Vol. 50, Iss. 9

Nov. 25 to all resident students, parnps"from student roofns'affe'r jducted by the Fairview Fire De­ safety and security, said he was with the Marist Security

dpartment who work in conjuncestablished they cause fires in flights.

department had on halogen

ja recent training session the fire

Office. JoeF. Leary, director of neighboring Vassar College cocaine network. -

he was indicted by Maryland

Brown indicted on drug charges shipping upwards of a pound of cocaine a week to a friend,

"I thought it was in "the best charges against him.

"Will not go forward without

the State grant of a couple mil­lion dollars," he said. "We have a寄托 on our plate right now as it is."

The completion target date of project is next September and

dependson the college receives the State grant in Feb., 1998.

Murray fielded questions about

the goal of these new residences, stating that the administration only wanted to accommodate all the people who want to live on-campus.

"We're attempting to build

these townhouses so all of the people that want to live on-campus can," he said. "It's tough to predict how many people that are accepted are going to attend. We don't want any more problems like last summer." Others wanted to know which

students would have the opporunity to move into these townhouses. Murray said that seniors would have the first choice.

The third and final project

Marist hopes to accomplish is the waterfront renovation. Upon receiving financial back­

ning from the State of New, York

through the Clinton Water, Clean

Act, the improvements of the waterfront will be greatly enhanced. The goal is to make a more natural park setting with

new rotundas, docks and boardwalks.

Murray said the project would not be attempted without the grant.

"Will not go forward without

the State grant of a couple mil­lion dollars," he said. "We have

a寄托 on our plate right now as it is."

The completion target date of

project is next September and

dependson the college receives the State grant in Feb., 1998.

Murray fielded questions about

the goal of these new residences, stating that the administration only wanted to accommodate all the people who want

to live on-campus.

"We're attempting to build

these townhouses so all of the people that want to live on-campus can," he said. "It's tough to

predict how many people that

are accepted are going to attend. We don't want any more problems like last summer." Others wanted to know which

students would have the oppor­

unity to move into these townhouses. Murray said that

seniors would have the first

choice.

The third and final project

Marist hopes to accomplish is

the waterfront renovation. Upon receiving financial back­

ning from the State of New, York

through the Clinton Water, Clean

Act, the improvements of the waterfront will be greatly enhanced. The goal is to make a

more natural park setting with

new rotundas, docks and

boardwalks.

Murray said the project would not be attempted without the

grant.

"Will not go forward without

the State grant of a couple mil­lion dollars," he said. "We have

a寄托 on our plate right now as it is."

The completion target date of

project is next September and

dependson the college receives the State grant in Feb., 1998.

How has the social life changed at Marist?

Mike Dunne
Junior
"I think the social life has declined. There used to be more places to go at night. I think something is lost in the city of Poughkeepsie."

Jena DeVranco
Senior
"I'm not sure if there are more places to go, but there's more stuff to do in the city now. There aren't as many parties going on under 21 places."

SECURITY BRIEFS

November 23rd, 12:45 p.m. - A student in Morris Hall stuck his hand through the window while attempting to open it. Security took him to get medical help.

November 26th - There was aoubles in Townhouse A. A resident saw heavy smoke coming from the oven. When the oven was opened, flames came pouring out. The student put out the fire with a extinguisher. The cause of the fire was a build-up of grease. The kitchen had been using a lot of snacks lately. There have been 5 fires alone in the E section. They have all been cooking related, and have all kept students out in the cold air to freeze while they wait for the fire department to arrive."

The security briefs are written each week by Dawn Lewis.

