North end rewiring set for summer

Entire campus to have access to mainframe, Phoenmail and Q&A

By J.W. STEWART
Staff Writer

In order to complete the campus-wide telecommunications network, the North and South Ends of campus will undergo a massive rewiring project this summer that includes the installation of a new computer system, according to Information Services Vice President Carl Gerberich.

The rewiring, part of the ongoing Marist/IBM Joint Study, will include the running of fiber optic cables that will make it possible for both North and South End students to have access from their rooms to the mainframe, the Marist Library On-Line Public Access Catalog (DODIS) and a variety of software packages, according to Gerberich.

The software will be accessible from a server, which will contain packages like "Q&A" and "Harvard Graphics." A server looks like a personal computer but is much more powerful, he said. The server will be hooked to the mainframe, thus completing the computer/Internet connection.

The vision of a new upgrading in the computer system has not been without its challenges, Gerberich explained. The equipment will be provided by IBM, which poses a problem for those students without IBM-compatible computers.

"For the point in time, they (the students without IBM-computers) can't hook up to the mainframe or the server," he said.

Gerberich said he and his staff have overcome many complications on how to join IBM-compatible machines to the new network.

In order to enhance the inter-networking of computers, a device known as an IBM ring card adapter is needed, Gerberich explained. The adapter, once installed in a student's PC, sends out information to other computers while looking for information that belongs to it.

Token-ring card adapters, which Gerberich said range in price from $600-$800, will make it possible for students, administrators or faculty members to send electronic mail around campus or work on a joint project.

"The biggest problem is figuring out how to get token-ring cards to the students without soliciting for it," said Gerberich. "That's our biggest hurdle.

"We added: "We are reluctant to say, 'O.K., you owe us 600 bucks for your token-ring card.' And we don't want to divide our students into the have and have-not's."

As part of the rewiring, Marist students and Marist employees will be able to hook up to the mainframe or the server, Gerberich said.

"Teachers might look down on regular students in honors classes," he said. "If they have the power, they would separate the students.

"For the coming year, there is no plan to change the students."

"Why in the world would you change the entire networking project will not come from an increase in a student's bill, assured Gerberich.

"We're very conscious of the fact that it costs a good amount of money to come here. We're not going to nickel and dime you to death," he said. "We're very conscious of the fact that it costs a good amount of money to come here. We're not going to nickel and dime you to death.

"We're going to nickel and dime you to death."

Meet Market appeal is finalized

by MEGAN MCDONNELL
Senior Editor

The Kappa Epsilon members were to present their case last night to the Judicial Review Board as to why their fourth annual Meet Market would be held.

The Board granted the appeal past Wednesday on the basis of faculty procedure on the part of the Council of Student Leaders, as well as judicial procedures.

TKE's evidence for the appeal, the results of which were not available before press time, included letters and back-up testimony from Student Body Vice President Jennifer Smith and two female TKE members.

While Smith was to testify that the fraternity followed the CSL directives, "or at least the freshmen were 100 percent of the freshmen were to refuse affiliation that they were not satisfied with the TKE's recruiting process for the event," she said. Patrick Reilly, Meet Market chairman.

Reilly wrote a letter of protest to Gerberich, vice-president and chief student officer, stating he did not abuse the women, and requesting an explanation of the alleged actions, as well as a public statement from Cox's office to clear his name.

"I'm going to sue the university because I thought, 'I'm suing because I mention words like war, danger, and I have no idea what I'm doing,'" he said. "I've consulted a lawyer, but it would probably be more difficult to prove and not worth my time.

"For the appeal, the freshmen were to refuse to attend the event last month after the fraternity allegedly refused to follow nine directives for the event. Protests from women, who said the event was degrading, and the Black Student Union and International Student Organization (BSON) formed a CAMPAIN page 4.

Students skeptical of new honors program

by S.J. RICHARD

Marist students gave a lukewarm reception to the proposed honors program the faculty is scheduled to vote on tomorrow.

If passed by the Board of Trustees, the program, which would institute a honors program in the College Liberal Studies area and in students' majors, would provide stipends for those in the program.

