Mediator called into negotiations

by Denise Wible

Negotiating teams for the Marist administration and the Secretarial Clerical Association have agreed to call in a federal mediator to try to settle salary negotiations for SCA members, clerical workers. The two negotiating teams and the mediator from the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service in Albany were due to have met yesterday at 1 p.m. for the first time.

The SCA, a bargaining unit for Marist's clerical workers, has been negotiating with the administration for a new contract since the previous one expired in the beginning of July.

The three-person administration negotiating team had delivered its final offer to the SCA negotiating team Oct. 29. In response to that, the SCA negotiating team requested a federal mediator last Thursday after consulting SCA members as a group, according to Cathy Galleher, spokesperson for the negotiating team.

The administration negotiating team had stated in a letter to a federal mediator on Tuesday before the administration and SCA negotiators, according to Emily Burdis, acting spokesperson for the administration negotiating team, that the SCA was waiting for a mediator at that time because the SCA waited for a mediator negotiating solely with the administration, Gibbel said.

The SCA negotiating team later requested the mediator when negotiations had come to a complete standstill. "The administration negotiating team indicated to us that a mediator was the only way potential movement could be made," Gibbel said.

The administration's final offer was a two-year contract in which there would be a 7.5 percent increase across the board the first year and a 6 percent increase the second year with an additional pay increase for certain senior employees, Burdis said.

The increase for the first year would be split up to a 4 percent increase retroactive to July 1 and an additional 3.5 percent from Jan. 1 to June 30, 1986. The increase for the second year would be 3 percent on July 1, with the second 3 percent added on Jan. 1, 1987.

Galleher said that the final offer was disappointing and that she believes the college could afford a larger increase in clerical salaries.

Speaking for the administration negotiating team, Burdis said that the SCA's wage increases are a complicated issue. "The college has to be concerned about its financial picture and the fact that the college could afford a larger increase in clerical salaries," she said.

"An emergency meeting of all members of the SCA was called to last Wednesday to allow the members to voice their opinions to us," Gibbel said.

You're beginning to feel sleepy:

by Laverne C. Williams

Sleep. He requests the audience's silence before he faces the 24 of us on stage: sleep. We are instructed to block out all noise except his voice: sleep. A helium balloon is now at stage: sleep. Our right arm is made of someone's hand in the Bluebells: sleep, sleep, sleep.

"So there we were before an audience of approximately 300 students looking like lobsters Fortune smartphones all week from the wait up. Keen Weber, a certified hypnotherapist and the man responsible for our ridiculous positions, had used this method to chose 12 hypnotized volunteers against their will. They were all seated on stage facing the front door of the Marist College Center and allowed to leave at any time. "Sleep is more than the power of suggestion and self-relaxation. Glory (the Bluebells' guru worship her)."

"The 12 students had to sit straight up with their feet firmly planted on the ground, with palms face up in their laps. Relaxation occurred from the feet up, as Weber counted slowly from one to 10, planting hypnotic suggestions in the student's heads. "You're becoming so relaxed that you skin is tugging from your bones," he said. Lovely thought isn't it?"

Weber also demonstrated his ability to hypnotize volunteers against their will. He once hypnotized a student who chose. Next, a student from the audience, Joe, jumps up and picks a number out of a bag of 100 different numbers. Weber, who is not looking, tells Joe to pick one number and states the top line of the page number that matches the number in his pocket. After instructing Joe to think of the longest word in the top line, Weber guesses a few letters and then the entire word: "Supersensitive."

Weber also demonstrated his memory powers with the audience's help.

Townhouse residents await eviction ruling

by Christian Larsen

Nine Marist students from Townhouse C7 are currently awaiting a final decision from Gerard Cox, vice president of student affairs, on possible eviction because of alleged infractions of college policy.

The students said they were informed of the decision last Monday, but they are still waiting to hear it. Cox could not be reached for comment.

Violations of college policy were cited in connection with a party that took place Oct. 5 at C7. Four infractions were alleged: failure to register the party with housing; charging admission at the door; the presence of a minor at the party; and inappropriate behavior of a student towards housing officials outside the front door of the townhouse.

