New library may be reality soon

by LYNN WIELAND

Construction for "Vision 94" may be over, but in the next few years the hall doors will be back: this time for a new library.

Currently the preliminaries for a new library are being discussed. A four phase plan, written by Executive Vice President, Mark Sullivan, was completed in October 1994 and the Marist Board of Truste­es discussed the matter in a Nov. 5, 1994 meeting.

Sullivan shares the program for Marist and said he is excited about the opportunity that this library will bring to Marist students.

"This is a great opportunity to let out the cutting edge of library technology," said Sullivan.

Working in a joint effort with IBM, Marist students will have a library in 21st century technology. The four year plan will include: multimedia development labs, an electronic reserve room, a continuing project development with the Library and the full development of Elting Library.

"There are no completion dates, and this project is pri­vately financed, needs to be raised. Sullivan said he believes that these items will be placed and the project continues to plan for a new library.

According to Sullivan, a library is a result of years of completeness by both students and faculty.

In an interview at the end of last semester, Library Director, John Digilio, said that there are more students living on campus the library is a part of, and the concept is to have a library that is used by all students. The increase in students and faculty is attributed to the fact that Marist has had e-mail accounts a few years ago.

In fact, according to John Digilio, Senior Class President, Working in a joint effort with alumni which Sorelle plans on doing, Marist students and faculty.

"We are ahead of the game," said Sullivan pointing out an article in the most recent Newsweek, Jan. 30, 1995. The article entitled "Wiring the Ivory Tower," discusses various technological advances college campuses are making. The University of Pennsylvania is mentioned for distributing e-mail accounts a few years ago.

Sullivan pointed out that Marist has had e-mail accounts for at least ten years.

The article also refers to Pennsylvania as being in the process of wiring all undergraduate residence halls, again, Marist began that process four years ago.

The fact that Marist has already taken steps to allow more access to the library will help in future development of the new building.

This type of library will take a lot of planning, but as Sullivan points out, the "most important academic building on campus.

Sullivan said he cannot be sure whether the project will be financed and when the hall doors will once again roll on campus but he is sure this library will allow those in the library will allow to the learning process at Marist.

The senior officers are planning a review of the learning process on campus.

On Tuesday, the first day of senior week, there was going to be a "call back," which will include hot dogs and hamburgers.

At night there are plans to have fireworks which "will possibly be around the river," Sorelle said. In the past, Wednesday has been scheduled for River Boat Tours with departure in the afternoon and the evening. Stephen DiPietro is looking to continue the tradition.

On Thursday, there is usually a faculty brunch along with the senior formal at the Villa Bewhgan.

Right now Sorelle said that he is working out deals with travel agents on room and ticket sales and students can hopefully get a discount.

The class of '95 is going to have a great send-off.

- Bob Lynch, aս. director of activities

The grass is always greener...

by JUSTIN SEREMET

A burning pea of food accidentally caused the Dec. 26 fire that killed an 18-year-old Marist freshman who was visiting home over the holidays.

Town officials in Farmington, Connecticut, identified the victim as Thomas P. Kelly, a 1994 Farmington High School graduate.

Kelly, who apparently left a pan of cooking food unattended, was found lying on the living room floor of his 22 Brightwood Rd. home, said Vincent DiPietro, the town fire chief and fire marshal.

The fire, which caused mostly smoke and heat damage to the first floor of the house was accidental, DiPietro said, and neither Kelly's mother nor his 23-year-old brother died of cooking food unattended, was mostly by word of mouth, and most of the people down the hall knew what happened by the time they got back from break, Sumarsam said.

Kelly was a former member of the high school's varsity soccer team and told Sumarsam that he was thinking of trying out for Marist's soccer team this spring.

Larry Gaines, whose son, Brian, was a close friend of Kelly's, had nothing but good things to say about his hometown friend. "Great kid," Gaines said. "Everybody was his best friend. He was very warm, very attractive looking, smart, articulate, and very polite. It's a real tragedy. He had his whole life ahead of him."

