Marist College's vaunted "cardboard Gymnasium" has served, in addition, as a theatre. The Cyn's inadequacy in this particular aspect of its usefulness hardly needs new questions.

The Theatre Guild of Marist voted the club of the year in '63-'64. It is this group, in particular, and the student body in general, which will profit from the inclusion of the new theatre in Champagnat Hall. The theatre will seat 350 persons in three seating zones. Brother Linus Foy has described it as "small but intimate."

The theatre will be equipped with a 2500 wpm workshop directly behind the stage. Attached to the workshop will be a truck dock to facilitate the loading and unloading of scenery. There will be two dressing rooms, with additional rooms available if necessary. Sets will be made from the used scenery of the Performing Arts Association and the odd one can be made and any problems can be solved by means of a fly loft to raise and lower scenery. There will be ample space available for storage of costumes and stage equipment. Brother Linus has termed the theatre "the most well equipped theatre between New York City and Albany."

For those interested in statistics, the stage will be 60 feet wide by 30 feet deep. The total cost of the theatre is estimated to be $250 thousand dollars. This figure can be subdivided into 50 thousand dollars for lighting equipment, 211 thousand dollars for the lighting, and the curtain mechanism, 10 thousand dollars for the seating facilities, and 300 thousand dollars for the physical plant.

Of particular note are the facts that the theatre will be air conditioned equipped with a movie screen and two projectors, and wired for closed circuit television.

There will be a gallery lounge for use during intermissions, and the Bathbeater will be easily accessible from the theatre. All in all this theatre promises to be one of the most modern structures in Champagnat Hall because it will be our face forward to the many residents of this area.

-Radiating smiles, lively cheers, and uncontrollable spirit all define one group: the eight cheerleaders from the Mount Saint Mary College, Newburgh. Sporting the school's traditional colors, the girls effortlessly gave of their time and effort to cheer "The Foxes" on, arriving in snow and sleet just to carry on what they themselves considered "a real joy...we really had a lot of fun and are grateful to the Booster Club for their aid and support."

Captained by Peggy Conlon, and her co-worker Kathleen Reineke, the group consisted of Kathy Sullivan, Rosita Caridi, Kathy Lucy, Sue Mullen, Sheila Fagan and Dawne Crocito. When asked for a comment the girls called out in unison "Yeah, John Murphy." The girls' only wish is "that all games could have as much of a turnout and spirit as the New Paltz game."

To show their appreciation for the spirit the girls added to the games, the Booster Club is planning a night out for the girls, including dinner, and then dancing at the Polish Club.

They feel that the girls have really deserved this for the faithfulness they showed in attending all the home games, and also for the time they had to spend practicing before each game.

Also greatly appreciative of the efforts of the cheerleaders is Mr. Arold, Coach of "The Foxes." "Early in the year I was approached by the girls from Mount St. Mary's, and asked if I would allow them to cheer for the varsity basketball team. After consideration, Dr. Golinkman and I agreed to let the girls cheer. That was the last time I myself had anything to do personally with the girls. On their own, the girls organized their cheers, procured their uniforms, and never missed a home game. They are a credit to their school and to themselves, and The Athletic Department is greatly appreciative of their fine spirit."

As for the basketball players themselves, their reaction seems to be summed up by the "gator" (Wally Abrahams) when he said, "I really enjoyed them...they really added a lot to the spirit of the games."

A constitution has been prepared for the approval of the student government by one of Marist's newest organizations, the Opera Club. The purpose of the club, as stated by its moderator, Mr. John White, is simply "to listen to opera. Meetings are held in Adrian lounge every Wednesday afternoon from 4:00 till 5:30; a particularly good time for participation by comparing students. The meeting usually consists of a brief explanation of the scene and plot of the opera and some comments by the performers by Mr. White followed by the opera itself.

The club tries to vary the types of operas played. The selections planned for future meetings include: Verdi's "Aida" and Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana."

