Kennedy advocates for the rights of Americans with disabilities

by KRISTIN RICHARD

By Don Kennedy, Senior Staff Writer

Kennedy's speech focusing on the challenges faced by people with disabilities and the importance of disabilities rights. Kennedy discussed the history and development of the disabilities rights movement and explained the importance of this movement.

"There are many similarities between discrimination against those with disabilities and sexism and racism," Kennedy said. "I may as well be dead," he said. "I almost had a heart attack," said Kennedy.

Kennedy lost his leg in 1973, at the age of 12, in a rare bone injury.

He said at the time, it seemed as if his life were over. "I remember thinking this is it. I may as well be dead," he said. Kennedy attributed much of his insecurity about his disability to being raised to believe that to be disabled was wrong. "I just can't imagine the way of thinking that goes on," he said.

Kennedy said that he had his first heart attack at the age of 12, and he believed that he was going to die. However, he managed to survive the heart attack, and he continued to live his life as a disabled person.

British police seize explosives linked to possible IRA plot

by Sue Lawton
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) - Police located building materials and a small amount of explosives at the home of a middle-class woman on Monday, suggesting she may be involved in a small-scale IRA bomb plot.

One of the suspects was a 32-year-old woman who lived in a flat in the North Paddington area of London. She was arrested after police searched her home and found a small amount of homemade explosives.

The woman, who was not named, was taken to a police station for questioning and was later released on bail.

The incident was one of several in London over the weekend as police stepped up their efforts to trace IRA suspects.

In one of the other incidents, a 17-year-old boy was arrested after he was spotted carrying a Molotov cocktail in the street. He was later released on bail.

In the third incident, police were called to a house in the Hackney area of east London, where they found evidence of a recent explosion.

The police said they were treating the incidents as linked and were investigating whether the suspects were part of a larger network.

The IRA has been linked to a number of bombings in the past, including the 1982 explosion at the Hyde Park Barracks in central London, which killed four soldiers.

The recent incidents have increased tensions between the IRA and the British government, which has been trying to bring the group to the negotiating table.

The IRA has been fighting for a united Ireland since the mid-1960s and has carried out a series of bombings and shootings.

The group says it is seeking a political solution to the conflict, but the British government has refused to negotiate with it.

The recent events have raised questions about the effectiveness of the government's counter-terrorism strategy.

The police have been accused of being too lenient in dealing with IRA suspects, and there have been calls for tougher measures to be taken.

The situation is likely to remain tense for some time, as both sides are determined to win the conflict.

The spirit of the Marist Brothers stays alive with Brother Ambrose

By Michael Goot

As Brother Ambrose enters his 20th year as the spiritual director of the college, it's a time to reflect on the past and to look forward to the future.

Brother Ambrose, a member of the Marist Brothers, has been serving as the spiritual director of Marist College since 1996. He has helped shape the religious and spiritual life of the campus, providing guidance and support to students, faculty, and staff.

Ambrose delivered an address on disabilities at Marist, which he attended as a student.

According to the last census, 34% of the population was living in poverty, and the unemployment rate was 5.2%.

About one-third of students at Marist are non-Catholic, and the college is committed to providing a welcoming and inclusive environment for all students.

Brother Ambrose is a retired professor of English and has been at Marist since 1973. He earned his Ph.D. in English literature from the University of Wisconsin-Madison and has served as the chief academic officer for Marist College.

He has been a member of the Marist Brothers since 1966 and has taught courses in English literature and composition.

Brother Ambrose has also served as the director of the Center for Catholic Studies and as the executive director of the Marist Center for Urban Studies.

He is the author of several books, including "The Marist Brothers: A History of the Congregation," which was published in 2006.

Brother Ambrose is also a member of the Marist Provincial Council and has served as the chair of the Marist Provincial Council since 2009.

He has been awarded several honors, including the Marist College Distinguished Alumnus Award in 2002.

Brother Ambrose is married to the former Mary Ann Johnson, and they have three children: John, Jane, and James.

In his spare time, he enjoys reading, writing, and playing golf.

