Faculty Okays Curriculum Change

Student Union and New Dorm

by Kenneth France-Kelly

Within this decade, within the next five years, even within the stay of some of us here at Marist, the face of our Alma Mater will be changed drastically. With the appearance of a third residence hall on campus, the need for a permanent place for student functions, large enough to accommodate simultaneous meetings of more than one campus organization at any given time, has arisen. This new dormitory and student union complex will be known as Champagnat Hall.

The main purpose in building a student union building is to add to the overall college spirit by binding the bonds of interpersonal relationship tightly together. Through the use of the new auditorium, the spacious fire place lounge, the panoramic cafeteria, and the outdoor, enclosed court, the student body will become more school-centered and less class-centered, more mul-ti-centered and less self-centered.

The student union will be a three story edifice. In the basement there is planned a rathskeller, snack bar, and party-room which will run the complete length of the building on the river side.

The ground floor will consist primarily of the cafeteria. There will also be a number of small rooms adjacent to the outdoor court, on this floor. A third room, T.V. room, game room, and photo lab will be located there. The Student Government will have an office and a meeting room there too. In a room close to this one each campus organization will have a file for their own records. The one "business" establishment on this floor will be the barber shop.

Load Lightened; Freedom For Students

by Robert Hacket

The curriculum revision proposed to the faculty by the Academic Policy Committee was adopted on February 28. The revision is the result of a self-study undertaken by the college, with the help of questions raised by visitors from the Middle States Association of Colleges.

The Committee found that the current curriculum presents obstacles to

| THE OLD |
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>DEPT.</th>
<th>TITLE</th>
<th>CR.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Rel.</td>
<td>Catholic Belief</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eng.</td>
<td>Composition</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eng.</td>
<td>Intro. to Lit.</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hist.</td>
<td>Medieval History</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Math.</td>
<td>Col. Alg. or Trig.</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Econ.</td>
<td>Price Theory</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Psych.</td>
<td>Intro. to Psych.</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chem.</td>
<td>Principles of Chem.</td>
<td>4</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

| THE NEW |
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>DEPT.</th>
<th>TITLE</th>
<th>CR.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Theol.</td>
<td>Literature</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eng.</td>
<td>Intro. to Psych.</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Math.</td>
<td>Col. Alg. or Calculus</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chem.</td>
<td>Principles of Chem.</td>
<td>4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Health</td>
<td>Physical Ed.</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

the general objectives of the college, which include fostering an "intellectual encounter" and a "liberal educational experience." Although the changes will attempt to remove these obstacles, they will not represent a radical break with the present curriculum; rather, "the content of the core curriculum has been retained with certain modifications."

Generally, the revision is aimed at fewer requirements, and more freedom and flexibility for the student within the curriculum. Specifically the change is concerned with reducing the over-load and avoiding the confusion caused by the excess of two credit courses and removing the problems of inflexibility in required courses.

To reduce the overload, the recommendation was made that the emphasis in the curriculum be shifted from two to three credit courses, and that all departments be urged to change their major offerings from two to three credits. This increase in the credit-value of the courses will enable the student to fulfill his credit requirements by taking five or, at the most, six courses, thereby eliminating the practice of undertaking seven, eight, or nine courses a semester in order to acquire enough credits for graduation.

Such a move will permit more time for outside and library work, and allow the student to acquire greater depth in courses. Moreover, it would seem to be more in line with fostering the previously mentioned ideals than the current outlook which seems to encourage dilet-tantism.

The number of credits of required courses has been reduced from almost 3/4 to 1/2 of the total number of credits needed for graduation. In addition to this reduction of the core, there has also been an increase in the number of electives; together these changes will allow the student greater freedom in planning his course of study.

In conjunction with this greater freedom in choosing courses, provision has been made for closer cooperation between the student and his faculty advisor. The advisor will help the student to choose courses allied to his major field but the student will still be free to choose courses he finds "broadening."

