Nursing program may come to end

by Julie Sveda

At a meeting Tuesday, nursing students and parents were told by administrators that the Marist nursing program may be cut, according to Pat Deschamps, president of the Student Nurses Association. The cabinet, made up of the college's senior administrators, has recommended the program be deleted, and now a faculty committee will make its recommendation to the president, according to Deschamps.

Currently, there are 28 full-time and 18 part-time nursing students, according to Deschamps. The projected enrollment goal was 100 full-time students.

Academic Vice President Marc VanderHeiden said in an interview that the decision to delete the nursing program has not been determined yet. He declined to comment further.

Continued on page 16

A night at the diner — see it to believe it

by Jean E. Clements

It's 1:50 a.m., Saturday. A young man wearing a large pirate hat and yellow-rimmed, mirror sunglasses walks in and is quickly seated.

"They couldn't figure out how we get it out the doors," he said. "What is it about the Palace that draws the late-night Marist crowd?"

"We were at a cold party, 740 degrees below zero windchill factor," said Terence Murphy, a freshman from West Islip, N.Y. "We needed a place for shelter." Murphy, sharing a booth with some friends from Leo Hall, had ordered a burger and fries — one of the most popular meals for students at the Palace.

Another popular feature is the 7 percent student discount.

"Occasionally when we're cheap enough in the trenches, we throw down our Marist I.D. for the discount," said Murphy.

Frank Cummins, an 18-year-old freshman from Queens, N.Y., said the personalized service was important to him. "We like the manager, he treats us well," he said.

The night manager, who asked not to be identified, said he appreciates the business of the late-night Marist crowd. "I like every single one of them that comes in," he said.

Murphy and his friends said they also go to the diner to "scope out" female students.

"We look forward to every Friday night at 3:30," said Cummins. "It's the only place open all night that's frequented by the Marist students."

"They couldn't figure out how we get it out the doors," he said. "They play the night of partying."

"They would try to steal that if we're not careful," said Murphy.

"They are here to celebrate the tie game," said McGuire. "Sometimes we spend time in jail in order to senator others about the 'jails' we've created in the world," he said.

"They were to celebrate the tie in the Rendez-Vous series," said McGuire. "They are all-stars last week."

Continued on page 12

Science of Man to end in 1990; faculty studies honors program

by Diane Piaquetti

Science of Man, Marist's unofficial honors program, is being phased out as the college considers creating an official honors program.

Student dissatisfaction, minimal faculty involvement and a change in Core requirements were cited as reasons for the Academic Affairs Committee's decision to end the program with the class of 1990, according to professors in the program.

"Sixty percent of students over the past four years have dropped the program," said Brother Joseph Belanger, one of the professors. Science of Man began in 1974 as an alternative Core program. Each year, a small number of freshmen were invited to participate in the program.

Continued on page 12

Peace activist Berriagan to lecture here Monday

by John Roche

Peace activist Philip Berriagan, who led a pro-test march against the Reagan administration this week, will speak on Monday, at 8:30 p.m. in the Fireside Lounge.

Berriagan, a former Roman Catholic priest and media-activated activist, will speak about "social responsibility."

The Poughkeepsie Journal reported that Berriagan led 225 demonstrators in a march in Buffalo on Monday, protesting the arms race, corruption in Washington, and U.S. involvement in Central America and the Middle East.

Both Berriagan and his brother, Daniel, a Jesuit priest, were nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize six times.

Eugene Buse, a professor of religious studies at Marist, said he feels Berriagan has greatly raised the consciousness of the people of this country.

"I think he is a committed individual, who has been willing to spend time in jail in order to sensitize others about the 'jails' we've created in the world, especially in the Third World," Buse said.

Berriagan's resistance to the Vietnam War and nuclear arms led to his being jailed a number of times. Berriagan estimates he has spent a total of almost five years in jail.

Berriagan is the author of five books, including "Punishment for Peace" and "Prison Journals." He has lectured on non-violence and peace throughout the U.S. and Europe.

He and his brother, Daniel, were members of the "Catonsville Nine.

Continued on page 6

Open house

Only a handful of students attended the Lowell Thomas open house last week. See story and pictures on page 11.
Maybe there is a substitute for experience

After you’re done with school, you face one of the hardest lessons in life: being at a job where you’ve never had experience — it’s tough to get a job. And if you get a job, it’s tough to get experience.

At a Business School Journal, we recognize that experience is something you shouldn’t start earning until after graduation. But while you’re waiting, you can give your head start by providing some of the same competitive advantages that experience brings.

For instance, our wide-ranging network of experienced alumni can help you understand the whole complex world of business. Our tightly focused feature reports provide you with your own specific ambitions — whether in management, accounting, finance, marketing, or small business.

And our in-depth analysis helps you refine your ideas into a sharper and more persuasive way.