"How's the weather?"
Thursday: Chilly, Overcast, Rain
Friday: Chilly, Mostly Cloudy
Saturday: Chilly, Mostly Cloudy

MONEY
FREEDOM?
RESUME?
CAREER?
SUCCESS?
Vantage offers flexible hours, on the job training, summer jobs & permanent jobs in both Westchester and Fairfield counties. Vantage is a full service recruiting firm placing candidates in the following areas:

ACCOUNTING
FINANCE
HUMAN RESOURCES
MARKETING
ADMINISTRATIVE SUPPORT
BANKING

Our ability to provide both internal and permanent staffing has made us the first choice of companies in both Westchester and Fairfield Counties. Vantage is a full service recruiting firm placing candidates in the following areas:

FOR DETAILS CONTACT:
TARA SMITH
VANTAGE
One Atlantic Street, Stamford, CT. 06901
Telephone: (203) 357-7977
Fax: (203)357-1472

Brown still held in jail
(Marist Report, 12/11/97)

Marist said Brown found out about the indictment Nov. 2 after a_chance practice. "He was very calm about it," Morrison said. "He just kept insisting on his innocence. He was just shocked as we were."

Brown was questioned several days after his release. "I'm money oriented," Peet said. "I thought it would be a good experience."

Brown is scheduled to be tried Jan. 18, according to the Poughkeepsie Journal. If convicted, Brown faces a prison sentence of 40 years under Maryland's drug laws and a minimum sentence of 20 years with no chance for parole.

Brown was asked if he still spoke to the college's legal council. "I felt that they had the wrong man. I'm going to continue to speak to the college's legal council," she said. "I keep reminding them that they had the wrong man."

Brown did not speak about the college's legal council. "I feel that they had the wrong man," Brown said. "I'm looking forward to meeting people there."

Brown said it is an issue he has been trying to work through. "It's just something you put on the back burner," he said. "It's out of our hands now."

Robyn Peet traveled to Japan to participate in a high school exchange program. She now plans to study the language, as well as German, Spanish, and Japanese.

Student learns much while in Japan
by MEGHAN O'ROURKE
Staff Writer

Not many people have the opportunity to study and live halfway around the world, but senior Robyn Peet has done just that.

Peet traveled to Japan in July, 1993, after graduating high school. She said she was the only one who chose to go to Japan out of the 110 students in her high school foreign exchange program.

"For the experience, I don't think it has changed that much, but the people here don't have much to do. There aren't a lot of places you can go to in Japan," Peet said.

Peet lived in southern Japan in a small called lago. She said the area is very much like a small and comparable to that of Florida. Peet said she attended a Japanese high school for one year learning both the language and the culture.

She had classes six days a week, most of the time, but received no credit for her studies since she was participating in a high school exchange program and had already graduated.

Peet said she would never want to go to a Japanese school again. She said the best of the students were rude and she found herself bored. "I walked away with only two real friends," she said.

Despite her schooling experiences in Japan, she continued to study the language and culture when she returned to the United States. She took classes in flower arranging, the Japanese tea ceremony, calligraphy and karate at her local university.

She also participated in the Japanese program here at Marist College as an extracurricular activity and had already graduated.

Peet said she would never want to go to a Japanese school again. She said the best of the students were rude and she found herself bored. "I walked away with only two real friends," she said.

Despite her schooling experiences in Japan, she continued to study the language and culture when she returned to the United States. She took classes in flower arranging, the Japanese tea ceremony, calligraphy and karate at her local university.

She also participated in the Japanese program here at Marist College as an extracurricular activity and had already graduated.

Peet said she would never want to go to a Japanese school again. She said the best of the students were rude and she found herself bored. "I walked away with only two real friends," she said.

Despite her schooling experiences in Japan, she continued to study the language and culture when she returned to the United States. She took classes in flower arranging, the Japanese tea ceremony, calligraphy and karate at her local university.

She also participated in the Japanese program here at Marist College as an extracurricular activity and had already graduated.

Peet said she would never want to go to a Japanese school again. She said the best of the students were rude and she found herself bored. "I walked away with only two real friends," she said.

Despite her schooling experiences in Japan, she continued to study the language and culture when she returned to the United States. She took classes in flower arranging, the Japanese tea ceremony, calligraphy and karate at her local university.

She also participated in the Japanese program here at Marist College as an extracurricular activity and had already graduated.

Peet said she would never want to go to a Japanese school again. She said the best of the students were rude and she found herself bored. "I walked away with only two real friends," she said.

Despite her schooling experiences in Japan, she continued to study the language and culture when she returned to the United States. She took classes in flower arranging, the Japanese tea ceremony, calligraphy and karate at her local university.

