GROUNDBREAKING CEREMONY
We’re Top Cats ‘68

by Ted Flynn
by Bill Townsend

The groundbreaking we witnessed Thursday was the dedication not so much of a building, though it is this, but of a man, his work, and his dream. The man is the Marist priest, Father Marcellin Champagnat born near Lyons, France, in 1789 and raised during the French Revolution and Napoleonic Era in France. His work is the inception of a community of men committed to the Christian education of youth, a group whose life and work were to have a special relevance to the needs of a persecuted and suppressed Christianity. For many years, Father Champagnat observed and lamented the condition of Christianity, plagues by ignorance, superstition, and indifference, but he could not decide in which direction to channel his energies. History tells us that a mountainside encounter with a dying boy who did not even know of the existence of God, convinced Father Champagnat that the most important task for him was to educate the young, the future leaders of the Church. The community he founded to initiate this task has since become known to the world as the Marist Brothers of the Schools.

The dream of Father Champagnat was the eventual propagation of his community, its message and living witness, to every nation and people. Today, this dream is fulfilled in your sight. This groundbreaking ceremony of Champagnat Hall signifies 10,000 Marist Brothers continuing Father Champagnat’s work in 57 countries throughout the world.

After an introduction by the Master of Ceremonies, Dr. John Schroeder, Dean of the Evening Division, there was the Invocation given by Rt. Rev. Msgr. Leo J. Gregg, Dean of Clergy of Dutchess and Putnam counties.

Following this, the Star Spangled Banner was sung by Nick Beni, Brother Edward Cashin, Acting President of Marist College, delivered the welcoming address. Thomas Heffernan, President of The Student Government, gave a short talk, and the groundbreaking ceremony was led by Brother John Lawrence, Chairman of the Board of Trustees. Finally, benediction was given by Rev. James A. Driscoll, O.P., S.T.L., Chaplain of Marist College.

The Guests of Honor, seated in grandstand included: Bro. Patrick Magee, F.M.S., Trustee, Marist College; Bro. Leo Sylvius, F.M.S., Trustee, Marist College; Bro. A. Norbert, F.M.S., Trustee, Marist College; Bro. Leo Vincent, F.M.S., Trustee, Marist College; Bro. M. Andrew, F.M.S., Trustee, Marist College; Bro. John Tardiff, F.M.S., Trustee, Marist College; Bro. John Lawrence, F.M.S., Chairman of Board of Trustees, Marist College; Bro. Paul Stokes, Dean, Evening Division, Marist College; Bro. Edward Cashin, Acting President, Marist College; Rev. James A. Driscoll, O.P., Chaplain, Marist College; Msgr. Leo J. Gregg, Pastor-Holy Trinity Church, Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Dean of Clergy, Dutchess and Putnam Counties; Dr. John Schroeder, Dean, Evening Division, Marist College; John J. Dougherty, Director of Development, Marist College; Mrs. John Kenny, President, Marist Associates; Thomas Heffernan, President, Marist College Student Government; John J. Garland, Jr., Chairman of Board of Advisors, Marist College; Senator E.L. Hufffield; Thomas Mahar, Chairman of Board of Supervisors of Dutchess County; Harold D. Spencer, Vice Chairman of Board of Directors, Western Printing & Lithographing Co.; Assemblyman R. Watson Pomeroy; Clifton Flather, Administrative Director, Dormitory Authority of the State of New York; Janet Vogel, Executive Assistant, Dormitory Authority of the State of New York; Victor Warynas, Mayor, City of Poughkeepsie; Dr. James R. Hall, President of Dutchess County Community College; Paul Canin, Architect for Champagnat Hall; Nick Beni, Local Celebrity and Restauranteur.
Beware of College Students

Critics of our society have been saying, for several years, that American colleges and every country they influence, are grossly conformist oriented. Each one has shown beyond a shadow of a doubt that man feels an inner desire to identify himself with a mode of life, a political party, a movement, a philosophy, and above all to conform to the mores of an economic level slightly above his. The critics also attack the college student for wearing khakis, sneakers (sneakers optional); having short hair, usually parted and combed to the side; donning striped, short-sleeved shirts; driving a sports car; and smoking a pipe that often looks like a blemish on his face. The campus color, the proceeds of these conformity modes which, in recent years, has been conservative; is willing to condemn the long upheld tenets of society, often refusing to obey authority, keeps horrible hours, and often seems to have mud on his shoes and the trophy above Fred's mantle.

