'63 Enrollment Reaches 1,130

Buildings, The Keynote To Growth

1,130 students! This number represents a college, Marist College, 750 in the day division, 350 in the night division. The development of Marist, however, is contained in more than just numbers. The buildings on the campus, the newest of which is Leo, are of the finest architecture and provide for the most modern intellectual, athletic, and recreational facilities as well as providing living quarters for many students. The increased parking facilities indicates the increase in local area students now attending the college. In the near future we can expect to see the completion of the new boathouse and the new Chaplains' quarters. Let's look behind the scenes and see where and how this growth is proceeding.

Leo Hall, a towering six story residence hall, known among the resident students as the Leo Hilton, is located on the western end of the campus. This building with its balconies, recreation halls, and lounges provides for the intellectual, recreational, and general residential needs of approximately 250 students. Its location next to the Hudson River affords the residents an excellent view of the beautiful Hudson Valley.

The boathouse, soon to be completed, will serve multiple purposes. During the winter months the upper floor will be used as an auxiliary gymnasium for wrestling, weightlifting, and gymnastics. In addition to its use for the rowing machines and as a dormitory for visiting crew teams, it may also be used for social functions.

Within view of Leo Hall construction is continuing on a new Chaplains' quarters. This building will house four priests and will contain in addition to a lounge, a private chapel.

The increase of the faculty this year by 15 new teachers brings the number of full time teachers to 47. Working this out on a student to teacher basis we can boast a 16 to 1 ratio.

We are all sure that as the future becomes the present the growth of Marist will never cease. In the future we can see a field house, a theatre, a student union. As a well-known newspaper put it, "Marist will be the college to be reckoned with academically, athletically, and socially within the next ten years."

Father James Campbell Assistant To Chaplain

One of the many additions to Marist this year has come in the person of the Reverend James Campbell, O.P. Father Campbell is originally a resident of Philadelphia where he studied at St. Joseph's Preparatory School.

With the coming of the Second World War, Father Campbell served his country as a navigator in the 20th Air Force and saw action in the South Pacific.

The close of the war also meant an opening of a new chapter in Father Campbell's life. This chapter alone is indeed noteworthy for any man. It saw the furthering of his education at Harvard where he received an A.B. in History. After this came work with an American oil company in Hong Kong and Shanghai. From there Father went to Brazil where he worked with an investment banking firm of Rio de Janero.

While in Rio, Father Campbell believed that a new chapter in his life was being written and he returned to the United States to enter the Trappist Monastery at Gethsemani. It was here that Father Campbell came to know St. Thomas and after a year of prayer, he entered the Order of Preachers in which he was ordained a priest in June 1962.

Genesis: 20th Century

... to find the unnatural, Grossly abet the industry Of two-o’clock: the century pig stilt through With the propellers immersed by corkscrew, And Sophocles cut, for speed, with a blue pencil. Pronostrans sophomores in the tree of learning. Stare at the exiled blossoming trees, vaguely puzzled, ...

— John Malcolm Brinnin

Another post, on another topic, once referred to Spring as that time of year "when a young man’s fancy turns lightly to thoughts of love," but I am not skeptical to mention the transformation to the Third Iowan brings upon youth. For indeed, it is in the Fall that the college student first acquires the necessary tools of summer and pick up the fine instruments of learning. And yet, while the transition from "living to lie" might well be termed "trying" for the college man, there is yet another class of men for whom such a transition may be well highly impossible. The species to which I am referring are called quite innocently, yet very appropriately, 20th.

In spite of such a seemingly disparaging introductory phrase, it must be admitted immediately that there are the "lifelocks of any college." Indeed, while the initial impression is hardly of a laudatory nature, these rather "rare animals" are known, within a few short weeks, to undergo a radical change. It is almost as if, having surrounded the terminus of an 18-year gestation, they suddenly realize the magic wand to free them from their deadly carcass - a cancer of youth. Casting aside for the last time the toys of their childhood, they are led for the first time into a type of "enchanted forest" where knowledge is the password. Happily, many are the transition will take place more - some regretfully are destined to be intellectual babies and fall swiftly by the wayside. In the latter case not too bad, but the soil was rocky.