Student group to mark Black History Month

In February, Marist has designated Black History Month, a time to honor the accomplishments of part of our country’s history.

“Something in the News” is doing it to partake in an awareness of Black History Month. The student newspaper is publishing a Black History Month series over the next two semesters to support it.

The Ishangi Dancers, a group of eight Marist students, is planning to perform at the New Dining Room. Admission is $1. To register, you can call 797-1200.

Rock monsters’ make room for building site

As the project to make the Main Campus more attractive comes to an end, the Rock Monsters are making room for the new building site.

The Rock Monsters, a group of eight Marist students, are planning to construct a new building on the Main Campus.

The Rock Monsters are planning to start construction next month, and the new building will be completed in time for the Spring semester.

Future grad students to seek job search to be a full-time job in itself

Student groups to mark Black History Month

In February, Marist students are planning to mark Black History Month. The student newspaper is publishing a Black History Month series, and the Rock Monsters are planning to construct a new building on the Main Campus.

On Feb. 24, a panel discussion will be held in the Fireside Lounge, and the Rock Monsters will be giving a presentation on the new building site.

Future grad students to seek job search to be a full-time job in itself

Student groups to mark Black History Month

In February, Marist students are planning to mark Black History Month. The student newspaper is publishing a Black History Month series, and the Rock Monsters are planning to construct a new building on the Main Campus.

On Feb. 24, a panel discussion will be held in the Fireside Lounge, and the Rock Monsters will be giving a presentation on the new building site.

Future grad students to seek job search to be a full-time job in itself

Student groups to mark Black History Month

In February, Marist students are planning to mark Black History Month. The student newspaper is publishing a Black History Month series, and the Rock Monsters are planning to construct a new building on the Main Campus.

On Feb. 24, a panel discussion will be held in the Fireside Lounge, and the Rock Monsters will be giving a presentation on the new building site.
recent weeks, has begun to cost pushing college presidents out of dwindling state funding, a two resign, citing "incompetence and eliminate, rename or reduce in solidate all state colleges, under one programs since 1982.

N

chancellor, eliminating the top level administrators is a key way of reduc­ emeritus of the American Associacombining all state community colleges

"More and more, laying off ad­ don't get raises, it means a vote of presidential expert notes, and when 1 doesn't get raises, it means a vote of

"Boards need to be very conscious about that choice because

Dr. Martha Tack, professor of spokesman Dr. George Carter.

"Boards are looking at their

It may be fun for some, but for

"I feel I have a lot of experience;

Men are students, too. Boards are should always be looked at from the men's point of view. How would

Robert Gelbard, chairman of the American Association of University Administrators, said. "There's this idea that the top guy is supposed to

There is a time to be a man or woman; it's

Brett Vesilind, a former chief of staff at North Idaho College in Coeur d'Alene, said. "One of the issues addressed by the governor is the

"I know the program can't afford to be very lenient in the way it operates. We're talking about a lot of people who have been

It's just like in corporations, where caring management is a

"But, money problems put individual jobs in peril, too. As Davis noted, many districts have been forced to balance budgets for the

"Under the present administration and funding, Tack says,
'Ohio State doesn't have a chance.

'Davis notes, 'On the other, if faculty don't get raises, it means a vote of

"Hey, we're doing the best job we know how to do. That's the way it's been for the last 30 years. The rules are in place.

"We're trying to build something to last a lifetime. That's what

"We're just number one on the scene of the crime," he said.

"We're just number one on the
scene of the crime," he said.

"We're just number one on the
scene of the crime," he said.

"We're just number one on the
scene of the crime," he said.

"We're just number one on the
scene of the crime," he said.

"We're just number one on the
scene of the crime," he said.

"We're just number one on the
scene of the crime," he said.

"We're just number one on the
scene of the crime," he said.

"We're just number one on the scene of the crime," he said.
opinion

So where were you?

What would I have taken to get the student body to attend last Friday's "student opening" of the Lowell Thomas Communications Center?

That's a good question.

I imagine, many students who were asking themselves when last have 10+ students showed up for the ceremony.

The lack of student turnout was a disappointment to the college officials, and a flag of some for those who think this is just a show, a place to go and see the latest and greatest in technology.

What could be the reason for not showing? Perhaps, in fairness, the time was not right, or the space was not available.

Where is this information? I'd like to see it in a more visible place.

Accordingly, college officials planned a "student opening" for Febr. 13, and invited everyone to come.

Could you please provide more details on the event and its significance?

food for thought

by Julia E. Murray

I'm in the✏️for the afternoon, you've been running around all day and you're so ready to relax. You should be! Your stomach comes alive because you're thinking about all the delicious things you could possibly eat.

You may have thought about having a healthy salad, but which one? This is the perfect time to indulge in some comfort food! Think about how technology and food intersect. What does it mean to 'eat local' now? How can you incorporate sustainability into your meals?