As the first club of its type on campus, the Opera Club has hopes of doing several things to help the college and its growth. Bill Glidson, the spokesman for the students in the club, hopes that the club will be able to work in conjunction with the tentative radio station, and that it will be able to institute a permanent record library on campus.

A general meeting to discuss the club's organization is scheduled for Wednesday, March 24, in Adrian Lounge, for all students interested in learning more about the club.

Future Teachers Speak

by Fred J. Wadnowa

Three Seniors and two Marist Graduates discussed the relationships of the student teacher and the school in which he is laying the foundation for his future profession. The panel discussion held Sunday night at Fontaine Hall was moderated by Teacher Education Chairman Dr. William J. Murphy and was held for the Marist Student Brothers, who will be sending their first group of Student Brothers next year to participate in the Practice Teaching program.

The panel, stressing such points as techniques of student motivation, cooperation with the supervising teachers, etc. and other problems of the student teachers, agreed the program is a necessity for all prospective teachers.

The graduates, Daniel Fogarty ('64) and John Marquette ('63) pointed out how teaching problems were overcome in the classroom largely due to training in the Marist Teacher Education Program. The three Seniors who have been involved in practice teaching outlined practical applications of teaching experiences while still students at Marist. The Seniors, Jerry Weyant, Larry Flower and Fred Wadnowa are three of nine seniors in the Program instituted and supervised by Brother Murphy.
FEDDECK AND WATERS HEAD NEW COUNCIL

by Ray Stewart

The hustle and bustle of the campaign never seems to end. The general consensus seems to be that the Students and their associates are down and a semblance of quiet reigns once again in the halls of the Student Government office. The thrill of politics has ebbed away, and with it, the intensity of the campaign. The Student Government has settled down to the business of governing and serving the Student Body.

Mr. Michael B. Feddeck, the new President of the Student Government, is leaving no stone unturned. He has promised a strong, unified leadership that will work to the best advantage of all the students. His vision for the future includes the creation of a more inclusive environment where all students feel welcome and valued.

Mr. Feddeck expressed his gratitude to the outgoing Council for their hard work and dedication. He stated, "I am truly honored to be elected as your President and I promise to work hard to make sure that your voices are heard and your needs are met."

Pre-Election Bustle

By Al May

True to the accepted traditions of the past, Presidential candidates Billy Sullivan and Mike Feddeck held their final rallies in Lee Lounge on March 1 and 2, respectively. The latter rally was highlighted by the harmonizing of Bob Johnson, Buddy, and Jack Bowers, all of whom accompanied themselves on guitars. Among this was also playing Larry Frank's singing act. The entrance of the Feddeck rally provided the Federal Bay Volunteer, Bobby, with an opportunity to entertain, which was to be found in the presence of a small boy of female button-potter-shots from Melbourne College.

The major attraction at the rally was a discussion of school politics by the candidates. However, Mr. Feddeck gave a short speech and asked for questions, this lasting for about ten minutes.

The aims of the rally seemed to be entertainment and relaxation and this seems to have been the main goal of those attending. Did the rally swing any votes? Who knows.

Clothes: Collegiate or Outlandish

This is not a political debate. In fact it is not a debate. It is rather a social suggestion. The term collegiate has often been associated with politics. For a change a controversy of this sort is to be enjoyed. To meet this type of debate may be laid to the suggestion that probably evolve from the fact that in the eyes of the public the seeming sympathetic effects of the Boy Scouts and the YMCA can be applied to the contours of the collegiate. The fact that the Boy Scouts and the YMCA are both used for the same purposes, but the latter ones are return to the collegiate. PRE-ELECTION BUSTLE

by Al May

True to the accepted traditions of the past, Presidential candidates Bill Sullivan and Mike Fiedler held their last campaign rallies in Lee Lounge on Mar 1 and 2 respectively. Last year’s rally was highlighted by the harmonizing of Bob Johnson, Ross, and Jack Burke, all of whom accompanied themselves on guitars. This year was busier playing Larry Finn’s singing reunion. The entrance to the Fiedler rally was provided by the Fiedler Boy Volunteers, Mickey McKinley, know as the "Foundation of Student Life" entertainment was to be found in the presence of a small bary of female button-poppets courtesy of Michelle Coelho. From a major attraction at Marist, consisted in cake and soda at the Sullivan, rally and cookies and soda at Fiedler. Notably valid at the rallies was a discussion of an issue politics by the candidates. However, Mr. Fiedler gave a short speech and asked for questions, this lasting for about ten minutes.

