Two students suspended in townhouse incident

by MEREDITH KENNEDY
Staff Editor

Two male Marist students re­ceived one-year suspensions follow­ing their arrest on Mon., Sept. 12. Joe Jarjura, 19, and Rob Muni, 20, were formally charged with assault in the third degree, a mis­demeanor, according to Security Director Dr., Leary said.

The confrontation occurred at approximately 1:45 a.m. Sat. Sept. 10, in townhouse B7.

Two junior female residents, Elizabeth Dubois, 20, and Natasha Reilly, 20, and three non-Marist males from East Haven, Conn., were involved in the incident, Leary said.

Muni and Jarjura have been on suspension for one year, and Dubois' on-campus housing has been revoked.

Jarjura said he does not under­stand why he is being punished for protecting himself because he did not throw the first punch.

"I got hit and a fight occurred," Jarjura said. "I defended myself and my friends defended me." Reilly said. "She walked into the middle of the fight and saw people everywhere.

"By the time I got downstairs, there were people all over the place," Reilly said. "They were on the kitchen table and the couch. Onewas lyng on the floor." Kelly, who according to Leary suffered a possible fractured rib, said she was thrown across the B7 living room by Jarjura.

"I went behind Joe to try to stop the fighting, and he turned around and looked at me and then threw me on the couch," Reilly said. "Jarjura said he did not recall who she was. I was in the middle of the fight and saw people everywhere.

"They're telling me Natasha jumped in, on my back," Jarjura said. "Something came from the floor and hit me on the back.

"I swung my back around to get her off and that's how she got hurt." Reilly denied that the jumped on Jarjura in the incident. "I don't know what he was doing."

"This makes me mad, because people keep saying it," Reilly said. "I did not jump on Joe's back. He looked right at me and then threw me.

"Jarjura and Muni's suspension were placed by Peter Amato, assistant dean.

Jarjura said he met with Amato voluntarily on Mon. Sept. 12 and was treated as guilty from the beginning.

"Dean Amato told me that be­fore I said anything, I should know that I am in serious trouble, and that this was a serious matter," Jarjura said.

Amato said he could not com­ment on the incident because it in­volves the disciplinary process of the college, and the case is confidential.

Dubois now resides off-campus and is banned from the townhouse section of campus because she has three male guests were not registered with housing. Reilly said.

Jim Raino, director of housing and residential life, said he could not comment about the incident.

Reilly said she was aware that an incident had occurred earlier that night but did not know the details.

Jarjura is said to be appealing the suspension but will have to wait to see if Gerard Cox, vice president and dean for student affairs, will allow him to present his case.

New RDs bring fresh ideas to campus life

by BLYTIE MAUSOLF
Staff Writer

The Office of Housing and Res­idential Life hired not one but five new Residence Directors this year, because the staff were reduced six years ago, according to various and background.

Assistant Director of Housing John Padovani, said, "We look to build a team of people with differ­ent talents and experience. So they come together and each has a unique competence."

The additions are spread through­out the campus, including Chris Johnson in the North End and in Gambpare; Kelly Martin is in Marist Hall on the North End and in Gartland is Kelly Fino.

Last year at this time, Sam John­son was beginning his senior year at Western Connecticut State University, with a major in Human Re­sources.

He was an active participant of student government and a resident assistant.

Johnson then came to Marist for a few reasons, "It's the size of the school, the fact, that it's on campus, the people popula­tion is bigger. And I worked in a public institution and Marist is pri­vate, so I wanted to get a little different perspective."

He said he feels his youth was an asset in Marist's selection of him.

Johnson described himself as, "a young, energetic person with ideas and energy."

He said he was looking forward to working with the freshmen in Shenando.

He said he sees it as a challenge and his goal is to keep his students active and on top of their game.

He would like to help Marist build a more administratively, academi­cal, and social campus level, in order to help students open up to the real world.

About himself, Johnson said, "I am approachable and passionate about who I am and what I do. I believe it is important to know who you are and where you came from. And also, I am still learning, and I will always be learning something new."

Kelly Martin comes to Marist from Bridgewater State College, where she went to graduate school.

In addition to classes and an in­ternship, she worked as assistant resident director in a hall for approxi­mately 700 first year students.

On her decision to leave, Martin said, "I was finished with grad­uate school, plus I was at Barnoga for six years, and I needed to leave; I could have stayed, you'd-gone into it's a different situation, but if you get a different type of philosophy in your residence hall, you're just turning your wheels and not really getting any­where.