She also participated in the Japanese program here at Marist College as an extracurricular activity and had already graduated.
Intersession means work for athletes

EMILY KORCZYK
Staff Writer

"Tiring practices and a demanding schedule are the most negative aspects of coach Murphy. He gave us our first interview with an ESPN college basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst.

He said the team is not only interested in sports, but also in academics. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst.

He said the team is not only interested in sports, but also in academics. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst.

He said the team is not only interested in sports, but also in academics. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst.

He said the team is not only interested in sports, but also in academics. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst.

He said the team is not only interested in sports, but also in academics. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst. And a call to ESPN College basketball analyst.
We Need a Miracle Every Day

Debby and Bob McCaughey, the new parents of septuplets, have gotten themselves in over their head. While the cost of the babies has already topped $1.5 million, the things that need to be purchased and paid for are, indeed, enough to reach the sky.

This is where we come in. We, the people of America, can help in any way we can. In fact, it is our duty to help. By donating money or time, we can ensure that these children have every chance at a healthy, happy life.

In the past, miracles have happened without our help. However, this time is different. We must take action to ensure that these babies have the best possible chance at survival.

Let us not forget that the McCaugheys already had one child that they could not afford to raise. If Debby gives birth to another baby, the family will be even more in need of our help.

Let us remember that Marist College students are actually being urged by local police to help the McCaugheys. The Circle's main mission is to help others, and we believe that this is a cause worth supporting.

So, let us all come together and help the McCaughey family. Their lives are in our hands, and we must not let them down.

Thank you, and God bless theMcCaugheys.

Sincerely,

Debby McCaughey
Music by the evening was few and far between. So when the weekend arrived, the opportunity to see Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat was a welcome one. A production by Andrew Lloyd Webber and Tim Rice, I found this show to have a greater effect on me than the original production. The show was full of energy and excitement, from the lighting to the costumes to the music. The actors inhabited a carnival world, which was created through a combination of all of these elements.

For me, the most impressive thing from the lighting to the costumes to the music. The actors inhabited a carnival world, which was created through a combination of all of these elements.

For me, the most impressive thing was the setting and the lighting. The setting was a circus tent, which was brought to life through the use of props and lighting. The lighting was stunning, with a variety of effects used to create a sense of movement and excitement. The costumes were also impressive, with a variety of styles used to create a sense of the different characters. The music was full of energy and excitement, and was perfectly in keeping with the setting and the lighting.

Overall, this was a tremendous production and I would highly recommend it to anyone who loves the theatre.
Join the Winning Team!

IMI Systems, Inc., is one of the largest Global information technology and software development consulting organizations. We offer worldwide opportunities with competitive salaries and comprehensive benefits including 401K, major medical and tuition reimbursement.

We are looking for qualified IT professionals with the following disciplines:

E-mail: nyfjobs@imisys.com opportunities with competitive salaries and comprehensive benefits including:

- Mainframe/Mid-Range/Client Server/Networking/Internet
- ACCESS
- LOTUS NOTES Developer
- LOTUS NOTES Administrator
- LOTUS NOTES Progammer
- JAVA Developers
- JAVA Web Developers
- JAVA Middleware
- JAVA Server
- JAVA Testers
- JAVA System Programmers
- Language Programmers
- Object Programmers
- PC Programmers
- PC Software Engineers
- PC Software Testers
- PC Specialist
- SAP Functional Specialist
- SAP Programmer
- SAP ABAP/DS Developer
- WWW Designers
- World Wide Web Developers
- Year 2000 Conversion

If you have an Information Technology skill please call Bonnie at (914) 892-8149 or mail/saxie/mail your resume to IMI Systems, 1580 Route 52, Building 31, Hopewell Junction, NY 12533. Fax: (914) 892-8803

Steve on Sports

A disaster waited to happen, but...
QUOTE OF THE WEEK

"When we get a lead, we lose some of our intensity..."
— Bill Kamp, hockey coach

---

SPORTS

STAT OF THE WEEK

Bryan Whittle leads the men's basketball team in points and rebounds through five games.

