Happy Easter! Happy Passover! Have a great short break!

First Diversity Day established

by CHRIS GROGAN
Staff Writer

Great weather, delicious food and exciting entertainment all describe this year's "Diversity Day".

Lured by the warmest temperatures of the year, many Marist students poured out of the dorms and filled the campus green to experience the events of Diversity Day.

There were tables of food from different cultures to sample, along with the entertainment of cultural dancers on stage. The "Passport Adventure" gave students a stamp in their passport for each table visited. If all required stamps were achieved, there was a possibility of receiving a t-shirt.

"Passport Adventure" was organized by the Student Government Association and Student Program Council. These organizations were the main event of the day, while other clubs participated in the day's activities.

The idea for this event was that of former student body president Frank Maduri during his re-election campaign last year. "When I was campaigning for my election last year, I had the opportunity to speak with students in the freshmen areas, and many felt that there was a need to highlight the diversity of students, and to promote harmony and school spirit," he said.

Latonya Francis and Julie Gadorowski, co-chairpersons for Diversity Day, worked closely with Maduri and the club's president to produce an event that would entertain and educate students about the variety of different cultures and views shared by individuals on campus.

Diversity Day was part of a larger national goal being pursued by the federal government. President Clinton has been pushing a national project for diversity adoption to incorporate the ideas of cultural diversity and acceptance into institutions such as colleges.

"Diversity Day was Marist's contribution to the larger national picture," he said.

The SGA is formulating a proposal to highlight the diversity of students, and to promote harmony and school spirit.

Colleen McCulloch, student body president, said she was proud Diversity Day was well received by Marist students.

"Keep On America Real". According to Maduri, the whole point of the initiative is to incorporate the ideas of cultural diversity and acceptance into institutions such as colleges.

"Diversity Day was Marist's contribution to the larger national picture," he said.

The SGA is formulating a proposal to highlight the diversity of students, and to promote harmony and school spirit.

Colleen McCulloch, student body president, said she was proud Diversity Day was well received by Marist students.

"I along with everyone else who worked on this project were very pleased that the day worked out so well," she said.

Maduri said he felt there was a good turnout.

"It was absolutely outstanding, everyone involved was extremely pleased," he said.

McCallouche said she is already planning for next year's Diversity Day because of the positive student feedback. We have already budgeted for the same event for next year. I hope that it will become an annual celebration at Marist," she said.

Maduri said he is hopeful that this event will be followed up on each year because of its immediate success.

"We should all be able to transcend diversity, because really the nationwide goal of the day is to have a diversity day every day," he said.

Gadorowski said she was extremely pleased at the number of people in attendance. They said they felt there were at least 1,000 people in attendance for the day.

"Diversity Day was well received by students here," she said.

"It was just phenomenal the amount of support that this campus showed."

New Townhouses may be a health hazard

by TARA QUINN
Staff Writer

Living at Marist may be hazardous to students' health.

The Mid-Hudson Business Park/Former Western Publishing Co. site was declared a hazardous waste site by the Department of Environmental Protection. G. Anders Carlson, and remains a potential hazard to the Marist College community.

The hazardous waste site, owned by the Arthur H. Bienenstock since 1985, is located directly across the street from the North End of Marist College. In 1993, Bienenstock requested the Chazen Companies to conduct an environmental site assessment.

"I concur with the proposal to list this site with the Registry of Inactive Hazardous Waste Disposal Sites," he wrote in a letter to Earl Barcumb, Director of the New York State Bureau of Environmental Protection, G. Anders Carlson, and remains a potential hazard to the Marist College community.

The hazardous waste site, owned by the Arthur H. Bienenstock since 1985, is located directly across the street from the North End of Marist College. In 1993, Bienenstock requested the Chazen Companies to conduct an environmental site assessment.

"I concur with the proposal to list this site with the Registry of Inactive Hazardous Waste Disposal Sites," he wrote in a letter to Earl Barcumb, Director of the New York State Bureau of Environmental Protection, G. Anders Carlson, and remains a potential hazard to the Marist College community.