In effect, the advisor will suggest a se-
March 11, 1944

The Record

Page Two

Intellectual (?) Life at Marist

By Brian O’Callahan

From inter-student conversations, from faculty-student discussions, and from the art of the Machiavelli, I have come to the conclusion that, in response, there is needed the same perceptive approach as is required in the real life at Marist College. Attendance at lectures, response to intellectual and social efforts such as "The Midnight Record," and other campus organs, the absence of active History, English, and Science organizations are some of the more obvious manifestations of student indifference. Ted Flynn, in last week's Record, noted that the Peace Corps was likely to face its main challenge in making the student echelon aware of its existence. What credit do the resident students have taken, under these conditions, to make the faculty aware of its existence? In this activity in initiating an interesting and intelligent discussion has been lamented by a few more motivated students. These examples of and by themselves are obviously not conclusive testimony, but they do indicate the road to a past, if revolutionary, future, which places these at an attitude.

The causes for such an attitude, which I describe, for want of a more euphonious term, as cerebral, which has the qualities of a philosophical, or even a metaphysical, or even a spiritual, are myriad and not solely traceable to student root. First, the college administration, in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

Secondly, the college administration, in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

Thirdly, we find most of the students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

Fourthly, we find most of the students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

Fifthly, we find most of the students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

Sixthly, we find most of the students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

Seventhly, we find most of the students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

Eighthly, we find most of the students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

Ninthly, we find most of the students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

Tenthly, we find most of the students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

Eleventhly, we find most of the students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

Twelfthly, we find most of the students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

Thirteenthly, we find most of the students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

Fourteenthly, we find most of the students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

Fifteenthly, we find most of the students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

Sixteenthly, we find most of the students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

Seventeenthly, we find most of the students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

Eighteenthly, we find most of the students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

Nineteenthly, we find most of the students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

Twentiethly, we find most of the students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In religion and philosophy the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In music and art the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In sports and athletics the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In political and social clubs the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In academic pursuits and research the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In social and cultural activities the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In student organizations the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In campus publications the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In all things, in all aspects, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every respect, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every corner of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every nook and cranny of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every crevice and hole of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every cranny and corner of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every nook and cranny of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every crevice and hole of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every cranny and corner of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every nook and cranny of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every crevice and hole of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every cranny and corner of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every nook and cranny of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every crevice and hole of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every cranny and corner of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every nook and cranny of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every crevice and hole of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every cranny and corner of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every nook and cranny of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every crevice and hole of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every cranny and corner of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every nook and cranny of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every crevice and hole of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every cranny and corner of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every nook and cranny of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every crevice and hole of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every cranny and corner of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every nook and cranny of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every crevice and hole of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every cranny and corner of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every nook and cranny of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every crevice and hole of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every cranny and corner of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every nook and cranny of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every crevice and hole of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every cranny and corner of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every nook and cranny of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every crevice and hole of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every cranny and corner of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every nook and cranny of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every crevice and hole of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every cranny and corner of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every nook and cranny of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every crevice and hole of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every cranny and corner of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every nook and cranny of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.

In every crevice and hole of the college, the number of students involved with the college administration, and in my opinion, is the cause of the attitude.
March 11, 1944
The Record

A STATEMENT OF CLARIFICATION

In the March 4th issue of THE RECORD I wrote a letter to the students of Marist College, which was intended as a clarification of interest among students and parents on the special importance of the Secretariat.

I stated that the Council members and the Secretariat were aware of the fact that exact figures and records of parking and littering fines were not being released. At this time French girls were right to acknowledge the fact that the words which I used did not convey precisely what I intended to convey. In fact, because of my poor usage, my opinion was misinterpreted. I did not wish to imply that any sort of secretive capacity existed within the Secretariat as to the keeping of fines, or the exact record of fines paid.

Other areas in which changes have been made to eliminate repetitions are history, and it that other members of the Secretariat have made the following clarifications.

In direct reference to the Secretariat members, Mr. Travers indicated that the students have met this year in second year and not in first year at the Secretariat's high school preparation.

Aside are also the three seminars and courses concerning the development of a closer relationship between the students and at the student's will, a semester of economic development.

