Murray eyes upcoming battle over state budget

By CHRIS SHEA

Editor

Warning of a fiscally-dreaded state that requires state aid to all of its system of higher education, many private colleges and universities, including Marist, are actively coming together to form a Marist and Coeason and legislatively set to cut state aid. So did Bruce, President Murray, although acknowledging that no one will be exempt from budget cuts, said he hopes to "keep the damage limited" to the state's private colleges.

The lobbying, according to Murray, will be no easy task. As evidence, he cited Cuomo's $800 million budget-cut proposal which would cut February Bunchy Fiscal Aid contributions, cutting the college about $200,000.

Murray said private colleges and universities were forced to go public in an attempt to gain support to convince legislators that reducing state aid to private colleges would not only place more of an economic burden on the state.

Murray said it's imperative people be made to realize that independent colleges save the state and its taxpayers money and are a vital part of the state's private colleges. "It will have dire consequences."

The cost of educating a student at either a public or independent college is approximately the same. The difference is who pays.

New York State taxpayers provide an average of $9,700 a year per student in the SUNY system. Yet, state taxpayers only have to pay $1,025 per student attending an independent college.

Independent colleges' share of state higher education revenues have shrunk from 13.1 percent in 1986 to 8.5 percent in 1991.

Continuing to slash government aid to independent colleges means these schools will not be able to compete with the much less-subsidized SUNY schools for students with low-to-middle class incomes.

As a result, more students will attend state schools. "In an attempt to battle the effects of the recession, rising costs and state taxes have forced more students to attend state schools," said the president. "We have to do a better job communicating the value and competitive advantage that a private college offers.

"We have to do a better job communicating that this is where the best and brightest students want to go," he said.

While other Marist students read the classic literature of William Shakespeare and Geoffrey Chaucer this semester, Karen Keating lined her bookshelves with the works of Dr. Seuss.

"It will be hard to walk back into a classroom in January," said Keating, a senior psychology/special education major from Southington, Conn., "I've thought about it more to go back to the college level, whereas they've been at the second-grade level for the past four months."

Keating is one of 23 Marist students who have heightened their status by becoming a student-teacher to fulfill requirements for her education degree. "It's weird when the kids call me 'Miss Keating' because I don't feel much older than they are," she said. "I still feel like a kid myself."

However, she doesn't seem like one when she speaks to her second graders in Room 3 at Arlington Elementary School in Poughkeepsie. "This is supposed to be 'pick-up time,' but I'm picking 'em up from school."

"Quiet!" the class answers in boisterous tones.

"Why don't you hear voices?" Keating asks.

The voices stop.

According to Keating, tactics like these — called classroom management practices — are taught in preparatory classes in Marist's psychology/special education curriculum.

"The curriculum contains several psychology classes required by the state for certification. "We are shown how to arrange classroom activities to facilitate teaching and learning," she said. "However, nothing could have prepared me until I experienced it in the classroom."

According to a study conducted by psychologists Erickson and Mohatt, "The most successful classroom managers are those teachers who seem to anticipate most classroom behaviors are likely to occur, and intervene early to prevent them."

Keating said she could sometimes see a potential problem..." (page 2)

The Night before Christmas
A pair of holiday-inspired poems from columnist Mark Marble

VOLUME 39, NUMBER 10 MARIST COLLEGE, POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. DECEMBER 12, 1991

For students, teaching more than just ABC's
by MEGAN MCDONNELL
Senior Editor

While other Marist students read the classic literature of William Shakespeare and Geoffrey Chaucer this semester, Karen Keating lined her bookshelves with the works of Dr. Seuss.

"It will be hard to walk back into a classroom in January," said Keating, a senior psychology/special education major from Southington, Conn., "I've thought about it more to go back to the college level, whereas they've been at the second-grade level for the past four months."

Keating is one of 23 Marist students who have heightened their status by becoming a student-teacher to fulfill requirements for her education degree. "It's weird when the kids call me 'Miss Keating' because I don't feel much older than they are," she said. "I still feel like a kid myself."

However, she doesn't seem like one when she speaks to her second graders in Room 3 at Arlington Elementary School in Poughkeepsie. "This is supposed to be 'pick-up time,' but I'm picking 'em up from school."

"Quiet!" the class answers in boisterous tones.

"Why don't you hear voices?" Keating asks.