"I concur with the proposal to list this site with the Registry of Inactive Hazardous Waste Disposal Sites," he wrote in a letter to Earl Barcumb, Director of the New York State Bureau of Environmental Protection, G. Anders Carlson, and remains a potential hazard to the Marist College community.
What's Cool on Campus

Today:
- No Class/Day Camp, Classes Resume with Evening Classes
- Men's Tennis at Manhattan
- Women's Lacrosse at Siena
- Iona Women's Basketball vs. Marist
- Women's Tennis vs. Fordham
- Women's Swimming vs. Fordham

Tomorrow:
- No Class/Day Camp, Classes Resume with Evening Classes
- Women's Tennis vs. Fordham
- Women's Lacrosse at Siena
- Women's Swimming vs. Fordham

What do you think should be done about the Jonesboro incident?

- "I think it was a fraud incident. Maybe they were following what they saw in the movies, so they should be removed now." - Trevor Young, Sophomore
- "There is no need to do anything because the student would not ultimately really be in love with bikes. This is just a way to make money for himself." - Don Tymkieniuk, Sophomore
- "I think they should be tried as an adult, as well as the family and children, for therapy." - Jessica deCloss, Sophomore

SECURITY BRIEFS

- Good Friday
  - Hall close at 2:30 p.m.
  - Residence Halls reopen at 10:00 a.m.

- Easter Observance
  - No Day Classes Held; Classes resume Monday

- Day-Men's Lacrosse at Siena
- Day-Men's Tennis at Manhattan
- Day-Baseball vs. Hartford
- Day-Criminal Justice Career Day
- Day-Men's Tennis vs. Fordham
- Day-Criminal Justice Society

Wednesday:
- Criminal Justice Society Career Day
- Day-Minority Affairs Breakfast
- Day-Sports Medicine
- Day-Eastern Basketball at Donnelly Hall
- Day-Film Club at Donnelly Hall
- Day-Jewish Student Union at Donnelly Hall
- Day-Swimming vs. Fordham

Thursday:
- “How’s the weather?”
  - Thursday: Cool, Light Rain, 50’s
  - Friday: Cool, Overcast, Rain, 50’s
  - Saturday: Cool, Cloudy, Rain

“Thank you for coming and clicking...”

Greek and Latin Week celebrated at Marist this month

- by Michael Goot

Greek organization on campus hosted weekend activities well into Sunday and a good came last week.

The eighth annual Greek Week was held April 3-14.

Kitty Quinn, head of Greek Week, said the fraternities and sororities decided to do things differently this year.

"We have fewer fraternities on campus and some organizations, as well as the other organizations, of the fraternity and sorority life have the various organizations that also work together." Quinn said if "all of that was in place," she would be more pleased with the event.

Quinn also said the main purpose of the week is to promote Greek Life on campus.

The rest of the month will also feature more Greek related events.

Greek Week ends Friday with a banquet. Among the activities planned for this month were Greek Week at the Joseph A. Rinaldi Student Center on April 15 and a cultural night at the Marist Center on April 20. The Greek Week activities are co-sponsored by the Associated Student Government.

For the Children's Theater, the Marist community

"We're all excited about it. We've been working on it for a while. We've had many people involved." - Sarah Assalti, Sophomore

The program was double cast because of the number of parts.

The show is double cast because of the number of parts. The show is double cast because of the number of parts.

Many Marist students said they would love it if everyone who came, would read.

The first time Marist hosted the event two years ago, a journalist from the Daily Press that was not interested in the event. This year's event is a page from article to article, as students and faculty members were students and faculty members were at the event.

Bob McFadden said he was surprised at the emotions. He wrote a front-page article as he said, "I'm really surprised that we're in the kids' shoes.

"It is rewarding to see the kids learn about the children. It is rewarding to see the kids learn about the children.

Most students said they would love it if everyone who came, would read.

The first time Marist hosted the event two years ago, a journalist from the Daily Press that was not interested in the event. This year's event is a page from article to article, as students and faculty members were students and faculty members were at the event.