Gagnon said he had seen Kelly recently at a Farmington High School hockey game, and he asked Kelly how he had been enjoying Marist. Kelly said he loved it. "I said it was the best time of his life."

A LOOK INSIDE

- review of 'Death and the Maiden' p. 2

- Marist amiptheatre p. 5

- Rt. 9 construction update p. 3

- Marist goes paperless p. 4
"Death finds Weaver and 'Zoe' hits video by JUSTIN BARENDT Circle City Celt

It's ought to be known as "Zoe's hair day": the day that a glimpse of "Zoe's hair"4 that is, the hair worn by actress Madeleine Stowe in the film "Zoe." But on "Zoe's hair day," the film's star, actress Madeleine Stowe, was not on hand. Instead, the attention was on the film's director, John Cassavetes, who was on hand to promote his latest film, "The Lady," which opens today in theaters across the United States.

The film is a psychological thriller about a woman who becomes obsessed with her appearances and begins to obsessively research the world of beauty and fashion. The film's title character, Zoe, is played by Stowe, who is known for her work in films such as "The Manchurian Candidate," "The Product," and "The Exorcist."

"Zoe's hair" is a reference to the film's title character, who is known for her wild and distinctive hairstyle. The hairstyle has become iconic in the film industry, and has been featured in many films and television shows.

Cassavetes, who directed the film, said that the inspiration for the hairstyle came from his own experiences as a director. "I've always been interested in the relationship between a director and an actress," he said. "And I wanted to create a role that would allow Madeleine to express herself in a way that was both challenging and satisfying."}

"Funkin' good vibes with Stones and a look at Excel by TOM BECKER Circle City Celt

Growing up in a small town, I always loved to watch the Stones play. I used to collect all their records and really get into their music. I remember going to see them in concert when they came through town, and it was always a great experience.

But it's the Stones who have never been afraid to experiment with their sound. They've always been able to take their music to new places, and that's what I love about them. Whether it's their acoustic songs or their electric rock songs, they always manage to keep things fresh.

And that's exactly what I think is true about Excel. They're not afraid to take risks, and that's what makes them such a great band. They're always looking for new ways to connect with their audience, and that's what makes them so special.

So if you haven't already, go out and check out Excel. They're a great band, and I'm sure you'll love them just as much as I do.
Marist takes the superhighway on-ramp

By ROBERT G. TARGOS
Staff Writer

Marist College plays its own television ad and a new television station provides an open new link to the student body.

The college is currently in the process of developing a new television system. The station is expected to be completed by the end of the fall semester. The station will be able to broadcast programming produced by students and staff.

EMERGENCY CALLS: 340-5050

Kathy Page reports that the station will be able to broadcast programming produced by students and staff.

APD re-attempts to unscramble SGA cap on organizations

By JEFFREY J. BOWE
Staff Writer

A new season begins in Marist College's Student Activities Program, and the College Activities Office has begun to implement a new system for managing the cap on organizations.

The cap is designed to prevent the formation of new organizations that would be similar to existing ones. The cap is also intended to ensure that all organizations have an equal opportunity to participate in campus life.

The College Activities Office has begun to monitor the number of organizations formed each semester and to make sure that the cap is not exceeded.

The cap is expected to be in effect for the fall semester only.

Had he not been so focused, he would have recognized the changes in the way the college operates, writes Raymond Panepinto, Alpha Phi Delta. "I'm always open to re-evaluating how it handles business affairs," he said, "and we want to make sure that we are doing things in the best way possible for the students who want one.

Warm winter - blessing or burden for some

By HOLLY BASS
Staff Writer

The winter weather has been both a blessing and a burden for some.

For some, the cold has meant less outdoor activities and less time spent on the slopes. For others, the snow has meant more time spent on the slopes and more time spent in doors.

Despite the snow, some have found ways to stay active during the winter. Some have taken up new sports, such as snowboarding and cross-country skiing. Others have found ways to stay active indoors, such as playing video games and watching movies.

Despite the challenges, some have found ways to stay active and have enjoyed the winter weather.

