in the Keane game, and then each scored three goals against New York Maritime.

Tom Daly added two goals against NYMA to bring his season total to four. Larry McNeill, who also has four goals on the season, had three assists in the game.

NYMA's Kevin Manner had a spectacular game, with four goals and three assists. His teammate, John Swanson, had a pretty fair game himself with two goals and a whippin' free throw.

The New York Maritime loss dropped Marist's record to one win and two losses on the young season. The team's next home game is this Saturday against Fairleigh Dickinson.

---

Tennis team loses first match at home, second of '84 season

by Michael Lawen

The Marist College men's tennis team lost its second straight match Monday, 9-2 to the Englestaff of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, at home.

Bob Scherr lost in three sets after winning a first-set victory.

Scharr, the team's first seed, missed the team's first match but returned as the team's second senior.

Marist coach Gerry Brennan said inexperience was the key to Rensselaer's domination of the Red Foxes.

---

Women's basketball team fund raising as supplement to budget money

by Terry Abad

"Rensselaer is always a smart, well-coached team," said Brennan. "This year they returned with the same people they had last year." Brennan noted that the large amount of freshmen on Marist's squad is a disadvantage, but added, "I think the kids will be alright after a few matches."

Marist players won only two sets of the three games. On Scherr in 7-5, 3-6, 6-3 losses to RPI's Lajos Horvath, and one in BillBowby's 6-2, 6-3 loss to RPI's Pat Lilley.

Junior second seed Joe Giulinia was blanked 0-6, 0-6.

Marist is on the road for its next four matches beginning on April 2 at Bard College. The team then travels to Drew College on April 14, and then to Ramapo College on April 17.

The team finishes up with a match at Simmons College on April 20 before returning to the home court at the Galloher Athletic Center on April 24.

"We haven't been matched against Rensselaer and Ramapo will be among the toughest of the season," Brennan said.

Marist has never lost to Bard. "Siena is always a tough match," said Brennan. "We have to work harder."

---

Sports

Two Europeans head list of Perry's recruits

by Thom Croker

Mike Perry, Marist's new men's basketball coach, has a "French connection" that may help Marist land a top prospect.

Before taking his coaching position at Marist, Perry was head coach of Stade Francais, a professional team based in Paris that included several American stars.

One of those players was 6'11" center Eric Fleury, who averaged 21 points and 12 rebounds per game at Guilford High School in New York. Fleury has been recruited by some 60-odd schools since coming to the United States from France.

Fleury said in an Albany publication that he has narrowed down his choices of schools to Marist and Siena.

Fleury also said that he will make a final decision before returning from France after playing in his country's junior national tournament, which is similar to the United States National Sports Festival.

Another French prospect has already verbally committed to attend Marist next year. Christian Garnier, a 6'6" guard-forward, was also an American at the University of Kingston from France.

Garnier has never lived in the U.S. but speaks fluent English.

Other, more domestic players that Perry is recruiting are 6'5" shooting guard Kenny Galloway from Onteora High, in Onteora, and 6'6" guard-center John Rendall from the University of New York, whose brother Chris is currently a starting center at All-American.

Galloway from Onteora High, in Onteora, is 6'10" John Naar, of Fairleigh Dickinson, in New York, whose brother Chris is currently a starting center at All-American.

Eric Fleury

---

Perry is confident he will be producing winning teams soon

by Jan O'Connor

When Mike Perry was named the new head basketball coach here at Marist, many Red Fox supporters had visions of a tawny returning home from across the Atlantic to build a prominent Division One program.

It is an image the new coach says he likes. It is an image he says he will live up to.

"I expect to deliver precisely what I've been saying," the 44-year-old Kingston native said during a recent interview. "I expect to win our league next year and get a bid to the NCAA playoffs."

Perry, after 21 winning seasons as a head coach in junior college programs ranging from Ulster County Community College to the 1980 Swedish Olympic team, was named Marist's new coach in mid-February.

The decision ended a two-month search for a successor to Ron Petro, who after 18 years as head coach of the Red Foxes resigned to devote full time to his position as athletic director.

"I was the first candidate to apply and the last to be interviewed," Perry said. "I knew Ron when I first got started. At Ulster, we said toorrent Marist when they were Division Three. I've had my eye on this job since then."

"I had to consider the opportunity of a surprise to those who followed the extensive search, but it was no surprise to the man himself. He pointed to the fact that he was the only head coach to apply, and that he's never had a losing season. His career record is 408-158.

"I consider myself as good a coach as I know," he said. "I feel that I was chosen because of the experience factor and the enthusiasm. I've shown to prove myself on the Division One level."

A graduate of Marist rival Siena College, Perry started his college coaching career at Ulster in 1965 after coaching two years in the military. With the Senators he compiled a 220-64 record over eight years and led his team to the junior college national tournament twice.

After being granted a sabbatical in 1973, Perry headed overseas to coach the Swedish national team.

"I'd never been to Scandinavia before, and they were looking for a coach," Perry said. "I thought it would be interesting, so I took the job. Basketball wasn't established there, and we introduced things they've never seen before. We set records for them right away."

Perry returned to Ulster in 1975 and coached one more season before serving a brief stint in Saudi Arabia. "I got another leave of absence from Ulster," he said recently. "He had been overseas to coach the Swedish national team.

"I was a three-year contract with the goal of getting to the Moscow Olympics," Perry said. "They told them they had to make it worthwhile, since I'd be leaving Ulster. They made it worth my while."

Continued on page 11