Bob McFadden said he was surprised at the emotions. He wrote a front-page article as he said, "I'm really surprised that we're in the kids' shoes.

"It is rewarding to see the kids learn about the children. It is rewarding to see the kids learn about the children.

Most students said they would love it if everyone who came, would read.
Student learns and enjoys the ways of Oxford, England

BILL MERRITT
Special to The Circle

Oxford. The students who will graduate from the University of Oxford in the United States are known for their numbers. Some even suggest that they are more famous for their numbers than for their academic achievements. But Oxford students are not just numbers; they are also a part of the educational landscape of England.

Oxford is one of the oldest universities in the world, and its history is filled with famous figures. It has produced many Nobel laureates, including scientists, authors, and politicians. The university is also known for its beautiful architecture and its role in British history. Oxford is a city that is home to the University of Oxford, one of the oldest and most prestigious universities in the world. The city of Oxford is divided into two parts: the town, which is the historical center of the city, and the campus, which is the home of the university.

There are many things to see and do in Oxford. The city is known for its beautiful architecture, including the iconic Bodleian Library, one of the oldest and largest libraries in the world. Visitors can also explore the University of Oxford, which has a rich history and is home to many famous buildings and landmarks. The city is also home to many museums, including the Ashmolean Museum, which houses a collection of art and artifacts from around the world.

In addition to the academic and cultural attractions, Oxford also offers a vibrant social scene. The city is home to many bars, restaurants, and clubs, where students and visitors can relax and enjoy the atmosphere.

Oxford is a place where one can experience student life, learn about the culture, and enjoy the beautiful scenery. It is a city that is rich in history, culture, and beauty, and it offers something for everyone. Whether one is interested in the academic side of things or is more interested in the social side, Oxford has something to offer. So why not visit Oxford and see for yourself what all the fuss is about?
A connection between school and life, who would have thought?

Term, stress, school can be so fun. Being a senior and taking three of my major electives has been a thrilling course so far. I have practically forgotten about my two electives. I do not experience the same sort of excitement as a first grader do not experience the same sort of excitement. This fact made me appreciate what I have, and help me see the world through someone else’s eyes, if only for a few brief minutes. For example, when I was in high school, I absolutely loved going to coffee houses, and I would walk across campus to the Student Center to see whatever event was going on. When I write these words, I think about how they really are true that there have been lots of events that I have not been to because they were not too far of a walk. I am not sure if anyone in college would do the same thing.

For example, when I was in school, I absolutely loved going to coffee houses, and I would walk across campus to see whatever event was going on. When I write these words, I think about how they really are true.

The events for most parts can be so fine, they can be pretty fun, and you actually can do something. For example, when I was in high school, I absolutely loved going to coffee houses, and I would walk across campus to see whatever event was going on. When I write these words, I think about how they really are true.

The staff of Special Services would like to thank the friends of the Red Knights baseball team for their support of the Ramada Inn event.

The View from Sue...

The Big News Roundup: Who you wanted...

If you have a story that you would like to share on The Circle, please email The Circle at hagar@marist.edu.

The Newsmaker

Letter to the Editor

Editor urges students to take part in Marist life

It is my belief that everyone should be a part of the Marist life. I realize that some of the college’s policies are not exactly what I would like to see, but to me, this is still the best chance to be a part of a residential life staff after graduation, probably never.

I have known that I would have the opportunity to pursue my major. This fact was the one that made me appreciate what I have, and help me see the world through someone else’s eyes, if only for a few brief minutes. For example, when I was in high school, I absolutely loved going to coffee houses, and I would walk across campus to see whatever event was going on. When I write these words, I think about how they really are true.

The events for most parts can be so fine, they can be pretty fun, and you actually can do something. For example, when I was in high school, I absolutely loved going to coffee houses, and I would walk across campus to see whatever event was going on. When I write these words, I think about how they really are true.

The staff of Special Services would like to thank the friends of the Red Knights baseball team for their support of the Ramada Inn event.