"Welcome to the world of Stuffed Students." On your left you see the Yale exhibit. Notice the tie rakishly cast over his shoulder, the large black glasses resting half-way down his nose, and the sly, bloodshot eyes, peering from behind the smoke screen sent up by the extra limb protruding from his mouth. Here ladies and gentlemen, is the universal college student. Fear him. "It would seem out of place if you, Do Not Feed Wild Life sign were not covering the front of the Gimmie India Madras sport jacket.

While this parody is perhaps far-fetched, it still produces a picture to be a consensus of a great many of our pseudo-sociologists. They feel that (1) they have a right to do as they wish (2) those who do them are: Frank L. Barry, Brown Isafar, Brian, Ilona, Brooks, and Big Business should receive some recognition for non-conformity beyond the call of duty, and (3) they must avoid any contact with college thought and when confronted by it must be indifferent. Yet they do play upon the college mind for the sake of profit. We have increased sales of Viceroy and Markhov, advocated expanded college fashions into a booming industry, and made Burt and Harry, and Dooley very happy indeed. All we have accomplished by sheer doses. None that do not in fact demonstrate that we, the college students, are contributing to the health of our own society, they are in almost every major publication in America, each year. A whole survey was decided to determine our new life and sex linked factors, such as habits and ideas of beauty. If every college student was to associate himself with the Civil Rights Movement, the program would have to be changed to eliminate the decency conventions acquired because of our association. This is the power we wield. This is the evil of college. So say the critics.

Yet, we are in college to learn. Some would disagree and say that we are here to increase our financial success after graduation. However, they cannot and will not admit the knowledge must be attained in order to receive a diploma. Therefore, the college students are the embryonic intellectuals. It is from this embryonic stage we will be born. This is the philosophy of the pseudo-sociologists, are placing too much emphasis upon the external. They are generalizing too much when they say colleges accept a student by the same sex and that the student does not necessarily influence the so-called regimented thinking as much as the critics would have us believe. The fact that we tend to question the tenets of society, the established norms of behavior, does not stem from an external source. It comes from within the student's thinking. It arises from his position as a partner in the Intelligentsia Co. He places himself outside society and looks inward instead of around. This is a process that sometimes radical, sometimes meaningless, but he does investigate this. This is what our country needs, a true spirit, a real ideal. Do to the critics of the college student. For all of the young people having a minimum percentage are not the heart of college. We are the ones who will make or break this country. In the long run, our actions will determine the nature of life it produces. This transcends the externals and if nurtured will develop into a much needed feeling of pride in the American but only if our questions are answered and the answer is reasonable.

Death comes silently and swiftly and forces us to ponder the ultimate value of life.

Empirically proven to be transitory success cannot be measured by length or endurance.

Nor can wealth or material accoutrements be used as the "yardstick of life."

The essence of what is to have is the holding of the same thing, even the most austere observer.

Perhaps the most we can say of a full life is that it lived "daily," and beyond this obvious redundancy lie the answer to Christ's query.

Non-existent or at best "crude" to the hardened, it is over-flowing in beauty to the godless.

James Allender Whay, choose this eighth day of July, 1964, knew that "Life is static, Stable early in life, his path,Galva's dead. 35 months later,明 他 is dim. Obstacles still exist. Ah, he has watched the prize.

May the Christian God bless him and Many be interceders for us to Him.

Barry Goldwater, the recently nominated Republican presidential candidate, has, of late, caused a certain amount of commotion with his political philosophy which is basically opposed to the tradition of his party. Senator Goldwater, obviously a strict constructivst, believes that the constitution should be interpreted strictly and the Federal Government should assume only those specific duties which are prescribed in the Constitution. What the Senator does not understand is that the constitution has been interpreted. In other words, the Federal Government is only able to assume its duties outside of the constitution if it is made able to by the people. The Senate is opposed to this belief and the Senator would be left alone to cope with their problems. The Senator is unsure as to their abilities or unwilling to assume them.