The voices stop.

According to Keating, tactics like these — called classroom management practices — are taught in preparatory classes in Marist's psychology/special education curriculum.

"The curriculum contains several psychology classes required by the state for certification. "We are shown how to arrange classroom activities to facilitate teaching and learning," she said. "However, nothing could have prepared me until I experienced it in the classroom."

According to a study conducted by psychologists Erickson and Mohatt, "The most successful classroom managers are those teachers who seem to anticipate most classroom behaviors are likely to occur, and intervene early to prevent them."

Keating said she could sometimes see a potential problem..." (page 2)
Kirk and crew say goodbye in final Star Trek

The final Trek film, "Star Trek: First Contact," was released in 1996. The movie brought back many of the original characters, including Captain James T. Kirk, played by William Shatner, and Dr. Leonard "Bones" McCoy, played by DeForest Kelley. The film also introduced new characters, such as Data, played by转让 Banks, and Seven of Nine, played by Jeri Ryan. The movie was a critical and commercial success, earning $300 million at the box office and becoming the highest-grossing film in the Star Trek series. "Star Trek: First Contact" was nominated for several awards, including Best Actor in a Motion Picture - Drama for William Shatner, and Best Writing - Screenplay Based on Material from Another Medium for Ronald D. Moore. The film was also nominated for an Academy Award for Best Visual Effects. Despite its success, "Star Trek: First Contact" marked the end of the original Star Trek series, as the franchise would continue with new casts and stories in the future.

DEBATE

During the summer, Marist's debate team added seven new members and a new assistant coach. The new assistant coach is Michael Davis, who has been on the debate team for nine days. Davis is a law student at the University of Connecticut and is the team's junior coach. He has been on the debate team for six years and is a former senior editor of The Marist. After 25 years of television and film, Marist, in the past few years, has added multiple programs to the school's academic offerings. The debate team is one of the most successful programs at Marist, and it has won many national and regional championships. The team has also produced several successful graduates, including Michael Davis, who is now an assistant coach for the team.

MARIST STUDENTS!

Register for your Winter Intersession class BEFORE Christmas break to secure your spot. This is your chance to study new material and earn college credit. Opportunities abound this winter for Marists who want to stay ahead of the game. The Marist College Adult and Career Education program offers a wide range of courses, from business and technology to arts and humanities. Classes are available on campus and online, and you can choose from a variety of formats, including traditional classroom instruction and self-paced study. Winter Intersession classes are designed to accommodate your busy schedule, so you can earn college credit while you're on break. Don't wait until the last minute to register. Sign up today and start your journey to academic success.
Plastic proves painful to a debt collection agency.

Cindy said that she had problems with her eating habits since she was a high school graduate and had not been able to successfully recover.

"I thought I had recovered after being in a hospital for my senior year in high school, but after a few months of being on my own, the problem resurfaced," said Cindy.

The freedom of the college environment over their issues with eating disorders is a topic of debate in the field. The Cleveland Clinic offers individual counseling to students with eating disorders. However, Cindy said that the treatment helped her by helping her to recognize and understand her eating disorder.

"Due to the uncontrolled results of eating disorders," said Cindy, "I was unable to attend college, despite receiving financial aid from several private scholarship programs."

After undergoing counseling, Cindy said that she recovered after a few months of being on her own. While attending college, she began to lose weight and became very happy with her body image.

"I have been able to maintain my weight since then, and I am very happy with my body image," said Cindy.

Navy base in Pearl Harbor and the impact on the war.

"One must understand the kind of impact Pearl Harbor had at dragging America into the war," said Olson.

"It was an event that was so sudden and unexpected," said Olson, "that it caused the American public to rally behind the military and support the war effort."
PARK DISCOUNT BEVERAGE
Rte. 9, Hyde Park 229-9000
(Rt. 9 North past Culinary Institute to traffic light - on left)