In religion and philosophy, the number of students who had been excused from the current sixteen of religion and fourteen of philosophy to twelve of each. The Department of Philosophy is now one of the first schools of the city in any organization or field.

The above-mentioned letter to the students is a statement of the Secretariat's intentions for the future. It is understood that the student body will be properly clarified and its objectives will be made known to the students of Marist College.

Respectfully yours,
Jeremiah Shoban

Letters to the Editor

The Phantom Horse

March 11, 1944
The Record

THE PHANTOM HORSE produced by 1944 in the 20th Century, was a feature film directed by John T. Hill, and released by Columbia Pictures. The film starred Robert Taylor and was based on a novel by John T. Hill. The film was well received by critics and audiences, and it became a classic film noir of the genre. It was nominated for several Academy Awards, including Best Actor and Best Screenplay.

The film's plot centers around a man named John T. Hill, who is on the run from the law after a botched bank robbery. He takes a job as a stunt rider for a circus, but he is constantly haunted by his past and his guilt. The film was praised for its gritty, realistic depiction of the circus world and its exploration of themes such as guilt, redemption, and escape.

The Phantom Horse was a significant film in the development of the film noir genre, and it helped to establish Robert Taylor as a leading man in Hollywood. It remains a beloved film to this day and is considered a classic of its time.
The Record
March 11, 1964

COUNCIL NOTES

by Peter Marcone

Mr. President, many of you are aware that Mr. Treasurer is the financial officer of the College. He is responsible for keeping track of the College’s financial activities and for preparing the budget for the upcoming year. He also supervises the construction and maintenance of the College’s facilities.

The Treasurer is responsible for keeping the College’s finances in order and for ensuring that the College has enough money to cover its expenses. He is also responsible for making sure that the College’s investments are generating enough income to cover its expenses.

The Treasurer is an important member of the College community, and he plays a crucial role in ensuring the College’s financial health. He is a key figure in the College’s budgeting process, and his expertise is invaluable in ensuring that the College is able to meet its financial obligations.

The Treasurer is also responsible for overseeing the College’s investments, which are a critical source of income for the College. He works closely with the College’s financial advisors to ensure that the College’s investments are generating the best possible returns.

The Treasurer is a respected member of the College community, and his expertise and dedication to the College’s financial well-being is greatly appreciated. He is a key figure in the College’s budgeting process, and his expertise is invaluable in ensuring that the College is able to meet its financial obligations.

The Treasurer is also responsible for overseeing the College’s investments, which are a critical source of income for the College. He works closely with the College’s financial advisors to ensure that the College’s investments are generating the best possible returns.

The Treasurer is a respected member of the College community, and his expertise and dedication to the College’s financial well-being is greatly appreciated. He is a key figure in the College’s budgeting process, and his expertise is invaluable in ensuring that the College is able to meet its financial obligations.

The Treasurer is also responsible for overseeing the College’s investments, which are a critical source of income for the College. He works closely with the College’s financial advisors to ensure that the College’s investments are generating the best possible returns.

The Treasurer is a respected member of the College community, and his expertise and dedication to the College’s financial well-being is greatly appreciated. He is a key figure in the College’s budgeting process, and his expertise is invaluable in ensuring that the College is able to meet its financial obligations.

The Treasurer is also responsible for overseeing the College’s investments, which are a critical source of income for the College. He works closely with the College’s financial advisors to ensure that the College’s investments are generating the best possible returns.

The Treasurer is a respected member of the College community, and his expertise and dedication to the College’s financial well-being is greatly appreciated. He is a key figure in the College’s budgeting process, and his expertise is invaluable in ensuring that the College is able to meet its financial obligations.

The Treasurer is also responsible for overseeing the College’s investments, which are a critical source of income for the College. He works closely with the College’s financial advisors to ensure that the College’s investments are generating the best possible returns.

The Treasurer is a respected member of the College community, and his expertise and dedication to the College’s financial well-being is greatly appreciated. He is a key figure in the College’s budgeting process, and his expertise is invaluable in ensuring that the College is able to meet its financial obligations.