The Goldwater philosophy, therefore, is a fundamental one. When one compares some of his public statements to those made in 1962 in an article in Connecticut Classie, one can see where the Senator is coming from. He is against the federal government, having had an historical role in...
Beware of College Students

Critics of our society have been saying, for several years, that Americans, and every country they influence, are grossly, conventionally oriented. Each one has shown beyond a shadow of a doubt that man feels an innate desire to identify himself with a mode of life, a political party, a smoking, a philosophy, and above all to conform to the mores of an economic level slightly below him. A critic also attacks the college student for wearing khakis, sneakers (socks optional); having short hair, usually parted and combed to the side; donning striped, short sleeve, shirts; driving a sports car; and smoking a pipe that often looks like a blenheim on his face. The student, it seems, is the most radical political factor which, in recent years, has been conservative; is willing to condemn the upkeep costs of society, often refuses to obey authority, keeps up on, hours, and is the one who would have made the trophy above Freud’s mantel.

"Welcome to the World of Stuffed Students." On your left you have the Yale exhibit. Notice the tie rakishly cast over his shoulder, the large black glasses resting half-way down his nose, and the hypnotic, bloodshot eyes, peering from behind the smoke screen sent out by the extra lime presurizing from his mouth. Here ladies and gentlemen, is the universal college student. Pave him. "It would seem out of place if you... Do Not Feed Wild Life sign were not covering the front of the Genuine India Madras sports jacket.

"This dirty parade is far from finished, it still produces a sense to be a consensus of many of our pseudo-sociologists. They feel that: (1) the students’ dress, (2) their hair, (3) the wigs of President Barry, Brown defers, Birier, Hoosa, Brooks, and Big Business should receive no recognition for non-conformity beyond the call of duty, and (3) they must avoid any contact with college thought when and by which it would be more advantageous. Yet they do play upon the college mind for the sake of profit. We have increased sales of Varsity and Marshall, nominated in Cartwright, expanded college fashions into a booming industry, and made Burt and Barry, and Dooley very happy indeed. All have we accomplished by sheer force. Now that does not in itself demonstrate that we, the college students, are the desire of our own; we have to have our own or we are going to have an almost every major publication in America, each year. A whole survey was devoted to determine our new life and sex linked factors, such as habits and ideas of beauty. If every college student was to associate himself with the Civil Rights Movement, the program would have been to change to eliminate the decency consciousness acquired during our childhood, this is the power we wield. This is the evil of college. So say the critics.

Yet, we are in college to learn. Some would disagree and say we are here to increase our financial success after graduation. However, they can- not educate the knowledge must be obtained in order to receive a diploma, therefore, the college students are the evolutionary intelligentsia. It is from this entity that our thinking will be world wide. The critics say that the pseudo-sociologists, are placing too much emphasis upon the exterior. They are generalizing too much when they say college sup- ported them. One does not need any more evidence than exists the same and the student is sometimes given the license of the evidence of the society, the established norms of behavior, does not stem from an external source. It comes from within the student. It is not unique in- dependently from his position as a junior partner in the Intelligentsia Co. He places him- self outside society and looks inward instead of around. He is often misunderstood, sometimes maligned, but sometimes he does this. It investigate this, which our country needs, a true spirit, a realistic. To the critics of the college student. We are the men who are not the heart of life. We are the ones who will make or break this country. We are the ones who will make or break this law which we should be aware of life; it produces. This transcends the externals and if nurtured will develop into this much needed feeling of pride for being American but only if our questions are answered and the answer - reasonable.

---

Slowlu Your President

by Brenda Branderthts

and Carrie Nation

"For the first time in a number of decades the people of the United States are to be given a definite choice in the 1964 Presidential election. The domination of liberal policy has been threaten- ing the conservative party with a loss of the national level. The incumbent Demo- crats are retesting their hopes on Lyn- don B. Johnson, while the Republicans are foster- ing their hopes on Barry Goldwater and William Miller. In the interest of fairly, the political candid- dates will be assessed in a careful pers- pective for the first time in the history of the party. The candidates, who so confidently support the most radical policies which, in recent years, has been conservative; is willing to condemn the upkeep costs of society, often refuses to obey authority, keeps up on, hours, and is the one who would have made the trophy above Freud’s mantel.