Enjoying this rather harried "indoctrination into the ranks of men" are a group of boys, prematurely ancient with the knowledge of the centuries. They have not before - indeed part of II, and like Hemingway's old Spaniard need say no more than, "Ah Yes," in order to make their points. For the first time they fell. Some courage was indeed felt when Donnelly Hall was only a seed of thought, impregnated into the hearts of the "bullheaders". Other days in gray stone when studying was almost impossible amidst the clutter and clank of neglected pipes and the odor of a thoroughly "un-housebroken" cat. Yes, they, as we, are a part of a Genesis - a 20th Century, vital, vibrant, smacking of the forces of change and growth - and yet, a generation as surely guided by the path that led Mosse out of Egypt and into the Promised Land!

New Faculty Members

As the academic year of 1963-64 gets underway, the most notable addition is that of the new personalities, in particular the new members of the faculty.

Nocturne

The first indication of fall is born again, the mounting of the annual Division Expansion "Challenge Crew." To our new students, this information may be surprising, and, perhaps to some of our older students as well, for the members of the "Challenge Crew" are a rather modest lot. By now, the Evening Division Crew has become a part of our school's tradition, having gathered for the last four years. Unfortunately, in each of those years something something has come up to prevent the growth from actually presenting a challenge to the Varsity Crew.

Last year, if I remember correctly, our "Streetside" developed growth. The year before, at the last minute, our Carlin and two other members of the crew were incapacitated with arthritis. In point of fact, the closest that our "Challenge Crew" has come to the water was last year when we had two accidents occur severely cripple our Crew Practice and one of them fell into the water.

Thus, the crew is left in a most subject to many a scene that not my eyes, in a local park, last Saturday morning. Led by a Brother (whose name I can't mention) for fear of creating antagonism between him and Coach Murphy, a motley assortment of our Evening Division fellows fell in, pulled, down the trail.

The costumes ranged from the sublime to the ridiculous. The Synchfix was dressed, "come it faul" in a black sweet suit with the custard yellow lettering on the center and blue white pencil line on the front of his collar. As for the Rest, I'm almost certain that every member was attempting to pawn off "long Johns" as normal. The "Uncle A. Z.", a New York Giants fan, had all the flaps at the rear was a dead giveaway. The group kept jumping to an early start in their vigorous athletic program. As a matter of fact, some very sensitive sources believe that the reason they have never actually presented a challenge is due to the fact that they were overpondered. And, while we are on the subject, I would like to display some vicious rumor about some of our members being too broad across the beam to fit into a shell right here now. It's an outright fabrication. True, the nesting arrangement of a few members had to be rearranged, placing the most ample individual on the left front and least part of the shell, but all of them did fit.

The Porkchop Club just as well as the other objects have never reached the point where we were actually ready to present the challenge, and now as the club is the matter of challenging involve all sorts of problems. In the small matter of a division division within the "Challenge Crew" it and Harrow's "Primary Division.

The first wants to appear on the river, and the practice, and pull the Varisty Crew with anticipated content.

Mr. Casey, who is originally from South Carolina, the home of the Yuletide 'Giants, has a mid-western background and preference. His early education was obtained in the Jefferson School. After graduation from high school he attended, from 1958 to 1960, in Collegeville, Minnesota. Mr. Casey received his M.A. from Fordham University.

Hazing Week

A Splashing Success

One of the new instructors in Mr. Donnelly's Engineering class is a graduate of New York. After completing his secondary education, he attended Iowa College, where he majored in Physics. He was President of the Iowa Student Society, a campus science organization. He was also Head of the Board of Electors for the service organization "Fauces." After graduation from Iowa he accepted a teaching position in decorating at a college of the University of Iowa. He successfully completed the course in Nuclear Physics.