BUGABOO CREEK

STEAKHOUSE OFFERS A TASTE OF THE OUTDOORS

by Jamaika Issac

Jo Jo Club

As I sit typing my critique of Bugaboo Creek, located on Route 9, near the South Hills Mall, I find the memories of the past few weeks flooding back in my mind. At Bugaboo Creek is the epitome of a sports bar atmosphere. The big, black, leather booths, the flat-screen TVs broadcasting the games and the energetic, loud music are all hallmarks of a typical sports bar. But Bugaboo Creek takes it to the next level.

The whole waiting system was a major challenge. I was placed in line at the front of the restaurant, which was immensely crowded. I had to wait for an hour and fifteen minutes to be seated. Despite the long wait, the atmosphere was vibrant and full of energy. The staff was very friendly and helpful, and they made sure that my group of friends and I were taken care of.

The table was dining south from a huge menu and accurately. Incidentally, you can't go far as well as other Bugaboo offerings at the front of the restaurant. For the main course, I had the special "T-Bone" for $15.95, a 16-ounce bone-in ribeye steak. Most of the entrees came with a side of rice, white wine and our house salad. The service was prompt and courteous, and the food was cooked to perfection.

There are also a list of "odds" which are coffees and teas that are served with every meal. One that caught my eye was the "Peppermint Hot Chocolate," which I ordered. It was warm and comforting, and the perfect accompaniment to a cold night.

As the night went on, the atmosphere became more relaxed and the music softer. We enjoyed each other's company and the food. Overall, our experience at Bugaboo Creek was enjoyable and memorable.

Woman's Worth: Beijing and Beyond

Marist College, along with the Eleanor Roosevelt Center at Val-Kill and the Poughkeepsie Institute, would like to invite all to an educational conference entitled, "Woman's Worth: Beijing and Beyond."

The conference will take place in the Nelly Golleti Theater in the Student Center on Saturday, September 28th, beginning at 12:30 p.m. and concluding at 5:30 p.m.

The conference will include a discussion by local women who attended the Beijing Conference, as well as a national telecast including presentations by First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton, and Secretary of Health and Human Resources Donna Shalala.

The conference promises to discuss the links between global issues found at the Beijing Conference, and the local situation and challenges in Dutchess County. This is an excellent opportunity for the Marist community to become educated about the needs and issues in the larger community.

All are encouraged to attend this educational event.

Perot files suit against commission that excludes him from debates

by Tim Ramey

Republican Presidential Hopeful Ross Perot filed a federal lawsuit Monday against the Bipartisan Commission on Presidential Debates, claiming he was unfairly barred from debates this fall.

"Why it is so important for Americans to have a choice among candidates," Perot said. "The American people have the right to hear from me."

"We are going to fight this all the way," Perot promised. "We have the right to be heard, and that's what we will do."

Perot's trial lawyer, Alan Neuman, said he would file the suit because "we will not accept a sham debate system."

"We are going to fight to have a fair debate system," he added. "We are going to fight for the integrity of the debate system."""

Perot's lawyer, Mr. Dickerson, said he would file a motion to dismiss the case.

"We are going to fight this all the way," he said. "We are going to fight for our rights."""

Making a Difference

Wanted: to make a difference in one's life and enjoy every moment of what you are doing. I have chosen to serve at Marist Cafeteria Community in a role in which one is exposed to a variety of people. I enjoy helping people any way I can, whether it be by cooling off the room or being a driver. It is a good program and everyone should consider becoming a part of it.

I became involved with the program two Fall and have continued up to the present. I am a former middle manager and I understand that people can be better community leaders if they are in school. These kids made me feel great. They completely lifted me up wherever I was. It caused me to bring back some of the magic I was always full of life and having all of that fun up and go. Each day I went was wonderful as people just wanted to know if I was here.

Streets were abundant as learning took place. I can remember when Shy Queniqua was wondering how to write the letter L. After numerous attempts she finally wrote it. A huge smile lit up her face. She was so proud and so was I. And it is that simple joy, those smiles were abundant as learning took place.

The controversy over affirmative action

Affirmative action is a topic that has stirred much controversy. It is defined as a policy of special efforts to give special consideration to the advancement of women and minorities. Some people feel that this is a form of discrimination.

Some people feel that this is a form of discrimination, but affirmative action offers people the opportunity to achieve their dreams. It is a policy that helps to smooth out the road for those who have been disadvantaged in the past.