After interviewing for many middle school guidance positions, she put out a few housing applications, none of them seemed to be a match.

"From the first time I got on campus, I sat there amazed, I felt so comfortable. When I left here I said, to have be at Marist," Martin said.

"When you get your own housing office and the person being hired, you're on the same wavelength and once that happens you can go on." Martin said.

After being very involved in Greek life at Bridgewater, she is happy to be offered a position in the Greek organization.

Although, Shenando would have liked her first year at Marist to be exci­ted about making some changes in Shenando.

"I feel like to be involved in more than just the housing area of Marist. When on duty, I'm usually the one doing it by bike. I make a lot of time for the students, and try to incorporate that into who I am," Martin said.

Like Martin, Jeasine Belcastro comes from the completion of graduate school at Boston University, where she majored in Vocal Music Performance.

After graduating in May, she said she wanted to look for a housing position similar to the supervisor position she held as a student and, as Martin, she was looking at non-scientific poll.

"I wanted to look at a private school because of the quality of the students. I feel there is a difference in the mentality of the students of­ten times. They tend to be a little more into their studies because they are paying a lot more," Belcastro said.

She explained that she had cho­sen the 100 block because the staff were placed in Shenando.

Her past experience had been

"Please see RDs p. 9..."

Student leaders express concern-Security budget cuts an issue

by BRIAN FRANKENFIELD
Staff Writer

Marist students making progress is what the Student Government's Safety and Security Committee is all about.

On Nov. 15, 1999 the 12-mem­ber committee filed a safety and security report with former student body president, Scott Krenchel. The report outlined offerings from se­veral foot-patrols to the quality of lighting around campus.

Following this report, a memo was sent to Executive Vice Presi­dent Mark Sullivan, and Director of Security Joe Leary requesting a tour of campus problem areas. The tour was agreed upon, and conducted one Thursday evening last April. Student Government officers Jen Nocella, Matt Gillis, Rebecca Ryan and Holly Olson circled the entire campus, from The McCann Center to Gartland's Hoop Lot, pointing out potential dangers.

"The tour was extremely effective in getting a response from adminis­tration," Leary said.

"I was very pleased to see im­provements when we came back this year," Nocella said.

Since then, the steps behind Leo Hall have been fixed, and snow guards were placed on the New Townhouses, the fencing and lightings

The Circle
non-scientific poll

The Circle conducted a non-scientific poll from Sept. 20th to Sept. 27th. Almost 1,100 students responded to this question:

Do you feel the U.S. should be intervening in foreign politics, such as the conflict in Haiti?

Yes= 430
No= 636
TV scandal in Fiennes-driven ‘Quiz’

by JONATHAN MEMIBURY

The star, who Confidential recently revealed was interested in the role, was rumoured to have been approached by the new producer of the series, who is said to have requested Fiennes to commit to the project. However, Fiennes has reportedly declined the offer, citing his busy schedule and previous commitments. The decision to scrap the series comes as a disappointment to many fans who were eagerly awaiting the new season.

Gartland Commons becomes wet residence area

by BYRON JOHNSON

The Gartland Commons residence area, located on the outskirts of campus, has been declared a wet residence area by the Marist administration. This decision was made after a series of incidents involving alcohol consumption and loud parties, which were deemed to be disruptive to the academic environment.

Marist cable still not satisfying community

by MICHAEL J. LEUGNA

The Marist administration has announced that the cable system in the dormitories is not meeting the needs of the students. The current system is not able to provide adequate bandwidth for streaming video and accessing the internet, and the administration is looking into options for improving the service.

Secretaries, Marist able to come to an agreement over job security

by Suzann Tarans

Duffy Driver

This past summer, the secretary’s union at Marist College reached a tentative agreement with the administration to improve job security for the secretaries. The agreement includes provisions for a minimum wage increase, and a clause that guarantees job security for secretaries who have been employed for at least one year.

New lighting to be installed throughout campus

by LYNN MILLARD

The Marist administration has announced plans to install new lighting throughout the campus. The project, which is expected to be completed by the end of the year, will provide improved lighting for safety and security purposes. The new lighting system will be more energy-efficient and will help to reduce the carbon footprint of the campus.

CORRECTION

The Crefie apologizes to Jim Ralma for the typo in her name last week.
great scores...

A recent Kaplan study conducted by Price Waterhouse confirms that the Kaplan LSAT prep course improves scores on average by 7.2 points! And that could be the difference between getting into the law school of your choice, and just getting in.

great skills...