No, this is the season for putting your boots on, but before we do that, let’s go over the All-time record for most words in sports. The Circle is confident that they have a plan for the rest of the year. If you love sports, please check out the Circle Online.

Sue Jaffe

If you have a story that you would like to share on The Circle, please email the Circle at hagar@marist.edu.

The Newsmaker

Letter to the Editor

Editor urges students to take part in Marist life

It is my belief that everyone should be a part of the Marist life. I realize that some of the college’s policies are not exactly what I would like to see, but to me, this is still the best chance to be a part of a residential life staff after graduation, probably never.

I have known that I would have the opportunity to pursue my major. This fact was the one that made me appreciate what I have, and help me see the world through someone else’s eyes, if only for a few brief minutes. For example, when I was in high school, I absolutely loved going to coffee houses, and I would walk across campus to see whatever event was going on. When I write these words, I think about how they really are true.

The events for most parts can be so fine, they can be pretty fun, and you actually can do something. For example, when I was in high school, I absolutely loved going to coffee houses, and I would walk across campus to see whatever event was going on. When I write these words, I think about how they really are true.

The staff of Special Services would like to thank the friends of the Red Knights baseball team for their support of the Ramada Inn event.

No, this is the season for putting your boots on, but before we do that, let’s go over the All-time record for most words in sports. The Circle is confident that they have a plan for the rest of the year. If you love sports, please check out the Circle Online.

Sue Jaffe

If you have a story that you would like to share on The Circle, please email the Circle at hagar@marist.edu.

The Newsmaker

Letter to the Editor

Editor urges students to take part in Marist life

It is my belief that everyone should be a part of the Marist life. I realize that some of the college’s policies are not exactly what I would like to see, but to me, this is still the best chance to be a part of a residential life staff after graduation, probably never.

I have known that I would have the opportunity to pursue my major. This fact was the one that made me appreciate what I have, and help me see the world through someone else’s eyes, if only for a few brief minutes. For example, when I was in high school, I absolutely loved going to coffee houses, and I would walk across campus to see whatever event was going on. When I write these words, I think about how they really are true.

The events for most parts can be so fine, they can be pretty fun, and you actually can do something. For example, when I was in high school, I absolutely loved going to coffee houses, and I would walk across campus to see whatever event was going on. When I write these words, I think about how they really are true.

The staff of Special Services would like to thank the friends of the Red Knights baseball team for their support of the Ramada Inn event.

No, this is the season for putting your boots on, but before we do that, let’s go over the All-time record for most words in sports. The Circle is confident that they have a plan for the rest of the year. If you love sports, please check out the Circle Online.

Sue Jaffe

If you have a story that you would like to share on The Circle, please email the Circle at hagar@marist.edu.

The Newsmaker

Letter to the Editor

Editor urges students to take part in Marist life

It is my belief that everyone should be a part of the Marist life. I realize that some of the college’s policies are not exactly what I would like to see, but to me, this is still the best chance to be a part of a residential life staff after graduation, probably never.

I have known that I would have the opportunity to pursue my major. This fact was the one that made me appreciate what I have, and help me see the world through someone else’s eyes, if only for a few brief minutes. For example, when I was in high school, I absolutely loved going to coffee houses, and I would walk across campus to see whatever event was going on. When I write these words, I think about how they really are true.

The events for most parts can be so fine, they can be pretty fun, and you actually can do something. For example, when I was in high school, I absolutely loved going to coffee houses, and I would walk across campus to see whatever event was going on. When I write these words, I think about how they really are true.

The staff of Special Services would like to thank the friends of the Red Knights baseball team for their support of the Ramada Inn event.

No, this is the season for putting your boots on, but before we do that, let’s go over the All-time record for most words in sports. The Circle is confident that they have a plan for the rest of the year. If you love sports, please check out the Circle Online.

Sue Jaffe

If you have a story that you would like to share on The Circle, please email the Circle at hagar@marist.edu.

