Happy St. Patrick’s Day!!
Have a great Spring Break!!

THE CIRCLE

Volume 51, Issue 5
The student newspaper of Marist College
March 12, 1998

Marist receives grants for waterfront

by MICHAEL GOOT
Staff Writer

The library, the humanities building and the townhouses are not the only construction projects that will be going on in 1998.

Marist has recently obtained grants totaling almost $446,000 to restore its waterfront area. Work will probably begin this June.

According to Susan Roeller Brown, executive assistant to the president, Marist has obtained grants from the Hudson River Valley Greenway, the Office of Parks, Recreation and Historic Preservation, and the Department of State. They are still waiting to hear from the Department of Environmental Conservation.

These grants were awarded in the first phase of the New York State Clean Water, Clean Air Act. Brown said that although Marist did not receive all the money it had asked for, it was lucky to receive what it did.

“It was extremely competitive with all the agencies receiving many more applications than they had anticipated,” she said.

“So we feel very fortunate to have received nearly half a million dollars in state funds in support of the waterfront development project.”

Brown said Marist is meeting with construction managers to determine what part of the project will be implemented first. Top priority is to refurbish the facilities that support the college and high school rowing programs. The shoreline must be stabilized to guard against further erosion.

After this is complete, the next tasks are to install new floating docks, make trails along the riverfront, put in new parking lots, rest room facilities and general improvements to the boathouse.

Brown said the project will improve the quality of the Marist riverfront for students and the general community. It will also be an asset to attract new students to Marist.

“Very few campuses have a beautiful waterfront park to show off as part of a tour of the campus,” she said.

Brown said the anticipates the work will begin in June and will continue into early fall. Marist is working on securing additional funds from private organizations, such as the Hudson River Improvement Fund, to complete the rest of the project. It will also apply for more grants in 1999.

The refurbished riverfront will make a great spot for concerts, picnics and other outdoor events.

Senior Lisa Casevant, captain of the women’s crew team, said she thinks the project is an excellent idea.

“I think it’ll give it a nicer appearance,” she said.

She said the main problem is that the river bank is eroding and stones are falling into the water. Also, the project cost for longer docks, so both Marist students and people from the community can use them.

McCulloch new student body president

by SCOTT NEVILLE
Staff Writer

The election results have been tallied, placing Student Body President Colleen McCulloch and her administration in the eye of a storm of new ideas.

Among her ideas for her term in office is to create a Student Government Association public opinion poll.

The goal of this project, she said, is to get the student body to poll on campus and to back up the SGA as it works with the administration.

“Our goal is to get student input and ideas to support the movement with factual statistics,” McCulloch said. “We want to be able to go to the administration and state that 75 percent of the students are opposed to the high price of books.”

McCulloch said that steps have already been taken to create an experimental poll to gauge how the students feel about given topics and the methods used in them.

“We’re going to set up a table and get people’s opinion of the SGA and its officers,” she said.

“The poll itself has just gone to the IRB and we plan to use the results as a test run to fine tune future surveys.”

The Student Opinion Poll has been, as expected, in the works but has not been successful, McCulloch said.

McCulloch also has established a meeting with the Bookstore Committee to discuss rapidly inflating textbook costs.

Her goal is to address the teachers during their book selection period to urge them to opt for the more inexpensive books.

“We want to see where this method falters and fine tune it accordingly for the following semester,” she said.

McCulloch also wants to increase student safety by implementing the use of personal security devices. These alarms could work on short band radio or an even simpler model would be an alarm emitted from a key chain device.

She has found perspective companies and is working on financing the project using a portion of the $75 security fee.

The success of these plants depend on the results of student polling and administrative decisions.

“Marist has been fortunate,” she said. “We have not had that many assaults on campus and we want to keep it that way.”

And especially with all of the new construction on campus next semester, there is going to be a ton of extra people on the campus; we want to make sure that no one is injured in any way.”

McCulloch said she also wants to reach out more to the student and inform them on what is happening in student government.

The Marist waterfront is set to be renovated beginning this June.

Marist receives grants for waterfront

by JILL GIOCONDO
Staff Writer

Students who made the Dean’s List this fall have been wondering whether there will be a Dean’s List Luncheon this spring.

Robin Torres, director of student academic advisement, set the record straight saying there will be a luncheon on April 23.

