Classroom climate causes controversy

by NIK BONOPARTIS  Staff Writer

The temperature inside the classrooms is beginning to seem more controversial than the temperature outside. As winter sets in and the outside temperature begins to drop, students are looking forward to cozy classrooms with comfortable climates. It has become apparent that what is considered comfortable may be subjective, at least as far as Marist students go.

When asked what the ideal temperature in an average classroom is, Richard Fitzgibbons of Mechanical Services pointed out that while everyone had their different preferences, the average fell at approximately 72 degrees Fahrenheit.

"It depends on the comfort zone," he said. "People like different temperatures, and we adjust them accordingly."

Fitzgibbons said depending on whether the classrooms in each building were facing east or west, temperatures would need to be tweaked.

He also noted that the majority of complaints about temperature were divided along gender lines, with the majority of male complaints saying the classrooms were too hot, while the women of Marist considered the classrooms to be virtual iceboxes.

Fitzgibbons’s claim did not go unproved, as evidenced by the opinions of the students here.

Sophomore Josh Sprague said he feels the heat is pumped up too high.

"It's ridiculous, it's always hot," he said. "And those Student Center classrooms—it's like 90 degrees up in that piece."

Sophomore Kevin Korhgut said some other buildings on campus feel the same way.

"Dyson's pretty toasty too," he said.

Many students questioned said the classrooms were cold.

"It's ridiculous, it's always hot," he said. "And those Student Center classrooms—it's like 90 degrees up in that piece."

Sophomore Kevin Kengut said some other buildings on campus feel the same way.

"Dyson's pretty toasty too," he said. Most of the female population at Marist who were questioned had an entirely different outlook.

Junior Dawn Spencer said she thought it was chilly in the academic buildings.

"I think it's way too cold in most classrooms," she said. Junior Julie Burton agreed with Spencer, noting that sometimes it feels as though the heat is not operating at all.

"I was freezing, just shivering all through my eight o'clock class," she said. "My teacher had to actually call maintenance and get them to turn the heat up."

Students want Adrian to live on

by CHRISTY BARR  Staff Writer

The next phase in construction on the Marist campus will include the demolishing of Adrian Hall, but some students feel the building should remain and be used for club space. Built in 1957, Adrian Hall was originally a lecture hall and commuter student lounge. Presently, Adrian houses the depart ...

Many students questioned said the classrooms were cold.

"It's ridiculous, it's always hot," he said. "And those Student Center classrooms—it's like 90 degrees up in that piece."

Sophomore Kevin Kengut said some other buildings on campus feel the same way.

"Dyson's pretty toasty too," he said. Most of the female population at Marist who were questioned had an entirely different outlook.

Junior Dawn Spencer said she thought it was chilly in the academic buildings.

"I think it's way too cold in most classrooms," she said. Junior Julie Burton agreed with Spencer, noting that sometimes it feels as though the heat is not operating at all.

"I was freezing, just shivering all through my eight o'clock class," she said. "My teacher had to actually call maintenance and get them to turn the heat up."

Students want Adrian to live on

by CHRISTY BARR  Staff Writer

The next phase in construction on the Marist campus will include the demolishing of Adrian Hall, but some students feel the building should remain and be used for club space. Built in 1957, Adrian Hall was originally a lecture hall and commuter student lounge. Presently, Adrian houses the depart ...
by JENNI FERRIS
Staff Writer

A Hudson-based manufacturer of T-shirts and caps, Millman's T-Shirt Factory, orga­nized a promotion for students on Monday.

"The promotion is a great opportunity for students," said Lisa White, marketing coordinator at Millman's. "It's especially great for students looking for some extra cash."

Millman's T-Shirt Factory was founded 24 years ago. According to White, "Millman's has been a staple in the Marist Student Body for many years."

On Monday's promotion, students were able to purchase a T-shirt for $3 if they brought in one old T-shirt. The $3 purchase price is the cost to Millman's to make the T-shirt, White said.

"Millman's has always been a great place to buy T-shirts," said Ainsleigh Daniels, a sophomore criminal justice major. "I've bought T-shirts from there before and they've always been reasonable."

Students who participated in Monday's promotion were able to tuck the old T-shirt into the pocket of their new Millman's T-shirt.

"I thought it was a really creative idea," said Crystal Dever, a junior English major. "It's a great deal, and I had a lot of fun participating in the promotion."

The T-shirts come in a variety of colors and styles.