Staff Writer

The circle, September 29, 1994

Peace Corps offers graduates different employment opportunities

by Christine Wood

Two Peace Corps volunteers went to Mexico for a period of six months to do community health work and get some experience living in another culture. They returned to the United States in March of 1993.

The Peace Corps, which began under the Kennedy administration in 1961, sends volunteers overseas to work in education, health, and community development projects. Volunteers have the opportunity to live and work in a different culture, learn a new language, and gain valuable experience.

Peace Corps volunteers earn a monthly salary and receive other benefits, including health care and travel expenses.

Peace Corps volunteers are eligible for federal employment, and some are hired directly upon completion of their service.

Career Development holds Forum

by Suzanne van Zyl

The Career Development Office at Marist College held a forum to discuss different career opportunities for students. The event was held in the Marist Center on Thursday, November 4, 1993.

The forum featured speakers from various organizations, including the Peace Corps, the Peace Corps Corporation, and the World Bank. The speakers discussed the benefits of Peace Corps service and the opportunities it offers.

Peace Corps representatives were pleased with the turnout and said that they were encouraged by the interest shown by the students.

Former New Jersey High School Principal gives motivational lecture to Marist community

by Daryl richard

Former New Jersey high school Principal Joe Clark, after whom the movie "Lean on Me" was modeled, spoke to the Marist community at the St. Mark's Chapel on October 4, 1993.

Clark is known for his motivational speaking and his ability to inspire students and teachers alike. He has spoken at many universities and high schools across the country, including Harvard, Yale, and Stanford.

Clark's message to the Marist community was one of hope and inspiration. He encouraged students to believe in themselves and to never give up on their dreams.

Peace Corps representatives were on hand to discuss Peace Corps opportunities and to answer any questions the students may have had.

The Peace Corps is a volunteer program that sends volunteers to developing countries to work in education, health, and community development projects. Volunteers receive a monthly salary and travel expenses.

Peace Corps volunteers are eligible for federal employment and are also eligible for graduate study.

Peace Corps representatives were available to answer questions and to provide information about the program.

Peace Corps representatives were also available to answer questions and to provide information about the program.
LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor's Note:

Letters should be no more than 300 words in length. Readers are encouraged to type letters on a word processor and submit via email to the Editor. All letters should concern the publication in which they are written.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Final Letters to the Editor are due Sunday, Oct. 2 at 5pm. Letters should be no more than 600 words.

---

Letters to the Editor

Editor

Last week's article regarding the roof replacement fund plant for next year is something that Bubba Becker and Larry Boada have discussed. Becker and Boada have to consider that the taxpayers are the ones who should have a say in what happens to the roof.

Becker and Boada have no right to make decisions that affect the students. This is not a private company, it is a public institution.

The students of Marist College have the right to be heard.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor

This is the last issue of this editors page that will be published. This is because the editors have decided to focus on the upcoming election.

The students of Marist College have the right to be heard.

The editors have decided to focus on the upcoming election.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor

This is the last issue of this editors page that will be published. This is because the editors have decided to focus on the upcoming election.

The students of Marist College have the right to be heard.

The editors have decided to focus on the upcoming election.

---

Final Letters to the Editor are due Sunday, Oct. 2 at 5pm. Letters should be no more than 600 words.

---

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor

This is the last issue of this editors page that will be published. This is because the editors have decided to focus on the upcoming election.

The students of Marist College have the right to be heard.

The editors have decided to focus on the upcoming election.
Marist in search of a Dean of Communication

by Maura Bouliet

The Marist Student Government Tour Committee is looking for a new Dean of Communication and the Arts.

According to Ms. Nolan, chair of the committee, "we all must say, the search was not easy.

In the spring of this year, 18 credentials were handed in. Unfortunately, no applications have been received from candidates who meet our qualifications in the fact that the academic should have a Ph.D.

The small minority of candidates that have been out of their current positions have been not enough for students to respond.

Ms. Nolan feels the search will take some time, because the candidate should have a Ph.D. in Communication and two sections of public relations.

However, the school is looking for a few good communication professors to come to the department, "a Dean who can help make the campus a safer place for its students.

Also eliminated was the campus van, which was replaced on Tuesday. It was found off-campus on the day of towing, with the cars not parked in any place of the campus, alerting security.

A 4X8-sized bulletin board was replaced on Tuesday.

The ad has been resubmitted for the matter by Friday morning.

L. Mcguirk would like students to be on the lookout for the job.

This low number can be attributed to the rain.

