Gene Doerflinger:

Student Recovering
From Auto Accident

Eugene Doerflinger is a junior math major at Marist College. This Sunday marks the one-week anniversary of his stay in the Intensive Care Unit of St. Francis Hospital, where he was injured in an auto accident.

At 10:00 A.M. on March 9, Doerflinger and two of his friends, Joseph Tipton and Walter Kuhn, left Kuhn's car to go and smoke cigarettes. Tipton drove the 1956 Ford Fairlane, Kuhn sat in the front seat, and Doerflinger took the back seat behind Kuhn.

The car, travelling at an estimated 60 miles per hour, hit an ice patch on Route 75, about two miles north of Poultneyville. The rear of the vehicle skidded towards the right. Tipton's quick reflexes allowed him to have the car shoot to the left side of the road. The front of the car slammed into the guard wire at an angle, and the vehicle continued down the hillside into the adjacent guardrail. The impact was so forceful that it threw Doerflinger and Tipton back into the front seat, broke the left side of his head, splintered the door, and fractured both his hand and his leg.

Tipton and Kuhn were both in a state of semi-shock, but sustained no serious injury. Doerflinger was transported to St. Francis Hospital at 7:50 P.M. on March 9, and he was later transferred to the hospital in Poultneyville on the same day. As of April 1, he was overcome by the effects of his head injuries, and his physical condition was not expected to improve for several more weeks.

The hospital was not able to comment on Doerflinger's case as of April 1, but it was known that he was expected to make a full recovery.

Brothers Foy, Cashin Elected Delegates

Will Represent U.S. Marists
At Rome This Fall

Brothers Linus Foy and Edward Cashin, both of the Marist College's Department of Academic Affairs, have been elected as delegates to the General Chapter of the Marist Brothers being held in Rome this fall.

The Marist Brothers hold a General Chapter every nine years. It is a convention of major superiors and brother-elects to represent the members of the congregation throughout the world. Each of the over fifty provinces of Marists elects two delegates to the Chapter. Brothers Foy and Cashin are two of the four American delegates.

New Student Government Makes Initial Moves

The 1967-68 Student Government was reorganized on March 10th. At this meeting, the new Officers were chosen and a variety of activities were presented and discussed. The new Officers for the year are: Bill Rein, Secretary, and Tom Haggerty, Treasurer.

Girls Glee Club Gives Concert

On Saturday, April 2, the Marist College Glee Club presented a concert at the College Cultural Center. The program began with the Glee Club's rendition of "You Are My Sunshine," directed by Dr. George Hanlon.

Ring Company Indicted
By Federal Government

A federal grand jury has indicted four companies and three businessmen on charges of rigging the price of silver and gold. The indictment is based on evidence that the companies conspired to manipulate prices in order to increase profits.

St. Peter's Glee Club entertains Marist students with a fine concert, after which they received a special award for their outstanding performance.

Charged with violating the Sherman Antitrust Act are Heriff Jones Company of Balsford, La.; D. L. Balfour Company of Attleboro, Mass.; and the New York firm of Balsford, Inc. The latter company has ordered its senior officers, J. R. Thompson, Decatur, and W. E. Lithgow, president of the company, to appear before the grand jury.

Honor Society
Founded

Marist College recently announced the formation of an honor society for its students. The National Honor Society in History, Mathematics, and Science has been established by Mr. George Zina, who will serve as the Faculty Advisor.

Funding for the new organization is provided by the National Honor Society in History, Mathematics, and Science. The new organization is expected to increase the academic rigor of the college and provide additional opportunities for students to participate in extracurricular activities.
Big Bad Baron

The overtones of the administration have been a bit of an understatement. Many Mohawks believe that they have been left out of the decision-making process and that the administration has not been responsive to their needs. This has led to a feeling of disenfranchisement among the students. The administration has been criticized for not responding to the concerns of the students, which has led to a lack of trust between the administration and the students. The situation has been made worse by the lack of communication between the administration and the students, which has led to a feeling of disconnect.

What's Happening

Four times since first discovered his capacity to think, he has felt the urge to express himself and to communicate with his surroundings. The first time was when he was five years old and his parents noticed that he was saying things that made sense. The second time was when he was seven and his teacher noticed that he was asking questions that showed an interest in learning. The third time was when he was nine and his friends noticed that he was holding conversations with them. The fourth time was when he was twelve and his classmates noticed that he was making friends.

If the logic seems rudimentary, say it is because the students are not used to thinking about these things. It is in our opinion that one must be as much an artist as any other path to his intellectual development and that sing the praises of the intellect is the best way to develop it. Our ability to understand and appreciate the work of others is not just a matter of taste, but of reflection. The students should be encouraged to think about the works of others and to develop their own opinions. This will help them to understand the world and to develop their own ideas.

The implied proposal is an idea that we are in favor of because it unites us. In our society, it is not unusual to find people who are not interested in art, but who are interested in politics. The more people are interested in art, the more they will understand its importance. The students should be encouraged to think about the works of others and to develop their own opinions. This will help them to understand the world and to develop their own ideas.

The postmasters of the administration have been in a tailspin in the last several months. Mary McGeebloom believes that they wish to see the end of the school year. Whether or not this is true, however, is not clear. Some students have talked about the possibility of a student revolt, but this seems unlikely. The administration has not been known for its tendency to tolerate student dissent, and it is doubtful that a student revolt would be well received.

In the meantime, the students themselves are doing their best to keep their spirits up. They have organized a series of activities, including a student talent show, a poetry reading, and a dance. These events have been well attended, and have helped to bring some normalcy back to the school.