"The T-shirts are great," said White. "They feature some of the best designs out there."

On Monday at 11 a.m., Millman's T-Shirt Factory also announced the winner of its raffle. The winner received a $20 gift certificate to Millman's.

"We decided to do a raffle and give away a gift certificate," said White. "It's a way to give back to the Marist community."

In addition to T-shirts and gift certificates, Millman's also offers many other products used by the Marist student body, such as caps, baseball caps, sweatshirts and hoodies.

"Millman's is one of the places that Marist students love," said White. "It's a very friendly place to work and we take pride in the work we do."
Editor's Farewell

After a year of late nights, tracking down writers, and marathon meetings, this is my last semester as Features Editor. The next issue will be done by Lisa Burke who will be my replacement. I just wanted to say that I have had a great experience working on The Circle despite all the times it has stressed me out. I'd also like to say a few thanks to the rest of the staff. To Mike, for always sitting next to me at layout. To Jeremy, for playing bumper chairs. To Nik, for always makings up stories that I still believe to this day. To Doug and Jill for putting together one of the only pages that our readers seem to look at. To Chris for taking all the writers (just kidding). To Jeff, for putting together the section that I know nothing about (sports). To Mary and Colleen, for scanning the ads that take up the entire space we sometimes end up with. And finally, to Patrick, for putting together all the pieces in the end and always putting up with my whining about getting out early. Good luck everyone, it's been fun!

---

Horoscopes

ARIES: This may be a good time to pitch your book, so why not try. You're a real author, but you're also a real person. The first five months of this year were hard, but now it's time to pick yourself up and get back on track. You're ready to move on and make your mark. You've been working hard for a long time, and now it's time to start seeing the fruits of your labor. You're ready to take the next step and make things happen. You have a lot of potential and you're ready to show the world what you're capable of. You're a natural leader and you have a lot to offer. You're ready to take on new challenges and you're excited about the possibilities that lie ahead. You're ready to make your mark and you're ready to be your best self.

TAURUS: Today is a good day to make your moves and email. Anything you can do to keep the lines of communication open will be beneficial. You're ready to take control and make things happen. You're a natural leader and you have a lot to offer. You're ready to take on new challenges and you're excited about the possibilities that lie ahead. You're ready to make your mark and you're ready to be your best self.

GEMINI: Two minds are better than one, always. Always take the other person's feelings into consideration, especially if the situation involves a long-term relationship. Try to stay cool and be respectful of each other's needs. Today is a good day to make your moves and email. Anything you can do to keep the lines of communication open will be beneficial. You're ready to take control and make things happen. You're a natural leader and you have a lot to offer. You're ready to take on new challenges and you're excited about the possibilities that lie ahead. You're ready to make your mark and you're ready to be your best self.

CANCER: Aries might be too pushy for you. You're a natural leader and you have a lot to offer. You're ready to take on new challenges and you're excited about the possibilities that lie ahead. You're ready to make your mark and you're ready to be your best self.

LEO: You might be too pushy for you. You're a natural leader and you have a lot to offer. You're ready to take on new challenges and you're excited about the possibilities that lie ahead. You're ready to make your mark and you're ready to be your best self.

VIRGO: Today is a good day to make your moves and email. Anything you can do to keep the lines of communication open will be beneficial. You're ready to take control and make things happen. You're a natural leader and you have a lot to offer. You're ready to take on new challenges and you're excited about the possibilities that lie ahead. You're ready to make your mark and you're ready to be your best self.

LIBRA: You need to say goodbye to all the things that are holding you back. It's time to move on and make your mark. You have a lot of potential and you're ready to show the world what you're capable of. You're ready to take on new challenges and you're excited about the possibilities that lie ahead. You're ready to make your mark and you're ready to be your best self.

SCORPIO: Today is a good day to make your moves and email. Anything you can do to keep the lines of communication open will be beneficial. You're ready to take control and make things happen. You're a natural leader and you have a lot to offer. You're ready to take on new challenges and you're excited about the possibilities that lie ahead. You're ready to make your mark and you're ready to be your best self.

SAGITTARIUS: Today is a good day to make your moves and email. Anything you can do to keep the lines of communication open will be beneficial. You're ready to take control and make things happen. You're a natural leader and you have a lot to offer. You're ready to take on new challenges and you're excited about the possibilities that lie ahead. You're ready to make your mark and you're ready to be your best self.

