Relocation of office protested
by Shelly Miller

The Marist Special Services Program is unable to student adequate service because of its new location, according to Diane Perreira, director of special services.

"It's a terrible inconvenience, I don't think our needs are being met," Perreira said.

The move has caused problems with tutoring and counseling services for students with physical and intellectual disabilities, was moved to the former Health Services office in Champagnat on Dec. 3 to make room for a new faculty and staff dining room.

Perreira and Special Services Counselor William Brinnier said the main problem with the new location is lack of space. This limits their ability to maintain confidentiality for students.

According to Perreira, the lack of privacy in the new office hinders her ability to make students feel comfortable.

"A lot of these students are very conscious of how other people see them," said Perreira. "They need privacy and I can't, with a whole lot of comfort, make that guarantee."

She added that the office is too small for its students. "If a wheelchair student comes in the office, nobody else can come in," she said. "There's just no place to move."

City man arrested in safe theft; police seek second suspect
by Len Johnson

A City of Poughkeepsie resident was arrested last week in connection to the theft of a safe from the college activities office on Oct. 28, and a second suspect is under investigation, according to Town of Poughkeepsie Police Detective David Howard.

James Miller, 40, of 94 Garden St., Poughkeepsie, was arrested and charged with third-degree burglary and third-degree grand larceny, both class C felonies. He is being held at the Dutchess County Jail in lieu of $1000 bail.

Police would not identify the other suspect.

The theft took place between 12:40 and 8:20 a.m. on Oct. 28 in the Campus Center office of Tanya Manzi, assistant director of college activities.

The safe contained approximately $1,000, as well as keys to classrooms and Campus Center offices, according to Betty Yinglin, director of college activities.

Police recovered the safe two weeks later at an unlocked location. Its door and contents were not found.

No money was recovered at the time of arrest, Howard said. Howard said the other suspect was not a Marist student or staff member. "I know that no students were involved in the theft, nor was anyone present or then working for the college," he said.

Howard said that because the thieves apparently knew where the safe was, he has not ruled out the possibility that someone familiar with the Campus Center building may have been involved.

The second suspect, he said, has been difficult to find because he has been out of town for some time.

Secretaries unionize; Negotiations continue
by Denise Willey

Negotiating teams for the Marist administration and the newly unionized Secretarial Clerical Association will resume their long-stalled negotiations in early February, according to representatives from both sides.

Negotiations were temporarily suspended after the SCA voted on Dec. 17 to affiliate with the Communication Workers Association, Local 1120, just four days after the Marist and Vassar secretaries also elected to affiliate with the same union.

The Marist secretaries have been working without a contract since July 1 of last year.

The vote for affiliation was 50 to 15. The SCA has a total membership of about 80, according to SCA leaders.

The five-member SCA negotiating team had met with SCA members two weeks prior to the decision. They were taking a position that they did not want to attend the evening meeting Dec. 17.

The vote came immediately after a three- or four-day attempt by the administration to prevent the affiliation. From Dec. 13 through Dec. 17 a series of meetings were held between administration officials and SCA members.

Police probe student reports of missing mail
by Paul Raynis

Even with the questioning of several Marist students and the reported sighting of two students near a number of open mailboxes over the winter intersession, Town of Poughkeepsie detectives say they are still going nowhere in their search for the missing mail.

The investigation, led by Town of Poughkeepsie detectives, began in early January when a Marist student reported mail and money missing from her key-lock box in the Champagnat Hall basement. Since then, those other missing mail claims have been made.

Less than two weeks later, on Thursday, Jan. 16, a Marist security guard found apparently the same combination boxes open as he patrolled the Campus Center area. Nearby were two Marist students.

According to Joseph Waters, director of safety and security of the Marist security guard, Al D'Alessandro, asked the students for identification. They complied, and were allowed to leave.