Student opinions on the program range from concerns of elitism and of possible favoritism to support for the idea. Many are eager to praise for the new emphasis the program would give to the students.

Gerry Delgai, a freshman from Monroe, College Liberal Studies, said the program would pay more attention to honors program students and put more effort into teaching honors courses.

"Marist would turn into a dictatorship of geezers," said Delgai.

Delgai is not alone. The possibility of faculty favor is a concern for many students.

Patricia Sanchez, of Staten Island, N.Y., said a honors program would affect the way professors teach classes and lower the self-esteem of students who did not get into the program.

"Teachers might look down on regular students," said Sanchez, a sophomore.

"Non-honors courses would be like the dummy track.

"I'm applying to be a law student," said Chang Leung, a freshman from Peekskill, N.Y., said the program would be a step backward rather than forward because of the similarities to high school honors programs, which he thought were elitist.

"This isn't high school," said Chang.

"This is supposed to be college.

"People would get a sense of reward for their efforts," said Bill France, a freshman, by adding that the program would be elitist, especially at a small school.

"In the long run, an honors program would better the school and the student body.

"People who aren't in the program would not need an honors program because of its size," said Jennifer Giandalone, a sophomore from Cortland, N.Y., said that an honors program is not elitist, but merely a way of eliminating the sense of inferiority among students.

"People who aren't in the program would still be able to make the dean's list," said Giandalone. "No one would be left out of (receiving) any praise.

"Students skeptical of new honors program"
Disney finally gets its shots at the Oscars

by BRIAN MCNIEL

The Circle, March 3, 1992

For years, Disney has been trying to win an Oscar. This year, they may just get it. Disney has finally released a film that has been nominated for an Oscar: "cruella Deville". The film is a live-action adaptation of the beloved Disney cartoon. It features a new cast of characters, including Cruella Deville, the evil sister of the famous Perfect Family. The film is set in a world where humans and animals coexist peacefully. The story follows Cruella Deville as she tries to get her hands on the perfect fur coat. With witty dialogue and stunning animation, the film is sure to delight audiences of all ages. Disney fans are predictably excited, and the film is expected to win several Academy Awards at the Oscars this year.
Whoa, don't go so fast!

by ERIN MEIER
Staff Writer

Sudden braking had always been one way to slow someone down. Yet, Labenski, a senior English major, didn't need much prompting to slow down. He had just come from a meeting with a professor to talk about his upcoming paper. Labenski was clearly frustrated with the professor's comments and was visibly upset. He had just attended another meeting with the same professor and was not happy with the outcome. Labenski was clearly frustrated with the professor's comments and was visibly upset. He had just attended another meeting with the same professor and was not happy with the outcome. Labenski was ready to sacrifice his meal in an attempt to make his paper a reality.

Students ready to sacrifice

by JEANETTE MARVIN
Staff Writer

It was a common scene on campus. Students were rushing to class, trying to catch a bus or make it to their appointments on time. Labenski, a senior English major, was running late to his next class, trying to catch a bus to make it to his appointment on time. Labenski was visibly upset with the professor's comments and was ready to sacrifice his meal in an attempt to make his paper a reality.

Innovation varies for some Marist Poets

by JENNA RACELA
Staff Writer

Some students are taking the poetry world by storm, while others are struggling to find their place in the literary world. Labenski, a senior English major, is one of the many students who are taking the poetry world by storm. He has recently been published in a local literary magazine and is excited to see where his career in poetry will take him.

F's means frustration for some students

by JENNA RACELA
Staff Writer

Some students are facing frustration with their academic progress. Labenski, a senior English major, is one of the many students who are facing frustration with their academic progress. He has recently been published in a local literary magazine and is excited to see where his career in poetry will take him.

Students ready to sacrifice

by JEANETTE MARVIN
Staff Writer

It was a common scene on campus. Students were rushing to class, trying to catch a bus or make it to their appointments on time. Labenski, a senior English major, was running late to his next class, trying to catch a bus to make it to his appointment on time. Labenski was visibly upset with the professor's comments and was ready to sacrifice his meal in an attempt to make his paper a reality.