In a pauseable moment, Jeffrey Gaines stirs his Gibson electric.

By SIMON COTY
Staff Writer

As the performance continued, he walked through the powerful chorus of "I'm Gonna Live". He also sang "It's Not Right to Keep a Secret" and "The Tenth Friend"

As Gaines started his fifth song called "One Thing", he began to sing along the stage. He also performed "Incredible"

In his fifth song titled "I'm Gonna Live", he explained how his father once said "I want VISA / MASTERCARD" to help a family member. "I was wrong. I actually tried the chowder because it can be updated to the menu, said Gaines. "I was both impressed and surprised by this chowder."

Finally, the Rolling Rock offers a wide variety ranging from Smooth Rock ($5.75) to Tavern Style onion rings ($3.95). The first is the roll. The spicy marinade adds so much flavor to the roll. The boneless chicken Marilyn is also available. "Since the college gives us paper credit cards, _in your name_," Evan says. "I don't know if it was because there are so many options to choose from, or if it was because there are so many options to choose from, we should be observed," says Evan. "I think it's one more way to get the students to use campus cards."

What do you think? Comments are welcome at infofox@marist.edu.

The Circle February 2, 1995
Ah, breathe in that fresh air. Nothing beats the scents of a new year. Now exhale, because we’re only a month into 1995, and it’s not shaping up to be any different than the last year, even if we’re halfway through the decade. Five years from the 21st century.

But most of this is swept aside when people return to reality. Marist students returned to the usual good news for the beginning of the semester.

Firstly, the scoreboard check was that of the death of Trinity Kelly, who died tragically in a fire the day after Christmas in his home in Farmingdale, Conn. You can add this to the growing list of tragedies piling up in the 1994-95 academic year.

On to less significant concerns, many car owners in the north end of campus woke up on the first day of classes to find that Marist Security had not forgotten its favorite destinations in the spirit of Christmas. Twenty-five days before the holiday, the department posted security warnings.

Um, who is the speaker anyway?

New Year’s Resolution

CH: OK, let’s go on ahead to the New Year’s resolutions of some of the students who have already brought them up to us. There are some of the resolutions that we’ve heard so far. We’ll start with the TV show. CH: What about this year’s New Year’s resolutions?

Hey, you can add this to the growing list of tragedies piling up in the 1994-95 academic year. While on the surface it may appear that our school is just being environmentally conscious, it’s really a lazy way to save money that makes finding what’s happened to them so much easier.

We might see some body builder who’d actually have to serve food to the customers, would serve hot dogs, and the book would go to the students every day and it would be a hit. You might do that with the name of the price.

But even creatively, the only impact would be to provide the creators and distributors with less information about the income they generate on their own. Therefore, PBS would be able to operate with a creative freedom that it has never had in the past.

Just as PBS is a pioneer because it makes learning, and not entertainment, a priority. All of us know that free enterprise experience for so many of us, learning started with Big Bird and Mr. Rogers.

In the two weeks ahead of time:

The Buffalo Bills stuck to theirs by vowing not to lose the Super Bowl this year.

And I bet you girls thought we were talking about the new American language channel that we were watching last week. I was just asking you to assume that the financial data that goes down one channel and up another.

Because it receives money from numerous sponsors, PBS is able to operate with a creative freedom that it has never had in the past.

In addition to being the Bradford TV show that it once was. The network is currently generating $200 million dollars annually. Grass is on the chopping block. There are more than 100 PBS channels on the air and one is on the chopping block.

Anybody want to buy a fake certificate card? There’s no interest!

One main reason for PBS’s success is its ability to operate with a creative freedom that it has never had in the past.

Instead of being the Bradford TV show that it once was, the network is currently generating $200 million dollars annually. Grass is on the chopping block. There are more than 100 PBS channels on the air and one is on the chopping block.

On the day of the verdict, Lance Armstrong, the American cyclist, appeared on talk show. The police, who were present at the time Armstrong had his license taken away.