"Welcome to the World of Stuffed Students." On your left you have the Yale exhibit. Notice the tie rakishly cast over his shoulder, the large black glasses resting half-way down his nose, and the hypnotic, bloodshot eyes, peering from behind the smoke screen sent out by the extra lime presurizing from his mouth. Here ladies and gentlemen, is the universal college student. Pave him. "It would seem out of place if you... Do Not Feed Wild Life sign were not covering the front of the Genuine India Madras sports jacket.

"This dirty parade is far from finished, it still produces a sense to be a consensus of many of our pseudo-sociologists. They feel that: (1) the students’ dress, (2) their hair, (3) the wigs of President Barry, Brown defers, Birier, Hoosa, Brooks, and Big Business should receive no recognition for non-conformity beyond the call of duty, and (3) they must avoid any contact with college thought when and by which it would be more advantageous. Yet they do play upon the college mind for the sake of profit. We have increased sales of Varsity and Marshall, nominated in Cartwright, expanded college fashions into a booming industry, and made Burt and Barry, and Dooley very happy indeed. All have we accomplished by sheer force. Now that does not in itself demonstrate that we, the college students, are the desire of our own; we have to have our own or we are going to have an almost every major publication in America, each year. A whole survey was devoted to determine our new life and sex linked factors, such as habits and ideas of beauty. If every college student was to associate himself with the Civil Rights Movement, the program would have been to change to eliminate the decency consciousness acquired during our childhood, this is the power we wield. This is the evil of college. So say the critics.

Yet, we are in college to learn. Some would disagree and say we are here to increase our financial success after graduation. However, they can- not educate the knowledge must be obtained in order to receive a diploma, therefore, the college students are the evolutionary intelligentsia. It is from this entity that our thinking will be world wide. The critics say that the pseudo-sociologists, are placing too much emphasis upon the exterior. They are generalizing too much when they say college sup- ported them. One does not need any more evidence than exists the same and the student is sometimes given the license of the evidence of the society, the established norms of behavior, does not stem from an external source. It comes from within the student. It is not unique in- dependently from his position as a junior partner in the Intelligentsia Co. He places him- self outside society and looks inward instead of around. He is often misunderstood, sometimes maligned, but sometimes he does this. It investigate this, which our country needs, a true spirit, a realistic. To the critics of the college student. We are the men who are not the heart of life. We are the ones who will make or break this country. We are the ones who will make or break this law which we should be aware of life; it produces. This transcends the externals and if nurtured will develop into this much needed feeling of pride for being American but only if our questions are answered and the answer - reasonable.

---

The Inconsistent Candidate

Bill Driscoll

Barry Goldwater, the recently nominated Republican candidate, has, of late, been the recipient of much criticism, much praise, as well as his basic philosophy. He is not a running, dynamic candidate, but a candidate who is often called a special interest candidate. He is also often called a special interest candidate by those who are against him in the election process. Barry Goldwater, obviously is a strict constructionist, that is, he believes that the constitution should be interpreted strictly and the Federal Government should assume only those specific duties related to that particular part of the Constitution. What the Senator does not understand is that the constitu- tion is not a list of items that the Federal Government is only able to assure. The states have a right to be able to make laws that are either unusable or unwilling to assume. If we, therefore, agree that all citizens’ rights and privileges should be guaranteed—and if a state is unable or unwilling to assume those rights or privileges than it is left to the Federal Government to guarantee those to all citizens. Senator Goldwater is opposed to this idea, but is often himself, he should be left alone to cope with their own problems and not be unusable or unwilling to carry out their duties.

"The Goldwater philosophy, there- fore, comes from the idea that if one compares one of his state to a state of the Union in 1962 in an article in Continental Class- room, to point out that in 1962, one cannot accept that the Federal Government has had an historical role in... education," yetGoldwater voted to cur- tail funds for vocational aids, etc. Thus, he does not believe that the poverty he voted against the poverty bill, in the National Journal on June 30, 1964 Goldwater stated... at this moment. Goldwater has been in Congress for forty years, which is not an in- dustry. Another major topic is that of the Eastern financial power and banks. This was suggested from New York and J. F. Morgan to the West. As the Goldwater quoted: "As a ques- tion of democracy boisterous it is appar- ent that the Federal Government allows the urban areas from the throes of poverty. Ever since the legislative and judicial powers have been the expansive and growth of New York City.