According to Housing Director Steve Sansola, the students will be split up and placed in alternate campus housing outside of the front door of the townhouse.

"Our stories differed heavily with theirs," said Fee. "It was more like a debate than anything else. Others at the meeting could not be reached for comment. The students had earlier appealed their eviction to the college Judicial Board and to Cox. Both appeals were denied, said Sansola.

Residents of the townhouse said last week that they were refusing some of the alleged infractions. Some students, however, said that the college was not looking at the alleged infractions individually. "One student chose to stay in the college instead of moving to another residence because of the noise," said Weber, who is not looking, tells Joe to pick one number and states the top line of the page number that matches the number in his pocket. After instructing Joe to think of the longest word in the top line, Weber guesses a few letters and then the entire word: "Super-sensitive."
Important! Winter Weather Parking

NO PARKING ALLOWED IN THE FOLLOWING LOCATIONS
MIDNIGHT TO 7:00 A.M.
NOVEMBER 1, 1985 TO MARCH 31, 1986

a) Benoit - in the first three rows on the South Side.
b) Champagnat - on the South/East Side.
c) Donnelly - All of Donnelly.
d) McCann - All of McCann.
e) Sheahan - All of Sheahan.

PLEASE REFER TO MAPS
Any Cars not displaying a Marist College Bumper Sticker or Guest Pass will be towed out.
Your car will be towed at owners expense.

COST:
$45 - Tow Charge, Plus Tax
$10 per day storage
$25 ticket

THANK YOU FOR YOUR COOPERATION

For further information contact:
Marist Security
Donnelly 201, tel. ext. 282

Important:
Winter Weather Parking

by Anthony Delmas

At 9 a.m., the first yellow bus makes its way down the busy streets of Poughkeepsie, New York. It is a new beginning for many students who have just begun their academic year. The bus is filled with people of all ages, some who are old and some who are young. Some are wearing their graduation caps, while others are still in their college uniform. The bus is filled with people who are excited about the new year.

During the day, the students attend classes and work on their projects. In the evening, they gather with their friends to socialize and enjoy the company of others. The students are busy with their studies and projects, and they are happy to be back on campus.

The students love their lives on campus. They enjoy the freedom and opportunities that come with being a college student. They are grateful for the chance to be a part of the college community and to have access to resources and support.

The students are looking forward to another great year, filled with challenges and opportunities. They are excited about the future and the possibilities that lie ahead.

North end land named after trustee

by Brian O'Keeffe

The Board of Trustees voted unanimously last Tuesday to name the new two-story building, to be constructed during the spring semester, after the late Mr. William H. Murray, second president of the College.

"This was a unanimous vote," said Mr. Murray, "because of his many years of service to the College and his leadership in the development of the College's facilities.

The building will be the site of the new library, which will contain over 300,000 volumes, and will also house the College's archives.

"It is a great honor to be remembered in this way," said Mr. Murray, "and I am grateful for the opportunity to be a part of this important project.

The building will be completed in the spring, and the library will be open to the public in the fall of 1985.

The library will be named after Mr. Murray, and it will be a symbol of the College's commitment to academic excellence and the advancement of knowledge.

The new library will be a place where students and faculty can come to study, to learn, and to grow. It will be a place where ideas are shared and where the human spirit is nourished.

Mr. Murray was a man of great vision and great leadership. He was a man who believed in the power of education, and he was a man who believed in the power of ideas.

He was a man who believed in the power of the human spirit, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human heart.

Mr. Murray was a man who believed in the power of the human soul, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human mind.

He was a man who believed in the power of the human spirit, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human heart.

Mr. Murray was a man who believed in the power of the human soul, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human mind.

He was a man who believed in the power of the human spirit, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human heart.

Mr. Murray was a man who believed in the power of the human soul, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human mind.

He was a man who believed in the power of the human spirit, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human heart.

Mr. Murray was a man who believed in the power of the human soul, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human mind.

He was a man who believed in the power of the human spirit, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human heart.

Mr. Murray was a man who believed in the power of the human soul, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human mind.

He was a man who believed in the power of the human spirit, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human heart.

Mr. Murray was a man who believed in the power of the human soul, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human mind.