"We are currently negotiating," Marist administration and the newly unionized Secretarial Clerical Association will resume their long-stalled negotiations in early February, according to representatives from both sides.

Negotiations were temporarily suspended after the SCA voted on Dec. 17 to affiliate with the Communication Workers Association, Local 1120, just four days after the Marist and Vassar secretaries also elected to affiliate with the same union.

The Marist secretaries have been working without a contract since July 1 of last year.

The vote for affiliation was 50 to 15. The SCA has a total membership of about 80, according to SCA leaders.

The five-member SCA negotiating team had met with SCA members two weeks prior to the decision. They were taking a position that they did not want to attend the evening meeting Dec. 17.

The vote came immediately after a three- or four-day attempt by the administration to prevent the affiliation. From Dec. 13 through Dec. 17 a series of meetings were held between administration officials and SCA members.

Police probe student reports of missing mail

City man arrested in safe theft; police seek second suspect

Advisory actions included a "twelfth-hour proposal" on Dec. 13 presented by John Lahey, who later withdrew at 5 p.m. that day, small group meetings with cabinet members and various SCA members, and a mandatory meeting Dec. 15 with President Dennis Murray, cabinet members and SCA leaders, both part-time and full-time employees.

The proposal from Lahey would have given the SCA its salary request but called for the secretaries to agree not to unionize for two years.

Galleher said the SCA members believed unionization would enhance the group's negotiating position.

"The longer negotiations continue, the more likely it seems that the group will become aware of wages and benefits and administration is increasingly more difficult to negotiate with," Galleher wrote. "If negotiation has gone this far, we feel a lack of respect and power."

In speaking for the administration, Anthony Cennera, acting vice president for college advancement, said: "We accept their decision. They have the right to affiliate and we do not challenge that right. We look forward to working with the SCA."
Alumni director wants open door

by Sue Hennes

The new director of alumni affairs said on Monday that she would join her 28 other students the next day to begin an open-door policy to improve relations with students.

The new director wants to meet with students to help them understand the college's policies and procedures.

Other students at Marist College have been open to students' suggestions and have been working on issues that affect the college.

As for the two students sighted with an outside union for at least seven weeks of active negotiations, Galleher said.

"We agree that the offer was effective as it has in the past."

"We respect the decision of the students to join an outside union."

"We will continue to negotiate with the students to find a resolution that meets the needs of all parties involved with the college, especially women."
A new look

opinion

By Paul Raynis

"A writer's response"

January 30, 1986 - THE CIRCLE - Page 8

It is a scandal, a tragedy or a case deserving of some public expression!

But, as usual, there is more to it than meets the eye.

Debate on USSR: A writer's response

Editor's note: The following letter was written by Mr. John M. Hamilton of New York City and published in the New York Times. It is a response to an article by Mr. Donald Kirkland, a staff writer for the Times.

Library of Congress

Debate on USSR: A writer's response

A new look brings with it a new opportunity to keep moving

The real world

Liberal arts and the real world

As a New York Times editorial writer, I have been asked to respond to an article by Mr. Donald Kirkland, a staff writer for the Times. The article was published on January 30, 1986, and was titled "Debate on USSR: A writer's response." In his article, Kirkland expressed his views on the Soviet Union and its policies. I have written a response to his article, which I believe is timely and relevant.

In his article, Kirkland raised several points about the Soviet Union. He argued that the United States should not engage in a "cold war" with the Soviet Union, but rather work towards a "constructive engagement" policy. He also questioned the effectiveness of American foreign policy in the region.

In response, I would like to point out several areas where Kirkland's views diverge from those of the American government. For instance, I believe that it is essential to maintain a strong military presence in the region in order to safeguard American interests. Moreover, I believe that the United States should continue to support pro-democracy movements in the region, as these movements are essential to the long-term stability of the region.

Despite these differences, I believe that Kirkland's article is a valuable contribution to the ongoing debate on foreign policy. It is important for all of us to engage in this debate and to consider the various perspectives that are presented.