During the course two members Mr. Curtis' of the Physics and conducting classes in General Physics, Optics, and Atomic Physics. At the end of this academic year he plans to return to C. U. O. to obtain his Ph.D. in Physics. After obtaining this degree Mr. Curtis would like to return to Martel.

The mud has been washed off, clothes have been dried, freshmen have tipped their beards for the last time; Hazing Week is ending.

For five days previous to Hazing Week, the freshmen were strangers both to the campus and the upperclassmen. However, the inevitable arrived. Monday, September 16th, initiated the Hazing Program. The sophomores attempted to learn the freshmen identities by having them recite their names backwards. They wished to find out if he was well groomed and therefore made him tip his hat. Reciting nursery rhymes or interpreting the murals in Donnelly Hall tested his memory capacity. His ability was recognized when he was asked to affect a bucko accent or transpose a book into a notebook. Innovations such as the freshmen jump and clearing the fields of rocks added to the enjoyment of the week, especially that of the sophomores. The freshmen refused to take his treatment lying down. With the aid of an "unknow " person or persons, they removed the fox from the bookstores. The boys at Wattell retaliated with their famous (or is it infamous) chau of "Sophomores are Rat-finks." On Wed.

Sunday, Tom Corrada awakened the south side of Leo Hall at 5-30 A.M. with the cacophonous sound of Revellie. Tom got him.

The sophomore felt the sting of in- suit when Brother Paul ended their participation in the hazing program on Wednesday afternoon. The freshmen however, signed petitions and the sophomores were reinstated.

Saturday came early for the freshmen. The surprise move of the day was the kidnapping of the freshmen floor captain at 7-15 A.M. by the Hazing Committee. The abduction opened the palace of the freshmen and that same "unknown" person. Rumor has it that this indivisible addition to spew upon a member of the committee and deposit him in the city jail.

At the Mixer, Saturday evening, the floor captain, dressed in rags and bound with ropes around their necks were exchanged for the fox. With this trade the freshmen also received the fox tail and Hazing Week was officially closed for another year.

May we congratulate the Hazing Committee and the upperclassmen on their fine job and urge the freshmen on to an enlightening and productive year here at Martel.
NOCTURNE

The first indication of fall is born again, the morning Eastern Division "Challenge Crew.
To our new students, this information might be surprising, and, perhaps, to some of our older students as well, for the members of the "Challenge Crew" are a modest lot. By now, the Eastern Division Crew has become a part of our school's tradition.
Having gathered for the last four years. Unfortunately, in each of those years something has come up to prevent the growth from actually presenting a challenge to the Varsity Crew.

Last year, if I remember correctly, our "Stroke Oar" developed a growth. The year before, at the last minute, our Cabin and two other members of the crew were incapacitated with arthritis. In point of fact, the closest that our "Challenge Crew" has come to the water was last year when we had two accidents occur following practice. We have one of them fell into the water.

Our rudder man is also a subject to mortality. Look at a scene that not my eyes, in a local park, last Saturday morning. Led by a Brother whose name isn't mentionable for fear of creating antagonism between him and Coach Murphy, a motley assortment of our Eastern Division fell into the water and chased down the trail.

Not only three from the sub-lime to the sublimity, the blonde Blyth was dressed, "come it fail" in a black sweater with the customary vertical white pencil line on the front of his collar. As for the reat, I'm almost certain that the members with an attempt to pawn off "lolligag" as gymnastics. In the middle of the club flap at the rear was a dead giveaway. The group always jumps to an early start in their vigorous athletic program. As a matter of fact, some defensive sources believe that the reason they have never actually presented a challenge is due to internal faction and overtraining. As a result, the subject would have very vicious rumor about some of our members being too broad across the beam to fit into a shell right here and now. It's no outright fabrication. True, the nesting arrangement of a fresh man had to be rearranged, placing the more ample individual on the farther side from the best part of the shell, but all of them did fit.

Past experience just as well as usual, we have never reached the point where we were actually ready to present the challenge, but as the practice schedule of the members of challenging involve all sorts of problems, the situation as a matter of better division in the "Challenge Crew" it's all right.