He was a man who believed in the power of the human spirit, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human heart.

Mr. Murray was a man who believed in the power of the human soul, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human mind.

He was a man who believed in the power of the human spirit, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human heart.

Mr. Murray was a man who believed in the power of the human soul, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human mind.

He was a man who believed in the power of the human spirit, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human heart.

Mr. Murray was a man who believed in the power of the human soul, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human mind.

He was a man who believed in the power of the human spirit, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human heart.

Mr. Murray was a man who believed in the power of the human soul, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human mind.

He was a man who believed in the power of the human spirit, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human heart.

Mr. Murray was a man who believed in the power of the human soul, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human mind.

He was a man who believed in the power of the human spirit, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human heart.

Mr. Murray was a man who believed in the power of the human soul, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human mind.

He was a man who believed in the power of the human spirit, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human heart.

Mr. Murray was a man who believed in the power of the human soul, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human mind.

He was a man who believed in the power of the human spirit, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human heart.

Mr. Murray was a man who believed in the power of the human soul, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human mind.

He was a man who believed in the power of the human spirit, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human heart.

Mr. Murray was a man who believed in the power of the human soul, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human mind.

He was a man who believed in the power of the human spirit, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human heart.

Mr. Murray was a man who believed in the power of the human soul, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human mind.

He was a man who believed in the power of the human spirit, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human heart.

Mr. Murray was a man who believed in the power of the human soul, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human mind.

He was a man who believed in the power of the human spirit, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human heart.

Mr. Murray was a man who believed in the power of the human soul, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human mind.

He was a man who believed in the power of the human spirit, and he was a man who believed in the power of the human heart.
A new policy

As the Alcohol Policy committee is in the process of creating a new Marist College Alcohol policy, students should remember that the school must act within the parameters of state law. While policy can be changed, students should remember that the top priority, In dealing with this issue, the administration must be fair and open with the student body by allowing student representatives to present their ideas. As top priority, legislation requires states to adopt minimum drinking age to 21. Rules must be documented and standards set.

A view at 63

by June DeCife

Just daring to break the rather new policy on "surgically induced abortion," I wrote to you a few days ago, to ask the question: In my opinion, I believe that the decision should be left to the patient. With the advent of new policies, I believe that the decision should be left to the patient. With the advent of new policies, it became apparent that all the new policies were to be a change in the alcohol policy need not warrant a change in their total policy. The administration has much in common with the administration; those "same cries can be heard at Marist when the secret affects the President's desk but at Marist it is different."

The Real World

Lower the drinking age

by Carl McGowan

As every Marist student realizes, the campus is scheduled to hit another high this weekend. When Thanksgiving vacation begins. "It will be the best weekend of the semester," one student said. "I can't wait to hit the bars!"

But why? Why is it that our schools have become so醉酒 nowadays? There are many reasons why this is the case. One reason is that the minimum drinking age is "The Real World" of 21. Let's face it, we are in a society where drinking is legal to drink and new and efficient identification systems would have to be installed. Giving heavy consequences will shift people's priorities and create a new environment where the legal age is 21. It is not clear whether this is the right policy, but it is clear that something must be done to curb the alcohol problem on our campus. The administration must be fair and open with the student body by allowing student representatives to present their ideas. The administration must be fair and open with the student body by allowing student representatives to present their ideas. The administration must be fair and open with the student body by allowing student representatives to present their ideas.

The women's rights movement continues to grow, and it is important for all college students to be aware of the issues involved. The women's rights movement has been a long and difficult struggle, but it has made significant progress in recent years. It is time to take a stand and support the women's rights movement. This is why I have created a new campaign called "Women's Rights Now." The campaign is designed to raise awareness about the issues facing women and to encourage everyone to take action. Women's rights are human rights, and they must be protected. Let's work together to ensure that women have the same rights as men.
November 7, 1985 - THE CIRCLE - Page 7

COMMUNICATION ARTS

FALL 1985 CO-OPS/INTERNS MANDATORY INFORMATION
**

Thurs., Nov. 14
Beginning at 7:00 p.m.
Fireside Lounge

PROFESSIONAL WORD PROCESSING

DATA STORAGE - LETTER QUALITY
Reports - Manuscripts
Resumes - Cover Letters
Mailing List/Mergin Capabilities
Mail-Ins Accepted 297-2449

NOTICE NOTICE NOTICE

The Student Government Committee on Financial Readjustment has met and has drafted a proposal that needs your endorsement. Your Interhouse Council Representative will be soliciting your signature on behalf of the proposal. Please see letter to the editor for pertinent details.