The Treasurer is also responsible for overseeing the College’s investments, which are a critical source of income for the College. He works closely with the College’s financial advisors to ensure that the College’s investments are generating the best possible returns.

The Treasurer is a respected member of the College community, and his expertise and dedication to the College’s financial well-being is greatly appreciated. He is a key figure in the College’s budgeting process, and his expertise is invaluable in ensuring that the College is able to meet its financial obligations.

The Treasurer is also responsible for overseeing the College’s investments, which are a critical source of income for the College. He works closely with the College’s financial advisors to ensure that the College’s investments are generating the best possible returns.

The Treasurer is a respected member of the College community, and his expertise and dedication to the College’s financial well-being is greatly appreciated. He is a key figure in the College’s budgeting process, and his expertise is invaluable in ensuring that the College is able to meet its financial obligations.

The Treasurer is also responsible for overseeing the College’s investments, which are a critical source of income for the College. He works closely with the College’s financial advisors to ensure that the College’s investments are generating the best possible returns.

The Treasurer is a respected member of the College community, and his expertise and dedication to the College’s financial well-being is greatly appreciated. He is a key figure in the College’s budgeting process, and his expertise is invaluable in ensuring that the College is able to meet its financial obligations.

The Treasurer is also responsible for overseeing the College’s investments, which are a critical source of income for the College. He works closely with the College’s financial advisors to ensure that the College’s investments are generating the best possible returns.

The Treasurer is a respected member of the College community, and his expertise and dedication to the College’s financial well-being is greatly appreciated. He is a key figure in the College’s budgeting process, and his expertise is invaluable in ensuring that the College is able to meet its financial obligations.

The Treasurer is also responsible for overseeing the College’s investments, which are a critical source of income for the College. He works closely with the College’s financial advisors to ensure that the College’s investments are generating the best possible returns.

The Treasurer is a respected member of the College community, and his expertise and dedication to the College’s financial well-being is greatly appreciated. He is a key figure in the College’s budgeting process, and his expertise is invaluable in ensuring that the College is able to meet its financial obligations.

The Treasurer is also responsible for overseeing the College’s investments, which are a critical source of income for the College. He works closely with the College’s financial advisors to ensure that the College’s investments are generating the best possible returns.

The Treasurer is a respected member of the College community, and his expertise and dedication to the College’s financial well-being is greatly appreciated. He is a key figure in the College’s budgeting process, and his expertise is invaluable in ensuring that the College is able to meet its financial obligations.

The Treasurer is also responsible for overseeing the College’s investments, which are a critical source of income for the College. He works closely with the College’s financial advisors to ensure that the College’s investments are generating the best possible returns.

The Treasurer is a respected member of the College community, and his expertise and dedication to the College’s financial well-being is greatly appreciated. He is a key figure in the College’s budgeting process, and his expertise is invaluable in ensuring that the College is able to meet its financial obligations.

The Treasurer is also responsible for overseeing the College’s investments, which are a critical source of income for the College. He works closely with the College’s financial advisors to ensure that the College’s investments are generating the best possible returns.
CHAMPAGNAT HALL: The Ultimate in College Dorms.

The first floor, and probably the most luxuriously decorated of the floors, will have a large fireplace, lounge (with three different levels square, and a TV), a student lounge area, a study area, a storage room, and an auditorium. A large lounge will run the end of the inner court and will be used as an intersecting smoking room and a study area. Probably the most promising of the halls in the student union, building will be the auditorium.

This will enable better entertainment productions to be presented and will provide a spacious hall for visiting lecturers.

The rest of the floor, which overlooks the courtyard will be devoted to faculty offices, seminar rooms, and the Dean's Office.

Therefore the new student union should not be looked at as just another building of lounge, offices, a cafeteria, and an auditorium; but should be seen as an extension to the student union also.

Following Friday, when students can play with their computers and living rooms. The student union, like the other buildings in the campus, will be open to students after regular hours as well.

vise pres. (Cont.)

We, of the RECORD, extend our congratulations to Mr. George Sommer, who is the second female member to be asked to give a summer graduate course outside the halls. He has accepted Manhattan's offer to teach a course in Chemistry. Again, congratulations Doc-kier.