---

Men's basketball strings three wins together

by STEVE WANCZYK

Sport Editor

The transitive property. If Syracuse beats Colgate by 4, and Marist beats Colgate by 1, then Syracuse equals Marist.

We talk about that. Two days after hanging with the Orangemen in front of 17,000 fans at the Carrier Dome, the Colgate Red Raiders invaded the McCann Center last Tuesday and the Marist men's basketball team sent them home with a 79-75 overtime loss.

Then, on Saturday evening, Marist blew past Niagara in its first-ever meeting, 91-75.

And with that, the Red Foxes time in two years. Red Fox win and lifted Marist's basketball string of three wins.

"We came out in the second half and stepped it up a level by keeping simple and playing to our strengths—shooting and slashing," beamed the coach.

The Foxes' starters scored in double-figures, led by Larragan's 21 points. Whittle's eight points. Three-point baskets to finish an aggressive first half. Point guard Bo Larragan with one of his six assists against the Eagles scored in the final minutes of the first stanza, and the lead was extended to nine early in the second half, but defense was again the answer for Marist's defense.

Four steals over the next three minutes allowed Marist to pull within 7-3. With 1:37 left in the game, Niagara still held a tenacious lead—but that was about to change.

Otero tied the game with a three, and set the wheels in motion for a fast break seven minute eruption which featured three more Otero treys (including two 25-fotteders) and sparking defense from Hartline, Whittle, Larragan, and Colella.

By the time the Purple Eagles recovered, Marist had completed a 25-3 run building its lead to 80-61. The McCann faithful exploded with each Otero bomb, each Larragan swish, each Hartline Wallop, each Whittle tossing in lay-ups, but the game stayed tight down back into the game.

Niagara broke the ice 30 seconds into the game when he stripped a Purple Eagle, went the length of the floor, converted the basket and got fouled. The three-point play ignited the large crowd, and set a positive tone that Marist had in previous first halves.

Niagara did go into half-time with a 47-41 lead after a brief 9-2 run in the final minutes of the first stanza, and the lead was expanded to nine early in the second half, but defense was again the answer for Marist's defense.

Three points off the hands of senior Bryan Whittle.

Point guard Bo Larragan with one of his six assists against Niagara in the Foxes' 91-75 victory on Saturday.

"We were just a better team than them and we only had 13 turnovers," he said. "They were just a better team than us, especially being in the locker room, and fell behind, leading to a tenuous lead—but that was about to change.

Quoting the Week

"When we get a lead, we lose some of our intensity..." — Bill Kamp, hockey coach

---

Women's basketball gets outrebounded, outplayed

by CHRIS O'NEILL

Staff Writer

The women's basketball team knew going into the season that it would take more than its share of the front court and its share of the back court. Unfortunately, Marist's opponents have quickly found that out as well.

The first four games of the season have seen Ken Benford's team get outrebounded, leading to a sluggish 1-3 start, including a 76-61 defeat against Lehigh on Sat.

---

Hockey hits stride vs. Rutgers

by RACHEL VOLLARO

Staff Writer

The Red Foxes play a home game Saturday afternoon against the Scarlet Knights in the home-and-home series against Hofstra University. It is the transitive property.

The game was designed for an offensive- and defensively.

"We executed our plays on offense, and handled our defense well on defense," she said.

A different Marist club showed up last Tuesday when the Foxes notched a convincing 65-56 win over Albany. The Red Foxes out-rebounded Albany 44-25, and turned the ball over 21 times.

The women said they were happy to come out of last weekend's loss, and the loss was disappointing.

"We played really well against Albany (last Tuesday) and then came out slow against Lehigh," she said.

"At first, we would be a better team than this year's team. Unfortunately, Marist's opponents have quickly found that out as well.

The first four games of the season have seen Ken Benford's team get outrebounded, leading to a sluggish 1-3 start, including a 76-61 defeat against Lehigh on Sat.

---

QUOTE OF THE WEEK

"When we get a lead, we lose some of our intensity..."
— Bill Kamp, hockey coach

---

SPORTS

STAT OF THE WEEK

Bryan Whittle leads the men's basketball team in points and rebounds through five games.