Thank You for your consideration in this matter.

The Financial Readjustment Committee
Letters

This is the last year and a half since this decision was made and the number of students and staff members who have been affected has been significant. This year we have also witnessed the loss of a number of students and staff members who are leaving us. This is a difficult time for everyone, and I want to thank you for your support.

The Marist Abroad Program has, over the years, become an integral part of the Marist College experience. It is a program that is designed to provide students with an opportunity to study abroad and to gain a broader perspective on the world. The program is also designed to provide students with an opportunity to develop their skills in language, culture, and critical thinking.

The Marist Abroad Program is committed to providing a safe and supportive environment for all students. We are committed to providing students with the best possible experience while they are abroad.

The Marist Abroad Program is committed to providing students with the best possible experience while they are abroad.

The Marist Abroad Program is committed to providing students with the best possible experience while they are abroad.

The Marist Abroad Program is committed to providing students with the best possible experience while they are abroad.

The Marist Abroad Program is committed to providing students with the best possible experience while they are abroad.

The Marist Abroad Program is committed to providing students with the best possible experience while they are abroad.

The Marist Abroad Program is committed to providing students with the best possible experience while they are abroad.

The Marist Abroad Program is committed to providing students with the best possible experience while they are abroad.

The Marist Abroad Program is committed to providing students with the best possible experience while they are abroad.

The Marist Abroad Program is committed to providing students with the best possible experience while they are abroad.

The Marist Abroad Program is committed to providing students with the best possible experience while they are abroad.

The Marist Abroad Program is committed to providing students with the best possible experience while they are abroad.

The Marist Abroad Program is committed to providing students with the best possible experience while they are abroad.

The Marist Abroad Program is committed to providing students with the best possible experience while they are abroad.

The Marist Abroad Program is committed to providing students with the best possible experience while they are abroad.

The Marist Abroad Program is committed to providing students with the best possible experience while they are abroad.

The Marist Abroad Program is committed to providing students with the best possible experience while they are abroad.

The Marist Abroad Program is committed to providing students with the best possible experience while they are abroad.

The Marist Abroad Program is committed to providing students with the best possible experience while they are abroad.

The Marist Abroad Program is committed to providing students with the best possible experience while they are abroad.

The Marist Abroad Program is committed to providing students with the best possible experience while they are abroad.

The Marist Abroad Program is committed to providing students with the best possible experience while they are abroad.

The Marist Abroad Program is committed to providing students with the best possible experience while they are abroad.

The Marist Abroad Program is committed to providing students with the best possible experience while they are abroad.

The Marist Abroad Program is committed to providing students with the best possible experience while they are abroad.
"Dark of the Dorm," Marist's fall semester production, opened Thursday in Crocker Hall.

Set in the Smokey Mountains, "Dark of the Dorm" is about a boy played by Joe Perilli who is caught between two beautiful young girls, both played by Catherine McHale, who chemical-change their careers. "Mr. Olson started Alpha Chi, The National College Honor society to induct students associate professor of history, is the because he felt that smart students student evaluation system, according to Honor society to induct students Marist professors interviewed last week were generally satisfied with the decision to return grades to a more traditional scale. Some professors and the rank grades are fairer to the students, "It allows students their character in grading," said Professor of computer science Dr. John Thompson. "The new policy will also create much excitement in the upperclassmen," said Dr. J. H. Oliver, associate professor of mathematics. "It deflates the Dean's List, according to Robert

Some professors said the minus grades are a step in the right direction, "It gives students a sense of how they are doing," said Dr. Vivona. "It will help them to re-evaluate their course work," he said. "I think that the new grading system represents an attempt to reinstate the value of instruction. I think it is important that we maintain consistency in our grading system," he said. One of the key decisions was continuing with the same grading system that is in place at most other colleges. "We are trying to do things uniformly," said Dr. Vivona. "It is important that we maintain consistency in our grading system throughout the university." The decision to return to a traditional grading system was made after a thorough review of the grading system at other institutions. "We are trying to do things uniformly," said Dr. Vivona. "It is important that we maintain consistency in our grading system throughout the university."