You could even try something new, like trying a vegan or vegetarian dish. It's a great way to explore new flavors and expand your palate.

It's a good question. What do you think?

viewpoint

The ‘Baby M’ case: What does it mean?

by Gina Disanza

I remember my parents talking about the case of "Baby M" when I was a child. It's been over 30 years since the case first began, and yet it still resonates today.

The case involved the court's decision to allow one of the parents to give up their child for adoption. The other parent, who did not consent to the adoption, fought the decision in court.

How can we combat this type of situation in the future? How can we ensure that parents have the right to make decisions about their own children's future?

Where does having a baby become a different kind of responsibility than having a car or owning a home?

by Peter P. Prucnel

What's the difference? Is it just a matter of taking care of the baby, or is there more to it? How can we balance the responsibilities of parenthood with the demands of work and other obligations?

In search of the Great American Viewpoint

The Great American Novel has been missing for decades. Many writers have tried to fill the gap, but few have succeeded. What does it mean to be a Great American Novelist?

Viewpoint editor

The deadline for Viewpoints is 10 a.m. Monday. All Viewpoints should be sent to Len Johnson, Senior Editor & Viewpoint Editor. All viewpoints should include the name, campus address and phone number of the writer.
Campus America

Peace Activist Mi at Harvard Finds That Non-Violence 'Just Can't Get the Strategy Right'

Budgins Caring for Prospects

Deans at Texas-Austin say that student dissidents are "merely the tip of an iceberg" to have been merely the tip of an iceberg in 1969. The students at the Institute for Peace and International Security met at Alpha Omega Tours to re-ignite the movement. The students said that they were working on a campaign to hold the University of Texas to its promises during the 14 countries met to re-ignite the movement.

The U.S. Court of Appeals in Texas-Austin is being challenged by a group of student protesters who are demanding that the university agree to meet with them. The protesters have been protesting for over a week, and the court has issued an injunction preventing them from entering the campus. The protesters are demanding that the university agree to meet with them and discuss their concerns.

The Dutchess County agency Big Sister, Big Brother is looking for more volunteers to help support children in the community. Big Sister, Big Brother is a program that matches children with adult mentors. Volunteers are needed to help with activities such as reading, homework help, and outings.

The American Psychological Association advocates a national day of action to bring attention to the importance of mental health. The day, which is called APA Day, is part of a larger campaign to raise awareness and support for mental health issues.

President's Citizens Bank recently made a donation of $1,500 to the library. The donation will be used to purchase new books and materials for the library. The library is grateful for the support and plans to use the funds to continue to expand its collection.
CIA: The life of a student chef

by Joanne L. Ronzulli

Guide manager, characteristic, interesting and meat fabrication. "As those who wrote The Gourmet, Paul and Joy, tell us, the CIA offers some of the best meat in the world."

The purpose of the CIA is to train the next generation of food industry professionals. "CIA is one of the best places to learn about food," said Ronzulli.

"The curriculum is designed to provide a comprehensive education in all aspects of food service," said Ronzulli. "It consists of a cook's white jacket, a black apron, a knife and a variety of cooking tools."

Ronzulli added that the CIA offers a wide variety of classes, including cooking, baking, and culinary arts.

"The CIA offers a two-year program that includes a hands-on externship," said Ronzulli. "It will be held on the CIA's campus in Boca Raton, Florida, and will be open to all incoming CIA students.

"This program will provide students with the opportunity to work in a professional kitchen and gain valuable experience," said Ronzulli.

"The CIA also offers a variety of courses that focus on specific areas of interest," said Ronzulli. "For example, there are classes on wine and spirits, European cuisine, and Asian cooking.

In conclusion, the CIA offers a comprehensive education in all aspects of food service. "It is an excellent choice for anyone interested in pursuing a career in the food industry," said Ronzulli.
HONORS

Continued from page 1

There will be a special event of the honors program.

Under the new program, students must take six honors classes and attend at least two honors programs for graduation.

The Faculty of Academic Affairs Council has reviewed the proposed changes and recommended the program changes to the College.
It's a different game now for Murphy

By Chris Barry

On Saturday the men's basketball team faced the University of Rhode Island. In the past, these two teams have faced each other many times, but the game was different this time. The Rhode Island team is currently on a winning streak, and the Marist team was looking to break it.

The game started off with a bang, as the Marist team took the lead early on. However, the Rhode Island team quickly caught up and took the lead back. The game was close throughout, but in the end, the Rhode Island team emerged victorious.

Despite the loss, the Marist team showed great spirit and determination. They played hard and fought until the end. The Marist team is looking forward to their next game and hopes to bounce back from this loss.