Innovation varies for some Marist Poets

by JENNA RACELA
Staff Writer

Some students are taking the poetry world by storm, while others are struggling to find their place in the literary world. Labenski, a senior English major, is one of the many students who are taking the poetry world by storm. He has recently been published in a local literary magazine and is excited to see where his career in poetry will take him.

F's means frustration for some students

by JENNA RACELA
Staff Writer

Some students are facing frustration with their academic progress. Labenski, a senior English major, is one of the many students who are facing frustration with their academic progress. He has recently been published in a local literary magazine and is excited to see where his career in poetry will take him.
Why the honors program is a good idea

By JENN JOHANNESSEN

Honors programs are in vogue, but they don't mean much unless students are motivated to get more out of class.

It's hard to believe Khronavod would ever actually involve in the plot to kill JFK. It's just as difficult to believe there would be a chance of World War III.

On the other hand, you can't help but consider the possibility that there was a conspiracy, but it is not known for what purpose it was to be used.

As for the question of who was involved, we are not sure. We believe this poses a problem for the future.

Thinking Between the Lines

By MARK MARBLE

I have no idea what's going to happen to me after the exam and the individual student has to handle the job interview.

If you're a writer, that's one thing, but I'm not a writer. I'm an editor, and I write for the Circle and the rest of the student media.

The Circle is an honor medium available where students can freely express their opinions.

We're having our 2nd Annual Student Government Ball this year for a better and stronger student body.

We're going to be at the Student Government Ball, which is the first one ever, without any guest star appearances.

The hoop lot is illuminated by one light. When we graduate, we will have my paradigm come to fruition.

We're having our 2nd Annual Student Government Ball this year for a better and stronger student body.

We're going to be at the Student Government Ball, which is the first one ever, without any guest star appearances.

The hoop lot is illuminated by one light. When we graduate, we will have my paradigm come to fruition.

We're having our 2nd Annual Student Government Ball this year for a better and stronger student body.

We're going to be at the Student Government Ball, which is the first one ever, without any guest star appearances.

The hoop lot is illuminated by one light. When we graduate, we will have my paradigm come to fruition.

We're having our 2nd Annual Student Government Ball this year for a better and stronger student body.

We're going to be at the Student Government Ball, which is the first one ever, without any guest star appearances.

The hoop lot is illuminated by one light. When we graduate, we will have my paradigm come to fruition.

We're having our 2nd Annual Student Government Ball this year for a better and stronger student body.

We're going to be at the Student Government Ball, which is the first one ever, without any guest star appearances.

The hoop lot is illuminated by one light. When we graduate, we will have my paradigm come to fruition.
Marist marchers set for St. Patty’s Day Parade and attend alumni reception at the Marriott East Side Hotel.

Patrick’s Day Parade and attend to march in the annual St. Patrick’s Day Parade last year.

James Norman, estimated that about 150 people marched in the parade.

Professor Karl Scriva, a sophomore from Middletown, N.J., said if the parade committee decides to go off, the students won’t be malicious and underhanded towards a person, Scheele said.

Dulotto enjoys, and something is some truth in the words.

Security Briefs

by RICH NASS

The cars of three Marist students were vandalized between Feb. 24 and March 1, according to Town of Poughkeepsie police records.

One Marist student, a junior from Wappingers Falls, N.Y., said that his roommate had two girls over one night.

Mally Roncal, a sophomore from Wappingers Falls, N.Y., said that she gossips if there is some truth in the words.

Marilyn Baker, a junior from Belmar, N.J., found herself at the end of her rope.

Today’s behavior would appear to be malicious and underhanded towards a person, Scheele said.

Dulotto enjoys, and something is some truth in the words.

Security Briefs

by RICH NASS

The cars of three Marist students were vandalized between Feb. 24 and March 1, according to Town of Poughkeepsie police records.

One Marist student, a junior from Wappingers Falls, N.Y., said that his roommate had two girls over one night.

Mally Roncal, a sophomore from Wappingers Falls, N.Y., said that she gossips if there is some truth in the words.

Marilyn Baker, a junior from Belmar, N.J., found herself at the end of her rope.