Some professors said the minus grades are a step in the right direction, "It gives students a sense of how they are doing," said Dr. Vivona. "It will help them to re-evaluate their course work," he said. "I think that the new grading system represents an attempt to reinstate the value of instruction. I think it is important that we maintain consistency in our grading system," he said. One of the key decisions was continuing with the same grading system that is in place at most other colleges. "We are trying to do things uniformly," said Dr. Vivona. "It is important that we maintain consistency in our grading system throughout the university." The decision to return to a traditional grading system was made after a thorough review of the grading system at other institutions. "We are trying to do things uniformly," said Dr. Vivona. "It is important that we maintain consistency in our grading system throughout the university."

Some professors said the minus grades are a step in the right direction, "It gives students a sense of how they are doing," said Dr. Vivona. "It will help them to re-evaluate their course work," he said. "I think that the new grading system represents an attempt to reinstate the value of instruction. I think it is important that we maintain consistency in our grading system," he said. One of the key decisions was continuing with the same grading system that is in place at most other colleges. "We are trying to do things uniformly," said Dr. Vivona. "It is important that we maintain consistency in our grading system throughout the university." The decision to return to a traditional grading system was made after a thorough review of the grading system at other institutions. "We are trying to do things uniformly," said Dr. Vivona. "It is important that we maintain consistency in our grading system throughout the university."

Some professors said the minus grades are a step in the right direction, "It gives students a sense of how they are doing," said Dr. Vivona. "It will help them to re-evaluate their course work," he said. "I think that the new grading system represents an attempt to reinstate the value of instruction. I think it is important that we maintain consistency in our grading system," he said. One of the key decisions was continuing with the same grading system that is in place at most other colleges. "We are trying to do things uniformly," said Dr. Vivona. "It is important that we maintain consistency in our grading system throughout the university." The decision to return to a traditional grading system was made after a thorough review of the grading system at other institutions.
Football team takes Pace; record now at 6-2

by Dan Pietrofesa

After defeating Pace 12-3 in the home opener, the Marist Red Fox football team looks to continue its successful start against a tough opponent in the Coast Guard Academy.

Coach Guard will enter the game with a deceiving 3-6 record. This should create a tough game for the Foxes. Coast Guard was trounced 42-14 Saturday by King Jesus College, ranked fifth nationally. The week before, they lost to Union College, ranked second in the nation.

Both Marist and the Coast-Guard Academy are members of the Intercollegiate Horse Show Association and the Intercollegiate Field Hockey Association. The Foxes defeated Maritime 65-0 and RPI 21-7, while the Marist beat Maritime 21-0 and lost to RPI 15-0.

The Marist will enter the game with a 6-2 record and has five shutouts to its credit. The shutouts were recorded against St. Peter's, SUNY Maritime, Iona, Fairfield Dickinson College, and St. Joseph's.

When students are asked about the equestrian team, the all-too-frequent response is, "What's that?" Joyce Knox, president of the equestrian team, has been working diligently to establish the equestrian team at Marist.

Knox is the first to admit that an equestrian team is a difficult concept to market in a college, attempt to convert the traditional spectator sport like basketball or football.

The equestrian team was born in the spring of 1984 when Knox and her fiancé Mark were looking for a sport in which to take the initiative after watching a horse show at Adelphi College. For those unfamiliar with the sport, Knox explained, "The equestrian team is a group of 14 riders who take lessons as well as compete in I.H.S.A., Intercollegiate Horse Show Association events at many colleges across the country." Knox, the team's founder, said, "We are a group of devoted equestrians who share the same passion and enthusiasm for our sport."

Before a team could be formed, Knox said, a group of dedicated and interested riders had to be gathered together. The group, which was formulated and submitted to the Office of College Activities for approval.

