Security turns parking lots into living nightmare

by JEFF DARNICK
News Editor

Parking problems are nothing new on the Marist College campus, but measures by security to enforce parking policies have resulted in students complaining about a situation they deem crazy out of control.

Student Body President Ryan Hunter last month attempted to deal with parking concerns. The meeting was attended by Tom McLean, assistant director of safety and security, and Bruce Wagner, assistant vice president for human resources, but apparently did nothing to alle-ivate the aggravation many students were complaining about problems that arise every year, and there simply is not that much that can be done to change the situation.

"It's impossible to get everybody happy, or even most of them happy," Leary said. "I wish we could park everybody right at the foot of their bed, but it's just not that easy." Security uses three tactics to enforce parking regulations:
ticketing, booting and towing.

Tickets are issued for offenses such as parking without a per-nuit or parking in a fire zone.

Boots are placed on the cars of serious repeat offenders, and towing is used as a last resort

Unity Day successful bringing people together for afternoon

by DOUGLAS DEISS
Staff Writer

This past Saturday, Marist
students put real meaning behind Unity Day.

Last weekend, the Student Government Association (SGA)
sponsored its third annual Unity Day. Previously called Diversity Day, this year the name was changed.

Student Body President Ryan
Hunter said there were a couple reasons for the change.

"Sometimes we overuse words and people get tired of the word," Hunter said. "We asked ourselves what do you do at diversity day, and we decided that you unify, hence the name Unity Day.

"The SGA has been planning
this event for many months.

"We have been preparing since early fall. Our goal was to make it the best one we have had yet," said Michael Taylor, director of public relations for SGA.

Taylor went on to say that the SGA had help from a multitude of sources. The community helped by throwing in many gift certificates. The sailing club donated generous amounts of food from the Cabaret.

"The biggest help of all was from Margaret Rowland, who coordinated with Pepsi to donate 100 cases of Pepsi One to the event," Taylor said. "That was a big help." The event began outside on the campus green, but the weather made a small intrusion.
The sky looked as if it wanted to storm at any second. What began as a few drops led to a fear of a downpour and the ru-ing of the rented sound equipment.

An executive decision was made to move the entire Unity
Day inside to the Student Center and the Cabaret.

What followed this decision brought real meaning to the entire day of unity. As students from the clubs grabbed their materials to move inside, everyone else grabbed anything from cases of soda to pieces of staging and helped carry it in. Inside, even more were ready to do what they could to get everything set back up.

"It showed that everyone
could come together for one com-
mom purpose," Ryan Hunter
SGA President

what society is trying to do to-
day. "It brings everyone together for a common goal that normally wouldn't," Hunter said.

Along with the representation of clubs, many events took place throughout the day.
Among those speaking in lectures included Greg Moses, Bruce Laske and Associate Dean Steve Sansoli, with topics ranging from "Spirituality and Unity" to "Service to the Community."

The musical performances included Timecheck, Sirens, the Marist College Band and Poughkeepsie's Sun Hill.

WMCR, Marist College Radio,
had its first live broadcast outside the studio during Unity
Day. Steve Vittoria was the DJ
for the entire day.

Many students were pleased with the way the day went.

"Although I would have enjoyed a bigger day," said

"This is great news for Marist College. It has been a long time coming. Finally, we are getting the attention we deserve."

- Kate Moylan

Marist College appears to be the focus of attention this year. Students and faculty have been working hard to improve the institution's image. On March 2, the Marist Board of Trustees announced that it would be investing $12 million in new facilities and programs. The move is expected to benefit students and the community.

Popularity of college continues to rise

"The popularity of our college is on the rise. Students and faculty are working hard to improve our image. We are getting the attention we deserve."

- Kate Moylan

Marist College is one of the most popular institutions in the country. The college has been working hard to improve its image and attract new students. This has been reflected in the college's recent rankings, which have placed it among the top 200 colleges in the country. The college is particularly popular among students who are interested in business, communications, and the arts.

UNITY: Various groups combine for successful day

"The combination of various groups was truly amazing. We were able to achieve so much together."

- Kate Moylan

Marist College is made up of many different groups, each with its own unique identity. This year, several of these groups came together for a successful day. The college was able to achieve so much together, thanks to the combined efforts of all the groups.

GARTLAND: Board names lifetime Marist College trustee

By: MICROTHEM

The Marist College Board of Trustees has announced that Leo Hall of Elmsford has been named a lifetime Marist College trustee.

Hall, a 1959 Marist College alumnus, has been a leader in the local community and has served on numerous boards and committees. He is the founder and president of the Leo Hall Foundation, which has provided millions of dollars in support to various causes and organizations.

Hall was one of the original founders of the Leo Hall Foundation and has served as its president since its inception. He is also a member of the Marist College Board of Trustees, where he has served for more than 15 years.