The first wants to appear suddenly on the water, following the practice, and pull the Varsity Crew with anticipated cont. on p. 4.
Student Council Initiates Film Program

The Marysville College Student Council initiated its Fall Semester film program on Wednesday evening, September 25th, at 7:30 p.m. The first of the six film length features which will be shown in the gym at no charge, was enr cubed a RAISIN IN THE SUN, A powerful, realistic drama of the amusing bits of humor, A RAISIN IN THE SUN portrayed realistic and Claudia McNeill, and Ruby Dee as member of a poor negro family which had just been awarded a large sum of money.
The theme which ensues over how to spend the fortune, provided the viewers with an enjoyable evening.

Mr. George Dorn, whose weekly article, "Accidents in College" in courses including evening classes, is also a faculty proctor in Shreve Hall.

After graduating from St. Vincent's College in Altoona, PA., with a Bachelor of Science degree in mathematics, Mr. Dorn took another year of research at Susquehanna University where he received an A.M. B.B. from the same institution. He then went to study at Duquesne University where he graduated in business, majoring in accounting, and is a member of the American Bankers Association. Mr. Dorn was invited by the American Ceramic Society to deliver a paper at the annual American Economic Association to be held this summer in Rome. December 25th.

It is a novelty from his graduate years and is entitled "Unemployment and Out-of-the-Labor Force Relationships, Static and Dynamic Analysis." His further academic endeavors will include work toward a doctorate from New York University in research in Business and Economics. Mr. Dorn felt quite strongly that

Dr. Howard Goldman

Athletic Director

Dr. Howard Goldman will be the new Athletic Director of Marysville College. In reply to the offer from Brother William Murphy who has since taken over the position at Marist, Dr. Goldman has accepted the position. Dr. Goldman was a graduate of Cornell University and has a Doctorate in Sociology. He is a member of the American Baseball Association and has been a member of the American Physical Education Association for over ten years. He has also served as President of both the Catholic Forensic League of New York and the Catholic Forensic League of Miami. Before coming to Marist, Brother Cameron studied for six months in Freiburg, Switzerland.

Brother Linus R. Foy, F.M.S., President of Marist College, has made known an approach to the new Athletic Director. Dr. Goldman was informed that the new position has to do with curriculum development. He will also act as co-coordinator between the academic departments and the athletic department, concerning the long range development of the college. The new Athletic Director, Mr. Goldman, is a member of the History Department.

Dr. Goldman will continue teaching. His courses are being offered in the fall. He is scheduled to teach some, possibly in the spring. The classes will be in English and a course in education.

The new Athletic Director will have the following responsibilities: to

- Develop and implement a comprehensive athletic program
- Oversee the facilities and equipment
- Hire and manage the coaching staff
- Establish and maintain athlete academic standards
- Coordinate athletic events and competitions
- Foster a positive campus culture
- Address any concerns regarding physical and mental health for athletes

In conclusion, the addition of Dr. Howard Goldman to the Marist College community will undoubtedly bring new perspectives and opportunities to the athletic department. The community looks forward to seeing how he will shape the future of Marist Athletics.
Student Council Initiates Film Program

The Marist College Student Council initiated its Fall Semester film program on Wednesday evening, September 25th, at 7:30 P.M. The first of several full length features which will be shown in the gym, no charge, was entitled ‘RAISIN IN THE SUN’. A co-producer and dramatic achievement spectacular featuring amazing bits of humor, A Raisin in the Sun portrayed realistic roles by Claudia McNeil and Ruby Dee as members of a poor negro family which had just been awarded a large sum of money. The theme which concerns over how to spend the fortune, provided the viewees with an enjoyable evening.

Mr. George Doran, whose weekly sports column is featured in all courses including evening classes, is also a faculty proctor in Sheddan Hall.