Crime has appeared as a new issue on the political scene. Over two re- cent years, there has been a new crime wave. "A heaping up of our Federal war of the streets, and at the same time the actions of such notorious figures as the James Brothers, Muddy Rivers, and Wyatt Earp. "In conjunction with cont. pg. 5
CROWDED CAMPUS CONDITIONS

Campus Corner

By Jill Sullivan

One of the most striking aspects of life on the Dartmouth campus is the amount of freedom which the students enjoy. In a college our size, one would expect the opposite to be the case, for many of the larger institutions which are supposed to serve 16,000 people, the recreation areas are only a few feet away from the pool tables and players of other table games. The overall atmosphere is nearly impossible to describe. By the recreation of the Danman residence area, some of the faculty are deprived of their private office. A classroom was supposed to have been divided up into cubicles as a substitute for office space. The schedule was altered so that there were no more classrooms. Instead, the lounge in the residence area was transformed so that it could serve as a study as well.

Upon interviewing the faculty members in their offices, it was found that while the lounge is spacious, airy and a place to work, it does have disadvantages. First, it lacks privacy, being too open for solitude, which is necessary for concentration. Second, it takes away from the student who might seek refuge from the faculty member's office. For this reason, the lounge is not likely to go to this open area to review his problems with his advisor.

The day hopes, who lost their lounge in the process, seem to be taking it well. Generally, it is the advice and assistance judge students. Our newspaper, the campus news, has expressed a liberal view perhaps, that the lounge was a bit too public. Over all, it felt no restrictions were to be endured. However, the responsibilities remain, our campus newspaper will now handle the lounge. It's our duty to lessen the inconvenience and learn to endure with quiet patience.

CANDIDATE (cont.)

The campaign, Goldwater was quoted by the New York Times Magazine of Politics as saying, "I do not pretend to think any division of the Supreme Court is a good one, and I am for civil service." Despite this, on July 21, 1964 in a recorded interview, he said he was for the opposition to Civil Rights Bills on Constitutional grounds. "It is up to the Supreme Court to determine whether I was right or wrong."

NAT. TEACHER

PRINCETON, N.J., SEPTEMBER 18th, 1964 - Seniors preparing for their final year in high school may take the National Teacher Examination on four different dates and register with administrators in their colleges. The exam, pro-

Exams Scheduled

Many school districts (on Socrates) offer non-credit teaching courses at ETS and others administer the examinations. The National Teacher Examination, pro-

The test site is taken to and from which dates they should be taken.

This information contains registration forms, lists of testing centers, and instructions about the test. The form may be obtained from college placement offices, school boards, or directly from National Teacher Examinations, Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N.J. 08540.

CREW: A NEW COACH; A NEW LOOK...

Coach Arrol, in his first year here at Marist, is pleased with the turned around, especially those aspiration of class of '68. It is of importance to note that freshmen are eligible for only one of two freshmen boat, but also for the junior varsity only. This way can Marist build for the future and still turn out fine crews for the varsity competition. The freshmen and students of the college can be justly proud of the Marist crew, undertaking an intense training program for the students to represent them.

Another observation was made by Michael Pappas, who stated that the novel was intended to raise the standard of people who lived in the converted room to have the same kind of outlook as those who lived in the infamy in Leo Hall. In a

Page Five

The crime issue there is the morality problem. The college should consider the amount of freedom which the students enjoy.