The aim of the rally seemed to be entertainment and relaxation and those seemed to have been had by the majority of those attending. Did the rally swing any votes? Who knows.

This is not a political debate. In fact it is not a debate. It is rather a social suggestion. The term "collegiate" has so often been associated with politics. For a change a conserva tive way of looking at the matter will be presented. To meet students, types of dress may be la tegarded as seen probably en tively evolved from the fact that in the eyes of the public the amusing ty tics (Taylor, Harvard, Princeton, etc.) have been and will continue to be conservative dressers. The so-called "collegiate" types are young, and have a standard of dress that has not resigned from the Student Government. He stated that The Marck
d election results had a "negative effect" on his resulting from the Student govern dent. He said that "students' education needs restructuring, relating tocollage and course offerings. Because I could not do this at the present time, and so serve on the Student Government simultaneously, I have decided to resign." April 15, 1985. Mike Fiedler will be a pre candidate for this office.

FROM THE DEPTHS

by Joe Turner

If any student reading this column expects to find a light, humorous, philosophical duty of life at Marist I would suggest that he is wrong. This column will rather be "Our March." I am not asking you to agree with everything I say in this column. Rather I am asking you to consider the opinions herein expressed and to form your own ideas. More than this I am demanding that er garding this campus. Each week I write a page of opinion about the life of the campus. The primary page will be devoted to a discussion of the week's events. The second page will be devoted to a discussion of "Our March." The third page will be devoted to a discussion of the week's events. This column is a forum for the exchange of ideas and opinions. It is a vehicle for the expression of the views of the students of this institution.

Lights Out

The Student Council, while its en deavors are often concerned with stu dent affairs and organizations, also has an interest in student social week eyard. Last Friday the Student Council sponsored an outdoor event in the Student Union Center and provided food and drink for all attendees. From 9 to 11 p.m. in Adams Lounge. The event was sponsored by the Fiedler Boy Volunteers, and free beer was served. This tradition was followed by music and dancing. The Student Council, realizing the gap created by these weekends when activities are scheduled, provided these kind of social events so that student groups can spend time together in a pleasant environment.

Dear Editor,

I would like to talk about the problem of "dumb" campus. I am not sure what to call this problem. What I am referring to is the attitude of some students who seem to be dense about the things that are happening around them.

I believe that the time has come for the campus to discuss the problem of "dumb" campus. Many critical issues are facing our college today, and it is important that we address this issue in a thoughtful and constructive way. I am writing this letter to express my concerns and to encourage others to do the same.

I hope that this letter will be a starting point for a dialogue on the issue of campus dumbness. I am confident that we can find solutions to this problem and create a campus environment that is more engaging and rewarding for all of us.

Sincerely,

SPORTS

One of the strongest, yet often overlooked points of a liberal arts curriculum is that of Physical Education. Its purpose is to develop and the results of a well-handled program in it can be of great benefit to the individual. Yet too many high schools and colleges pass off this course as "gym," a free for all, lightly supervised recreational period, inviting fun but not education.

The Physical Education department at Mariest College is going to change this direction. It appears to hold the value of athletic endeavors as an integral part of the individual's growth in mind and body. The development of one's physical capabilities often tend to aid the development of better mental attitudes and strengths. Mind and body are closely united, and a well balanced athletic program can bring about a greater understanding and control of the mind by developing understanding and control of the body.