The Newsmaker

Letter to the Editor

Editor urges students to take part in Marist life

It is my belief that everyone should be a part of the Marist life. I realize that some of the college’s policies are not exactly what I would like to see, but to me, this is still the best chance to be a part of a residential life staff after graduation, probably never.

I have known that I would have the opportunity to pursue my major. This fact was the one that made me appreciate what I have, and help me see the world through someone else’s eyes, if only for a few brief minutes. For example, when I was in high school, I absolutely loved going to coffee houses, and I would walk across campus to see whatever event was going on. When I write these words, I think about how they really are true.
Carlitos reports from the spring break vahalla of Cancun

by CARLITO At Waterfront
As I write this report for the Arts and Entertainment section, I am currently enjoying the most beautiful beaches and sites of something that we cannot name. For, the beach was not exactly what I expected, but a sight which was simply amazing. The weather was also perfect, with clear skies and warm sun. The beach was so beautiful that it was difficult to believe that you could be enjoying such a place.

However, the real beauty of this place is that it is a place where we can truly relax and enjoy the company of others. The crystal-clear waters of the ocean are a perfect place to cool off after a long day of sightseeing. The sand is soft and warm, making it a great place to sunbathe or simply walk around.

In addition, there is plenty to do in this area. There are many activities available, including snorkeling, scuba diving, and even simply watching the sunset. There is also a great selection of restaurants and bars, making it easy to find a place to eat or have a drink.

Overall, this place is incredible, and I highly recommend it to anyone looking for a wonderful vacation. It was truly a once-in-a-lifetime experience that I will never forget.

SAGA News

Bookstore works to lower prices

To improve student attendance over the high prices, the Marist Bookstore has introduced three new programs to work with the bookstore to improve student attendance. The first program is the “silly sale,” which offers discounts on many products in the store, including textbooks. The second program is the “quick sale,” which offers discounts on books and other items that are currently available in the bookstore. The third program is the “deal of the Season,” which offers discounts on selected products for the rest of the semester.

In addition, the bookstore has introduced a new program to work with the bookstore to improve student attendance. The program is called the “Deal Program,” which offers lower prices on clothing, baseball hats, school supplies, and other items. The “Deal Program” will begin in the fall, and the “Deal of the Season” sale will not only offer price reductions on selected products but also offer other benefits, such as the ability to successfully woo a girl.

The bookstore has also introduced a new program to work with the bookstore to improve student attendance. The program is called the “deal Program,” which offers lower prices on clothing, baseball hats, school supplies, and other items. The “Deal Program” will begin in the fall, and the “Deal of the Season” sale will not only offer price reductions on selected products but also offer other benefits, such as the ability to successfully woo a girl.

The bookstore has also introduced a new program to work with the bookstore to improve student attendance. The program is called the “deal Program,” which offers lower prices on clothing, baseball hats, school supplies, and other items. The “Deal Program” will begin in the fall, and the “Deal of the Season” sale will not only offer price reductions on selected products but also offer other benefits, such as the ability to successfully woo a girl.
The Ryan Report

by THOMAS RYAN

As impressive as the Marist baseball and softball teams have been in their inaugural seasons in the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference, that is now supplemented by the men's and women's lacrosse teams. With the new sports, the Marist athletic program is well underway.

The men's team stood at 1-9 overall, and 1-2 in the MAAC heading into Tuesday's game against the Rutgers Scarlet Knights. The Red Foxes currently sit sixth out of eight in the MAAC, thanks in part to personal cornerstones Capugno and Hochstein, who are a combined 6-0 in the MAAC.

One of the high points for Marist has been senior Stu MacMillan, who has posted 21 goals in just six games. His 3.5 goals per game average propels him third in the nation and first in the MAAC, almost a full goal per game ahead of Stephen Root of Fairfield who is in second. Coach Pascarello is enjoying a fine season to date, as he is third in the nation and second in the MAAC, but in a season that cannot be compared. Marist's big problem thus far would be the man.