CAPRICORN: Today is a good day to make your moves and email. Anything you can do to keep the lines of communication open will be beneficial. You're ready to take control and make things happen. You're a natural leader and you have a lot to offer. You're ready to take on new challenges and you're excited about the possibilities that lie ahead. You're ready to make your mark and you're ready to be your best self.

AQUARIUS: Today is a good day to make your moves and email. Anything you can do to keep the lines of communication open will be beneficial. You're ready to take control and make things happen. You're a natural leader and you have a lot to offer. You're ready to take on new challenges and you're excited about the possibilities that lie ahead. You're ready to make your mark and you're ready to be your best self.

PISCES: Today is a good day to make your moves and email. Anything you can do to keep the lines of communication open will be beneficial. You're ready to take control and make things happen. You're a natural leader and you have a lot to offer. You're ready to take on new challenges and you're excited about the possibilities that lie ahead. You're ready to make your mark and you're ready to be your best self.
The Circle, questions Ages

This letter is in response to the letter of Mr. B. Agoes... I am an English major myself. I can understand why you might be upset... However, I believe that the Circle has a reasonable portion of blunders. I believe that its editors are working hard to improve the paper... The Circle has been interesting to read. One thing that I like about... The articles this year have been interesting to read. One thing that I like about... The Circle has been interesting to read. One thing that I like about... The articles this year have... I am appalled to read... The Circle has slipped that much compared to other years.

---

Student retorts “middle class angels”

As an American citizen I am disgusted with the article, “A middle class citizen’s angst,” by Benjamin B. Agoes. It is written in a tone that resembles the fabric of America. It is, in the way you get it. You should be ashamed of yourself if you are a Marist student. Why do you waste your money on such education? Marist has beautiful buildings and everything to examine and learn well. Have you compared it to other colleges in the same price range? Most of you are not from a wealthy family but have not had the opportunity to have a great (or why is that, maybe because his girlfriend was the...)

---

THE CIRCLE

 Op-Ed

November 19, 1999

PAGE 8

CONGRESS SHALL MAKE NO LAW...ABBRIDGING THE FREEDOM OF SPEECH OR OF THE PRESS...

THE CIRCLE

 Op-Ed

November 25, 1999

PAGE 9

The views expressed on these pages are not necessarily those of The Circle

Connecticut: the final frontier

What is a man, if his chief good and market of his time To be but to sleep and feed? A beast. No more. Sure he that made such with wide disasters.

---

Constructively criticizing construction

The Circle would like to publish letters from students and faculty concerning the construction of the new library and buildings. E-mail your letters to HZAL.

---

THE CIRCLE

Op-Ed

Winter 1999

THE CIRCLE

Op-Ed

Winter 1999
mcCain's mission

by DERRICKA JONES

Political Columnist

There are some things in life that money can't buy. There are things that only a genuine education and experience can bring into one's own fabric. John McCain knows a little about this. McCain knows about honor and respect, the American way.

John McCain is a candidate for the Republican nomination for the President of the United States. He is different from the normal politician's path. In 1967, he enlisted in the United States Navy, and became a Navy pilot. Many of his fellow pilots on the USS Forrestal were shot down, and became POWs and many of them never made it back. McCain himself was captured and became a POW in Vietnam. He was held for 5 years, and during that time he traveled to New York. Plus, he tried to escape back to New York. McCain has the respect and honor that needs to be restored to our American values.

McCain has the chance of winning other presidential tickets to the American tradition...

McCain's platform for the 2000 elections is made up of many political things that need to be restored to our American values. McCain's platform for the 2000 elections is made up of many political things that need to be restored to our American values.

The real McCain is just an outlet for intellectual output...

John McCain is a genuine American...

John McCain agrees that it is better to have a typical American way. He is thinking of writing his next book as an outlet for intellectual output.

The real McCain is just an outlet for intellectual output. He is thinking of writing his next book as an outlet for intellectual output.

John McCain is a true American...

The real McCain is just an outlet for intellectual output. He is thinking of writing his next book as an outlet for intellectual output.
Wrestling's newfound popularity

BY ED WILSON

Wrestling has undergone a remarkable transformation in the past several years. It went from a sport consisting of spectacle, violence, and vain buffoons to a national phenomenon. It has become a unique and exhilarating form of entertainment, successfully captivating an audience that has long been disenchanted with traditional television programming. In recent years, wrestling has experienced a remarkable surge in popularity, with as many as 33 million people tuning in each week. Wrestling, with its intense rivalries, compelling storylines, and explosive in-ring action, has become an integral part of American culture. It has transcended its traditional borders and has spread across the globe, captivating fans in every corner of the world.