The incident President Lyndon Johnson's election may be attributed to the publication of such low and ob-

The most important event of 1964 was the election of President Lyndon B. Johnson. Another example is the increa-

The race issue seems to be steadily gaining ground in favor of the Sena-

Senator Goldwater, are the adversative work of the Red Menace. It is definitely-

The Senator has taken part in staying down himself from radical groups and the young people who are anti-

The populations of the hoodwinked who voted and those of the hoodwinked, harbor, quietly disguised as Indians. The popul which the eventual faith, success or failure, of said school is determined. Perhaps I should clarify the term of which I have spoken. It does not exclusively encompass that of a late convert or an unquenched social question, but does consist of a different type of freedom, a freedom which per-

Although Senator Goldwater and the members of his own party, he ig-

The Senator has taken part in staying down himself from radical groups and the young people who are anti-

The Senator's relationship is so close that he can be found at Christmas, New Year's, Easter, Lujong Day, Memorial Day, July 4th, September 17th, Independence Day, Wednesday, etc. The qualities of this earmark man are too numerous to con-

After a careful scrutiny of the issues Barry Goldwater and Fred Bremner are confronting with the monumental problem of deciding between these two President aspirants. Because their qualities are so different our endorse-

T. Swallows, The Prohibitionary Party Candidate. His national prominence is self-explanecho and his public record impeccable. Although he does not have the experience of his recent retirement may still be an effective factor in the national government. ... "Happy days are here again - Swallows in '64."

PREDICTIONS

Electoral Votes - Johnson 307, Gold-

The transfer of urban security with almost no increase in rates. The commuter burial also enhances the President's "Keep America beautiful" campaign.

The incumbent President Lyndon Johnson's situation is an example of the summer of love, but to an overall increase in the number of students in the fall, this year's freshman class is actually some thirty students smaller than the class of 1963. A con-

Mr. Arrol will be the new coach of the Marist crew. He has been active in the sport for over thirty years and has been a coach for over thirty years. He has been active in the sport for over thirty years.

Continental, I'll see you at 0:00.

No, there isn't any sprinkle in the above statement. Mr. Arrol will be the new coach of the Marist crew. The next morning he drives up to the boathouse and mentions to the rest of the crew his new position and that he is ready to continue their battle for positions in the Marist shell.

Work is hard, equipment costs are high, the battle has raged; it will not cease until the end of the season. There is no letup on anyone's part even former vacant places have to put out or risk losing their seat.

FROTH TOUTS EASY SELL

Coach Arrol, in his first year here at Marist, is pleased with the turned around, especially those aspiration of class of '68. It is of importance to note that freshmen are eligible for only one of two freshmen boat, but also for the junior varsity only. Only in this way can Marist build for the future and still turn out fine crews for the varsity competition. The freshmen and students of the college can be justly proud of the Marist crew, undertaking an intense training program for the students to represent them.

..."

A number of these rooms, there are eight students living in each, and only one bathroom, despite the fact that it is a large room, it is still overcrowded. The rooms are located in the dormitory, student's housing, shown is a room which is supposed to serve 16 people, but it only serves about 10. The recreation area is right next to this room, and the noise from the pool tables and players makes the atmosphere nearly impossible. The recreation of the Danman residence area, some of the faculty are deprived of their private office. A classroom was supposed to have been divided up into cubicles as a substitute for office space. The schedule was altered so that there were no more classrooms. Instead, the lounge in the residence area was transformed so that it could serve as a study area.

The day hopes, who lost their lounge in the process, seem to be taking it well. Generally, it is the advice and assistance judge students. Our newspaper, the campus news, has expressed a liberal view perhaps, that the lounge was a bit too public. Over all, it felt no restrictions were to be endured. However, the responsibilities remain, our campus newspaper will now handle the lounge. It's our duty to lessen the inconvenience and learn to endure with quiet patience.

The campaign, Goldwater was quoted by the New York Times Magazine of Politics as saying, "I do not pretend to think any division of the Supreme Court is a good one, and I am for civil service." Despite this, on July 21, 1964 in a recorded interview, he said he was for the opposition to Civil Rights Bills on Constitutional grounds. "It is up to the Supreme Court to determine whether I was right or wrong."

NAT. TEACHER

PRINCETON, N.J., SEPTEMBER 18th, 1964 - Seniors preparing for their final year in high school may take the National Teacher Examination on four different dates and register with administrators in their colleges. The exam, pro-

Exams Scheduled

Many school districts (on Socrates) offer non-credit teaching courses at ETS and others administer the examinations. The National Teacher Examination, pro-

The test site is taken to and from which dates they should be taken.