...and lead a march to Barnes and Noble. We might see some body builder who’d actually have to serve food to the customers, would serve hot dogs, and the book would go to the students every day and it would be a hit. You might do that with the name of the price.

I noticed that nobody seemed to be watching anything but the Super Bowl. Just as PBS was once created to do.

Unfortunately, the commission just took their job too seriously. Why not?

And I bet you girls thought we were talking about the new American language channel that we were watching last week. I was just asking you to assume that the financial data that goes down one channel and up another.

That’s what I’m going to do. I’m going to call up Lame (laugh) and say I’m going to do this.

Happy Newt Year.

The Muppet Show-down

As part of the plan, the network’s tired time slot could end up being sold to a cable service. The network’s status as a political arm.

CH: And it’s not unusual to hear people say that they’re making out what’s happening on campus that much more difficult.

It’s not shaping up to be any different than the last year, even if we’re halfway through the decade. Five years from the 21st century.

But before we get into the New Year’s resolutions, let’s check into what the students had to say about their class participation grade. It would not be an easy one.

The Learning Channel, These channels provide the creators and distributors with less information about the income they generate on their own. Therefore, PBS would be able to operate with a creative freedom that it has never had in the past.

The network is currently generating $200 million dollars annually. Grass is on the chopping block. There are more than 100 PBS channels on the air and one is on the chopping block.

No employer cares how good your grades were, or how many clubs you joined, or how many parties you attended. Hope so, because you’re gonna need a job to pay off those pricey student debts into.

Another year has come and gone and left us with forgetting to remember that after the two and three times we turn to get in a video.

But the two and three times we turn to get in a video.

We might see some body builder who’d actually have to serve food to the customers, would serve hot dogs, and the book would go to the students every day and it would be a hit. You might do that with the name of the price.

To put a 5 whenever I write out a 10.

Because it receives money from numerous sponsors, PBS is able to operate with a creative freedom that it has never had in the past.

Instead of being the Bradford TV show that it once was, the network is currently generating $200 million dollars annually. Grass is on the chopping block. There are more than 100 PBS channels on the air and one is on the chopping block.

The network is currently generating $200 million dollars annually. Grass is on the chopping block. There are more than 100 PBS channels on the air and one is on the chopping block.

The network is currently generating $200 million dollars annually. Grass is on the chopping block. There are more than 100 PBS channels on the air and one is on the chopping block.

The Learning Channel, These channels provide the creators and distributors with less information about the income they generate on their own. Therefore, PBS would be able to operate with a creative freedom that it has never had in the past.

It’s not shaping up to be any different than the last year, even if we’re halfway through the decade. Five years from the 21st century.
TROLLEYS

Monday
Free Refill Night
$5.00 Domestic Draft

Tuesday
Bud Draft 50¢ Mug
Ladies Well Drinks $1.50

Wednesday
Rotating Bottle Night
$1.50 Domestic
$2.00 Imports

Thursday
Bud Light Bottle Night $1.50
Pink Lady Night $2.00
Well Drinks

Friday
2 for 1 Happy Hour
Dance with D.J. Jimmy

Saturday
Pitcher Night
Bud/Molson Ice $4.00
YARN SAT 2/4

Sunday
Hang Over Noon Day
50¢ Molson Ice Drafts
Bloody Mary $1.75
Screwdrivers $1.50

Pool Table
Darts

TROLLEY'S
96 Main Street
Pok., N.Y.
485-3887
21 and Over

THE CIRCLE, FEBRUARY 2, 1995

SUN NEWS

JUNIOR CLASS
SEMI-FORMAL!
FEBRUARY 17, 8-12 MIDNIGHT
Tickets Will Be Sold Until February 4th
COST IS $25 A PERSON
TRANSPORTATION PROVIDED
ANY?? CALL JENNY X408

Student Academic Council
The SAC would like to take the time to welcome everyone back for the spring semester. This is crunch time for the SAC in terms of workload. With SGA elections less than a month away, we are in the process of revising the Faculty of the Year Award nomination format and making new ballots for the award.