---

Men's basketball strings three wins together

by STEVE WANCZYK

Sport Editor

It is the transitive property. If Syracuse beats Colgate by four, and Marist beats Colgate by one, then Syracuse equals Marist.

We talk about that. Two days after hanging with the Orangemen in front of 17,000 fans at the Carrier Dome, the Colgate Red Raiders invaded the McCann Center last Tuesday and the Marist men's basketball team sent them home with a 79-75 overtime loss.

Then, on Saturday evening, Marist blew past Niagara in its first-ever meeting, 91-75.

And with that, the Red Foxes time in two years. Red Fox win and lifted Marist's basketball string of three wins.

"We came out in the second half and stepped it up a level by keeping simple and playing to our strengths—shooting and slashing," beamed the coach.

The Foxes' starters scored in double-figures, led by Larragan's 21 points. Whittle's eight points. Three-point baskets to finish an aggressive first half. Point guard Bo Larragan with one of his six assists against the Eagles scored in the final minutes of the first stanza, and the lead was extended to nine early in the second half, but defense was again the answer for Marist's defense.

Four steals over the next three minutes allowed Marist to pull within 7-3. With 1:37 left in the game, Niagara still held a tenacious lead—but that was about to change.

Otero tied the game with a three, and set the wheels in motion for a fast break seven minute eruption which featured three more Otero treys (including two 25-fotteders) and sparking defense from Hartline, Whittle, Larragan, and Colella.

By the time the Purple Eagles recovered, Marist had completed a 25-3 run building its lead to 80-61. The McCann faithful exploded with each Otero bomb, each Larragan swish, each Hartline Wallop, each Whittle tossing in lay-ups, but the game stayed tight down back into the game.

Niagara broke the ice 30 seconds into the game when he stripped a Purple Eagle, went the length of the floor, converted the basket and got fouled. The three-point play ignited the large crowd, and set a positive tone that Marist had in previous first halves.

Niagara did go into half-time with a 47-41 lead after a brief 9-2 run in the final minutes of the first stanza, and the lead was expanded to nine early in the second half, but defense was again the answer for Marist's defense.

Three points off the hands of senior Bryan Whittle.

Point guard Bo Larragan with one of his six assists against Niagara in the Foxes' 91-75 victory on Saturday.

"We were just a better team than them and we only had 13 turnovers," he said. "They were just a better team than us, especially being in the locker room, and fell behind, leading to a tenuous lead—but that was about to change.

Quoting the Week

"When we get a lead, we lose some of our intensity..." — Bill Kamp, hockey coach

---

Women's basketball gets outrebounded, outplayed

by CHRIS O'NEILL

Staff Writer

The women's basketball team knew going into the season that it would take more than its share of the front court and its share of the back court. Unfortunately, Marist's opponents have quickly found that out as well.

The first four games of the season have seen Ken Benford's team get outrebounded, leading to a sluggish 1-3 start, including a 76-61 defeat against Lehigh on Sat.

---

Hockey hits stride vs. Rutgers

by RACHEL VOLLARO

Staff Writer

The Red Foxes play a home game Saturday afternoon against the Scarlet Knights in the home-and-home series against Hofstra University. It is the transitive property.

The game was designed for an offensive- and defensively.

"We executed our plays on offense, and handled our defense well on defense," she said.

A different Marist club showed up last Tuesday when the Foxes notched a convincing 65-56 win over Albany. The Red Foxes out-rebounded Albany 44-25, and turned the ball over 21 times.

The women said they were happy to come out of last weekend's loss, and the loss was disappointing.

"We played really well against Albany (last Tuesday) and then came out slow against Lehigh," she said.

"At first, we would be a better team than this year's team. Unfortunately, Marist's opponents have quickly found that out as well.

The first four games of the season have seen Ken Benford's team get outrebounded, leading to a sluggish 1-3 start, including a 76-61 defeat against Lehigh on Sat.

---

QUOTE OF THE WEEK

"When we get a lead, we lose some of our intensity..."
— Bill Kamp, hockey coach

---

SPORTS

STAT OF THE WEEK

Bryan Whittle leads the men's basketball team in points and rebounds through five games.

---