“There will be a dean’s list luncheon and the invitations will be sent out to students on the list after break,” she said. “Students have a tendency to misplace invitations so they are sent out later than the certificates and notification.”

Freshmen and upperclassmen who make the fall dean’s list are invited to the luncheon which has been held each spring to celebrate the students’ accomplishments.

The luncheon takes place during activity hour with presentations in the middle to students can come in and out depending on their schedule.

The luncheon has been a ten-year tradition at the college. It is usually a large affair with around three hundred students attending. Deans, Resident Directors, some members of the student body help organizations, such as Special Services, are also extended invitations.

Students who make the fall dean’s list do not receive notification immediately after grades are out in January. Student Academic Advisement compiles the list after all incomplete and grade changes have been resolved. This ensures that all students who deserve to be on the list are included.

Students who make dean’s list in the spring are not recognized with a luncheon in the fall. One of the biggest factors is that the spring dean’s list is not published until July. Also the luncheon is a large expense so it only takes place once a year.

Most students who make the list in the spring also make it in the fall.

Jennifer Glover, a sophomore, said that she was surprised to hear that there were rumors of the dean’s list luncheon being canceled.

“Although I didn’t attend the Dean’s List Luncheon last year, I did think that it was a really great idea,” she said. “Anyway, it is a break from the cafeteria food!”

Elizabeth Dunn, a senior, said that she was disappointed when she did not receive notification of the luncheon.

“This past semester was my best at Marist and since I am graduating this spring I was looking forward to being recognized for my accomplishments,” she said.

Dunn said she was surprised that it took so long to receive the invitations.

“They have not been in contact letting us know what is happening with the luncheon,” she said. “I think that they could have handled notify the students in a better fashion.”

Dean’s list luncheon will actually happen

by JILL GIOCONDO
Staff Writer

Students who make the Dean’s List this fall have been wondering whether there will be a Dean’s List Luncheon this spring.

Robin Torres, director of student academic advisement, set the record straight saying there will be a luncheon on April 23.

“There will be a dean’s list luncheon and the invitations will be sent out to students on the list after break,” she said. “Students have a tendency to misplace invitations so they are sent out later than the certificates and notification.”

Freshmen and upperclassmen who make the fall dean’s list are invited to the luncheon which has been held each spring to celebrate the students’ accomplishments.

The luncheon takes place during activity hour with presentations in the middle to students can come in and out depending on their schedule.

The luncheon has been a ten-year tradition at the college. It is usually a large affair with around three hundred students attending. Deans, Resident Directors, some members of the student body help organizations, such as Special Services, are also extended invitations.

Students who make the fall dean’s list do not receive notification immediately after grades are out in January. Student Academic Advisement compiles the list after all incomplete and grade changes have been resolved. This ensures that all students who deserve to be on the list are included.

Students who make dean’s list in the spring are not recognized with a luncheon in the fall. One of the biggest factors is that the spring dean’s list is not published until July. Also the luncheon is a large expense so it only takes place once a year.

Most students who make the list in the spring also make it in the fall.

Jennifer Glover, a sophomore, said that she was surprised to hear that there were rumors of the dean’s list luncheon being canceled.

“Although I didn’t attend the Dean’s List Luncheon last year, I did think that it was a really great idea,” she said. “Anyway, it is a break from the cafeteria food!”

Elizabeth Dunn, a senior, said that she was disappointed when she did not receive notification of the luncheon.

“This past semester was my best at Marist and since I am graduating this spring I was looking forward to being recognized for my accomplishments,” she said.

Dunn said she was surprised that it took so long to receive the invitations.

“They have not been in contact letting us know what is happening with the luncheon,” she said. “I think that they could have handled notify the students in a better fashion.”

Dean’s list luncheon will actually happen
Van Ornum publishes book on Obsessive Compulsive Disorder

by THEA CINNO

Professor William Van Ornum is a popular guy. He received a generous sum from Mother Teresa, he met Cardinal O’Connor and even Pope John Paul II. Van Ornum is an associate professor of psychology at Marist College and has become a点下

 SPRING RECESS

Day—Women’s Lacrosse at Sacred Heart

Monday 3/23:

Heart Evening—Gender Equality Club Take Back the Night: The Nisht

The senior class gift was $20,000 for an endowed library gift by the Class of 1997 in association with the Marist Holocaust Commission. It will recognize the students of Jewish origin who came to the United States as part of the Kindertransport and will support those in the Jewish community who wish to discuss the options for an endowed library gift by the Class of 1997.