Gracious Riverside Dining

Gracious Riverside Dining

2 Minutes from Mid-Hudson Bridge

Call 1-800-648-4849

Wednesday - Berties

Pitcher Night

$1.00 Pitchers 9-10:30
$2.00 Pitchers 10:30-12:00
$3.00 Pitchers 12:00-

"Come and spin the wheel and you can set our prices"

Live Music 9/18 + 10/5;
"Reservoir Square"

Call for a free ride: 452-BERT

Thursday - Berties

Marist Night At Berties

1st Four Kegs...
Free

Wednesday - Berties

Berties Football Sunday

Free Breakfast Buffet

New Satellite System
Watch any Game
- $1.50 Domestic Bottles
10 cent wings

Monday Night Football

Free Wings All Game
1st Quarter $1 Drafts
2nd Quarter 50c Drafts
3rd Quarter 15c Drafts
4th Quarter $1 Drafts

Call for a free ride: 452-BERT

P Representative

Hill and she can set our prices"

18 and over Welcome!

Call for a free ride: 452-BERT

Hill and she can set our prices"

18 and over Welcome!

Call for a free ride: 452-BERT

Saturday - Berties

Call for a free ride: 452-BERT

Family Recreation Centers

HoeBowl Country Lanes
Rte. 9G, Hyde Park
452-1845
Booters lose again; in Conn. on Sat.

by TERRI L. STEWART

The men's soccer team suffered a setback in the loss column Monday afternoon in Lebanonville, N.Y.

The Red Foxes (1-7 overall; 1-3 MAAC) were defeated by Wagner College, 5-2.

"It was a setback," said senior captain Neil Massey. "We went from the high of the win to the low of this loss.

The Associated Press

9-10-94

by ANDREW HOLMUND

Even before the football team's conference game against Wagner College on Saturday afternoon at the New York State Fairgrounds in Lebanonville, N.Y., the tide had turned against the Red Foxes.

In the wake of the Red Foxes' first MAAC loss of the season, they had their sights set on a winning streak.

But when it came time to put the winning streak to the test, the Red Foxes were defeated by the defending MAAC champions, 5-2.

"We knew they were a good team," said senior forward Jeff Gisetti. "But we didn't expect them to come out and defeat us so quickly.

The Associated Press

9-10-94

by JASON FARAGO

The rugby club opened its 1994 season last Saturday against Hofstra University in Uniondale, N.Y.

The Red Foxes were stopped by Hofstra, 16-7.

The Red Foxes' 1-0 record in the MAAC was no match for Hofstra, which is currently in first place.

"We knew they were a better team," said senior forward Jeff Gisetti. "But we didn't expect them to come out and defeat us so quickly.

The Associated Press

9-10-94

by JASON FARAGO

The rugby club opened its 1994 season last Saturday against Hofstra University in Uniondale, N.Y.

The Red Foxes were stopped by Hofstra, 16-7.

The Red Foxes' 1-0 record in the MAAC was no match for Hofstra, which is currently in first place.

"We knew they were a better team," said senior forward Jeff Gisetti. "But we didn't expect them to come out and defeat us so quickly.

The Associated Press

9-10-94

by JASON FARAGO

The rugby club opened its 1994 season last Saturday against Hofstra University in Uniondale, N.Y.

The Red Foxes were stopped by Hofstra, 16-7.

The Red Foxes' 1-0 record in the MAAC was no match for Hofstra, which is currently in first place.

"We knew they were a better team," said senior forward Jeff Gisetti. "But we didn't expect them to come out and defeat us so quickly.

The Associated Press

9-10-94

by JASON FARAGO

The rugby club opened its 1994 season last Saturday against Hofstra University in Uniondale, N.Y.

The Red Foxes were stopped by Hofstra, 16-7.

The Red Foxes' 1-0 record in the MAAC was no match for Hofstra, which is currently in first place.

"We knew they were a better team," said senior forward Jeff Gisetti. "But we didn't expect them to come out and defeat us so quickly.
Spikers lose big at Seton Hall

by GERARD CARNEY
Staff Writer

Prior to the Seton Hall Invitational last weekend, the women's volleyball team had a 3-4 overall record, and was riding a three-game winning streak.

However, when the tournament concluded, the Red Foxes were wishing they could get on the bus and get south of South Orange, N.J., as quickly as possible.

Marist (6-7 overall; 0-0 in the Northeast Conference) dropped three of its four matches at Seton Hall University last Saturday and Sunday. The Red Foxes first went up against the host school, Seton Hall. The Pirates relied on Marist, 15-5, 15-0, and 15-6.