Who Wants to Be a Millionaire?

ON TV WITH MIKE THOMPSON

It is thirty years old, yet it is in no danger of going out of style. The producers of the “Who Wants to Be a Millionaire?” have been able to maintain the show’s appeal by consistently updating its format and tailoring it to the changing tastes of the viewing audience. The show’s success is due in large part to its unique mix of entertainment and education, as well as its ability to keep viewers guessing and guessing until the very end. It is a show that has something for everyone, whether you’re looking for a chance to win big or simply want to be entertained. “Who Wants to Be a Millionaire?” is a show that has stood the test of time, and it is sure to continue captivating audiences for years to come.

The Bone Collector

At the movies: The Bone Collector

MORTAL KOMBAT: The Movie

The Mortal Kombat movie was released in 1995 and was based on the popular video game franchise. The film was directed by Robert Rodriguez and starredantagonist Scorpion. The movie was a success at the box office, earning over $200 million and spawning several sequels and spin-offs. The movie was controversial for its depiction of violence and gore, and it led to increased scrutiny of video games and their content. Mortal Kombat has since become a cultural phenomenon and has inspired a number of imitators and parodies.
Tennis court construction approved by board

by MIKE FERRARO

La Salle Angels 8, Dodgers 7

Last December they gave Ken Jackson a 1-year contract to go over six years. Last week they gave a 5-year contract to the Scottsdale Tornado Blue Jays for Shawn Green. It is not too late to tell him what he wants.

Upon completing the deal, Scottsdale Frontiers, with a 1.25 million dollar payroll, is the third best team in the MAAC. However, this deal allowed to move from the MAAC to the Pacific. The Pigeon River Angels have been making improvements to their own team.

Marist did have tennis courts on campus until the schools, but the school was not satisfied with the current facilities. The current facilities did not meet the needs of the tennis players. The new court will meet the needs of the tennis players and the school.

What’s on Tap?

Football: 11/16 Home vs. Fairfield 1:00 p.m.
11/20 Home vs. Iona 1:00 p.m.
11/24 Home vs. Morgan State 1:00 p.m.

Women’s basketball: 11/16 Home vs. Fairfield 7:00 p.m.
11/20 Home vs. Iona 7:00 p.m.
11/24 Home vs. Morgan State 7:00 p.m.

What do the players have to say about the new court?

They were, understandably, enthusiastic. “It’s great,” said one player. “It will give us a lot of new options.”

They were, understandably, enthusiastic. “It’s great,” said one player. “It will give us a lot of new options.”

The new court will be a great benefit to the team and the school. It is a significant investment that the school is willing to make. The court will be used for both practices and games. It will be available to both the men’s and women’s teams. It will also be available to the community.

The court will be used for practices and games, which currently take place in the receiving court facility. The current facility is a multi-purpose facility that is used for both practices and games. The new court will be a dedicated facility for tennis.

President Murray said that the project is a priority for the university. The project will be completed in the fall of 2000. The tennis team will be able to use the new court in time for the fall season.

The project is a priority for the university. The project will be completed in the fall of 2000. The tennis team will be able to use the new court in time for the fall season.

What do the players have to say about the new court?

They were, understandably, enthusiastic. “It’s great,” said one player. “It will give us a lot of new options.”

They were, understandably, enthusiastic. “It’s great,” said one player. “It will give us a lot of new options.”

The new court will be a great benefit to the team and the school. It is a significant investment that the school is willing to make. The court will be used for both practices and games. It will be available to both the men’s and women’s teams. It will also be available to the community.

The court will be used for practices and games, which currently take place in the receiving court facility. The current facility is a multi-purpose facility that is used for both practices and games. The new court will be a dedicated facility for tennis.

President Murray said that the project is a priority for the university. The project will be completed in the fall of 2000. The tennis team will be able to use the new court in time for the fall season.

The project is a priority for the university. The project will be completed in the fall of 2000. The tennis team will be able to use the new court in time for the fall season.
The Marist football team had five touchdowns in Saturday's 40-29 triumph over Iona.

Many students think it is time for the bleachers on Leonidoff Field to be enhanced.

Students wonder why football facilities have not been upgraded

by JEFF DARINCKE
Sports Editor

The Marist College campus has seen tremendous growth and development during the past few years.