Jeff Schanz, director of alumni and development, suggested to give library gift to honor the memory of Ralph Fiasco, class of 1998, who was killed in a plane crash while on a research trip to Russia.

It hit the bookstores in March this year with a $100 prize going to the best author. Entries can deal with any aspect of abnormal psychology and Van Ornum has received them from all over the world, including Australia, New Zealand, and the United Kingdom. Some of the entries have been from countries that have never entered before, and Van Ornum has received them from countries that have never entered before. His previous contest was in 1988 when he founded the Marist Holocaust Commission to give library gift.

The Senior class committe and it will be held on Monday, March 23, at 8 p.m. in the library. There will be a reception and light refreshments followed by a reading of the winning poem by a Marist student. The winning poem will be published in the Marist College yearbook.

Van Ornum first became interested in the Holocaust around 12 years ago. In 1988 he founded the Marist Holocaust Commission to give library gift and it will be held on Monday, March 23, at 8 p.m. in the library. There will be a reception and light refreshments followed by a reading of the winning poem by a Marist student. The winning poem will be published in the Marist College yearbook.

The Senior class committe and it will be held on Monday, March 23, at 8 p.m. in the library. There will be a reception and light refreshments followed by a reading of the winning poem by a Marist student. The winning poem will be published in the Marist College yearbook.

Van Ornum first became interested in the Holocaust around 12 years ago. In 1988 he founded the Marist Holocaust Commission to give library gift and it will be held on Monday, March 23, at 8 p.m. in the library. There will be a reception and light refreshments followed by a reading of the winning poem by a Marist student. The winning poem will be published in the Marist College yearbook.

Van Ornum first became interested in the Holocaust around 12 years ago. In 1988 he founded the Marist Holocaust Commission to give library gift and it will be held on Monday, March 23, at 8 p.m. in the library. There will be a reception and light refreshments followed by a reading of the winning poem by a Marist student. The winning poem will be published in the Marist College yearbook.

Van Ornum first became interested in the Holocaust around 12 years ago. In 1988 he founded the Marist Holocaust Commission to give library gift and it will be held on Monday, March 23, at 8 p.m. in the library. There will be a reception and light refreshments followed by a reading of the winning poem by a Marist student. The winning poem will be published in the Marist College yearbook.

Van Ornum first became interested in the Holocaust around 12 years ago. In 1988 he founded the Marist Holocaust Commission to give library gift and it will be held on Monday, March 23, at 8 p.m. in the library. There will be a reception and light refreshments followed by a reading of the winning poem by a Marist student. The winning poem will be published in the Marist College yearbook.

Van Ornum first became interested in the Holocaust around 12 years ago. In 1988 he founded the Marist Holocaust Commission to give library gift and it will be held on Monday, March 23, at 8 p.m. in the library. There will be a reception and light refreshments followed by a reading of the winning poem by a Marist student. The winning poem will be published in the Marist College yearbook.

Van Ornum first became interested in the Holocaust around 12 years ago. In 1988 he founded the Marist Holocaust Commission to give library gift and it will be held on Monday, March 23, at 8 p.m. in the library. There will be a reception and light refreshments followed by a reading of the winning poem by a Marist student. The winning poem will be published in the Marist College yearbook.

Van Ornum first became interested in the Holocaust around 12 years ago. In 1988 he founded the Marist Holocaust Commission to give library gift and it will be held on Monday, March 23, at 8 p.m. in the library. There will be a reception and light refreshments followed by a reading of the winning poem by a Marist student. The winning poem will be published in the Marist College yearbook.

Van Ornum first became interested in the Holocaust around 12 years ago. In 1988 he founded the Marist Holocaust Commission to give library gift and it will be held on Monday, March 23, at 8 p.m. in the library. There will be a reception and light refreshments followed by a reading of the winning poem by a Marist student. The winning poem will be published in the Marist College yearbook.

Van Ornum first became interested in the Holocaust around 12 years ago. In 1988 he founded the Marist Holocaust Commission to give library gift and it will be held on Monday, March 23, at 8 p.m. in the library. There will be a reception and light refreshments followed by a reading of the winning poem by a Marist student. The winning poem will be published in the Marist College yearbook.