There are other values of physical education. Sports is an important part of modern American society. As a recreational activity, its benefits are innumerable. Besides being a spectator, anyone can participate in a number of sports for relaxation and enjoyment. One of the aims of the physical education program at Mariest is to develop a greater understanding of sports, hoping for a greater participation and appreciation of its individual values. It can generally be said that there are three kinds of athletes: natural athletes, who possess extremely good co-ordination and sense of play; average athletes, who, with practice, can develop to meet most sports and activities; and poor athletes, who have often an undeveloped sense of agility and their learning of new sports comes hard. Mariest's physical education program favors none of these groups and gives everyone an equal opportunity to achieve a good grade in the course. By a number of essays, ranging in topic from "The Important Role of Play in America" to "The Values of Tumbling," and a written final exam, even a non-athlete can demonstrate his capabilities and indicate the edge a varsity athlete might have on him. But still this individual must develop to a certain basic number of physical skills that are more important than the written part of the course.

Beginning the year with a general calisthenics program, the students are given exercises to put to shape muscles that they will be using during the year and gain the strength and co-ordination that they are to afford. Then with an eye on understanding through participating, a number of sports are learned, beginning with the basic fundamentals and ending with the use of learned skills in actual play. Students are then graded on their actual grasp and utilization of these competitive skills.

Pat Collum, Mariest's 123 pound wrestler, moves into a pinning combination against his Yeshiva colleague. Collum's efforts were the initial impetus to Mariest's strong team victory.

MATMEN FINISH COMPETITION WITH VICTORY OVER YESHIVA

With an eye toward next year, the 1964-65 Mariest Wrestling Team closed their season with an impressive win over Yeshiva University. Broaching their record to two wins and nine losses, the squad boasted of no grading lettermates. "With a team of freshmen and sophomores, lack of experience always hurts," thinks Coach Mike Schultz. But he feels that the experience gained by this year's squad will see a great improvement in next season's competition.

The outstanding wrestler of the year was freshman Ambrose "Butch" Tardive, with a 9-2 record in competition. Other team members who were praised by Coach Schultz were Mike Hackett and Bob Langenberg, sophomore co-captains. Sophomore Pat Collum, Joe Esposito, Charlie McDermott and Ed Keane were regulars who gave impressive performances throughout the year. They were joined by freshmen Pete Heinrich and Jim Croteau with the late season efforts of junior John Williams. Ed Labuda, Joe Brosnan and John Theis were freshmen who gave reserve strength to Collum, Tardive, and Labuda were considering A.A.U. competition as representatives of Mariest for the development and experience the open tournament offers.

Freshman Cagers Hustle to Finest Season Ever

The surprise of the winter athletic season was the fine showing that the Mariest freshmen basketball team presented. Coached by Doctor Howard Goldstein, the team finished their year with an impressive 9-8 record. This included a 5-1 record in the conference, earning them second place in the entire competition.

In the final game of the season, the squad handed the conference champions, Monmouth College, their only conference loss. The 82-62 defeat gave Monmouth a 7-1 record and they still remained on top. Leading scorer in that game was Butch Milligan with nineteen points. He was closely followed by Vincent Boccali with eighteen, Jeff Kegler with sixteen, and Bichy Schneider with fifteen points.

Coach Goldstein was very impressed with his boys. "The boys handled the pressure very well and never gave the impression of being nervous. They played hard and outplayed their opponents by a large margin."

The students of Mariest College are proud of their basketball team. They have reason to be proud of the team and its record this year. The team has shown that Mariest College is not a school that is content with mediocrity. The team has shown that Mariest College is a school that is striving for excellence. The team has shown that Mariest College is a school that is proud of its students and its students are proud of their school. The team has shown that Mariest College is a school that is proud of its coaches and its coaches are proud of their school. The team has shown that Mariest College is a school that is proud of its athletic department and its athletic department is proud of its school.

In the 1965 Intramural Basketball Championships thrills were in order. In the final game between the Rejects and the Owens the score was tied at the end of regulation play, 52-52. In the overtime the lead changed hands often, but the Rejects pulled ahead on the efforts of Tim Nagle. Nagle scored the winning bucket in the final seconds, adding a foul shot to cinch the championship, 59-58.