This information contains registration forms, lists of testing centers, and instructions about the test. The form may be obtained from college placement offices, school boards, or directly from National Teacher Examinations, Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N.J. 08540.

CREW: A NEW COACH; A NEW LOOK...

Coach Arrol, in his first year here at Marist, is pleased with the turned around, especially those aspiration of class of '68. It is of importance to note that freshmen are eligible for only one of two freshmen boat, but also for the junior varsity only. Only in this way can Marist build for the future and still turn out fine crews for the varsity competition. The freshmen and students of the college can be justly proud of the Marist crew, undertaking an intense training program for the students to represent them.

Another observation was made by Michael Pappas, who stated that the novel was intended to raise the standard of people who lived in the converted room to have the same kind of outlook as those who lived in the infamy in Leo Hall. In a..."
CROWDED CAMPUS CONDITIONS

Campus Corner

by Jim Sullivan

One of the most striking aspects of life at the present moment is the severe amount of freedom which the student enjoys today.

In a college our size, one would expect the opposite to be the case, for the big schools, where the reconciliation space is supposed to serve 16 people, is not easy to maintain a steady school. The does the recreation recite from right next to this room, and the noise from the pool tables and players of the in any case, this year's freshman class is actually some thirty students smaller than the class of 1947. A considerable reduction of the freshman class would have led to an increase in the future. Therefore, to preserve the balance it was necessary to temporarily overdo the present problem, which will be alleviated when the new dormitory is completed next year.

Paul Ngigu, a resident of Leo Hall, complained about the lack of quiet before he was placed to study, since the conversion of the study rooms in both dorms into sleeping quarters has almost eliminated the areas, outside of his room, where a student can study in the content of quiet, which is necessary for concentration.

The dormitory situation is not always able to study in one's room, and now there is simply no place to go. Of course, there is the library, but that is usually quite crowded, and also not available for much of the time. J. P. So the student has no choice but to study at all or perhaps studying under abnormal conditions.

Another observation was made by Michael P classroom is supposed to turn on the students, who said that the students, who do not go to study in their room, may be the people who are having the most fun in Leo Hall.

CANDIDATE (cont.)

of the campaign, Goldwater was quoted by the New York Times Magazine of being the Senator with the greatest chance to win.

The campaign's strategy is to think any declaration of the Supreme Court for the campaign as an advantage. ly he said he would be opposed to the rejection of the Constitutional rights.

But he was happy, on July 21, 1954 in a re- cruited interview he said that he would be opposed to the rejection of the Constitutional rights, "It's up to the Supreme Court to decide whether I was right or wrong."}

Nat, Teacher

PRINCETON, N.J., SEPTEMBER 18.- The Princeton University Senate, after a debate which took place by ETHS, a non-profit, educational organization that admission.

New dates for the testing of students who have been accepted by ETHS, and the pro- \textbf{Exam Schedule}

List of schools, with dates of testing and the number of students who have agreed to take the exams.

RED WINE

The crime issue is that the predictable time is now, and the problem of freedom of the nation's youth may be attributed to the publication of such low and ob- scure and deadly news in the pulp magazines. Another example is the inc- crease in the number of adolescent boys and girls who are under 17 years of age.

Although the race issue seems to be steadily gaining ground in favor of the Sena- tor, the attitude of Senator Goldwater, the abrasive work of the Red Menace, is definitely- ly one of the most important factors acting Chief Pontiac on the Michigan frontier. The Senator has taken pains to de- scribe himself as a friend of radicals and to be more closely associated with the spirit of the bards. So the desertion of the hoodwinkers who foisted and destroyed the pioneer spirit of the brave, harbor, quietly disguised as Indians.

Conclusion. Although Senator Goldwater is very much on the members of his own party, he ignores the threats of Joseph Smith of New York, who claims to be the chief of the new movement of Republican thought, to move to Utah, if Senator is elected. A consensus shows a bipartisan support from various religious and ethnic groups. The liberal Catholic thinker, Dr. James, of the city, has praised the Arizona Senator as well as the renowned liberal Dr. Abraham Lincoln. (A New Englander, 7th, is the Home of Goldwater's chances in October (Julian Calendar).

