McCann renovations to begin in few weeks

by CHRISTOPHER TROIANI
Staff Writer

Marist College will undertake yet another project in the coming weeks: the expansion and renovation of the James J. McCann Center.

According to Tim Murray, athletic director at Marist, the first step is creating a whole new appearance for the building.

"There will be a new facade for the building so that it will be similar to the other buildings on campus," Murray said.

Another new aspect which will be added to the McCann Center will be a Hall of Fame room.

"We’d like to have everything done (externally) by the time students come back in September," Murray said.

According to Murray, everything else should be completed during the fall semester.

"Hopefully it will be completed as soon as possible after the students get back," Murray said.

Murray said the main concern right now is that students and athletes are not put at a disadvantage while this work is going on.

"We don’t want any disruptions for the students before summer break," Murray said.

The total cost for the renovations will be slightly more than one million dollars, and the construction will be funded by a gift from the McCann Foundation.

"Sophomore Jim Rigdon, a member of the Marist College football team, said additions need to be made to the weight room and the locker room.

"They definitely need new equipment," Rigdon said. "They need locker room space for the teams specifically."

Rigdon cited the fact that athletes from different sports teams are all competing for time and space in the weight room.

According to Murray, student accommodation is a focal point of the renovation project.

"The real focus behind this is so that there will be more time and space for students to be better accommodated, and to accommodate the student body as a whole," he said.

According to freshman Selma Salter, the weight room is already available for outside use should be made better known throughout campus.

"They should make schedules known about free times for outside use," Salter said.

Rigdon also said the weight room is in great need of new equipment.

"They definitely need new equipment," Rigdon said. "What is there is inadequate."

Rigdon noted there are serious safety hazards in the weight room, ranging from screws in place of pins, striped cables on equipment, and bent and rusted bars.

"They should have the equipment they need to have equipment for successful teams," Rigdon said.

The major impetus for this project is the rapid and continuous growth of the college.

According to Murray, McCann presently is unable to meet the needs of the growing population at Marist.

"In 1976 (when McCann was completed and opened), there were roughly 800 resident students and 11 or 12 athletic teams," Murray said. "Now, there are approximately 2,200 resident students, which 500 are athletes, and 22 varsity athletic teams."

Murray said this continuous growth makes Marist College stand out among other colleges.

"It makes Marist stand out among other colleges in the Northeast," Murray said."We just continue to grow."

Guest pass availability extended, for a price

Students have to pay $3 to get a pass on weekend

Students might have to pay for their guests.

Guest passes are now available Monday through Thursday, from 8 a.m. until 8 p.m. If students do not acquire passes at this time, they can be bought at security for $3 per pass in either Marist Money or personal checks.

Jim Raimo, director of housing and residential life, said that change took place to help students out.

"Students had a problem with guest passes being issued only during the week," said Raimo.

"They had guests that just showed up on the weekend, or sometimes they just forgot to get guest passes."

Raimo said housing workers so security could hire someone to help issue guest passes on the weekend.

"The $3 charge for the guest pass helps to cover the cost of the person working the extra time in security," said Raimo.

If the student does not have Marist Money or a personal check, the student will be issued an IOU. The student receives a letter, which instructs them to pay the $3 at the housing office.

"Security did not feel it was appropriate for them to be handling cash," said Raimo.

"They didn’t want the money lying around all weekend because there would be no where to deposit it until Monday," Raimo said.

"I usually the guests of the students think it is ridiculous to pay for a guest pass," said Kelly.

"Most students don’t mind, though, because it’s to their advantage," Kelly said.

Kelly said she gives out a lot of guest passes.

"I only work on Friday nights, but I give out between 15 to 25 guest passes," said Kelly.

Sophomore Barrett Troby said not being able to pay in cash was a hassle.

Students heading to Atlanta for Olympics

by TOM MASSON
Staff Writer

Marist has been asked to protect the world.

About 75 Marist students are heading south to Atlanta this summer from July 16 to Aug. 4 to help provide security for the 1996 Summer Games.

The opportunity was open to any interested Marist students, but was primarily designed for criminal justice majors.

Mark Loughran, assistant professor of criminal justice and Marist’s faculty contact at the Olympics, said Boop-Warner Security Co. contacted a number of schools nationwide with large criminal justice programs and asked for students to run security at the Olympics.

"It will be a dose of reality for these students," said Loughran.

"They will be in positions of responsibility."

As Marist’s faculty contact, Loughran said he will appoint student leaders to oversee Marist’s security venue.

According to Loughran, if Marist has a larger group than other schools, they will get a better venue of work. They will also fill any receive passes to certain events that aren’t already sold out.

Goodbye from Class of '97 Prez

Dear Class of '97,

Before I take off, I want to let the junior class know how much I enjoyed being your president. Entering the year, I had absolutely no idea of what to expect because I had never done anything like this in my life. Probably the most important thing I stressed during the year was that I would always be there for our class. I think that makes it even more important for you to be there for the students who are behind you and that you lead them by example.

Thank you for making the year such a success.

Sincerely yours,

Taking a Closer Look at

Rumplestiltskin

News and Reviews

by Amanda Liu

If anyone can bring fairytales to life, it is the Marist College Council of the Theater Arts' production of "Rumplestiltskin." Last Thursday evening, I attended one of the many productions of "Rumplestiltskin" at the Nelly Goettig Theater. The show was presented by MCCTA in the Nelly Goettig Theater. I came to the evening show not sure of what to expect of the story. I was excited for a great show because of the talented actors of our Marist Theater. The play began with one of the king's servants and a weeping little girl about to be killed. This got the audience in the mood for the show. They interacted with the children in the audience, but there was no doubt that the kids were more than keen to join in the fun, as well.