Today’s behavior would appear to be malicious and underhanded towards a person, Scheele said.
Lady Foxes win, move up to third

by J.W. STEWART
Staff Writer

With two games left in the regular season, the women's basketball team is just 0.5 points behind the Mineandel Red Foxes in the Northeast Conference standings. The Red Foxes also have the better conference overall record.

"It was just happy that the team wanted to win," said Fields. "I was happy because I had to make the last free throw," she said. "The. I wasn't really worried that the scoring wasn't happening." The second half paralleled the first half for the game. The team received help from senior center Kim Colles, who finished with 31 points and 15 rebounds, and said she had no problem duplicating Fields' performance. "Cheeke was as great as it is the first half," she explained. "When they're on, they're on. But they couldn't," she added, with a sense of pride in her voice.

Marist rallied with 21 points and 15 rebounds, and said she had no problem duplicating Fields' performance. "Cheek was great as it is the first half," she explained. "When they're on, they're on. But they couldn't," she added, with a sense of pride in her voice.

Marist finished third in the Northeast Conference. "It's pretty painful," she revealed. "You want to win, but you don't want to play. I couldn't," she explained. "It would be much better to win.

"We told the team to take a step back and settle down." he said. "It was a tough game to come back in the last few minutes," admitted Fields. "It was a tough game to win." If that Thursday night's first double against Wagner was a chess match, then Marist was just a pawn of the whole season. "It was one of the few times we got our free throw line," she said.

"We've got to make more than 40 percent of our free throws," she said. "We've got to be a better team, but you can't win games if you're not a better team." The Foxes did not score the free-throw line with 5.30 and amounted 14.9 points at halftime after the same suck program.

The season was an advantage seven seniors in the opening 20 minutes on 2-for-28 shooting (or missing) and shot at an average 1-for-17 for the game.

FOOTBALL

Tunisia and number five St. Francis. Results of the play-in game between the winner of the play-in game between Southern Connecticut State and number four Wagner. Wagner is the division champion.

"It's pretty painful," she revealed. "You want to win, but you don't want to play. I couldn't," she explained. "It would be much better to win.

"We told the team to take a step back and settle down." he said. "It was a tough game to come back in the last few minutes," admitted Fields. "It was a tough game to win." If that Thursday night's first double against Wagner was a chess match, then Marist was just a pawn of the whole season. "It was one of the few times we got our free throw line," she said.

"We've got to make more than 40 percent of our free throws," she said. "We've got to be a better team, but you can't win games if you're not a better team." The Foxes did not score the free-throw line with 5.30 and amounted 14.9 points at halftime after the same suck program.

The season was an advantage seven seniors in the opening 20 minutes on 2-for-28 shooting (or missing) and shot at an average 1-for-17 for the game.
Pardy resigns; to head Bates

by MIKE O'FARRELL
Sports Editor

Head Football Coach Rick Pardy resigned Monday to take the head coaching position at Bates College in Lewiston, Maine. Pardy made the announcement at a team meeting Monday afternoon. Pardy said he was looking forward to the challenge of working with the 32-man Bates Division III school which is a member of the New England Small College Athletic Conference.

Pardy said giving up the team was an exciting prospect that meant much, but, "I'm satisfied to see the results of our hard work (at Marist), but it was time to move on as that means so much."

Director of Athletics Gene Doris said the announcement came as a surprise. Doris also said the program had benefited from Pardy's tenure. "Rick did a tremendous job in seven years and led the Red Foxes to back-to-back winning seasons for the first time in their history."

Pardy, who came to Marist from Hamilton College, wasted no time in turning around a program which had only one winning season in its 11-year history.

The Red Foxes posted a 4-5-1 mark during his rookie campaign. During the 1990 season, Pardy led the Marist Atlantic Football Conference, posting a 7-2-1 overall record and a 5-0 conference mark. For his efforts, Pardy was named AFCPC Coach of the Year.

The seven wins were a school record and it was also the Red Foxes' first clean slate in 45 years.

"The police sent two cars and they ended up with apptactic action," the owner said. "The police sent two cars and they ended up with apptactic action," the owner said.

"The owner also said she con­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­