And Thanks

Thanks are in order for Mrs. Ann Sommer and Mrs. Carol Sullivan for their help in our times of crisis. Without them, it is doubtful that we would have had the publication of the Record published as quickly as it was. Occa- sionally, things happen that slow down the publishing of the paper, and without these two women, we would have been lost. Sincere thanks from the staff of the Record.
Civil Rights

by Larry Flower

"How many times can a man turn his head, and pretend that he just doesn't see..." a dead bird blowing in the wind - the answer is billion times. How many? I wonder what number of us have ever turned our heads to a dead bird, swept up in a widespread variation of stories, which would include the spurs of a ballet sensation, and no doubt, some sort of dust collision lasting until dawn.

The story is less important for this holiday to fall within the season of Lent. As the traditional Christian season of prayer and penitence, only a few religious groups are not observing this period. This is the period of the rebellion of every Freshman between Dublin and Peking on this day. It is unknown, but this previous omission of a religious holiday is becoming traditional.

1 May Be Wrong But

by Bill Treanor

Although you will know the outcome of the Presidential primary in New Hampshire by the time you read this column, I must make a few observations concerning this occasion.

We are back, as you know, with the number of declared and declared candidates having dropped significantly in New Hampshire. Among the declared, we have Senator Goldwater, Governor Chase Smith, Senator Rockefeller and former Governor Harold Stassen. If this were not enough, the voters are also asked to consider an additional 16 notables by the people who have been proposed for a "write-in." These "write-in" former Vice-Presidential Nixon, Ambassador Lodge and Governor Scranton. The question is whether any one of these can serve as a vote for whom he shall cast his ballot. It has been said that this primary is now so important due to the large number of candidates that no clear- cut decision can be reached as a result. Well in our humble opinion, we would like to take exception to this reasoning and maintain that not only can a conclusive decision be reached, but a conclusive decision will be reached.

Our reasons for believing that a conclusive decision will be reached is that the "write-ins" and "notables" have voted and will or will not vote in the 1960 New Hampshire Presidential primary. In that year, as you recall, there was a controversial effort made by "write-in" Vice-Presidential Nixon from the ticket. How then, was it possible then that the people of New Hampshire and of the country? There was an enormous "write-in" movement and in fact this unexpected vote was so significant that shortly afterwards, Senator Eisenhower was more or less "forced" into endorsing the Vice-Presidential candidate for nomination.

In that election, were our beliefs as to what will happen? It is our contention that the people of New Hampshire will go to the ballot box with Senator Margaret Chase Smith and Rockefeller. Senator Rockefeller is confident that Senator Smith will garner a substantial number of votes and possibly win the primary.

"Outwits" the former Vice-President is that she is almost "a member of the family" since she comes from the same state as New Hampshire. Nixon can not deny the possibility that this will not make much of a difference, but it could be a difference. We must keep this in mind when we consider the possibility that Senator Smith will win the primary.

Pepe on Camus and Malraux

Last Tuesday evening, Henry M. Pepe, a well-known author, delivered the Concept of Man in Camus and Malraux lecture at the University of Wisconsin Assembly under Senator Humphrey's sponsorship.

Concluding then, our opinion is that the New Hampshire primary of March 10th, will be conclusive because it will accomplish the following points:

1. Ambassador Lodge, Governor Scranton and Senator Goldwater will be eliminated from the race for the Republican nomination.
2. Senator Chase Smith will enhance her position for seeking the nomination and may very well win the primary by the votes of the state to the convention.
3. Senator Goldwater will see the beginning of his defeat by not being able to carry the East.
4. Governor Rockefeller will run very close to Senator Goldwater.

If Nixon does not win as the primary as the real winner, although he may not have the convention votes themselves he will probably be the "established" candidate in the eyes of all Republicans and thus will dominate the next Presidential of the United States.