The same goes for college admissions. If colleges expect students because of bad schooling, then the college is responsible for helping him achieve success. The college should then be responsible for helping him achieve success.

Affirmative action helps to keep the balance of power in society. It helps to ensure that everyone has an equal chance to succeed. The controversial issue of affirmative action is to be handled with care and sensitivity.

At the initial response to Saddam's order, Clinton's administration began to warn the Iraqis that they would face severe consequences.

After a two-week standoff, Iraq has refused to pull its forces from the "no-fly zone." The president and his administration are now considering several options, including military action.

The latest word from the White House is that Clinton has not yet ruled out military action. However, he has ordered his troops to discontinue attacks on US planes flying in the no-fly zone. This will allow the US to maintain its air superiority in the Gulf region.

Standing beside a working copier with money in my hand

My experiences at college seem new and exciting. My life has taken me somewhere I had never been before. It was a fresh start.

I am not solely talking about the trials and tribulations of the use of modern Xerox machines. I am talking about the freedom to print, copy, and scan documents. I am talking about the ability to have a voice in the classroom.

The latest word from the White House is that Clinton has not yet ruled out military action. However, he has ordered his troops to discontinue attacks on US planes flying in the no-fly zone. This will allow the US to maintain its air superiority in the Gulf region.

Iraq takes the back burner...for now

Our nation has been focused on the situation in Iraq for several months now. The latest reports indicate that Saddam is still in power, and there is no immediate threat to our national security.

A Quick Word From Your Senate Speaker

Since I’ve been in the Student Government Association (SGA), one comment that I often hear from the student body is, “What does our Senate do?” Well, everyone in SGA does a lot, but we need your help. We need to know what issues you feel are important to work on. This is why we’ve put together the Research and Oversight Committee (R.O.C.). The R.O.C. is a surveying committee that targets concerns on campus. It’s the only way we can truly know what’s important to work on. If we’re not sure, we can’t be sure what to do about it.

The SPC Board Needs You!

Jewel to make a sparkling appearance at Marist

by Michael Fish

In recent years, there have been numerous top new music artists who have achieved massive popularity, such as Bush, Pearl Jam, Stone Temple Pilots, and so on. As a result, many others have also achieved success in the music industry. One of these artists is Jewel, who has been making music for several years and has achieved a great deal of success. She is a great example of what can be achieved when an artist consistently delivers high-quality music.

Jewel’s music is characterized by strong and powerful vocals. All of her songs are written and performed by herself, which gives them a unique quality.

Each and every one of the songs on her album is a masterpiece. It is a testament to her talent and dedication to her craft.

The album has been a huge success and has received critical acclaim. It is a great album and one that I highly recommend to anyone who enjoys music.

During the time I have been watching Jewel perform, I have noticed something very interesting. She is a great artist and her music is very impressive. I highly recommend her album to anyone who enjoys music.

Feeling Minnesota and Keanu Reaves fall short of their expectations

by Aesh Lauder

Feeling Minnesota is being hurt badly by the fact that its genre has become so general. It’s a perfectPatient, steady, and calm. He is the perfect patient. He is the perfect patient. He is the perfect patient.

During the filming, Keanu Reaves was known for his dedication to the role. He was willing to do whatever it took to make the movie successful. He was also known for his ability to connect with his characters, which made him a popular choice for the role.

Although Keanu Reaves did a great job in the movie, the overall film fell short of expectations. It was not as well-received as many had hoped, and it wascriticized for its pacing and its overall execution.

One from the vault:

"Mean Streets" is considered by some to be the most mature film made by Martin Scorsese. The movie is known for its gritty realism and raw violence, which Scorsese used to explore the world of organized crime. While it may not be as widely recognized as some of Scorsese's later films, "Mean Streets" is still highly regarded by fans and critics alike.

The film tells the story of Jimmy Conway (Robert De Niro), a young man who is caught up in the world of crime and gang violence. The film is a classic of the gangster genre and is widely considered to be one of Scorsese's greatest works.

The revolutionary game Tomb Raider is due any day now for both America. The system will sell for $199.99 and will not come with any day one for both Sega and Sony are both next month or so. On the 32 bit versions.

I can see the ingredients for something here—-just come out for Playstation.

Did You Know?