Women still in hunt despite three losses

Women in the News

By Michael J. Natale

The Marist College women's basketball team faced off against the Binghamton University Bearcats on Saturday. The game was a tough one, but the Marist team managed to secure a 36-34 victory.

The Marist team was led by senior guard Emily Dioguardo, who scored 10 points and grabbed 10 rebounds. Dioguardo's performance helped the team to pull away late in the game and secure the win.

The victory improves the Marist team's record to 10-10 overall and 3-8 in conference play. The team is currently in third place in the MAAC standings.

The Idaho connection

Jen O'Neil: Scorer lets her shooting do the talking

By DeAnn Pate

The Idaho connection

Jen O'Neil, a senior guard for the Marist College women's basketball team, has been one of the team's top scorers this season. In a recent game against the Binghamton University Bearcats, O'Neil scored 17 points to lead the team to a victory.

O'Neil has been a consistent scorer for the Marist team, and her shooting has been a key factor in the team's success. In addition to scoring, O'Neil has also been a strong leader on the court.

The Marist team is currently in third place in the MAAC standings and is looking to make a run for the conference championship. O'Neil and her teammates are working hard to achieve this goal.
Nurses—Continued from page 1
next week, was unavailable for comment.

The student nurses organized the meeting on Tuesday with parents and administrators after reviewing the notes from recent cabinet meetings, said Deschamps.

According to the notes, which are public record, an extensive report was completed on the nursing program by vanderHeyden and his staff. According to student nurses, the results of the meeting Tuesday were a surprise.

"I had known the cabinet had discussed the program, but I didn’t know they had decided to delete the program," said Lisa McHugh, a student in the program. "That was the only thing I didn’t know."

Swimming—Continued from page 14
is the most talented backstroker Marist has ever had. He has been a factor in each of Marist’s wins this season.

John Andreasen, also a freshman, has continually shown improvement his season. His third place 2:14.18 in the 200-individual medley was a new career record. "We closed out this season with 16 swimmers," said Van Wagner. "Though we’ve lost a lot in the past, all of these fellas deserve credit for sticking it out."

Idaho—Continued from page 15
imaginative teenagers began writing the official Marist fight song in Mrs. Lois Woelfel’s seventh-grade Language Arts class at Jenifer Junior High. "We hope to have it done in a week," said Woelfel in a telephone interview.

The kids of Lewiston aren’t the only people jumping on the Marist bandwagon. Even the mayor has a new career record. "We closed out this season with 16 swimmers," said Van Wagner. "Though we’ve lost a lot in the past, all of these fellas deserve credit for sticking it out."

Wear and Tear of College... the effects are subtle now, but stress over the years takes it toll. A simple adjustment given in a chiropractor’s office will relax you immediately.

Jen—Continued from page 15
"This is a fun team to be on," said O’Neil. "We’re here for each other, and the coaches are excellent.

If the 5-8 freshman has a weakness, it’s a lack of foot speed. "I’m just not giving up in practice," said O’Neil. "I’m pushing myself. I’m doing some work with agility, sprints and distance. I could work on everything. There is always room for improvement."

Her arrival at Marist meant a reunion with her sister, Jackie, who plays forward for the team. "We’re good for each other out there," said Jackie. "She looks for me, and I look for her for assists. It’s great playing together again." "It’s fun and I love it," said Jennifer. "It’s great on the court. When my head is down, she is there to pick me up."

Stress Management by... JOHN F. SHAUGHNESSY, D.C.
Executive Park One
201 South Avenue, Suite 204
Poughkeepsie, New York 12601
Telephone (914) 485-5600

P.S. Frye Boots and Mocasins Available
For more information:
The President’s Commission on White House Fellowships
712 Jackson Place, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20503
(202) 395-4522

My Place Too
Free Delivery
Bring this Ad in for a free
topping on a Large Pizza
81 North Rd.
Next to Skinner’s
473-7313

HYDE PARK TRADING CO.
Custom Made
To Order:
14K Gold
Sterling Silver
Leather Apparel
Repair Work
on all Leather Goods &
Jewelry
Frye Boots and Mocasins Available

Store Hours: Mon.-Wed. & Sat.: 10-6
Thurs. & Fri.: 10-8
Next to Radio Shack, Rt. 9, Hyde Park
229-7900

APPLICA TION DEADLINE:
March 13, 1987 at 5:00 p.m.

THE HOUSING OFFICE IS NOW ACCEPTING APPLICATIONS FOR
THE 1987/88 ACADEMIC YEAR.
QUALIFICATIONS:
2.5 Minimum GPA
Fulltime Student
No extensive disciplinary history
Enjoy working with people
No internships beyond six credits
Previous on-campus residency preferred
APPLICATIONS AVAILABLE:
February 19, 1987
Housing Office, CC270
APPLICATION DEADLINE:
March 13, 1987 at 5:00 p.m.