Van Ornum first became interested in the Holocaust around 12 years ago. In 1988 he founded the Marist Holocaust Commission to give library gift and it will be held on Monday, March 23, at 8 p.m. in the library. There will be a reception and light refreshments followed by a reading of the winning poem by a Marist student. The winning poem will be published in the Marist College yearbook.

Van Ornum first became interested in the Holocaust around 12 years ago. In 1988 he founded the Marist Holocaust Commission to give library gift and it will be held on Monday, March 23, at 8 p.m. in the library. There will be a reception and light refreshments followed by a reading of the winning poem by a Marist student. The winning poem will be published in the Marist College yearbook.

Van Ornum first became interested in the Holocaust around 12 years ago. In 1988 he founded the Marist Holocaust Commission to give library gift and it will be held on Monday, March 23, at 8 p.m. in the library. There will be a reception and light refreshments followed by a reading of the winning poem by a Marist student. The winning poem will be published in the Marist College yearbook.

Van Ornum first became interested in the Holocaust around 12 years ago. In 1988 he founded the Marist Holocaust Commission to give library gift and it will be held on Monday, March 23, at 8 p.m. in the library. There will be a reception and light refreshments followed by a reading of the winning poem by a Marist student. The winning poem will be published in the Marist College yearbook.
Marist band makes noise

JOE VAGNELLI

Twelve years ago, the Marist student body had no marching band. It all started in 1986, with two students (one a student and a trip to Madison Square Garden. Arthur Himmelberger, the band director and founder, was born in 1986. There was no Marist band before Himmelberger became the leader, although he did not know that he was interested in music until his freshman year. He was a band member at the University of Miami, where he studied music and was part of the band. Himmelberger was appointed assistant director of the band in 1986. He then took over as director when the current director retired. The band has grown and has become a major part of the Marist community.

MARDIN

When you plan to escape to tropical resorts for spring break, Frisbee, baseball, and just going to the gloomy 1058. The weather is horrible every day. The chill is so strong that even the most devoted fans are forced to stay indoors. The result is that the worst weather is Planet Wegg. Since they are located in Newburgh and middletown they can hardly be considered local. But they did have some nice varieties, including heavy meat and BBQ. Their Wednesday specials were some of the hottest wings I have ever had. In addition, their lineup for the winter season is very good. It's a great way to sample wings from all over.

Student races towards dreams

MICHAEL MCFADDEN

Michael Melfi was always wanted to be in the 10K. "I like the 10K. I like that feeling of being on the start line and knowing that I am going to college," he says as he runs up the hill at his house in Melfi, "and I just had a high school record. It's pretty much my specialty." It was Melfi's record, and a lot of the guys on the track team would describe him as "the most talented runner on the team." However, "his heart was not in it," says his coach, "so he is not a very good runner."

Melfi said he competed in the IC4A meet, which觇ived. It's pretty much my specialty. It was Melfi's record, and a lot of the guys on the track team would describe him as "the most talented runner on the team." However, "his heart was not in it," says his coach, "so he is not a very good runner."

Melfi started running track when he was in high school, and he said that the sport suited him. "I was a good runner, and I really enjoyed it," he said. "I was able to do it, and I was good at it." He said he was working to improve his pace and technique.

Melfi said he was worried last year that the 10K might not be a good sport for him. "I didn't even know if I was going to be able to do it," he said. "I was afraid that I was going to be too slow again." He said that he was able to improve his pace and technique, and that he was able to compete.

Melfi said that he is working hard to improve his pace and technique. "I am working on my form, and I am trying to be more efficient," he said. "I am trying to be more efficient, and I am working on my form." He said that he is working on his form, and that he is trying to be more efficient. "I am working on my form, and I am trying to be more efficient," he said. "I am trying to be more efficient, and I am working on my form." He said that he is working on his form, and that he is trying to be more efficient.