I hope that my response is helpful and that it encourages further discussion on this important topic.

Sincerely,

Paul Raynis

A writer's response
After much negotiation, the museum decided to acquire this art piece for the public's benefit. The museum hopes to display this artwork in a prominent position to allow visitors to appreciate its beauty and significance. In the future, this piece may also be featured in various exhibitions and events at the museum, further enhancing its value and reach. The museum would like to extend its gratitude to the donor for their generous contribution and support.
Bars cope with new law

by Lynn Speyge

This Saturday marks two months since the state of New York made bars in the state subject to a new law that went into effect on Jan. 1. This means that all bars are required to close before 2 a.m. after being open up until 4 a.m. for the last five years.

On Dec. 1, the state of New York implemented this new law. In response, local bars have had to change their policies to adjust to the new hours.

Rick Wilson, an officer in the Dutchess County Liquor Association, spoke about the changes that have been made. "It's been a huge change, especially for the bars in the county," Wilson said. "Before the law, we had a lot of customers coming in at midnight and then staying until 4 a.m. Now, we're only open until 2 a.m."

Wilson went on to say that the bar owners have had to hire more staff to cover the late hours. "It's been a lot of work, but it's necessary to stay in business," he said.

On the other hand, Ginger Mancuso, manager of The East Side on Raymond Avenue, said that the change has been beneficial. "I think the new hours have helped us to have a better atmosphere," she said. "People tend to come in earlier and stay later, which is great for business.

"The consultants are a big help," Wilson said. "They help us in figuring out how to adjust to the new hours and help with the paperwork requirements.

But there are still some challenges. "We're still learning the ropes," Wilson said. "But overall, we're happy with the new law."
Student Worker Needed to relamp bulbs in classrooms and offices. 10-20 hours per week preferably someone tall. If interested, call X215 Physical Plant Office

ATTENTION ALL STUDENTS!

AS OF FEBRUARY 3rd., ALL STUDENT CARS PARKED IN ANY LOT, NOT DISPLAYING A MARIST COLLEGE PERMIT AND COSTING $25.00, TOWING CHARGES $45.00, PLUS STORAGE CHARGES FOR EACH DAY OVER 20 DAYS.

Fox trail

1989. He won his last to secure the ball on the edge of the penalty area. The ball was cleared by the defender, but the referee waved the flag. The Red Foxes traveled to New York to meet the Harlem Red Foxes, who had previously defeated the Rattlers. The game was played in front of a packed crowd.

Men's basketball stats

East Coast Athletic Conference Tournament.

Syracuse University

Fox trail

104. His goal in the 5th minute gave the Red Foxes a 1-0 lead over the Rattlers. The game continued with both teams trying to score. However, the Red Foxes were able to hold on to their lead and secure a 1-0 victory.

Meadowbrook

112. The Meadowbrook High School team traveled to play against the Rattlers. The game was tense, with both teams fighting for the lead. However, the Meadowbrook High School team was able to hold on to their 1-0 lead and secure a victory.

Fox trail

133. The Red Foxes traveled to play against the Rattlers. The game was intense, with both teams trying to score. However, the Red Foxes were able to hold on to their lead and secure a 1-0 victory.

Meadowbrook

136. The Meadowbrook High School team traveled to play against the Rattlers. The game was tense, with both teams fighting for the lead. However, the Meadowbrook High School team was able to hold on to their 1-0 lead and secure a victory.

Fox trail

139. The Red Foxes traveled to play against the Rattlers. The game was intense, with both teams trying to score. However, the Red Foxes were able to hold on to their lead and secure a 1-0 victory.

Meadowbrook

142. The Meadowbrook High School team traveled to play against the Rattlers. The game was tense, with both teams fighting for the lead. However, the Meadowbrook High School team was able to hold on to their 1-0 lead and secure a victory.