After graduating from St. Vincent's College in albion, PA., with a Bache- lor of Science degree in mathematics, Mr. Doran spent three years doing research work for a re- search assistant for an M.B.A. from Duquesne University in Pittsburgh. Also studying at Duquesne he was awarded membership in Omicron Delta Epsilon, an honorary mathematics society. He is also a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the national honorary society in Liberal Arts. Mr. Doran was invited by the American Risk Insurance Association to deliver a paper at the annual American Econo- mic Association Convention to be held this year in Boston, December 23th. It is a monologue from his graduate paper and entitled "Unemployment and Out-of-the-Labor Force Relation- ships: Static and Dynamic Analysis". His further academic endeavors will include work toward a doctorate from New York University, which he is currently working in Research in Business and Economics.

Mr. Doran feels quite strongly that athletics play an integral part in the total development of the college student. He maintains that competition and per- sonal contact, as well as spectator sports, are of equal value in connection with studies. This carry-over can prove to be a valuable asset in striving toward your goal whether it be the touch- down or the shoot-out.

Dr. Howard Goldman
Athletic Director

Dr. Howard Goldman will be the new Athletic Director of Marist. In the past few weeks, over the post from Brother William Murphy which he handled itself since Marist started competing in intercollegiate sports, Brother William will devote all his energies, presently to teaching.

Dr. Goldman is a graduate of Cort- land State College (N. Y.). He earned his M.A. and Doctorate in Physical Education at Indiana University. For the past six years Dr. Goldman has been on the staff of Plymouth State College as an instructor in Physical Education and as coach of Soccer and Freshman Basketball. Here at Marist, his first post as an athletic director, Dr. Goldman is also coaching the newly formed Soccer team and proposed Freshman Basketball squad.

Brother Linus R. Foy, F.M.S., President of Marist College, has made known his approval of the appointment of Dr. Howard Goldman as Athletic Director. Brother Linus R. ease, then sit back in amaz satisfac- tion and wait for the Varsity Crew to present the challenge. The other fac- tion is more tradition-minded, believ- ing that Varsity Crew should have its gauntlet in the face of the Varsity Crew Crew. Varsity Crew's view is that the point is for the Butech to challenge the Varsity Crew, and traditionally, and permanently, our Butech is a strong candidate for the first faction.

The other faction thinks, things considered, the group this year seems to be the best ever, and may well reach the point of readiness where they will be able to take on the Varsity Crew. For certain, for the next four weeks great efforts will be made by the "Challengers" to prove to the "Varsity Crew" that they are desper- ately trying to create.

Theatre Guild Chooses Comedy

The Executive Committee of the Theatre Guild has selected its third Three Angels by Sam and Bella Spewack as their first show of the fall. It is to be presented on Thurs- day, October 17th, at the Proper Theatre, November 21st, 22nd, and 23rd, and on Sunday, November 24th, in the college auditorium.

The production is a light comedy about an old, over-the-hill lawyer, who is in French Guinea, the problems he en- counters with his uncle from France, and his daughter's love affair with her cousin. One of the major problems is the local prison, solve the old man's problems. The production has been planned for a series of highly amusing incidents. Last week auditions were held by the director, Mr. James Britt, at

Dr. Schroeder to Hold Speed Reading Workshops

Since I am a first time visitor here for the first time, I am very impressed. In what I hope to make a regular column, I am going to try to live up to the high standards expected of me and some of the low points of what I've found here. In the future, I'll try to make specific points for discussion, but for now, I hope that you have had a pleasant visit and that you have to offer. To be completely, you have a city must have at least one college going on in it. It is of my opinion that you should try to make a museum. One real good restaurant, which serves a variety of food, while your prices are high, you can still afford a cup of family. There must be too, a bakery to buy bread and pastry, and a shop to buy other staple, wine. Another essential is the book store. As for things which they can live without, which they have anyway, and an up market with books and magazines, must be represented. I hope to have a lot of these things, something more serious than others in the future. But now, I hope that you have a pleasant visit and that you have to offer.

And, by the way, Paris is all this may it is.