BECKS
12 PACK $9.99
ST. PAULI GIRL
12 PACK $9.99

MOLSON GOLD & EXPORT ALE
$12.99 CASE

GROLSCH
6 PACK $4.99
HAMM'S
6 PACK $6.99
SCHMIDTS
6 PACK $6.99 CASE

HOLIDAY GIFT PACKS
BEERS OF THE WORLD • GIFT CARD PACK • MANY MORE
MUGS & VARIETED GIFTS

COKE
12 PACK $3.29
RC, DIET RITE & CRUSH .... 2 LTR ... $9.99

BARTLES & JAMIES...
$3.19 4 PACK
MICHELOB
6 PACK $3.79
SEAGRAMS
3 PACK $1.49 CASE

KEGS • ICE • LOTTO • BEER • SODAS
HOURS: SUN, 12-5; MON-THURS 10-9; FRI & SAT 9-9

THE CIRCLE, DECEMBER 12, 1991

1. The person must sleep for six hours starting from getting to bed until morning.
2. The person must wake up and get out of bed the next day.
3. People will stay up they do not have head noises during the night or can sleep through disturbing noises, but some people have to wake up in different period of the day. People will be very busy during the day when they sleep.

A few reasons why students can't stay awake

Are you enthusiastic, positive and sincere about your experience here at Marist? The Admissions Office would like you to help! We're looking for "MARIST AMBASSADORS", students who are willing to return to their high schools over Christmas break to speak with students, guidance counselors, and parents about a Marist "AMBASSADOR PROGRAM" would include answering questions, handing out College literature and, most importantly, sharing your Marist experience with high school juniors and seniors.

On Thursday, December 12, there will be a table set up outside the Financial Aid Office in Donnelly and on Friday, December 13 the table will be in the breezeway of Champagne Hall. You may pick up the Ambassador packet at either location. The next step is easy - Just visit your high school.

You can make a difference!

So stop by our tables in Donnelly or Champagne and see Sean Kaylor in the Admissions Office, Greystone, Monday through Friday, 9-5 to pick up an Ambassador packet!

by DOMINIC E. FONTANA

The common complaint scene is a symptom of disordered eating, with hemmorhaging arising due to anorexia nervosa, and bulimia nervosa. Anorexia nervosa (AN) is characterized by an inability to maintain appropriate weight. People with AN also have a fear of gaining weight and believe they are fat when they are thin. They may also engage in extreme dieting behaviors such as skipping breakfast, fasting, or using laxatives.

Bulimia nervosa (BN) is characterized by episodes of binge eating followed by purging behaviors such as self-induced vomiting, misuse of laxatives, and/or diuretics, or fasting. People with BN often feel humiliated and helpless and may be self-critical. They may also engage in excessive exercise.

Disordered eating can be dangerous and potentially deadly. People with anorexia nervosa (AN) and bulimia nervosa (BN) may develop serious health problems such as heart disease, kidney stones, and dental problems.

Disordered eating can also have a significant impact on a person's mental health. People with AN and BN may experience symptoms of depression, anxiety, and low self-esteem. They may also have difficulty maintaining healthy relationships.

Disordered eating can be treated with a combination of medical and psychological treatment. Some common treatment options include medication, individual and group therapy, and nutritional counseling.

Anorexia nervosa can be treated with a combination of medical and psychological treatment. Some common treatment options include medication, individual and group therapy, and nutritional counseling.

Bulimia nervosa can be treated with a combination of medical and psychological treatment. Some common treatment options include medication, individual and group therapy, and nutritional counseling.

Disordered eating can be dangerous and potentially deadly. People with anorexia nervosa (AN) and bulimia nervosa (BN) may develop serious health problems such as heart disease, kidney stones, and dental problems.

Disordered eating can also have a significant impact on a person's mental health. People with AN and BN may experience symptoms of depression, anxiety, and low self-esteem. They may also have difficulty maintaining healthy relationships.

Disordered eating can be treated with a combination of medical and psychological treatment. Some common treatment options include medication, individual and group therapy, and nutritional counseling.

Anorexia nervosa can be treated with a combination of medical and psychological treatment. Some common treatment options include medication, individual and group therapy, and nutritional counseling.

Bulimia nervosa can be treated with a combination of medical and psychological treatment. Some common treatment options include medication, individual and group therapy, and nutritional counseling.

Disordered eating can be dangerous and potentially deadly. People with anorexia nervosa (AN) and bulimia nervosa (BN) may develop serious health problems such as heart disease, kidney stones, and dental problems.

Disordered eating can also have a significant impact on a person's mental health. People with AN and BN may experience symptoms of depression, anxiety, and low self-esteem. They may also have difficulty maintaining healthy relationships.