The minister sold the audience to yell and cheer and answer the questions loudly whenever the actors asked for our advice. The setting of the play was the king's castle, and the audience could imagine it being a fairy tale.

The older, more beautiful children, Mary, was complaining about her father always "laughing and bragging" of what a wonderful she was.

The younger daughter, Meg, could do all of the things that her father mentioned, too. However, she could not do the natural quality in Giants.

She made Meg into the big hero.

The townspeople, along with the family of the two sisters, all entered into the throne room to comfort Mary.

The stage darkened, then it began to occur to little man.

He was taking these non-valuables and was very upset.

This man with no name told the audience to yell and cheer. He could be the compassion in the story and how the audience could feel about it.

Mary thought that the necklaces were just for the necklace. She knew she could not give the necklace back to her.

The little man said that they could not think of the necklace he had taken. She knew what the ending was going to be.

When the man said this, the audience was brightened.

He was devastated to think of people, because he had never had a companion. For example, one such museum housed a dozen times.

The zoo contains animals that visitors can see a bobcat, wolf, and a red fox. People who seem to be enjoying the spring season may visit the Trailside Museum and Bear Mountain State Park, in Bear Mountain, New York. It contains a variety of things to do for every nature lover.

Lacrosse team remains undefeated in the MAAC at 2-0

By MARTY SINACOLA

For the second time in this young lacrosse season, the men's squad scored a winning goal in the final minute of the game.

On March 20 it was junior Dave Kidney netting the winning goal for an 11-10 victory against Lafayette College.

Last Sunday it was junior midfielder Greg Schneider who put the finishing touches on an opponent, as the Red Foxes defeated the Canisius Golden Griffins' 11-10.

The contest was Marist's second inside the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference, and their first big game of the season.

"It was a big game for us," Schneider, who is the captain, said. "We definitely wanted to win because Canisius is one of the toughest teams in the MAAC."

The Red Foxes came out firing in the first quarter, as they scored five goals to take a 5-1 lead into the second quarter. Canisius, however, refused to quit, climbing their way back into the game.

Golden Griffins' kind of tied the game away with 29 remaining. "Offensively we hit a lot of pipes in the middle, but the defense is what won it for us," Schneider said. "They played awesome," Schneider said.

The goal was Schneider's only, as it was the only goal to win a game," he said. "Especially this game. It was a great feeling."

The victory pushed Marist's record to 4-2, but more importantly, they are now 2-0 in the MAAC. Last Saturday Marist defeated Niagara 11-10 to turn it's first victory inside the MAAC.

Baseball team lacks experience; 1-5 in NEC

By MIKE GENTILE JR.

"Experience is what wins ball games. Or at least this is what Marist Baseball Coach John Szefc said after dropping two of the three Northeast Conference games this past weekend in Monmouth."

The Red Foxes now hold a record of 6-10-1 and are 1-5 in the NEC. On Saturday the squad traveled to Monmouth to play two conference games. In the first game Mark Ciccarelli led the team with a complete game shutout as Marist went on to win 4-0 and Ciccarelli improved his record to 3-1 on the season. All of Marist's offense came from catcher/pitcher, Jim McGowan, as he had a two-run double in the fourth inning and a two-run single in the sixth.

The Red Foxes were not as fortunate in the second game as they had only 3 hits and lost by a score of 11-1.

On Sunday, the Red Foxes lost their second game of the two-game series with 13 hits in the game, scoring the lone run in the final after he reached base on a single in the first inning. The Red Foxes now hold a record of 6-10-1 overall and 1-5 in the NEC. They will play a double-header at Wagner on Friday.

Tennis team gets hurt; remain 2-4

By MARC LESTINSKY

Injuries and inelegiblity so far have the Marist men's tennis team struggling in the first set of its season.

However, a 2-4 record may not seem that bad considering the Red Foxes have had to deal with three of their top players being delegated to the sideline by injury.

Scott Graves (broken hand), Jason Geise (broken foot) and Prebodi Chipchukar (broken leg) are all out indefinitely. Graves and Chipchukar hope to be back for the Northeast Conference tournament on April 20th.

"We've had a tough start, but I think it's mostly due to all the injuries we've had," assistant coach Frank Panning said. "I think we're a much better team than what we've shown so far."

In addition to the injuries, Marist was also without arguably its top singles player - Nathaniel Ferris - for the first few matches due to his inelegibility.

As a result, other players have had to raise their level of play. One of those players who has come up with big performances thus far is senior transfer Andrew Janes.

"I have a lot to prove," said Janes. "I kind of came on the team at the last minute and I want coach to think he made the right decision in keeping me."

With a 4-2 singles record, Marist head coach Charles Hardman cannot be too disappointed.

Another player who has come on as of late is freshman Ryan Ulizio. Ulizio, plays out of either the number one or two positions, has won his last two matches. In Thursday's team loss to Fairleigh Dickinson, Ulizio's 1-6, 6-3, 7-6 (7-4) victory over Kurt Cable was the only singles win for the Red Foxes on the day.

On Sunday, however, the real Marist tennis team may have finally stepped forward.

The Red Foxes took five out of six singles matches en route to their 5-2 team victory versus the University of Rhode Island at the Dutchess Racquet Club. At number one singles, Ulizio defeated Chris Bender in three sets, 6-4, 6-7 (1-7), 6-3.

At number two singles, Ferris disposed of John Spears, 6-3, 6-1.