Fox trail

145. The Red Foxes traveled to play against the Rattlers. The game was intense, with both teams trying to score. However, the Red Foxes were able to hold on to their lead and secure a 1-0 victory.

Meadowbrook

148. The Meadowbrook High School team traveled to play against the Rattlers. The game was tense, with both teams fighting for the lead. However, the Meadowbrook High School team was able to hold on to their 1-0 lead and secure a victory.

Fox trail

151. The Red Foxes traveled to play against the Rattlers. The game was intense, with both teams trying to score. However, the Red Foxes were able to hold on to their lead and secure a 1-0 victory.

Meadowbrook

154. The Meadowbrook High School team traveled to play against the Rattlers. The game was tense, with both teams fighting for the lead. However, the Meadowbrook High School team was able to hold on to their 1-0 lead and secure a victory.
Nation's leading scorer opposes Marist on Sat.

by Dan Pietrafesa

The Marist men's basketball team upset the visiting Stony Brook in a key Metro Conference game.

The reason for worry is that the nation's leading scorer, Terrance Wagner, is coming to town. He also the team leader in steals (3.1 per game) and has 48 assists on the season.

Marist entered the week's action with a 4-2 conference (9-9 overall) record while Wagner entered the week with a 4-4 conference (8-10 overall) record.

Both Marist and Wagner are coming off 2-1 weeks. The Foxes and Seahawks beat Long Island University but lost Saturday to conference opponents. Marist lost to Robert Morris while Wagner was a victim of St. Francis (NY). In the process, Wagner also faced Villanova and St. John's. The Foxes did have the better success of the two teams going into the game while the Seahawks fell 85-72 to the Wildcats and 85-55 to the Redmen.

The teams were also in action last night. Marist played a big game down at Fairleigh Dickinson while Wagner played a home non-conference game against DeSales College.

Bullock, the regular junior guard who is a possible All-American and future National Basketball Association player, entered action this week averaging over 32 points a game.

Disregarding a 15 point performance by New York to the game, Marist averaged over 32 points a game in the eight other games of the last nine.

He scored 29 points in leading the Storks to a 79-75 victory over the Foxes down at Wagner earlier in the month, but the Foxes most content with other Seahawks in order to obtain a victory.

Andrews said that Wagner returned to the team after sitting out the past three weeks being ineligible to compete. In a recent game against LIU which saw Bullock score 38, Van Droit had nine assists and six turnovers in over 30 minutes of action.

According to Wagner Coach Ken Neff, the first half of the 101-83 victory over LIU was the most flawless and best the team has played in his four years of coaching.

Guards like Bailey and Van Droit are the kind of guards that best Marist earlier in the year.

Art Redmond will not be seeing action Saturday due to a broken leg suffered in St. John's game. The 6-6 forward, who averaged better than 16 points and six rebounds a game last year, was the top returning player for Wagner.

The seventh leading rebounder in the nation, Largest Agbejemsin, will give the Foxes trouble under the boards. The 6-7 junior averaged 11.2 rebounds a game as of January 18.

In order for Wagner to win, they must stop their opposite towers. Sophomore Rik Smith has been the hot hand. He has topped 20 points in each contest this month to raise his average up near 20 points a game which has earned him the conference player of the week twice this month. Smith has also been a force on the boards. He has grabbed over 10 rebounds in two games.

Until the flu slowed him down last week, Mico Percarski had 30 points.

Hokey ices Stony Brook

by Ken Foye

The Marist men's ice hockey team started the new year on a positive note when it defeated SUNY-Stony Brook 8-4 last Wednesday at the McCann Ice Arena.