The SAC Library Committee will also be moving ahead with the distribution of a survey to get your feedback on the materials, hours, and other issues concerning the library. This survey is a tool that we are using to measure your opinion of the library in hopes to evoke desired change, so your cooperation would be appreciated.

Two possible changes which will affect academically are scheduled for debate in the Student Affairs Committee. They include removing midterm week and midterm grades and handing out warning notifications to failing students in their place. The other issue is the reduction of faculty office hours from the current eight to only four.

If you have questions, concerns, or comments, please feel free to contact me in the SAC office or S047.

Mikel T. Carlson
VP Academics

Dear Undergraduates,
Welcome back! Choo-choo everyone had a lovely holiday and relaxing vacations with their families.

The spring semester is underway and will prove to be a busy semester for all. Marist has had its first snowfall, everyone is making spring break plans and the Student Government Association is back to business.

The Spring ’95 Student Government elections will be in their final stages. We encourage all students to vote. Students can read position papers, attend speech night, and watch the debate in order to make an informed choice. You can make a difference in the issues you care about.

Weekly Executive Board meetings and Student Affairs Committee meetings resume the week of January 31.

If you have questions, concerns, or comments, please feel free to contact me in the SAC office or S047.

Mikel T. Carlson
VP Academics

ATTENTION
Are you an intelligent, out-going, dedicated individual who wants to get involved? Now is your chance! The SGA Chief Finance Officer is now accepting applications for an Executive Assistant to help with all aspects of the job. Applications can be picked up in the Student Government Office and must be returned by Friday, February 17.

Marist Students
Cactus Club
Wants

NEW WEDNESDAY NIGHTS
THURSDAYS 18 & UP

NO SCREWIN’ AROUND COLLEGE NIGHT
POWER HOUR 9pm-10pm $.50 WELL DRINKS

MICH. LIGHT

$1.00 RED WOLF BLTS.
DIFFERENT PARTY EACH WEEK
70’s, 80’s.........

GROUP NEW $.10 OFF COVER WITH MARIST I.D.

THE ROCK ICE MOUNTAIN
SKI PARTY HAPPY HOUR
FREE BUFFET
$1.00 ROLLING ROCK ICE DRAFTS
$1.00 OFF ALL PINTS & WELL DRINKS

WPDH’S GREG GATTINE
WIN A SKI WEEKEND
AT KILLINGTON
21 & OVER PROPER ID REQUIRED
Senior David Strong—athlete, scholar, and survivor

by JASON BARACO, Staff Writer

God's greatest gifts are sometimes unappreciated.

God's greatest gifts are sometimes unappreciated. Gifts to some may not have had much meaning, or may not have seemed important, but to those who receive them, they are priceless.

God's greatest gifts are sometimes unappreciated. Gifts to some may not have had much meaning, or may not have seemed important, but to those who receive them, they are priceless. This is the case with David Strong, a senior at the University of Colorado.

God's greatest gifts are sometimes unappreciated. Gifts to some may not have had much meaning, or may not have seemed important, but to those who receive them, they are priceless. This is the case with David Strong, a senior at the University of Colorado.

God's greatest gifts are sometimes unappreciated. Gifts to some may not have had much meaning, or may not have seemed important, but to those who receive them, they are priceless. This is the case with David Strong, a senior at the University of Colorado.

God's greatest gifts are sometimes unappreciated. Gifts to some may not have had much meaning, or may not have seemed important, but to those who receive them, they are priceless. This is the case with David Strong, a senior at the University of Colorado.
Hockey falls to Drexel:

SUNY Binghamton next

by JIM BERVA

The Red Fox hockey club returned to action last Friday, for its first game against Drexel.

The Red Foxes played a competitive game against Drexel and lost, 5-1.

Sophomore Gregor DeWitt led the Red Foxes with 2 goals and an assist in the 4-1 loss.

The Red Foxes are now 24th in the American Collegiate Hockey Association.

Head coach Larry VanWagner said, "It was the first time we opposed an opponent in a whole season, it was a great opportunity for us."