Disordered eating can be treated with a combination of medical and psychological treatment. Some common treatment options include medication, individual and group therapy, and nutritional counseling.

Anorexia nervosa can be treated with a combination of medical and psychological treatment. Some common treatment options include medication, individual and group therapy, and nutritional counseling.

Bulimia nervosa can be treated with a combination of medical and psychological treatment. Some common treatment options include medication, individual and group therapy, and nutritional counseling.
Is today's college student nothing more than a creature of apathy striving to be mediocre?

Less than 11 months from now, America will once again be voting in the elections that are the ultimate symbol of a democracy at work or the election of the President.

Sadly, according to the 1988 Census Bureau's Report, less than 10% of this country's college students will choose to participate.

As a point of fact, more college-age young adults are sexually active than are politically active. Now this is worth remembering.

Rich Nass, photography editor

Why do programs like Medicare and Social Security never go away?

Because the elderly do vote.

Less than 11 months from now, America will once again be voting in the elections that are the ultimate symbol of a democracy at work or the election of the President.

Julie Martin, business manager

I in the buff were praying the election would not be too rough.

And Barbara in her nightgown and "Oh my God. I think it's the Gipper!"

On, Nancy! On, Ronny! On, Agnew and Nixon!

He rose up the chimney and I went back to bed,

Down the chimney the Gipper came with a bound.

And before I head home, here: Have a jellybean.

Don't worry, my friend. This is your year, '92.

We've got a message for our ol' buddy Bush.

Do not tell anyone what you have seen.

The pangs of confusion, a decision's delay,

And by opposing, end them. To think, to run —

I tripped over Millie and slammed into the wall;

I moved again to the window, and stuck out my head;

"Four more years for George, and 1000 points of light,"

"The tragedy of Mario Cuomo, Governor of New York"

Secondly, a national representation of Tau Kappa Epsilon and win and saddled at the races.

TKE speaks out for ethics and integrity

May be the most powerful thing of all — truth.

Unfortunately, the media is just no longer caring.

"Twas the night before elections

FRANK MARBLE

As a Christmas present to our readers, The Circle has been able to get its hands on a copy of "The Collected Writings of Oscar Busch." The book has several excerpts from the works of Oscar Busch.

Two short night scenes, when all the White House House is taken over by the Secret Service and everyone else is in the basement.

The book is now in paperback.

All the troubles of a man who went to see "The Honeymooners," and was io dumped.

We will publish the book in a few months.

I do not want you to worry about me.

And besides, I have never had a simpleton.

I was not in a hurry, you see, but I saw:

"What things are they, you know? You've come a long way.

Don't worry, my friend. This is your year, '92!"

I grabbed his hand and hugged him. And he hugged with grace.

He said, "You are my old friend, you are."

I do not want you to worry about me.

And besides, I have never had a simpleton.

He cupped the chimney and I went back to bed, I moved again to the window, and stuck out my head;

"Four more years for George, and 1000 points of light,"

"The tragedy of Mario Cuomo, Governor of New York"

21 Society criticizes voting

Mark Harrison is the college's political columnist.

The article centers the campaign on the issues that the voters care about, and the candidates are forced to address them. It is a way for the voters to hold the candidates accountable for their policies and promises.

The circle is violating state law by the adherence to a particular political party.

In the 1970s, it would not be ruled

The board also reviewed another long-term plan which would allow students to develop their own projects. The proposal was rejected.

The book has several excerpts from the works of Oscar Busch.

The young ships are not going to be given a chance to do a school group play and there are no plans to do a student written and directed play.

The piece was written about the writers of the political decision making they are involved in.

Student council passes over a year of study.

The work before finals is one of the most important tasks of the college year. Keeping students informed and prepared is one of the main goals of student organizations.

The book has several excerpts from the works of Oscar Busch.
40's riot that led to parks closing remembered

by VINCENT J. ZURLO
Staff Writer

It is today before World War II, the Woodcliff Amusement Park in Poughkeepsie attracts an estimated crowd of 10,000 to the park. It is the height of the summer, many of whom have traveled on steamboats up the Hudson from New York City. Woodcliff Park is a place of dining, dancing, and eating. It is also a place of discrimination, and begins a discourse whose conclusion on one could foresee.

Deputy Sheriff Joseph Bloomer, who was on duty in the park, described the riot to The Poughkeepsie Eagle-News reporter. "They associate the Poughkeepsie Eagle-News reporter about the riots.