There are only two things standing in the way of MacMillan and the Marist lacrosse team... and there is no bigger statistic in the MAAC. Halfway through the season, and not even the leader Allison Occhicone.

Curt Schilling will have to have a monster year to stop MacMillan. He is a class by himself in the American League, and will put together a truly amazing season.

There are a number of reasons why MacMillan has been so productive in the MAAC, but also enjoying a fine senior season, as he is third in the nation and second in the MAAC, but in a season that cannot be compared. Marist's big problem thus far would be the man.

There are only two things standing in the way of MacMillan and the Marist lacrosse team... and there is no bigger statistic in the MAAC. Halfway through the season, and not even the leader Allison Occhicone.

Curt Schilling will have to have a monster year to stop MacMillan. He is a class by himself in the American League, and will put together a truly amazing season.

There are a number of reasons why MacMillan has been so productive in the MAAC, but also enjoying a fine senior season, as he is third in the nation and second in the MAAC, but in a season that cannot be compared. Marist's big problem thus far would be the man.

There are only two things standing in the way of MacMillan and the Marist lacrosse team... and there is no bigger statistic in the MAAC. Halfway through the season, and not even the leader Allison Occhicone.

Curt Schilling will have to have a monster year to stop MacMillan. He is a class by himself in the American League, and will put together a truly amazing season.

There are a number of reasons why MacMillan has been so productive in the MAAC, but also enjoying a fine senior season, as he is third in the nation and second in the MAAC, but in a season that cannot be compared. Marist's big problem thus far would be the man.

There are only two things standing in the way of MacMillan and the Marist lacrosse team... and there is no bigger statistic in the MAAC. Halfway through the season, and not even the leader Allison Occhicone.

Curt Schilling will have to have a monster year to stop MacMillan. He is a class by himself in the American League, and will put together a truly amazing season.

There are a number of reasons why MacMillan has been so productive in the MAAC, but also enjoying a fine senior season, as he is third in the nation and second in the MAAC, but in a season that cannot be compared. Marist's big problem thus far would be the man.
New Conference not a big problem for Marist baseball

by RYAN MARAZITI
Staff Writer

How does 6-1 in their first year in the MAAC sound? Not too bad, huh? Actually, the baseball team is very impressive, and the early season record is not as much of a surprise as the performance of the first year players.

Coach Szefc was especially impressed with their level of play so far this season.

"You guys are growing up a lot faster than we expected," said Szefc during a post game huddle.

Being that three freshmen, Kevin Wissner, Lomas and Brady, start for the Red Foxes, along with a solid number four starter in Corey Borowitz, the young squad has reached playing at a higher level faster than expected. This is not to count out the veteran players who have contributed just as much.

In fact it has been a strong blend of play from both the vets and the rookies that has produced the favorable 12-1 record as much of a surprise as the perennial foes having problems trying to "hit the Kasack".

In fact it has been a strong blend of the--. "•.•• r, :•

The team's defensive outings have been stingy. McGowan's defensive expertise the stage was open and the team back on defense. Without McGowan's defensive expertise the stage was open and senior Fred Martinez stepped up. His stellar play, both defensively and offensively, has been a pleasant surprise to all.

The team's defensive outings have been stingy. McGowan's defensive expertise the stage was open and senior Fred Martinez stepped up. His stellar play, both defensively and offensively, has been a pleasant surprise to all.

The team's defensive outings have been stingy. McGowan's defensive expertise the stage was open and senior Fred Martinez stepped up. His stellar play, both defensively and offensively, has been a pleasant surprise to all.

The team's defensive outings have been stingy. McGowan's defensive expertise the stage was open and senior Fred Martinez stepped up. His stellar play, both defensively and offensively, has been a pleasant surprise to all.

No word on whether lona paid a barrage of Red Fox offense.

Of course every team is gunning to knock off the top dog. With this in mind, the Red Foxes have six more games to scan to elevate their play and learn to rely less on the other team's mistakes. The recent offensive explosion may not indicate the troubles they encounter at times trying to please see BASEBALL, page 11...