The Marist College Board of Trustees is composed of 14 members, including the president of the college, the provost, the deans of the faculties, the treasurer, and other members appointed by the president. The board is responsible for overseeing the college's financial and academic affairs, and for setting policies and determining the direction of the institution.

Hall has been a strong supporter of Marist College and its mission, and has been involved in numerous initiatives to improve the campus and its facilities. He is a strong believer in the importance of education and has been a major contributor to the college's development.

The Marist College Board of Trustees is committed to ensuring the continued success and excellence of the college, and is dedicated to providing opportunities for all students to achieve their full potential.

April Fools: A day for us all

By: MICHAEL McCANN

It's April Fool's Day, a day when people have the opportunity to play practical jokes and pranks on their friends and acquaintances. It is a day when people have the chance to have some fun and to lighten the mood.

April Fool's Day is celebrated on April 1st every year. It is a tradition that dates back to the 16th century and is believed to have originated in France. The day is also known as All Fools Day or April Fools Day.

On this day, people often play practical jokes and pranks on each other. Some of the most well-known pranks include putting a whoopee cushion on someone's seat, putting fake worms in someone's food, or spreading fake news.

While April Fool's Day is a time for fun and laughter, it is also a time to remember that there are certain limits to what is acceptable. It is important to remember that humor is subjective and what is funny to one person may not be funny to another.

The tradition of April Fool's Day continues to be celebrated around the world today. People of all ages enjoy the day and look forward to it every year.

This year, as always, the day will be filled with laughter and joy. So here's to April Fool's Day - a day when we can all have a little fun and forget our worries for a while.

ARIES

Be in a good mood. With the music and lights in your sign, you feel like you're playing everything. A person you've used to being tough and smart may prove you're the best you've ever been.

TAURUS

You may be off to a slow start this morning. You could have complications, some of which may be caused by your own pressure. Finish up some old stuff as possible, but don't take on anything new now. Tonight, catch up on your sleeping habits.

GEMINI

You're generally doing well, but you need to be careful of the sun. One older person in particular could take offense if you mistake something he or she thinks is important. No need to jump a fence, offer your apologies loudly if no one puts up a fight.

CANCER

And patient are after the same objective, you have a few different ways of approaching the problem. You can be good, and patient can be good, but the patient other person does not do what you would have.

SCORPIO

Even though you're facing some big jobs, you've got to be a bit more patient. Too many are short, but you don't have to go through it. Be good at staying calm even under a great deal of pressure. That's great because others are testing you will.

LEO

You've been in a friendly, soft-spoken mood. If you're friendly, soft-spoken mood, you're fine. But you don't have to go through it. Be good at staying calm even under a great deal of pressure. That's great because others are testing you will.

VIRGO

There may be a situation tomorrow when you want to do what others want you to do. If the other people are satisfying your values, better do what they want. The people you will understand. Tomorrow's much better for romance and family matters, anything.

LIBRA

If you could study all day long, you'd be surprised. You may not realize how much you enjoy the extra work.

SAGITTARIUS

There's plenty of love in your life, and plenty of fun on your luck. Keep your sense of humor, and even a skinny roommate won't mess you up. Go ahead and be your good mood. Listen to the complainer, but don't feel like you have to fix it, especially if it's something.

CAPRICORN

Focus is on home and family. Working and saving, wheeling and dealing. Money is coming in and going out. Put attention on end of the profit. You should be able to make some good deals, especially if you put in the effort.

PISCES

The series was supposed to start on March 18, but due to rain, the game was rescheduled as part of a double-header on the next day. In game one, Anthony Bocchino, Philip Toscano, and Anthony Ambrosini each recorded RBI's in the top of the first inning. Bocchino added two more in the top of the fourth to give Marist a 5-1 win. Chuck Bechtel recorded the win for the Red Foxes, pitching five scoreless innings, before the Stags' Jim Lopasznick roped an RBI double in the bottom of the sixth.

Game two was suspended in the sixth inning due to bad weather and was continued the next day. In the top of the eighth inning, Ambrosini led off with a double and was drove in on an RBI single by Ben Costo. Relief pitcher Brian Couglin pitched strong to secure the 6-5 victory.

In the final game of the three-game series, Marist dominated the game right from the first pitch. The Red Foxes posted a seven-run second inning, followed by a six-run third. Ambrosini led Marist with four RBI's, including a two-run home run. Bocchino went 4-6, with two RBI's. The team's seven-game winning streak came to a halt against Pace University on March 21. A solo home run from Trevor Moeley led the Setters to a 4-2 victory.

After trotting Sacred Heart, 13-5, the Foxes tied Hofstra 8-8. Jimmy Willis and Anthony Cervini launched solo home runs for the Foxes, while Kevin Reinking hit a two-run shot for the Flying Dutchmen.