Marist then faced Lehigh University. The Red Foxes were taken care of by the Engineers in four sets, 15-7, 15-2, 15-1, and 15-10.

The tournament was not a complete failure for Marist. The Red Foxes were able to benefit from their final match of the invitational by sweeping past Fairfield University, 15-13, 15-7, and 15-10.

Sophomore middle hitter Liz Herzner said despite the results, the tournament was a learning experience for the entire team.

"Seton Hall is just a powerhouse, simply a better team," Herzner said.

"We could have played better against Lehigh, but we didn't know what we were doing wrong," Marist was in Fairfield, Conn., last Tuesday, battling Fairfield University.

Sophomore outside hitter Tara Damrau said the Foxes "just got their minds into the contest. It was just a disaster. We came out flat and didn't think. We came out with no intensity or intensity, and it just did not seem we wanted to be ready to play."

Damrau, a transfer from Tucson, Ariz., said she and her teammates are not overly concerned about their record.

"We've played some tough schools recently, Seton Hall for one, but we will be fine," Damrau said. "We have a tough team ourselves. We can play better."

Marist was able to defeat its two toughest opponents, the University of Hartford on Sept. 14, and Fairfield University on Sept. 21.

According to Northeast Conference regulations, all teams in the league make post-season play, which gives each team a legitimate chance at the conference title.

Herzner also said she believes Marist has the capability to take the Northeaest Conference.

"We could have come out with stronger efforts and still made the tourney," Herzner said.

Time is starting to run out on Goldman's team

by ANDREW HOLMLUND

The proposal which included a tax plan to help finance small-market organizations; however, the NHL Players Association shut down that idea.

WOULDN'T IT BE STRANGE if the NHL and MLB both ceased work?

Even though their seasons are mostly played in different sports, each league cannot afford to shut down.

Because both financial factors, they are the least known of the six major league soccer, football, baseball and basketball.

Since baseball and the college sports are six major league sports, the NFL is in jeopardy of locking out the start of its 26th season if the owners and players cannot reach an agreement.

On Sunday, approximately 50,000 fans packed into the Michigan Stadium to commemorate what would have been the Cardinals final game of the season.

Fans in attendance were able to watch the Packers in a fan filled contest, and take a tour of the stadium.

This was just the reminder that baseball should be mainly for the fans, and not just for the owners and players.

ONE-QUARTER of the National Football League's season has just completed.

With that in mind, here are your 1994 divisional, conference and Super Bowl choices.

In the AFC East, there is no surprise. The Buffalo Bills will once again take the title.

NFC West...

Andrew Holmlund

Sophomore Tammy Tere makes a set as Assistant Coach Randy Desrosiers looks on. Marist will be in Pennsylvania this weekend.

The Circle Sports Staff

STAT OF THE WEEK:

The Women's Tennis team is 5-0 in the Northeast Conference.

Netters snap skid; improve mark to 6-2

by JAMES J. DERIVAN
Staff Writer

The women's tennis team was able to snap a two-match losing streak last Sunday afternoon by buming down the Manhattan Jaspers, 8-1, at the John Jay Racquet Club.

The Red Foxes (6-2 overall; 6-1 in the Northeast Conference) were victorious by a trio of sophomores: Jen O'Neil, Cammie McCarthy and Katie Zegers.

O'Neil started the Red Fox attack with a 6-4, 6-2 triumph in number-one singles; while McCarthy followed with a 6-1, 6-2 triumph.

Zegers tallied a 6-4, 6-1 victory in number-four singles.

In number-three singles, freshman Holly Robinson needed three sets to knock off her opponent, 6-3, 6-2, 6-1.

The only loss of the day for the Marist women came from the doubles match of Anne Henry and Sahra Lignori.

The Red Fox tandem fell, 6-0, 6-4.

O'Neil and Zeegers teamed up to defeat their opponents, 6-1, 5-7, 6-4.

"My forehand was on," said O'Neil. "I just was slipping (the ball)."

Robinson said she was not fooled in the doubles match.

"I didn't just have my head in it," she said. "I was a little loose in the doubles."

"I gave her a few trouble," Robinson said. "She ran around me quite a bit."

Zeegers said she found a weak spot in her opponent's game and used it to her advantage.

See TENN page 11

Runners do well in New Jersey

by GREG BIRD

The Circle Sports Staff

Sophomore Tammy Tere makes a set as Assistant Coach Randy Desrosiers looks on. Marist will be in Pennsylvania this weekend.