The riot began shortly after several black men asked for a glass of water. They were denied, he accused the Poughkeepsie Eagle-News reporter for the town of Poughkeepsie, and was denied, he accused the

The riot finally ended at about 2 a.m. Sheriff Close contacted New York, avoiding a confrontation with the Woodcliff Eagle-News.

The Woodcliff Amusement Park was closed for 25 years at the time, according to Woodcliff Park's facilities. The park was later reopened.

Enjoy your break

COMPUTER CENTER
EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES

The Computer Center's Student Aide Organization is now accepting applications for the position of Student Aide for the Spring 1992 semester. If you are interested, please stop by the Computer Center to pick up an application. All applications should be returned to the Reception Area in the Computer Center.

"GOT THE FINALS BLUES?" LET THE GOOD TIMES ROLL!!!

With

THRIFTY BEVERAGE'S

★ 5 WEEKLY SPECIALS ★

1. DOMESTIC CASE……………BUSCH LOOSE CANS $9.99
2. PREMIUM DOMESTIC CASE…………BUD LONGNECK $13.99
3. IMPORT CASE……………BECKS $17.99
4. QUARTER KEG……………MICHELOB $27.99
5. HALF KEG……………MEISTERBREAU $34.99

★ Cash Prizes ★

* One Mile From Campus
* Fast and Friendly Service
* Free Posters and Signs (JUST ASK)

"WHERE CAN YOU FIND A JOB THAT'S MORE THAN A JOB, THAT PAYS $29,475 TO START, WITH INCREASES TO $44,751 AFTER 5 YEARS?"

If you've got what it takes, now's your chance to prove it. Take the Transit Police test.

Super opportunities for promotion and advancement
State-of-the-art vehicles, weapons and equipment
Specialized training in all aspects of policing

Local police recognition in New York City's finest accredited police force

You must file by December 6, 1991

For more information or an application, call (718) 636-8700.
Learning Center makes world of difference

by KRISTA RAAB
Staff Writer

A special education student at the Marist Learning Center says the Learning Center has become her second home.

"I go there every day, and I go there just to sit in the Learning Center and feel comfortable," said Bedford. "I like it there."

Bedford is a student at the Marist Learning Center, a support center for special education students. She said she feels comfortable at the Learning Center and enjoys spending time there.

"I like it there. It's a place where I can go and be by myself and do my work," said Bedford.

The Learning Center provides a quiet and relaxed atmosphere for students like Bedford, who need extra support in their studies. The center offers a range of services, including tutoring, study skills assistance, and a quiet workspace.

"I find it helpful to have a place like this where I can go and work on my assignments," said Bedford.

The Learning Center is located in a separate building on the Marist College campus and is open to all students, regardless of their academic needs.

"It's a great place to work," said Bedford. "I feel more comfortable here than in the regular classroom."
Lady cagers pummelled; Marist loses six straight
by J.W. STEWART Staff Writer

Marist's women's basketball team continued to struggle this past weekend, losing to Saint Peter's, Fordham and George Washington.

It's not the first time the Red Foxes have lost six straight games in a season. Located in Poughkeepsie, NY, the school had to move away from its former home Georgia Tech 93-63.

Marist's boss, Athletic Director Gene Doris, director of athletics, had his dream and its tough," he said. "It's a tough profession. It's definitely not a 9-to-5 job for Sullivan, but he wants to be there for the students.

"The tremendous demand on your time and pressure of sports and their academics, it's just not a fraternity but everyone goes through the academic system," said Doris. "I'm learning to live with it, but I wouldn't mind
if I didn't find something in coaching.

Doris said he would also like to hire
Doris; Marc Adin, assistant vice president for external relations; Joseph Bettencourt,
member of the faculty executive committee; and
Julia Guglielmo, vice president for student affairs.

"The national organization does evaluation by conducting an on-site evaluation with one of the members of the steering committee," said Doris. "There is also a self-study, and if you don't want to do it,
you can just do it. It's a great tool for schools. We're going to do it in the near future."

"There are a lot of work to do in turnof phase 1," said Head Coach Larry Van Kalone.

"They just have a lot more
interest in our plans for marriage, said Head Coach Larry Van Kalone.

"It was nice to beat Iona," the Red Foxes said.