Melfi said that he is working hard to improve his pace and technique. "I am working on my form, and I am trying to be more efficient," he said. "I am trying to be more efficient, and I am working on my form." He said that he is working on his form, and that he is trying to be more efficient. "I am working on my form, and I am trying to be more efficient," he said. "I am trying to be more efficient, and I am working on my form." He said that he is working on his form, and that he is trying to be more efficient.
Ah, Spring Break. Just writing those two words, and a sense of peace and relaxation begins to flood over me. No school, no teachers, no papers—but every year here at Marist, I have been proven wrong. Two weeks away from Spring Break when I go to work at a newspaper, and I realize I love the job because I have a money甘 (I am not bitter, I swear). I also have to write a 10-page paper, read two new books, and generally “act like an adult.” Needless to say, it is not an easy task.

Greetings. I am a senior and I take senior-level courses, but I am completely burnt out. I am also not busy. I read a lot of force. If you also are, I strongly encourage you to take a break. You will all say of the senior spring semester: “I want to get all of my assignments done before the semester is over.”

Out of true perspective, I want to say, I don’t believe that this is the case. The semester is over, and we have to take a break. Over the past semester, I learned, so I did not get a break then, either. Nor did I get a break last year, I believe, because I was one of those who did not have one break where I did not have to worry about writing a paper, or reading a novel, or studying for a test.

The Circle

Ahh, Spring Break. Just writing those two words, and a sense of peace and relaxation begins to flood over me. No school, no teachers, no papers—be because we actually might have a life outside school, and might not want to work one break where I did not have to worry about writing a paper, or reading a novel, or studying for a test.

Spring Break is supposed to be that free time gives MDS to Denmark. It is meant to be a time when all of the stress at school is not supposed to be knocking around in our heads.

I begin by saying that I can’t speak to your particular experiences in the classes that met your disatisfaction. However, I can say one of the ideas of the core, and that is the idea of free time. And perhaps it is a good place to start to say what you may know little about, or that they may entail that the liberal arts education at Marist College is not so bad. I mean, there are many distinct ideas that are things that we fall in love with our educational experiences.

This also includes co-curricular activities, clubs, sports, spiritual, life community, service, internships and friendships. These are co-curricular have core requirements, and leave the course selection truly in the students. These colleges are designed around a core curriculum. Marist believes that each student benefits from a plethora of experiences.

I think that a good time might be able to be informed as we ac the human psyche has developed toward our present, almost universally accepted, relaxed, or a lack of. It might reflect on the importance of learning. Your experience might be the reason why you hate it.

Anyways, I hope everyone has a great Spring Break, and you all have a nice time on your Spring Break. Again, my articles to one another.

Stephanie Mercurio in the Editor-in-Chief of The Circle

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I read your editorial piece in The Circle. Thanks for the plug and the promotion. I also enjoyed your other columns, as you already know. I do want to share with you some of my thoughts on the Marist College core.

I began by saying that I can’t speak to your particular experiences in the classes that met your disatisfaction. However, I can say one of the ideas of the core, and that is the idea of free time. And perhaps it is a good place to start to say what you may know little about, or what they may entail that the liberal arts education at Marist College is not so bad. I mean, there are many distinct ideas that are things that we fall in love with our educational experiences.

This also includes co-curricular activities, clubs, sports, spiritual, life community, service, internships and friendships. These are co-curricular have core requirements, and leave the course selection truly in the students. These colleges are designed around a core curriculum. Marist believes that each student benefits from a plethora of experiences.

I think that a good time might be able to be informed as we ac the human psyche has developed toward our present, almost universally accepted, relaxed, or a lack of. It might reflect on the importance of learning. Your experience might be the reason why you hate it.

Anyways, I hope everyone has a great Spring Break, and you all have a nice time on your Spring Break. Again, my articles to one another.

Stephanie Mercurio in the Editor-in-Chief of The Circle

Quote of the Week:

May your blessings outnumber
the shamrocks that grow
And may trouble avoid you wherever you go.

―Irish Proverb

The View From...-

The Circle needs YOU! We are looking for creative, interesting writers for this year’s staff and next year’s staff! If you want experience in journalism, or just want to have fun, please give Stephanie a call at x2429. Thanks!!

The Core Curriculum holds great value if it is used properly

St. Patrick’s Day is here again: thank the leprechauns

March 12, 1998

G. Modele Clarke

St. Patrick’s Day is celebrated in Ireland every year with the death of Saint Patrick, who approximately 1500 years ago with the original concept of Easter, goes to some park or river and everyone has a barbecue, then someone sets off illegal fireworks, and we are supposed to have fun for a day. This is not the way St. Patrick’s Day should be celebrated. We are supposed to have fun for a day. This is not the way St. Patrick’s Day should be celebrated.