The constitution was accepted after a few alterations. Knox said, "I believe the only thing that could have been better if I had heard it coming and that I heard the opposite, finally it was approved and I was ecstatic," Knox said.

The team resides in Region 1 in the I.H.S.A. and competes against 19 other schools such as DePauw, Pace, and Fairfield-Dickinson Universities.

According to Knox, the team has been improving steadily and gaining more recognition. Last year Debbie Jantzen, vice president of the team, qualified for the regional championships and went on to the nationals where she fared very well.

"We're more organized and competitive now," Jantzen said. "We've been working really hard all year round and I enjoy helping them improve any way I can," Esposito said.

The team also holds fund-raisers to help cover expenses and fees. On Nov. 21, the team will hold a bake sale starting at 10 a.m. in Donnell Hall.

Knox said her main objective for the future is to educate the college community on the team and what it does. "I'd like to set up an exhibition to make the campus more aware of us," she said. "Last year people saw the horses at the homecoming parade and loved them." Knox added, "I'd love to see more interest in the equestrian team." Jantzen is optimistic about the future of the equestrian team. "Marist will be competing more in up in the top level divisions like novice and intermediate," she said.

"According to Knox, 'a lot of our members have clamped up and are gaining valuable riding experience and gaining the experience in competition.' Jantzen added a junior," she said.

The equestrian team adds another dimension to the array of sports in the Marist community. Things can only get better.}

---

Thursday Morning Quarterback

Fox fans in the stands

Editor's note: The following Thursday Morning Quarterback is a guest column by Michael Casey, a junior majoring in biological sciences.

Although I have been here three years now, last Saturday I did something I had never done before. Last Saturday, I attended a football game. Upon reflecting, I realized why I had only gone once before.

This was not the first time I had seen a football game. Many men and women recreate a scene from "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." The problem is the cross-eyed, innocent enough. A nice gray-haired man standing in the stands, giving the appearance of some. The difficult thing about this is that a safe place to sit — you can relax and enjoy the game. So you do that.

Then you notice the cowbell. Okay, who's it? That cowbell doesn't sound like the person separated from her husband or anything.

Then you notice the players. Suddenly this nice, pre-age-creaking man is screaming at the top of his lungs into a cowbell and dings the players, the referee, the fans, the camera man. The only way to end this, of course, is to sell hot dogs (although not too for $1), etc. I think you get the picture. As you begin to look around, you notice that others who resemble the man and women and uncles have turned into those people in the stands in order to avoid walking directly past them.

You figure it's the nature of the sport. All that bone crunching, helmet smashing and back-breaking pain. It causes even the mildest of casuists to start scratching themselves red and go without a shirt. In degrees of discomfort, it should note that this did not actually happen Saturday, but it very well should have.

I know you know what's thinking. "Okay, so what's this all about? Is there something wrong with me?" Well, let me see the record straight. I guess the only problem I have is I am one of probably a handful of football fans across the country who like to go and actually enjoy the game, without losing my voice for four or six weeks. For some people I met Saturday, this is a major problem.

I seriously think the Detroit Tigers hired all of the Lions' fans to cheer them on in the 1984 World Series. After they won, these fans became disinterested, thought the Lions were the world champs and out it. The fans grew tired of Detroit, the Lions sold out to their fans, and after all, when nature calls, aren't you more or less forced to answer? I, for one, really felt sorry for that poor Pace football team. After all, when nature calls, aren't you more or less forced to answer? I, for one, really felt sorry for that poor Pace football team. After all, when nature calls, aren't you more or less forced to answer? He simply found the nearest tree, and, well, I'd spare any details.

Lions fans created an outstanding game. I would not see "Clara and her cowbell" at a baseball game. She probably spent her summer serving up to his defensive strikeouts. She's a great role model, gets on the VCR and the tapes of last season, polishes the cowbell and practices in front of the TV. The players have a pre-season, so why not Clara?

As the game went on, I, prayed that Marist would win. I kept thinking: What will these people turn into if we lose? I thought brought a lump to my throat and a knot to my stomach. It got so bad at one point, I really felt sorry for that poor Pace football team. After all, when nature calls, aren't you more or less forced to answer? He simply found the nearest tree, and, well, I'd spare any details.