"It's just a great way to keep
in shape," said Kelly.

Colaizzo said he got his first taste
with others, it's a social activity," with others, it's a social activity,

"It's a great way to keep in shape," said Kelly.

Colaizzo said he began running in the winter, and if he didn't find something in coaching, he wouldn't mind.

Doris, is quick to compliment one of the youngest SIDs in the country.

"To watch the time they put into their work, it's just amazing," said Doris.

"I'm looking for someone who wants to be there for the students.
I've been doing it for four years and I feel like I'm fifty."

"They learned to live with it, but would not mind if they didn't find anything in coaching.

Doris said he would also like to hire
Doris; Marc Adin, assistant vice president for external relations; Joseph Bettencourt,
member of the faculty executive committee; and
Julia Guglielmo, vice president for student affairs.

"The national organization does
evaluation by conducting an on-
site evaluation with one of the members of the steering committee," said Doris. "There is
also a self-study, and if you don't want to do it,
you can just do it. It's a great tool for schools. We're going to do it in the near future."

"There are a lot of work to do in
turnof phase 1," said Head Coach Larry Van Kalone.

"They just have a lot more
interest in our plans for
marriage, said Head Coach Larry Van
Kalone.

"It was nice to beat Iona," the
Red Foxes said.

"It's just a great way to keep
in shape," said Kelly.

Colaizzo said he got his first taste
with others, it's a social activity," with others, it's a social activity,

"It's a great way to keep in
shape," said Kelly.

Colaizzo said he began running in the winter, and if he didn't find anything in coaching, he
wouldn't mind.
Cagers winless; drop first three

by MIKE O'FARRELL
Sports Editor

Four games into the season, the men's basketball team is faced with a must-win situation.

When the Red Foxes take the floor at the University of Buffalo Dec. 21, Head Coach Dave Magarity said he hopes his team will garner its first victory of the season.

"That is a huge game for us," Magarity said. "It is a must-win situation. This team needs to experience winning, especially with the tourname­nt season less than two weeks away.

The Pepsi/ Marriott Classic will take place Dec. 29 and 30 at the McCann Center in Buffalo. The Red Foxes are in their own tournament.

"We have an awful lot of work to do before that game, but I think we're taking progress and doing something," Magarity said. "While the Red Foxes must prepare for their own tournament, this past weekend they took part in the Met Life Classic, hosted by the University of San Francisco.

After falling to the host school in the opening round, the Red Foxes nearly claimed their first victory of the year, losing to Eastern Washington, 85-82.

Trailing the Eagles by many as 10 in the second half, Marist was able to cut the Eastern Western lead to two points before running out of time.

"The Red Foxes played most of the game with a starting point guard," Dester Dunbar and starting center Fred Ingles.

Dunbar was ejected from the game for apparently splitting on an Eastern Washington player who had him by the shirt.

According to Magarity, after Dunbar had been slapped, the point guard did not retaliate in any form.

The Red Foxes' report states Dunbar was ejected for fighting, he will automatically be suspended for the next game, according to NCAA rules, said Magarity.

Magarity said he will be appealing the situation to the supervisor of officials in the Northeast Conference.

"We ran six miles fast on Saturday and 20 miles Sunday," Kelly said.

Kelly also said it's embarrassing to run 60 to 70 miles a week to prepare for a marathon.

"I remember seeing some former Carmel High School and cross­country track coach at Marist, remembers some former students while racing in Boston. Kelly has said to get the back into the race. However and what keeps you going."

Kelly, a mother of four from Poughkeepsie, N.Y., has run in 10 marathons says she continues to run because it gives her something to focus on.

"We do pain, sweat and ex­haustion, something keeps a runner going," Kelly said.

"What is happening to Marist basketball is a must situation," the former captain. "We have a solid second half," he said.

"The nucleus of the team is intact and the guys were struggling," he said this past weekend.

"We broke down defensively," he said. "They are struggling," said Magarity.

"We are going to be a very competitive team this year," he said. "We have a solid second half," he said.

"The last two seasons, Babineau has predicted success for his team. This year, she is expected to be a major contributor."

"The worst that can happen is 11 or so rebounds. There aren't going to be any replacements for Nancy Holbrook and Mary O'Brien is not an easy replacement for a solid second half," he said. "We are going to be a very competitive team this year," he said. "We have a solid second half," he said.