Overall, the mood of the student body is one of optimism. They are looking forward to the end of the year, and are planning to make the most of the last few weeks of school.

What's Happening

Four days later, during his second interview, he was asked to describe the state of the school's finances. He replied, "The school is in dire straits. We are running out of money, and we need to find a way to cut costs."

The interviewees noted that the school was facing a number of financial problems, including a budget shortfall and a lack of funding for new programs. They recommended that the school consider ways to increase its revenue, such as by raising tuition fees or by seeking grants from foundations.

The students also expressed their concern about the quality of education at Marist. They noted that the school was facing a number of challenges, including a lack of resources and a lack of faculty diversity. They recommended that the school consider ways to improve its educational offerings, such as by hiring more faculty members and by investing in new facilities.

One of the main attractions of the campus is the baseball field. It is located in the center of the campus and is used for both intramural and intercollegiate games. The field is well-maintained and is surrounded by trees.

There are also a number of other sports facilities on campus. These include a tennis court, a track, and a swimming pool. The tennis court is located near the track, and the swimming pool is located in the center of the campus.

The field is used for a variety of sports, including baseball, softball, and track and field. It is also used for intramural sports, such as frisbee and soccer.

J. G. O'NEILL

In the last issue of the paper, we reported on the construction of a new zoo on campus. The zoo is located in the center of the campus and is open to the public.

The zoo features a variety of animals, including lions, tigers, and giraffes. Visitors can see these animals up close and learn about their natural habitats. The zoo is open daily from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., and admission is free.

The zoo is run by a group of students who are studying biology. They are responsible for feeding the animals, cleaning their enclosures, and providing educational programs for visitors.

The zoo is a popular attraction on campus, and visitors often come from other parts of the country to see the animals. It is a great way to learn about wildlife and to enjoy the outdoors.

Track Team Excels In Queens-Iona Meet

Dell, Walker Outstanding

In Outdoor Team’s Debut

"The Mick" was hoping that his legs would hold out for another season, so that he could help the Bombers climb out of the cellar. Since Francis was fighting to get back to the Garden where his Blues know the ice and the fans. Bill Ruigado was wondering if the College Dynasty was being usurped by Philly. Seems like Charlie DiSogra didn’t have to hope or wish or wonder, even though two Saturday ago, his track team made its official debut—competition-wise. Personally, this writer thinks that Bill’s a long way to go before he established himself as a track star. Fortunately, the team proved me wrong. Not that track and field records were shattered at the Queens-Iona-Mariott Triangular Meet, but the boys showed many of the competitors’ coaches with distances and times such as these:

Competing against freshmen only, Joe Dell wound up and hurled the javelin for an unbelievable first place of 158.9’. (Gay Gayer, first man of the Queens’ Varsity full shot of 171’ 6”.) Dell came back and took first place in the discus with a throw of 109 1/2”, topping Gayer’s scholar-ship thrower, Vero LaRue, by 12 feet.

Freshman Gary Dager, after taking first place in the 100. shot put, hit the 172’ 6” mark, and took third in the javelin with a toss of 149’ 3/4”.

"Gerry, Gary, a guy who never picked up a javelin in his life, decided to give it a try and wound up taking fifth place. Just after Gerry had taken second in the shot put with a throw just a foot and a half of Galpipe’s, and the pole vault event was wrapped up. Very well done by Danny Gates who chalked up a 9’7” first place jump.

In the freshman track events, Ed Walker tied for first place in the 500. and second place in the mile run. Walker, along with five scholarship runners, Iona, placed first in the mile relay by edging out Marist with a second place.

This four-man event was headed by Bill Mcguire, Joe Koeth, Art Goddeck and Walker—who posted a fantastic 4:21 second lap. At potential cross-country runner, next comes in the form of Tom Donnelly with a strong third in the mile run. "Tiger" Quinn was third in the javelin event and should be tickled with this, he could easily become another outstanding two-miler.

In Varsity competition, Larry Roland and Jim Young both cleared 150’ in the pole vault event (Dell did the Queens event) but had to settle for second and third places respectively because of previous efforts. In the javelin, Iona took second to Joe Garcia of Queens, with a 122’ 2” toss. Rich Billings of Queens, with an overall of 128’ 8” also did a respectable fourth in the same event.

Co-captain John Gage ran a disappointing 4:13 in the mile run. Disapppointing because John has been able to log this distance in 4:08. The winner from Queens broke the half-mile record with a 1:49 1/4’. "H.G.” Amundsen placed fourth in the 120 yard hurdle. Over 30 men know him, Phil.,. He’s the "Garbage"

DiSogra was very proud of the team and the team’s showing, being of himself, considering that the team had been working out for only a month and a half. There was also the question of "the effect of the squad socialization". "Thought that ran through an idle mind.

"Congratulations to Ron Petro and his tennis team. This is the first for men at Marist and the club did a fine job of defeating Rutgers C.C. in its opening match.

"The big question this year, frost, is what’s new about West Virginia."

"Special thanks to Mr. Len Ol-son, 1956 vaulter, Olympic games, from the track team. He has coached the boys twice at the field events and it shows in the final standings. The over-all disappointing factor is that of personnel, if more people joined the team there would be no reason for Marist to have empty benches in the stands.

Coach Paul Apollo’s crews finished what it started out to do by recording the first team in the Varsity, JV and Freshmen races in the first home meet of the season.

Sponsoring one 50 post cards for $1.00 with pictures of the basketball and football teams on them can be purchased at the box office. That’s Ed Long in the front-office.

"Some of the Marist boys need trips to Marist. They might make the team proud."

Charles DiSogra, student coach of the Marist College Track Team, receives a gift from Bob Bennett, the President of the Booster Club.