The victory gave the Red Foxes a 4-3 Metro Conference record, and a 4-4 record overall.

play the game, Marist's first in over a month, was closer than the score would indicate. It took all the skill during the first two periods. The visitors took a 3-2 lead into the locker room at the end of the second frame. Tim Graham provided both goals for Marist, and Greg Bailey, is coming to town. He is not the team's leading scorer, Terrance Wagner in a crucial, conference meeting Saturday at 3 p.m. in the Metro Center at home Saturday. Three of those victories were road conference wins against Monmouth and a road game which is a home game against LIU... The Foxes were one for 12 from the same distance.

Van Wagner, speaking for himself and Billesio, said of the intersession training and the Metropolitan Championships, "The girls seemed to be very in tune with what we were trying to accomplish," he said.

Van Wagner said the men's team also picked up the best, "This was the most successful winter we have ever had," he said. "The enthusiasm was very high and the students were capable of realizing the advantages they were getting out of it."

Since the men's team had four dual meet remaining, and the women only their Metro Conference meet, the two teams met together each day for a half-hour of mental training.

Each afternoon, the first half-hour of practice was used to listen to mental training tapes. The tapes were meant to introduce team members to self-image psychology and the ten aspects of personality which may enable each swimmer to be successful.

The lineup change enabled him and Billesio, said of the girls. "We want the swimmers to prepare themselves the night before. To swim it correctly in their minds," he said.

Billesio is quick to make a comparison between the success of two of his swimmers at a recent meet with the training and preparation. "The girls seemed to be very in tune with what we were trying to accomplish," he said.

Van Wagner said the men's team also picked up the best, "This was the most successful winter we have ever had," he said. "The enthusiasm was very high and the students were capable of realizing the advantages they were getting out of it."

Since the men's team had four dual meet remaining, and the women only their Metro Conference meet, the two teams met together each day for a half-hour of mental training.

Each afternoon, the first half-hour of practice was used to listen to mental training tapes. The tapes were meant to introduce team members to self-image psychology and the ten aspects of personality which may enable each swimmer to be successful.

Winter intersession is, to students at Marist College, synonymous with an escape from the studios and atmosphere of campus life. For the men's and women's swimming team, it means two weeks of intensive physical and mental training.

According to coaches Jim Billesio of the women's team and Larry Van Wagner of the men's team, the athletes return on Jan. 6, in order to maintain their stamina and to improve their present abilities.

Both coaches held meetings the first day in order to set goals for the intersession training and the Metropolitan Championships.

Billesio said he was confident from the beginning of the two week practice. "The girls seemed to be very in tune with what we were trying to accomplish," he said.

Van Wagner said the men's team also picked up the best. "This was the most successful winter we have ever had," he said. "The enthusiasm was very high and the students were capable of realizing the advantages they were getting out of it."

Since the men's team had four dual meet remaining, and the women only their Metro Conference meet, the two teams met together each day for a half-hour of mental training.

Each afternoon, the first half-hour of practice was used to listen to mental training tapes. The tapes were meant to introduce team members to self-image psychology and the ten aspects of personality which may enable each swimmer to be successful.

Winter intersession is, to students at Marist College, synonymous with an escape from the studios and atmosphere of campus life. For the men's and women's swimming team, it means two weeks of intensive physical and mental training.

According to coaches Jim Billesio of the women's team and Larry Van Wagner of the men's team, the athletes return on Jan. 6, in order to maintain their stamina and to improve their present abilities.

Both coaches held meetings the first day in order to set goals for the intersession training and the Metropolitan Championships.

Billesio said he was confident from the beginning of the two week practice. "The girls seemed to be very in tune with what we were trying to accomplish," he said.

Van Wagner said the men's team also picked up the best. "This was the most successful winter we have ever had," he said. "The enthusiasm was very high and the students were capable of realizing the advantages they were getting out of it."

Since the men's team had four dual meet remaining, and the women only their Metro Conference meet, the two teams met together each day for a half-hour of mental training.

Each afternoon, the first half-hour of practice was used to listen to mental training tapes. The tapes were meant to introduce team members to self-image psychology and the ten aspects of personality which may enable each swimmer to be successful.