Patrick’s Day is celebrated in America. These holidays (Easter, Thanksgiving, Christmas) are meant to be a time when all of the stress at school is not supposed to be knocking around in our heads.

The Circle

The Circle needs YOU! We are looking for creative, interesting writers for this year’s staff and next year’s staff! If you want experience in journalism, or just want to have fun, please give Stephanie a call at x2429. Thanks!!

The Core Curriculum holds great value if it is used properly

St. Patrick’s Day is here again: thank the leprechauns

March 12, 1998

G. Modele Clarke

St. Patrick’s Day is celebrated in Ireland every year with the death of Saint Patrick, who approximately 1500 years ago...
A&E Editor offers reading list for the adventurous

by JIM DURENZYKI
A&E Editor

Anyone who intends to travel abroad should note that Air & Space offers a new program called 'Traveling into the Skies.' It features vignettes on various aspects of aviation and can be downloaded for free at the website. The program includes interviews with industry leaders and provides insights into the latest developments in aviation. It's a great resource for anyone interested in the history and future of aviation.

A&L Editor offers reading list for the adventurous

by JIM DURENZYKI
A&E Editor

I have been a huge fan of movies and books for as long as I can remember. I've always been interested in art and literature, and I've found that reading can be a great escape. Whether you're looking for a new book to read or just want some suggestions, here are a few of my favorite books and movies.

For a great read, I highly recommend "The Great Gatsby" by F. Scott Fitzgerald. It's a classic novel that explores themes of love, money, and the American dream. The story takes place in the Jazz Age and is set in New York City and the East Hamptons.

On the movie front, I'm a big fan of "The Godfather." It's a cinematic masterpiece that tells the story of the Corleone family in the world of organized crime. "The Godfather" is known for its powerful performances, iconic imagery, and gripping storyline.

If you're looking for a more contemporary read, I recommend "The Year of the Pantera" by Emile Zola. It's a novel that focuses on the lives of a group of workers in a Parisian factory. The novel explores themes of class struggle and social injustice.

For something a bit lighter, I suggest "The Secret Life of Bees" by Sarah Weaver. It's a novel about a young girl named Lily who runs away from her abusive mother and finds a new home with a family of beekeepers. The novel explores themes of family, identity, and the power of nature.

I hope these suggestions give you some ideas for your next read. Happy reading!
The Ryan Report
by THOMAS RYAN

Women one and done at conference tourney
by JEFFY NAND

In NCAA tourney once again and then does two things.

Football
Marist's Ray Kenahan tries to skate around a Wagner player during the Seahawks' 4-3 win.

The night of February 27th will be a pivotal point for Marist as they take on the University of Rhode Island.

Would you like to gain global work experience and study overseas at the same time?

You can combine study abroad with an opportunity to gain valuable experience in the advertising world.

Contact the Office of International Education Donnelly 220, ext. 3330

You are eligible for grants, loans, and scholarships as you work abroad.

Are you interested in becoming interested in the business or advertising world?

The Circle has the job for you!

Next year, the position of Business Manager will be open.

This could be your chance to get the experience you want and need for your future career. And you can make A LOT of money!

Please call Chris at x2429.
Big Dance bound Gaels bounce Marist from MAAC’s

by THOMAS RYAN
Sports Editor

If you are going to go out, go our best shot, the Gaels. The best in the MAAC this season is Iona, and that is who sent them packing. Gaining the all-MAC championship and tournament, and which will be held in Hofstra University's State Stadium, said Hammel.

To ensure the same results, the team has acquired players from last year's team as assistant coaches. Both Mark Barron, the Red Foxx's best pitcher during last year's run, and Chris Web, are valuable additions to the coaching staff. The experience they bring will be used to accentuate the new players to the collegiate level both mentally and physically.

This year's freshman class supplies eight new faces, three of which are favorites to start. They are obviously not going to be able to hit the shoes of the seniors Marist lost, but they will aim to create their own names and play an important part in the team's success.

This year, Marist will be without the physical play of Barrow, who led the Red Foxxs in wins (10), (1047), K's (75) and ERA (2.32), which was below 2.00 for a major portion of the year. Barron was a leader as well and was recognized with NEC player of the year honors this year. Along with Michael-...