Civil Rights

by Larry Flower

What many times can a man turn his head, and pretend that he just doesn't see... a dead bird blowing in the wind - the answer is billion times. How many? I wonder what number of us have ever turned our heads to a dead bird, swept up in a widespread variation of stories, which would include the spurs of a ballet sensation, and no doubt, some sort of dust collision lasting until dawn.

The story is less important for this holiday to fall within the season of Lent. As the traditional Christian season of prayer and penitence, only a few religious groups are not observing this period. This is the period of the rebellion of every Freshman between Dublin and Peking on this day. It is unknown, but this previous omission of a religious holiday is becoming traditional.
May Be Wrong But

by Bill Treasure

Although you will know the outcome of the Presidential primary in New Hampshire by the time you read this column, I want to make a few observations concerning this occasion. If there are any, you know the declarations of declared and undeclared candidates for Governor of New Hampshire. Among the declared, we have Senator Goldwater, Governor Charles Smith, Mayor Rocky Boston, former Governor Hornold Stassen. If these two are not, as has been more than clear in previous primaries, as for them as when he cast his ballot. It has been said this primary is now important due to the large number of candidates and the no-clear-cut decision can be reached as a result. We will take this opportunity to make a few comments on this year's Republican Primary.

Our candidate for President in the primary will be the winner of the November election will be the Republican nominee for President.

Senator Goldwater will be the candidate of the Republican party. He is the candidate that was nominated as the Republican candidate for the Presidency of the United States.

Civil Rights

by Larry Flover

"How many times can a man turn his back, and pretend that he just doesn't see, when the wind is blowing in the wind - the answer is blindingly clear.

I wonder where we are, and what the future holds. I am a native of Nevada, and I have been living here for almost a year. I have seen the hardships that come with living here, and I have seen the problems that face us as a nation.

In a world of rapid change and increasing complexity, I believe that we must be vigilant to ensure that our values are preserved, our institutions are strengthened, and our future is secure.

In conclusion, I hope that this message will serve as a reminder to all of us of the importance of working together to build a better tomorrow. Thank you for listening."
Varsity Season Ends

by Larry Lane

The Marist College Varsity basketball team ended its season on a sorry note, bowing to Kings College 91-81. Louderes Gym was the stage where the curtain was brought down on another campaign, and the few remaining loyal supporters were treated to a sometimes exciting, sometimes dull, and very ragged basketball game.

Wally Barisonek scored Marist's first field goal at the 2:59 mark and proceeded to score nine of the first ten points for the home force. Early in the half Wally picked up his third personal foul and was soon replaced by newcomer Gary Henderson with 12:15 remaining.

In the next five minutes Kings started dominating the boards, putting their fast break into gear and spurtling from a 16-12 deficit to a 29-23 lead. The home forces hit a cold spell which saw them score only four points between the seventeen and twelve minute marks. Kings capitalized on this and went on a spree which gave them a twelve point bulge, 39-27. Sloppy play, occasional baskets, a few personal and missed foul shots prevailed as the first half ended with Marist trailing 47-33.

Marist hit four quick baskets as the second half opened, cutting the gap to 47-41. After Kings edged ahead 52-43, Marist went on a rampage which was climaxed by Bernie Dooley's long set which gave Marist the lead 55-54 with 12 minutes and 3 seconds left to play. Marist pulled farther ahead 61-56 on a jumper by Barisonek, but this was the end for our forces. Tom Finucane and John Murphy, who were outrebounding taller opponents for the whole second half, soon felt the strain battling opponents three and four inches taller in Kings' again began a fast break that the Marist men couldn't handle. Kings grabbed the lead at 62-61 and thereafter gradually pulled away from the Red Foxes.

Wally Barisonek's twenty-four points led the Marist scoring. Bernie Dooley threw in nineteen and John Murphy thirteen. Tom Finucane and John Ouelett each had eleven points as the long season came to a close.