During the 1994 baseball strike, an Akron, Ohio radio station, WJMP, played "Take Me Out To The Ballgame" continuously by MARTY SINACOLA

The Marist College football team scored their first win of the season on Saturday over the Iona College at LeFrak field. It was a 5-0 day for the Red Foxes as they ran off and forced the visitors to suffer a 27-0 loss in Poughkeepsie. The Iona Phoenix managed to score 0 points, which was not enough for their hard work. The Marist offense looked like they were in the groove, scoring three touchdowns and one field goal.

Maurice players, Steve McDaniel Jr. and Stacey Denovan battle the ball for the last time. For those of you who forget football the moment the final kickoff was in the air, you have your bearings missing. This baseball season has turned out to be an exciting one with amazing fans as well as division and wild-card races that are going down to the wire.

The Red Foxes have a big game this evening against Robert Morris at 19-00pm. It is projected that the weather will be sunny with temperatures around 70 degrees Fahrenheit.

For the soccer fans, the Marist College women’s team is scheduled to play against Fairfield at the Pressbox field. The game will start at 2-30pm, and the women’s team will be looking to continue their winning streak.

The Men’s Soccer team is scheduled to play against Niagara at 7-30pm. The game will be held at the Pressbox field, and the Marist College team is expected to put up a tough fight.

Football team beats Iona Gaels 30-7; improve record to 1-1 in the MAAC

by CHRIS SMITH

It was the defense's fault. At least, that's the general consensus about the Marist victory over Iona. The Red Fox football team defeated the Gaels by a score of 30-7 Saturday at Leonidoff Field to improve their record to 1-1 in the MAAC.

Defensive coordinator Kevin Doherty said that the Red Foxes had to keep the pressure on the young Iona offense. "We realized that we had to get a pass rush, we had to get to the quarterback," Doherty said. "We started sending the outside linebackers in, we kept them off balance and they fell apart."

He was also happy with the performance of the entire defense. "The defensive line, as a whole, did great," he said. "The best thing we did this year was to recruit (Dwayne) Bates and (Reid) Ellis."

Bates, a sophomore, had a very complete game. He had two solo tackles, six assisted tackles, and two sacks.

Ellis, also a sophomore, had two assisted tackles and one sack, and an interception returned for a touchdown. According to Ellis, Iona's offensive performance of the entire day was off-balance and they fell apart. "If we had run better than we thought we could, we finished twelfth out of the 28 teams," he said.

Karen Mangan. Besides the Red Foxes rather surprisingly finish, the Red Foxes broke some personal records, Kelly considered this Woodstock's best race that she has ever run.

Meridith Halsted and Karen Mangan coming back from injuries finished better than Kelly expected them to. The race took place on a golf course, consisting of flat ground with no hills. In addition, the course was fast and short, and it was run with a series of loops.

One point that Kelly has stressed all year long is running in a pack. "If we had run in a pack and gotten a lead up front, we could have scooped more points," she said.

Had the Red Foxes stayed closer together, rather than sepa- rate in the first mile and three quarters than they could have a better advantage. "We were only thirty five points out of seventh, and had we finished in the forty's to sixthies that we could have had a better outing," Kelly said.

Despite this one point that the Red Foxes missed, they still had a good meet and it was a great confidence builder at most. With this in mind, it gives both Kelly and her runners time to look ahead towards their next three meets.

Defensive back Paul DeJack returns a punt on Saturday in 30-7 win over Iona at Leonidoff field. Defensive and Marist's strategy combined to make it easy to get to the quarterback. "They wanted to use the run-defense so we had to get a good pass rush," Ellis said. "Some misalignments and the way the play was called got to the quarterback untouched," Bates said he felt that the run- and-shoot gave the defense an advantage.

"We didn't have to worry about the run so we could speed rush a lot easier," he said. Ellis's interception occurred on the two yard line after Iona quarterback Joe Mattress was pressured in the end zone. "I was just at the right place at the right time," Ellis said. "He looked at me and threw it right to me. I'm not complaining."

Head coach Jim Parady was happy with Red Fox performance on the week. "The defense played a great game but I'm proud of everyone."

"I was just at the right place at the right time," Ellis said. "He looked at me and threw it right to me. I'm not complaining."

"The support from the fans were really great," Pool said. "It was a positive atmosphere."