Yet with all the construction of new facilities, highlighted by the $25 million library set to open at the end of the month, many students are still waiting for another project, one which many feel is extremely essential.

Leonidoff Field is currently the home to Marist football, as well as being the site of soccer and lacrosse games.

While there have been virtually no complaints about the playing field itself, several think the surrounding facilities, specifically the bleachers, need to be enhanced.

"I feel like if there are more than two people in the bleachers they are going to collapse because of the crowded wood and metal," said junior Gina Lezio. "I think they sell the seats cushioned to soften the fall."

Although the stands may not collapse at the same time, there is still an awareness that they could one day.

Marist President Dennis Murray said he knows about the condition of the bleachers.

"We recognize those bleachers are getting older.

"We recognize those bleachers are getting older."

Dennis Murray
President

Think more people would attend the games and more of an enthusiastic student-involved atmosphere would exist." — President Murray said that renovating the stadium is ever looked into, at that point a decision would be made as to whether or not lights should be added.

Tim Murray said that permanent lighting would be a great addition to Leonidoff Field.

"We had 1600 students for the night game against St. Peter's. That's a pretty high percentage (of the student body)," he said. "I think lights can add a whole new dimension."

And while it would definitely be considered, Dennis Murray said college football is traditionally played during the afternoon. When, and if, a renovation of Leonidoff field comes, the first priority would be the bleachers.

"I don't anticipate that we're ever going to be going to night games," President Murray said. "Night games are fun if you get a warm evening like we had this year. During the fall you don't want to be playing football at night."

Tim Murray said that the athletic department is content with its current situation and there is no urgency to improve anything.

"When you look at our campus, pretty much everything has been upgraded," he said. "When our time comes, our time will out. We are going to get to see better leadership than from Dr. Murray."

Many students think it is time for the bleachers on Leonidoff Field to be enhanced.

"We recognize those bleachers are getting older."

Football improves to third in MAAC

by PATRICK KEMPF
Staff Writer

One week after suffering its worst defeat in school history, the Marist College football team bounced back, in a big way.

The Red Foxes, led by running back Miguel Reyes, had a convincing 40-29 victory over host Iona on Saturday afternoon.

The win improved Marist to 5-5 on the season, and 4-2 in the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference (MAAC).

The Foxes are now in third place in the conference behind Duquesne and Georgetown.

"We're very pleased," Marist defensive coordinator Rick Pardy told the Poughkeepsie Journal. "The kids did a good job taking away the cutback lanes. They stayed at home and did what they were supposed to do." - Reyes pounded the Gaels for 241 yards rushing on 34 carries, including two touchdowns. It was the fourth-highest single-game rushing performance in Marist history.

"I saw the cutback lanes open wide and everything just happened," Reyes said to the Poughkeepsie Journal after the game.

The outstanding running attack, accomplished with five interceptions by the Red Fox defense, led Marist to the win.

Marist gets out of the gate quickly by piling up a 27-7 lead before having to ward off a late Iona charge to preserve the victory.

After a Rich Zaccheo 27-yard field goal opened the scoring, the Red Foxes found the end zone as Rommel Sinaqua scored from one yard out. Zaccheo's extra point made it 10-0 Marist.

The Gaels trimmed the Red Fox lead to 10-7 with a sticking drive of their own. Senior Steve F. Key Bank Player of the Game, took over from there, scoring on the Red Foxes next two possessions.

The sophomore running back scored from 17 and 42 yards out, respectively, to give the Red Foxes what seemed to be a comfortable 31-10 lead.

The Red Foxes would not let up and put the final 10 points on the board to go on to a 40-29 victory over Iona.

The win eliminated the Red Foxes from the MAAC playoff picture, but it did give Marist a crucial win over the Gaels.

Women's basketball expects improvement

by PETER PALMERI
Staff Writer

The Marist women's basketball team is hoping that if the year things start turning around. After last season's disaster 4-21 record, the Red Foxes will rely heavily on their youth and their depth to move to the top of the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference (MAAC) this year.

Head coach Kristan Lamb, who is in his second year at Marist, said this year's squad is far better than the one he led in his rookie campaign. She will not let a MAAC preseason coaches poll, which picked the Red Foxes to finish dead last in the conference, deter her confidence.

"We have a good balance of players this season," she said. "Our bench is deep and we should be able to come back strong."

Senior Sabrina Vaillie will have to lead the Young Foxes.