Another argument that is clearly pointed out by Dr. Johnson, who is now famous for his "Minds", is in letting him in on a more important part next year to speak for itself. The charge of crookedness as a political weapon, which is not directly as a threat to the popularly recognized, is an important factor that can only per- sonally benefit the candidate. Dr. Goldwater's chance is 7th in Congress.

Senate Race

Kemmy over Reiving

Mauling over O'Brien (no contest)

O'Byrne over McKinley (no contest)

Last year's All America team would go either way, both candidates are well known.

For Dr. Balch a shoe-in in the 13th, (octuary, (national district) over Dr. D. A. Dimenna.

STICKS

in take to and co which dates they should be taken.

This site contains information registration forms, lists of test centers, the dates of tests, and information about the exams. These exams may be offered for undergraduate students, graduate students, military personnel, or foreign students.

CREW: A NEW COACH; A NEW LOOK...

"Come on, I'll see you at 0600.

No, there isn't anyone in the shadow with a book, according to Coach Ardel as he dismisses his team, "You're really going to make a good man."

The same morning he drove up to the boathouse at 0600. He then got the team ready to continue their battle for positions in the Maribeth shell.

"You guys are ready for the battle hag; it will not cease until the last stroke of the bell. There is no hope on anyone's part; even former varcas have a thing to put out or risk losing their seat."
Sports Outlook '64-'65

Sports, as most people will agree, are an important part of college life. Marist is no exception to the general rule. Each year our caliber of intercollegiate competitive sports increases. This year, for example, we go against representatives from schools like Fairfield, Kings Point, Cooper Union, St. John’s, Iona, and St. Louis, to name a few.

Our Soccer team is rushing headlong into its second season. During the past week they battled the Scholastics in an excellent match out on the athletic field. For the season, the team faces a rugged 11-game schedule running through the month of October and on into early November. The opponents are in for a big surprise if they think the Foxes aren’t fighters. Dr. Goldman’s squad is out to win!

The Harriers of the Cross Country team are avidly training for their schedule under the guidance of Mr. Lewis. This sport of endurance encompasses the month of October and the team members can be seen practicing all over campus.

As the icy, snow laden, winter winds take command of the weather, the Marist program of athletics shifts indoors. Varsity Basketball opens on December 1st. The team should be adorned with numerous veterans from last year’s squad. This experience will show on the hardwood during the 33 game schedule. Our new coach, Mr. Paul Arolf, takes over the team from Mr. T. Wade, now the Director of Admissions.

December 1st also signals the beginning of another Wrestling campaign under the direction of Mr. Lewis Schultz. Unlike the staged television matches this wrestling is an art of holds and counter holds, mixed in with speed and alertness. Here, too, many veterans should be returning but there is always room for new blood.

Last but far from least is the Freshman hoosters. The Frosh quintet was originated last year by Dr. Goldman, its present coach. The chosen Frosh from this class should give a good account of themselves if the pre-trial meeting is any indication of what is to come.

Members of all the teams undergo weeks of gruelling conditioning and then months of constant practice as they are molded into a unit that thinks and acts like a single person.

All told the sports outlook for the year to come is rosy. The Marist men are out to make headlines in every facet of the sports world: they’re out to let people know that Marist exists! These men have a strong will to win and, with our support, they will! We of the student body need them and they need us!

crew...

years, these two individuals have proven themselves time and time again. They will most assuredly insist in their teammates the same unceasing desire for perfection.

On October 31st, the Marist crew will host the Fall Regatta. Invited crews include Fordham and St. John’s, finalists in last year’s Dad Vail Regatta, and Iona, the 1964 President’s Cup Winner. The rivalry between Marist and her invited guest has always been intense, and this year will be no exception. Following six weeks of strenuous training, the Red Foxes will be ready. Yet, no matter how ready our team may be, it still needs our support if it is to come home victorious. They’ve ‘gone through a lot for the opportunity to represent you; the 31st will be your opportunity to show them you appreciate what they have done.

Senior Class Raffle
Two Tickets for HELO DOLLY
Dinner and Cocktails for Two at Exclusive N. Y. Restaurant
‘Top of the Six’s
Plus $10 Transportation Expenses
Oct. 15 to Nov. 2