SPOm CORNER

by Jerry LaForge and John O'Neil

With the basketball season rapidly coming to an end, many teams are jockeying for post season tournament spots. Unfortunately Marist won't be in the N.I.T. this year. The season was not as bright as expected but the caliber of opponents increased showing the way for a well rounded schedule to come. It is the general consensus that losing to the likes of LeMoyne, Iona and St. Jiena does more to project the Marist College image (young, Catholic and growing) then winning over Berkshire Christian, Vassar College, and Krisflyer Business School. Congratulations are in order for the men who exercised perseverance and determination and stuck with it. It's easy for everyone to stick with a winner — only men stick with a loser — Hat's off! The season was long and at most times disheartening but in no way does it reflect the capabilities of the team members.

We like DePaul in the National Invitations Tournament this year — also predicting Army to pull as quick an exit as it did its entrance—UCLA National Champs—Loyola of Chicago NCAA tournament champs.

Congratulations are in order to Mr. Mike Shultz and his wrestling team. The team gets stronger as the year progresses — Turning to Spring Sports — our crew team has every prospect according to John St. Denis — some of the team has been working out all summer and, in general, everyone seems in good shape. With the right "tide" we could see the team undefeated going into the President's Regatta with victories over Purdue, Iona, St. Johns and American International — Plover, Becchetti, Chirantet get in shape.

Intramurals — The faculty seems to be making more noise in the classroom than on the basketball court — "What Happen?" — We like the Varsity Club over the "educators" in the post season classic held in the cardboard coliseum — Golf and baseball are now on the sports calendar — Good luck — First crew meet is March 25th vs. Purdue — Baseball season is right around the corner with the stadium opening on April 14th.

letters...

seated throughout the meeting, with his feet on the back of a cushioned chair, in Donnelly Hall lounge, was challenging the competence of Mrs. Dow, Manhattanville's Social Director.

Anyone who has ever met Mrs. Dow and knows the trials of such a position, would not have shown such a lack of respect for this woman. Attractive, silver-haired Mrs. Dow is one of the most charming and sociably warm personalities I have ever encountered.

In my opinion the above incident was serious, not because Mrs. Dow or anyone else outside that room will ever know what was said, but because this outspoken ignorance and lack of respect for basic social manners seems to be the Marist Image at Manhattanville.

In recent weeks I have observed three other embarrassing "Marist Moments." I recently saw a Marist freshman wandering around M'ville's campus in a drunken stupor. Another student from our college publically announced in front of three seniors from Holy Cross and four M'ville girls that he was an agnostic, and furthermore was proud of it.

The third "Marist Moment" was recorded at Manhattanville's Winter Weekend. A dinner dance party at a leading Westchester country club was the highlight of the weekend and all was going well. The dance orchestra decided to take a 10-minute break and a group of M'ville girls entertained with a medley of songs. The performance was enjoyable, but would have been even more so if the Marist students had not been the only guests who remained seated and caused a noticeable disturbance throughout the show. Mrs. Dow, seated only a few yards away, showed repeated signs of annoyance.

Another Marist student, who only a few weeks ago, heard a group of M'ville girls discussing his own and his friends' bad manners, rose to the occasion to defend the name of his school. He stepped forward with great courage and said, "If you don't like it, you can go to hell." (I understand from reliable sources that she DID NOT like it, (nor him), and considering that I saw her a few hours later, she, apparently, did not follow his suggestion.) Luckily, Marist Day was a success on both the part of Mrs. Dow and her charming girls and on the part of a fine group of Marist students. With students like those attending Marist Day this past Sunday, (Feb 29), possibly the future of the "Marist Image" at Manhattanville will improve.

To insure ourselves of more successful days with Manhattanville, we have two alternatives: we can either allow only a chosen few to attend such functions or we can educate our ignorant element as to what is and is not socially acceptable.

Considering the same Marist slobs represent us elsewhere just as badly as they do at Manhattanville, the first proposal would make it necessary to lock the undesirables up in their rooms until June.

Proposal number two is the answer. It means introducing students to the basic manners he should have learned at home. If he does not know enough to eat soup with a spoon and not drink it like coffee, then teach him. If he lacks the courtesy to stand up when a girl approaches his group, then make it known to him. But as long as he represents our college, we must, if nothing else, pray for him.

Respectfully submitted,

Terry Robarge